Butter Again Declines As Cheese Shows Gain

Butter prices underwent another downward revision yesterday on the Toronto open produce market. Eggs were generally unchanged in price, but easier in tone, while cheese moved upward fractionally.

Fresh receipts of butter were not heavy, but buying interest was absent. With trading quiet and draggy, first-grade Ontario creamery solids eased to 22 1-2 cents. Holders of Western butter asked 23 1-2 cents to 23 3-4 cents, but no sales of this stock were reported.

Demand for eggs was on the weak side, and a slight accumulation of supplies was in evidence. While the market was easy in tone however, grade C eggs in the graded section recorded the only price change, easing to a range of 14 1-2 cents to 15 cents.

New, large current-make cheese advanced on the wholesale market to 14 1-4 cents. Although demand was only fair, offerings were light and the market remained firm.

Small Boy Suffers Lacerations After Being Knocked Down by Car

Mother, Watching Accident, Collapses from Shock and Both Given Medical Attention

DRIVER NOT BLAMED

Trenton, July 24 — (Special) — Douglas Sager, aged 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sager of 19 McCann Street, Trenton, suffered lacerations of the head and face and abrasions following an accident here last evening.

The small boy was injured when he collided with an automobile driven easterly on Dundas Street by Eva Sutcliffe, Trenton. According to the police report, the boy darted across the busy intersection in front of the Post Office into the path of the oncoming automobile.

Mrs. Sager, mother of the boy, witnessed the accident from the sidewalk and collapsed from shock. Both the boy and the mother were taken to the office of Dr. J. Johnson for medical attention.

Swimmer Injured

William Rose, aged 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rose, of Trenton, narrowly escaped death by drowning last evening when he struck his head on bottom, while swimming in the Trent River.

The young lad hauled from the river by his companion, Wilbur McKeowan, who immediately rushed him to Dr. J. Farley's for medical attention.

The two boys were playing stunts and William Rose had taken a running dive into the water, only three feet deep. In doing so, he struck his head on a rock, severely injuring his scalp. The McKeowan boy, noticing his companion's injury, pulled him onto the dock and immediately ran for help. Although the injury caused a long laceration on the scalp, the boy did not lose consciousness and was able to reach the dock unaided but was too weak to pull himself ashore.

Dr. Farley rendered first aid to the boy and rushed him to the Belleville General Hospital where Dr. G. H. Stobie closed the wound with a number of stitches. The injured boy is resting comfortably today.

Ordered from Town

Two girls were ordered from the town of Trenton yesterday afternoon, by Magistrate E. J. Butler yesterday, in police court and are likely to face terms in the reformatory, should they return.

Mary Howden, of Tweed, pleaded guilty to a year-old charge of fraud and was given six months suspended sentence and ordered to leave Trenton. It was charged that Miss Howden obtained a quantity of wearing apparel from a local ladies' store on November 12, 1939.

Pleading guilty to a charge of vagrancy, Grace Markle, Napanee, was also placed on a six months' suspended sentence by Magistrate E. J. Butler. Miss Markle was found wandering the street in the early morning hours on Monday.

Live Up To Reputation

Reinforcements of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, in training, are living up to their reputation of belonging to the "Crack County Regiment." The boys are not only walking off with the military honors but are also distinguishing themselves in sport. A team of the "H & Peps" as they are called, recently won the tug-of-war contest against a number of regiments in the athletic games. A shield was presented to the team and individual medals were presented to the members of the team and the coach.

General Exodus

There was a general exodus from the town of Trenton today as the people tried to escape the terrific heat. Individual parties and church picnics journeyed to Presqu'Ile Point and a number of other beaches in the district for an afternoon in the sun and water.

Open New Offices

In order to give the people in small communities a chance to join with the Second Battalion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Major Angus Mowat left for Frankford and Stirling today to open recruiting offices in these two centres.

Following a conference with Lt. Col. Donnan, E.D., Officer Commanding the Second Battalion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Major Mowat will establish platoons in the two villages. The platoons will be attached to Headquarters Company of the regiment, now stationed at Trenton.

Twenty-three more recruits were classed in category "A" last night, by Dr. F. L. Reid, Lt. Col. R.C.A. M.C., medical officer for Headquarters company This brings the total of recruits to 150 who have received an "A" category. There are a large number of recruits in category "B" and "C" who will not be called immediately for training. The men in these categories will be taken on the strength later, when facilities will be available.

The second drill for "A" category men will be held this evening, at the armoury starting at 7.30 p.m. The time has been changed from give the men who work until six seven to seven-thirty in order to o'clock a chance to have a rest before turning out for their medical training.

The office staff of the Headquarters Company on permanent duty at the Armoury, is Major Angus Mowat, Company Sgt. Major P. McCoy, Company Quarter Master Sergeant G. Trounce and Pte. Elmer Scott, orderly room clerk.

Canadian Doctor Travels 30 Miles With Nazi Mechanized Column

Visits His Wife and Then Escapes in Small Boat to England

NAZIS QUITE BUSY

(By Gladys Arnold)
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

London, July 24.—(CP)—A 30-mile drive in the middle of a German mechanized column "Somewhere in France" was the hair-raising experience of a Canadian doctor who recently reached London and safety. As his wife, an expectant mother, could not leave France and is believed still to be in territory held by the Germans, it is impossible to disclose the doctor's name.

We met this mild-mannered, black-eyed little doctor from Beauharnois, Que., over a cup of tea in the British Empire Society Clubrooms in London. He protested modestly that he hadn't been brave—only scared.

"I had to leave my hospital at B—— to attend a faculty convention in a city about 200 miles away. On June 18 I discovered I couldn't get a train back so I bicycled, arriving the day the Germans entered Paris. The head doctor had sent my wife, his own wife and his son to his country home for greater safety, then came the Petain capitulation and I had to leave the country.

Rumbled For Miles

"I took my car, started for D—— travelled about 20 kilometres and ran into a German motorcycle policeman who motioned me to the side of the road. A hundred yards further along the National Highway which I wanted to use a German mechanized column was rolling southward. There were tanks, armored trucks, kitchens on wheels, ambulances, guns—everything. They rumbled by for about an hour, then there was an open space of about 200 yards.

"I decided to chance it. I raised my arm, the motor cycle policeman nodded and so I slipped in—having half the column ahead and the rest behind. Thus we travelled for nearly 30 miles —me wondering every moment if somebody would fire.

"Then we came to the road where I had to turn out. I wondered if I was a prisoner or not. There was only one way to find out—so I held out my arm and motioned to another cyclist guarding that road He nodded and I scuttled up that road as fast as possible. I guess the Nazis had too important business on hand to bother about small fry like me."

The doctor arrived at the country house. He said good-bye to his wife who is French and taking his colleague's 20-year-old son escaped in a small boat to England.

"If I'd remained I'd have been in a concentration camp and no use at all to my wife", he said. "Over here perhaps something can be done."

Australia, Japan Likely to Exchange Representatives

Melbourne, July 24—(CP-Reuters)—An exchange of diplomatic representatives between Australia and Japan is expected to be announced shortly.

An exchange of ministers would be "very desirable," said John McEwen, Minister of External Affairs, who revealed that "The Australian point of view was a real factor in the settlement of the Burma road dispute."

"These issues," he added, "are now happily solved and the state of semi-tension has passed. An exchange of ministers would be very desirable in maintaining peaceful relationships."

WOULD NOT HAND OVER LEGATION TO SOVIET RUSSIA

So Speaks Lithuanian Minister at Washington—No Demand Received

LATVIAN'S COMMENT

Washington, July 24—(AP)—Minister Povilas Zadeikis of Lithuania served notice today that he would refuse any demand to turn over his legation to Soviet Russia.

In response to reporters' questions, Zadeikis authorized the statement that no request that his legation be turned over had been received from the Soviet and none was expected. But, it was added, if such a request were received, it would be reected.

Dr. Alfred Bilmanis, Minister of Latvia another of these republics, has denounced the recent elections in his country as a "farce" and has accused Russia of unprovoked aggression. Questioned specifically as to what he would do if Russia demanded his legation, he chuckled:

"If it comes to the bridge, I will cross it."

Estonia, the third of the Baltic Republics, has no representative in Washington but maintains a consul general, Johannes Kaiv, in New York.

BUDGET AFFECTS EVERY HOUSEHOLD

Wholesaler in London Calls it 'Shiny Nose and Shiny Trousers Budget'

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 24—(CP Cable) — The new budget was described today as the most sweeping in the history of Britain. It will affect every household in the land. "Shiny nose and shiny trousers budget" was how it was described by a London wholesaler.

Businessmen predicted people would be forced to live more simply and buy few clothes and jewels. Women would use less powder and lipstick.

The new 33 1-2 per cent sales tax on the wholesale value of luxuries and 16 2-3 per cent figure on necessities such as clothes, shoes and books, with children's clothes and shoes exempted, have not yet gone into effect. Wholesalers and retailers anticipate an attempt at a buying rush before the leap in prices.

May Stop Any Rush to Buy

While stocks are plentiful, a buying wave is not desired and The Daily Mail said it understood the government would take steps to stop the rush if it comes.

A fashion trades official said he believed a revolution of women's fashions will result from the sales tax. He said that dressmakers certainly will try to meet the situation by producing clothes at a lower cost.

The present tendency toward severe, simple clothes likely will increase. The anticipated increase in the price of silk stockings mean they will be worn less frequently. A stenographer offered the opinion that many women will wear lisle to work and silk on special occasions. Many women already wear no stockings at their housework and the habit probably will spread, as will the wearing of slacks.

Man's Budget Affected

The man's budget also is affected. His cigarettes and tobacco will go up and his beer will cost a penny more a pint. A £3 ($13.35) suit will cost £3 7s, and guinea shoes will cost 23s 6d. Higher priced goods will rise proportionately.

While prices appear high, shopkeepers noted they are low compared with 1918. Skunk wraps selling for 21 guineas today cost 100 guineas at the close of the last war. Shoes in 1918 could cost 47 shillings sixpence and a man's suit £10.

Canadians Pick Up Odd Assortment Of War Souvenirs

By EDWIN JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With the Canadian Forces Somewhere in England, July 24—(CP)—The Canadians of the 1st division who picked up an odd assortment of war mementos on their fleeting jaunt to France last month have discovered that every extra pound in their haversack becomes a ton during these days of sudden and constant movement.

Henceforth the boys are travelling light and are sending off their souvenirs to the folks back home.

In the last war the chief prize was the spiked helmet of the German cavalryman and Prussian guard. This time the Canucks had to be satisfied with what they could retrieve from fields through which the retreating French armies passed or by outright barter. They themselves were ordered to withdraw before they came in contact with the enemy.

French steel helmets were brought back by the score.

"I'm shooting mine off home and probably by the time we get through with Heinie I'll have a fair collection," remarked Pte. C. C. Dunham of Hamilton.

"The same goes for me," chimed in Pte. J. Oneski of Calgary, as he bundled up a French revolver picked up in a field near St. Denis.

One of the proudest souvenir packers was Pte. A. Lincourt of Montreal, who shouldered back to camp a heavy aircraft machine gun recovered from the wreckage of a plane. His pal, Pte. E. H. Scott of Hamilton brought back a field machine gun. He is sending his prize home.

Corp. W. C. Tickner, London, Ont., is sending home a French bayonet and Pte. J. F. Read, also from London, is sending the shell of a French hand grenade.

Among the few "souvenirs" remaining in camp is an Alsatian dog which attached himself to Pte. P. E. Graham of Cornwall, Ont., on his way to the French port of embarkation. His deep growls of affection have earned him the name of "Salvo."

How Main Budget Tax Changes Affect The Average Briton

(By Pat Ussher Canadian Press Staff Writer).

London, July 24 (CP Cable)—Here is how the main budget tax changes affect Mr. John Doe, the average Briton.

His pint of popular-brand beer will cost 11 pence instead of 10 pence; his pack of 20 cigarettes will cost 18 pence instead of 17 pence.

His mixture of pipe tobacco which cost 18 pence will cost 19 1-2 pence. For entertainment, he'll pay, on a sliding scale, new rates to be effective Oct. 6.

For "living" entertainment, such as moving pictures, the tax on a seat costing one shilling will be raised from a half penny to a penny. On a seat costing two shillings it will be raised from two pence to four pence.

For other entertainments he'll pay a four-pence tax instead on 2 1-2 pence on a shilling seaqt." Under existing rates he pays for a seat costing more than 15 pence a tax of three pence plus a penny for every additional five pence the seat costs. Under the new rates he'll pay for a seat costing more than 17 pence a tax of five pence plus two pence for every additional six pence the seat costs.

New prices for wines have not been determined. But Mr. Doe likely will pay an additional 18 pence on a bottle of port or sherry and an additional fourpence a bottle of hock, moselle, claret, burgundy and British-made wines.

If his earned income is £400 ($1,-780) a year, Mr. Doe, if single, will pay income tax of £70 5s 6d against the current rate of £56 11s 3d.

A married man with two children earning £400 a year will pay £15 16s 8d compared with £11 17s 6d under the old schedule.

When the new purchase tax becomes effective it will hoist prices on a wide range of things John Doe ordinarily buys.

Veterans Show Same Enthusiasm As 25 Years Ago

The "old sweats" are rallying to the call to the colors with the same enthusiasm as they did twenty-five years ago, and officers commanding platoons of the Veterans' Home Guard throughout Ontario at least, are experiencing little difficulty in obtaining their quotas.

"The boys are endeavoring to sign up in goodly numbers," Captain E. O. Keeler, officer commanding the Belleville platoon of the Guard said today, "but, the difficulty lies in obtaining men with the proper physical requirements. It seems a pity to turn so many down on this account, the veterans are earnest in their efforts and are keenly disappointed when they discover that they cannot qualify."

Thirty-one men of the required forty have been obtained for the Belleville platoon, Captain Keeler said, and as soon as the remaining nine are secured, recruiting will close, for the present at least.

An important announcement regarding veterans with pensions enlisting in the Home Guard will be made in the near future.

CONSCRIPTION LAW IMPENDS IN U.S., PLANS ARE BEGUN

First of 400,000 Conscripts, it is Expected, Will Begin Training in October

42 MILLION LIABLE

Washington, July 24—(AP)—Registration under the pending United States conscription program has been set tentatively for Sept. 1, it was learned today, with the first 400,000 conscripts expected to start training a month later.

Although Congress has yet to act on the necessary legislation, a war department official disclosed that agencies in the 48 States already have begun preparations for the selective service plan. The initial trainees probably will be chosen from men between 21 and 31 years old.

Senate Debate Next Week

The Senate Military Committee started the compulsory training issue toward a congressional decision by voting yesterday to recommend enactment of the Burke-Wadsworth bill. Committee members thought it would be ready for Senate debate next week. Vigorous opposition has been forecast.

The committee, meanwhile, worked to perfect details of the measure, which provides for registration of all males between 18 and 64 years—a total of 42,000,000. Only those between 21 and 45—some 24,000,000—would be liable for active service. Those of other ages could be used for home defence purposes.

"One of the purposes of this wide registration is to make every one conscious of the national defence program," said Chairman Morris Sheppard (Dem-Texas)

LOW-CATEGORY MEN RECLAIMED

Hundreds in C.A.S.F. Restored to Status of Fighting Efficiency by Modern Science

By EDWIN JOHNSON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

With the Canadian Forces Somewhere in England, July 24—(CP)—By expert application of modern medical science hundreds of low-category men in the Canadian forces have already been reclaimed from the ranks of the ailing and restored to a status of fighting efficiency or other posts of usefulness.

Gone are the days when men, suffering from certain maladies and incapacities which in the first Great War classified them as "medically unfit," drew their outright discharge from the army. Now only a small percentage, with no chance of responding to medical treatment, has a chance of being boarded out to develop health.

Few in "E" Category

For some time the weeding-out process has been in progress by the units making up the 1st Canadian Division. Out of every group filtering through the area medical clearing centre, a few cases have been placed in the lowest or "E" category.

They are mainly veterans of the last war. Most of them lopped off a few years to squeeze in under the age limit. They discovered however, they no longer had the sound constitution demanded by army life. Arthritis, rheumatism, digestive and other ailments developed. Others were put out of commission through aggravation of wounds incurred in the last war.

The younger men of the new army whose medical categories have slumped since they enlisted are conceded a better chance of making a come-back.

Sent to Specialist

After boarding they may be sent to a specialist for a course of treatment, be assigned to an institution for observation, given a stretch of convalescence, with trial periods of light duty in occupations to which they are specially fitted. Thus they are brought along slowly, methodically, some to be completely cured, others declared fit to take over garrison or base duties, relieving able-bodied men for more pressing work.

There is a constant process of treatment, examination, trial and re-boarding.

EDOUARDDALADIER

Just what the punishment would be was not immediately clear, but last night, simultaneously with announcement of the steps against Daladier and his aides, the cabinet approved a decree for withdrawal of French citizenship and confiscation of all property of all Frenchmen who left France "without valid reasons" between May 10, the day the German western offensive began, and June 30, eight days after the signing of the Armistice.

This decree, Minister of Justice Raphael Alibert explained, is aimed against Frenchmen who went abroad and would cover persons like General Charles de Gaulle and others who went with him to London to continue fighting against Germany, and also persons who went to Canada and the United States.

Alibert said there would be no general action but that rather each case would be handled by a separate decree, each person having the right to show proof that his reason for leaving France was "valid."

By the decree, the action against such Frenchmen can be extended to affect the wife and family of the individual.

Some Considered Deserters

Persons who were in the armed forces at the time they left France will be considered deserters, Alibert said.

Among those facing "investigation" with Daladier for France's present plight are two members of the government which declared war: Cesar Campinchi, Navy Minister, and Georges Mandel, Colonial Minister. Another is Ivon Delbos, who was Minister of Education in the Daladier cabinet as re-formed a few days after the outbreak of war. He is a former Foreign Minister.

It was understood 14 members of parliament, including Jammy Schmidt, Chamber of Deputies budget reporter, were still in Morocco. Four of the deputies facing "investigation" were in the army when they went to Africa and thus face charges of desertion.

Daladier and the others sailed for Morocco aboard the French liner Massilia. Whereabouts of the group had been a mystery to the public until yesterday.

FAMED HORSES LIE IN KENTUCKY CEMETERY

Horse Graveyard at Lexington

By Central Press Canadian

Lexington, July — One of the most unique beauty spots on the sporting face of America is a clover-covered graveyard near here in which the bones of some of the nation's most illustrious race-horses lie.

The Great Equipoise

Studded with white tombstones, the equine cemetery belongs to the stables of G. V. Whitney, well-known sportsman.

Whitney often makes trips to the huge stables across the road from the little horse graveyard, in between business sessions

Among the steeds resting under the Kentucky blue grass in this hallowed acre are Broomstick, Whiskbroom II, Peter Pan, Pennant, Equipoise, and the two great Whitney mares, Prudery and Regret. Regret was the only filly to ever win a Kentucky Derby.

The white stones marking their graves give only brief listings of the laurels won by these horses, many of whose sons and daughters are among today's royalty of the nation's tracks.

Equipoise was one of the greatest horses of the Whitney strings. A son of Pennant, he won 29 races in 51 starts, was second 10 times and third four times.

His stake victories included the Metropolitan handicap (twice), the Suburban handicap, the Philadelphia handicap (twice), the Arlington handicap, the Wilson stakes (twice), the Hawthorne gold cup, Saratoga cup, Dixie handicap, National Stallion stakes, Great American stakes, Eastern Shore handicap, Pimlico futurity and Arlington gold cup.

Other Well-Knowns

Fame in horse-racing always was been based on profit-and-loss figures glamorized by the glories of victory. The Whitney stables can boast of plenty of this kind of fame over the years, especially since Whitney purchased the three strings owned by the estate left by his father, the late Harry Payne Whitney.

Among other famous Whitney-bred horses are Top Flight, Victorian, Whichone, Jolly Roger, Whiskery, Diavolo, Tryster, Dr. Clark and The Nut.

There are 54 brood mares on the Whitney farm and in the racing stable 32 horses.

Scientific stock breeding is now being carried out on the farm in co-operation with the scientific departments of several universities.

Vessel Torpedoed by German Motorboat Off the South Coast of Britain—Admiralty Says That French Will be Fully Informed of the Outrage

(By J. F. Sanderson)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, July 25.—(CP Cable)—A German motor torpedo boat sank the French vessel Meknes, which was carrying 1,300 French officers and soldiers being repatriated to France, A. V. Alexander told the House of Commons today.

The First Lord of the Admiralty said the brightly identified ship was sunk last night off the south coast of Britain.

The German warship disregarded running lights, the French flag flying at the mast and the French colors painted on the decks and sides of the Meknes—outward evidence of a neutral ship on an errand of mercy.

British warships picked up 1,000 survivors after "this deliberate callous attack", Mr. Alexander declared.

Fired Without Warning

According to the First Lord, the German motor torpedo boat fired without warning and then gave five minutes to abandon ship. During the interval, every time the Meknes attempted to signal her name the German vessel sent another burst of fire at her, finally torpedoing her. The Meknes sank in four minutes.

Before the ship sailed from Southampton to Marseille, the French Government was warned and every attempt was made to treat the ship as one repatriating neutrals to a neutral country.

"There were nearly 1,300 officers and men on board. The boat was flying the French flag and had the French colours painted on deck and sides, and was fully illuminated", the First Lord said.

shine is usually measured in terms of its duration. For instance, if on a certain day there are 12 hours from sunrise to sunset, and the sun shines 9 hours, then there is 75 per cent of sunshine. It is thus evident that 75 per cent on a winter day means much less sunshine than 75 per cent on a summer day. The amount of clouds varies oppositely from sunshine. The records of sunshine are much more accurate than those for cloudiness. This is because sunshine is measured by instruments continuously operating while the amounts of clouds are estimated by eye. In most cases this is done only a few times during daylight hours and less often during the night.

Police Searching For Hold-Up Man

North Bay, Ont., July 25—(CP)—Provincial Police today hunted a man of about 35 years of age, who held up Keith Costello, 17-year-old West Ferris service station attendant early today and escaped with more than $25 in cash and a tank full of gas.

Costello told police the man entered the station while his car was being filled with gas and stuck something in the youth's back when asked to pay for the fuel.

"He ordered me to lay face down on the floor," said Costello, "then he punched the till and took out everything except the coppers. He drove away, heading south on the Callander Highway."

WATERS DRAGGED FOR GIRL'S BODY

Sadie Kilgour, Toronto, Drowns When Motorboat Explodes While Being Re-Fueled

Kirkland Lake, Ont., July 25 —(CP)—Provincial Police dragged the waters of the Blanche River today for the body of Sadie Kilgour, 25, Toronto, drowned last night when a motorboat in which she was riding with four other persons exploded while being re-fueled. The Blanche River is approximately 10 miles west of here.

Owner of the boat, Jack Chillis of North Bay, suffered severe facial and arm burns but managed to make his way to shore, along with his wife and small son Peter, and Miss S. Carr, also of North Bay.

Chillis was pouring gasoline into the boat's tank when the explosion occurred. He yelled for everyone to jump into the water and his wife held their son above water until the father came to her aid.

When the survivors reached land, Miss Kilgour could not be found. It is believed she was burned or suffered shock and was unable to save herself.

Miss Kilgour was employed as a dietitian at the Consumers' Gas Company in Toronto. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kilgour of North Bay. Two brothers reside in Kirkland Lake.

Chillis is employed by the Wright-Hargreaves Mine The boat which exploded was built by him this year.

British Destroyer, Brazen, Sacrifices Self to Save Convoy

Ship Downed Three Nazi Planes, Damaged Two Others and Drew Fire Away from Convoy

ONLY 5 WOUNDED

London, July 25—(CP)—The British destroyer Brazen, which the Admiralty announced Monday was sunk without loss of life, "sacrificed herself to save a British convoy" in a battle with 50 enemy planes, Stoker William Phillips declared today.

Phillips, one of five volunteers who remained aboard the destroyer with her Captain. Lt.-Cmdr. Sir Michael Culme-Seymour, "until the very last," said the Brazen downed three of the planes, damaged two others and successfully drew the planes away from the convoy.

The stoker said only five of the crew were wounded despite "merciless machine-gunning," but that some were "terribly burned." He described how the Brazen's gunners, after she had been hit," paddled about the water, but kept up a continuous fire."

"The wounded were taken aboard another destroyer under heavy fire," Phillips said, "while the remainder of the crew went forward to try to balance the ship." He said the other destroyer broke out a cable to attempt a tow, but that "our ship broke and many men found themselves in the water."

The Admiralty had said the ship sank while being towed to port but did not disclose where.

"The captain, still on the bridge, called for volunteers to try to save the ship," Phillips continued. "I was helping a wounded man off, so I stayed with some others who still were aboard.

"The captain had to get off the bridge as it went under water. Then as the rest of the ship went down, he gave the order to jump. We made sure he jumped as well.

"We took the rap, but we certainly saved the convoy. When we finished with 'Jerry' they had no bombs left."

NAZI LEADERS' OPINION SAID TO BE DIVIDED

Von Ribbentrop and Himmler, Head of Gestapo, and Other Extremists Favor Invasion

London, July 25 (CP Cable)—A difference of opinion among Hitler's lieutenants is delaying the long threatened invasion of Britain, according to the diplomatic correspondent of The Daily Telegraph.

In a front page story, he says Hitler has been confronted with a serious conflict of views, adding that "Goering, Goebbels, and Gen. Wilhelm Keitel chief of staff are insisting that the threatened attack on Britain must not be launched, while Von Ribbentrop (Foreign Minister), Himmler (chief of the gestapo) and other extremists who have little or no serious responsibility for the prosecution of the war are pressing for an invasion."

The correspondent says he gained his information "from most reliable neutral sources which claimed that Goering and Goebbels consider the risks of an invasion too great."

More Than 1000 Attacks By R. A. F. in 3 Months Disrupt German Plans

London Source States Reich Finds it 'Extremely Difficult' to Organize Mass Attacks—British Air Force Attacks Not Isolated but Calculated to Cause Greatest Possible Destruction to Foe's Vital War Supplies and Make New Air Bases Virtually Untenable

London, July 25—(CP)—The British air force, in repeated attacks against Germany and German-occupied countries, has made it "extremely difficult" for the Reich to organize mass attacks on Britain from existing airdromes and bases she "hoped to establish" just across the English Channel and the North Sea, an informed British source said today.

More than 1,000 British attacks in the last three months have "to a great extent succeeded in breaking down the scheme Germany hoped would culminate in devastating attacks on these islands following her sweeping victories" on the continent, it was stated.

This source said important military and industrial objectives had been struck daily and nightly, "not in isolated raids by single aircraft but large scale operations."

Greatest Destruction

The raids, he said, were planned to cause "the greatest possible destruction to the enemy's vital war supplies" and make new air bases "acquired nearer our shores practically untenable."

They "have made the enemy realize that if our air force is numerically inferior to his own, it is vastly superior in both machines and personal," he declared.

British raids, it was said, "have made it extremely difficult for Germany to organize massed attacks on this country from airdromes in Holland, Belgium and France, or from bases the enemy hopes to establish in Norway."

From the first day of Germany's blitzkrieg on the continent, this source said, the Royal Air Force "to a great extent succeeded in breaking down the scheme Germany hoped would culminate in devastating attacks on these islands following her sweeping victories."

416 Big Raids on Nazi Territory

Between May 10 and June 17, he reported, there were 416 big raids on German territory, and in exactly a month since the capitulation of France 517 "thrusts" were made against Germany's main military and industrial centres.

In addition to targets on land the German navy has been attacked 66 times since the start of the war and 64 raids were made on Norway while British troops were there.

The informant reported an analysis showed 161 raids on industrial points, 229 on airdromes, 256 on military objectives and 275 on enemy communications, and said there was "ample proof" that the R.A.F.s "violent, non-stop on slaughters....are making the enemy reel under hammer blows."

SENATOR MEIGHEN AGAINST STORY WRITTEN IN POST

Senator A. K. Hugessen Finds Little Justification for Leader's Attack

EDITORIAL QUOTED

Ottawa, July 25—(CP)—Conservative Leader Meighen, who several times this session has called in the Senate for a ban on Saturday Evening Post because of a story he deemed prejudicial to the war effort, may have more to say on the subject. He heard the magazine defended yesterday and asked if further time might be taken to debate the question.

The story to which Senator Meighen objected was "Wings of Atonement," in a recent Post issue, by Paul Gallico.

Senator A. K Hugessen (Lib. Quebec) found little justification for the Conservative leader's attack on the story while government leader Dandurand presented a report from the censors which declared the story, while considered objectionable by one censor, was not sufficiently so to warrant banning the magazine.

U. S. TREASURY SHIPPING GOLD

$5,000,000,000 in Precious Metal Closely Guarded on Way to Fort Knox, Ky.

Washington, July 25—(AP)—The United States Treasury started packing about $5,000,000,000 worth of gold at New York today for "mailing" to Fort Knox, Ky.

An army of guards, composed of postal inspectors, secret servicemen and regular army squads, is being mobilized to accompany the metal. Technically, Postmaster General James Farley will be in charge, because the gold will go as "registered mail." The Treasury will pay the postoffice about $1,000,000 in postage.

Gold has been coming from Europe to New York so fast—as much as $400,000,000 in one week— that vaults in the big city are crowded.

The treasury accordingly obtained a $1,608,000 appropriation to ship some of it to the bombproof depository located on the army's mechanized cavalry centre at Fort Knox.

As soon as packing is completed and other arrangements are concluded, special trains will carry the metal in about $100,000,000 lots, but the schedule will not be disclosed in advance.

SPECIAL TRIBUNAL MAY BE SET UP TO TRY LEADERS

'Responsibility' for France's Entry Into War and Defeat Will be Charged

Vichy, France, July 25—(AP) — A special tribunal will be set up to try former Premier Edouard Daladier and other former government leaders for "responsibility" for France's entry into war and for her threat, it was indicated today.

Establishment of the tribunal can be expected shortly, it was indicated, and some journalists may be tried along with the government leaders.

A military court will look into the cases of men who were in the armed forces at the time of incurring alleged responsibilities for the war. They will be investigated for responsibility for the unsuccessful military leadership.

ARMED GUNMEN KIDNAP CHINESE

Rich Industrialist at Shanghai Carried Off From International Settlement

Shankhai, July 25—(AP)—Armed gunmen kidnapped Y. S. Fong, wealthy, prominent Chinese industrialist, today as he was leaving his home in the International Settlement.

Motive for the abduction was not known, but it was considered in some quarters to be another "warning" to Norwood F. Allman, President of the United Chemical Industries, of which Fong is Vice President.

Allman, a lawyer and member of the Shanghai municipal council, also is a director of the Pro-Chungking Chinese Daily Shunpao, whose offices were bombed July 16 with injury to 10 persons, all Chinese.

The bombings followed an order from the Japanese dominated Nanking government for the arrest and deportation of Allman and five American newspapermen.

BRITAIN TO BUY 3,000 PLANES MONTH IN U. S.

U. S. Pledges 'Every Facility' to Britain to Buy This Number in Addition to Former Orders

IN 1941-1942

Britain Has Promised to Pay for Construction of Factories as Well as for Output

Washington, July 25—(AP) — Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau said today the United States had pledged "every facility" to enable Britain to buy 3,000 military airplanes a month here, in addition to huge orders previously placed.

Confirming an announcement in London by Lord Beaverbrook, the Treasury head said the new arrangement was in addition to all previous orders, and would require construction of new factories.

Britain to Pay For New Factories

Britain has promised to pay for the erection of the new factories as well as to buy their output, Morgenthau added.

The Secretary asserted the Treasury, War and Navy Departments were in complete accord on the commitment, and that William S. Knudsen, production member of the defence commission, had agreed to undertake to work out the details.

He said the new factories involved in the program would give the United States capacity to build "far in excess" of 50,000 planes a year, set by President Roosevelt as a goal in his May 16 defence message. He declined to estimate the exact capacity planned.

Saying the British government "seems to have plenty of money," Morgenthau said the "sums involved are colossal."

"For our own national defence and for the benefit of American industry," he continued, "I believe this is the most important thing with which I have come in contact."

Specifically, Morgenthau explained, Britain proposed immediate action to get delivery on 3,000 airplanes during each month of 1941 and 1942.

German Air Raiders Flee After Missing Merchant Convoy

Anti-Aircraft Fire and Fighter Planes Chase Nazis Back Across Channel

HUN PLANES DOWNED

London, July 25—(CP)— About 80 German planes swarmed on a merchant convoy off the southeast coast today, but their bombs missed and the attackers were driven off by fierce anti-aircraft fire and fighter planes which chased them back across the English Channel.

Eyewitnesses said the air "was alive with aircraft" during the battle.

The raiders headed back for France after planting a half-mile long string of bombs near the vessels which escaped damage.

The Air Ministry announced ground defences and R.A.F. fighters shot down four German planes participating in the southeast coast raid and in another attack off the southwest coast, and that a fifth craft was downed by defenders off northeast Scotland.

Glittering in the sunlight, the Nazi planes made brilliant targets for anti-aircraft guns.

The thunder of the big guns, the rattle of machine guns and the thud of bombs set up a terrific din as the raiders, their whining motors wide open, twisted, turned, dived and climbed to dodge the bursting shells.

Anti-aircraft guns roared into action and shell-bursts dotted the sky. There came to shore-watchers the rattle of machine guns as fighting planes attacked the raiders.

No bombs were dropped at first Earlier invading planes were reported over southwest England the night had passed without air raids—a rarity now.

Nazi Bomber Chased Inshore

A Nazi bomber crashed in a field in southwest England after taking part in the unsuccessful attack on the convoy. Eye-witnesses said British fighters chased the big craft inshore, smoke pouring from its still droning engines while the

Lancastria Sunk By Nazi Bombs Off St. Nazaire

Liner Capsized and Sank Within Half an Hour After Attack During Evacuation of British Troops from France in Mid-June — Number of Women and Children Refugees Aboard but Percentage of Total Not Known

2,477 KNOWN SURVIVORS

Of Those Missing Some May Have Got Ashore and Fallen Into German Hands, Authoritative Sources State — Most of Survivors Picked Up by Small Craft Which Were Carrying Other Troops to Troopships in Harbor

London July 25 (CP)—Authorized sources said today that 2,823 persons are missing in the sinking of the Cunard-White Star Liner Lancastria at anchor off St. Nazaire during the evacuation of British troops from France.

There were 2,477 known survivors of the 5,300 aboard. Others, however, may have saved themselves by swimming or wading ashore, and falling into German hands.

The 16,243-ton Lancastria, struck by bombs from Nazi planes, took a heavy list which hampered the launching of lifeboats. She capsized and sank within half an hour of the attack. The exact date was not given, but the evacuation was in mid-June.

A number of women and children refugees were among the 5,300 passengers. How many of these were lost is not known, nor is it known what percentage of the total they made up.

Most of the survivors were picked up by small craft which were carrying other troops from the docks to troopships in the harbor. One of the survivors said "perfect discipline" was maintained.

Sun Breaks Story

New York, July 25—(AP)—The New York Sun says it has learned that the Cunard White Star liner Lancastria, once in cruise service from New York to the West Indies, was sunk with a loss of 500 men during the evacuation of Allied soldiers from France.

The 16,243-ton liner picked up 6,000 soldiers at Brest and was preparing to sail when German planes scored three hits on her with aerial torpedoes, says the Sun.

Survivors were machine gunned as they took to lifeboats, it adds, but all except 500 were saved.

The Lancastria continued her trips to New York until last March. On May 11 unofficial reports said she was damaged by aerial bombs while serving as a transport near Norway.

ITALIAN AIRCRAFT SHOT DOWN

Cairo, Egypt, July 25—(AP)—The Royal Air Force reported today it had scored new successes in operations against Italian colonial objectives yesterday, including partial destruction of an ammunition dump and shooting down of four or five Italian aircraft.

Life is Threatened In Anonymous Letter

By D. E. BURRITT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 25—(CP Cable) — A threat of death, it was disclosed today, has been received in a swastika labelled letter by Sylvia Pankhurst, leading suffragette in days long past and more recently a champion of independence for Ethiopia.

The letter, which was handed to the police, pledged death for the slight little woman unless she abandoned the "New Times and Abyssinian News," which she edits in the hope of firing a spirit of revolution into the Ethiopians living under Italian rule.

Miss Pankhurst, who for more than half of her 57 years has been fighting on behalf of one cause or another, paid little heed to the threat, explaining that "some absurd persons are always writing anonymous letters."

At the same time the contents of the letter disclosed knowledge that Miss Pankhurst's written works have been smuggled mysteriously into Italian-occupied Ethiopia.

PROCESSING TAX OF 15c BUSHEL PUT ON WHEAT

Gov't. Removes Clause Limiting Delivery from Any One Producer to 5,000 Bushels

PEG PRICE AT 70 CTS.

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 25—(CP)—Canada's wheat industry studied today the government's new plans for marketing assistance and found basic price and grain exchange provisions unaltered but a number of important new features to help offset the loss of foreign markets and the effect of a record carry-over.

To an expectant House of Commons Trade Minister MacKinnon yesterday announced proposed amendments to the Canadian Wheat Board Act applicable to the crop year starting on Aug. 1.

Highlights of the Minister's announcement:

Continuation of initial payments by the Board of 70-cents-a-bushel basis No. 1 northern at Fort William.

Compensation to farmers who store wheat on their farms and thus release pressure on elevator space.

A processing tax of 15 cents a bushel to be paid by processors (millers) on wheat used for domestic human consumption, effective July 23, midnight, the proceeds to go into the Board's treasury.

Exchange to Continue

The Winnipeg Grain Exchange to continue operations indefinitely with the present cash and futures pegged prices to remain at or about the present levels.

Removal of the clause limiting deliveries from any one producer to 5,000 bushels.

Interim payments on producers' participation certificates to be made at a time when it cannot possibly result in any loss to the Board.

Personnel of the advisory committee to the Wheat Board to be announced shortly.

Applause came from western members when the Minister announced removal of the limitation of 5,000 bushels delivered by any one producer and the promise to pay compensation to those who store wheat on their farms.

Because Conservative Leader Hanson desired time to study the Minister's statement the resolution on which the amendments will be based did not get past the committee stage and will be further debated there.

FAMOUS BALLOONIST DIES

New York, July 25—(CP)—Horace B. Wild, 61, pioneer flier, died yesterday. Wild made more than 1,000 balloon ascents and in 1907 piloted a dirigible around New York's flatiron building.

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

MAJOR ALDERMAN TAKES A HOLIDAY

Major H. A. Alderman, officer commanding the local corps of the Salvation Army, and Mrs. Alderman, will leave tonight for Orangeville, where they will spend a well-earned vacation.

"It's back to the farm for me," the genial officer smiled, "and for the next three weeks I will be pitching hay and shooting groundhogs."

Sergeant-Major Hart of the local corps will be in charge of the Army services during the Major's absence.

BELLEVILLE HARBOR CLEARED OF WEEDS

Workmen are employed today removing weeds and other debris from the Belleville harbour. The north end of the harbour has become infested with under-water growth of sea weeds which mitigated the progress of craft plying those waters. The removal of such debris and growth was ordered by the Belleville Harbour Commission. Three men working on a raft are employed in the work of clearing the harbour for navigation.

MOTORISTS CLAIMS BLINDING LIGHTS CAUSE OF CRASH

Claiming she was blinded by the glaring headlights of an oncoming transport, an automobile driven by Mrs. Thos. Wells of this city, sideswiped a large Smith transport in the vicinity of Bide-a-Wee camp on Highway No. 2 last evening. The motor car struck the left rear wheels of the heavy tractor-trailer and later careened into the north ditch, missing a telephone pole by a few scant feet. Five persons in the vehicle escaped uninjured. The truck was driven by C. Bartley of Toronto, who later told Motorcycle Patrolman H. Caldwell that the lights of his truck had been dimmed. The front and left side of Mr. Wells' car was badly damaged, while the rear wheels of the tractor-trailer were knocked out of line. A tow truck from Belleville was needed to release the lighter vehicle and bring it to the city.

HUCKLEBERRIES A HEAVY CROP

Huckleberries in the region north of Madoc and Kaladar are a heavy crop this year according to berry pickers from that district who report that berry pickers from all the surrounding districts are now encamped there for the annual harvest. Pickers from this district report that although the berry crop is quite abundant it is not as heavy as was expected.

PAPER APPEARS IN ABBREVIATED FORM

Something new in the newspaper world was seen in this week's edition of the "Quinte Sun", popular newspaper edited in Trenton when the publication went to press with what was termed a "hot weather edition".

The explanation was, that owing to the large quantity of printing work, which had to be completed by a hard-pressed staff, and which was not being helped along by the extreme heat and humidity of the past few days, the paper would appear in an abbreviated form with four pages instead of the usual eight-page paper.

LITTLE FELLOW IN "BIRTHDAY" SUIT

The little fellow apparently liked the water. In fact, he stayed in for some time after his chums had gone ashore to dress. "C'mon out," they shouted. But he shook his head. On the shore near a bridge a bevy of small girls were playing. They paid no attention to the boys shouting to their friend, nor did they see him making signs indicating their presence.

Finally the girls, laughing and shouting, went away and the little fellow crept gingerly ashore. He was in his "birthday" suit.

'B' Troop 3-47 Battery Recruited to Near Strength

Belleville Gunners Representative of Central Ontario—Many Young Men Disappointed When "Turned Down"

95% ATTESTED

The thermometer was hovering around the eighty degrees mark. In the orderly room of "B" Troop 3/47 Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, on Church Street, officers and non-commissioned officers sweltered in an early morning humidity. Outside a group of potential recruits awaited their turns.

Suddenly the door opened and in strolled a young man. "How's chances to join up?" he grinned. Captain Ralph Bird turned in his chair. "Alright," he smiled in reply. "Anything wrong with you?"

"Nope," grinned the youth, "only a club foot, but that doesn't bother me any."

"Let me see it," asked the captain, who between wars practices his medical profession.

The man sat down and took off a shoe and sock. Five toes were missing as was part of the foot. Captain Bird took one look, and shook his head. "I'm sorry," he said, "they won't take you." A look of keen disappointment came over the face of the young man. "Is there any place which will take me? I want to do my bit," he added. He was told that units recruiting "C" category men might have an opening for him. He turned away sadly.

Only One Case

That is only one case of many young men who are trying to enlist with the gunners, officers said. Since recruiting started a few days ago the response to the call for volunteers for active service has been noteworthy in Belleville, and had all who offered their services been medically fit, the quota would have been reached long ago.

As it is, present indications point to the troop being recruited to its war strength of seventy men within the next day or so and potential recruits, who have put off attestation are urged to see battery officers right away. Well over 95 per cent of the strength has been recruited to date.

"B" Troop will be representative of far-flung areas of the province and not confined to Belleville alone. On its roster are men from Picton, Bloomfield and other Prince Edward County points, Barry's Bay, Brooklin, Oshawa, St. Catharine's and many other outside points.

Although several places have been mentioned, nothing of a definite nature has been decided upon as to where the battery will train as a unit. "A" Troop is being made up in Napanee, while the old 22nd Medium Battery, Cobourg, is the nucleus of "C" Troop. Recruits, it was inferred here yesterday, will train in local troop headquarters for at least a period of four weeks or until definite arrangements regarding unit training quarters have been made.

Recruits Drilling Here

Recruits of "B" Troop are drilling here and yesterday saw them undergoing foot-drill training in the comparatively cool areas of Victoria Park.

The orderly room of the troop is situated in the 34th Battery Headquarters on Church Street and potential members may see officers between the hours of 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. and 8.30 p.m.

ONLY 20 "GUESTS" AT COUNTY JAIL

It's not so hot, atmospherically speaking, in the County Jail quarters these days, but the "boys" apparently prefer the humidity of freedom to the coolness of incarceration. For only twenty "guests" of the county are availing themselves of the municipal hospitality these days. This is a low figure for this time of the year, according to officials.

Napanee Making A Strong Bid to House Battery

Napanee will make a strong bid for the accommodation of 265 officers and men of the newly recruited 3/47 Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, C.A.S.F., for the coming winter. At a special session of the Town Council, members ananimously decided that proper arrangements could be made for the housing of the troops and that military authorities be notified to that effect.

Mayor Hall told his council that the "opportunity was too good to let pass by as a large number of men would leave substantial sums of money with the business interests of the town."

Headquarters for the unit has not been chosen as yet, according to officers of the unit who addressed council. Major Van Steenburgh, officer commanding the battery desires to have his unit as close to Kingston as possible.

The battery is composed of three troops, with "A" Troop at present located in Napanee, "B" Troop in Belleville and "C" Troop in Cobourg. Recruiting is going on apace and it is expected the unit will be at full strength within a day or so.

Quite a number stayed to enjoy supper. Before the gathering dispersed all joined in singing God Save the King.

Before going to New Brunswick some weeks ago, he visited friends here.

Mr. Bohan conducted the British-American hotel at Kingston, then the Globe hotel here for three years and later went to Hamilton in a similar capacity for a time. County Court

"It makes no difference in this court whether the accused is a Senator or not. If there has been an infraction of the traffic laws all are to be dealt with in the same manner with justice for all", commented Magistrate E. J. Butler in today's County Police Court held here when a charge of speeding was presented against The Honorable Senator Salter Hayden, Toronto.

Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson presented the charge and introduced a letter, which had been received from Senator Hayden intimating he considered contesting the matter. "Enlarge the case for one week, he's no better than anyone else", concluded His Worship.

Motorcycle Patrolman Harry Caldwell presented twelve highway traffic cases in today's court, all being for minor offences such as speeding and careless driving.

When the name of Donald Holderman, Montreal, was called on a charge of speeding the accused failed to respond. "This man is an English refugee. I clocked him travelling at 75 miles per hour out of Deseronto. I took a ten dollar bail bond from him and permitted him to continue to Toronto after informing him his case would be heard today", revealed Constable Caldwell. His Worship ordered the confiscation of the bail bond in payment of the levied fine imposed by the court.

Alfred Johns, American tourist, paid $10.00 and costs for careless driving, while a second charge of reckless driving was withdrawn today. Melville Glenn, Toronto, Richard Denison and I. M. Black of Trenton, all paid $5.00 and costs before court opened on charges of speeding.

Frank Memec, Frankford, was fine $5.00 for speeding and $2.00 for operating a motor vehicle after sundown without displaying three-lighted lamps, while Burton McMillan, Stirling, was convicted of speeding also.

A charge of failure to pay wages, preferred by Norman McDermott under the Master and Servant Act, was amicably settled when the defendant in the case James Lake, paid the complainant $23.00 and the costs of the proceedings.

Crown Attorney Robertson disposed of 15 cases in shortly less than 30 minutes, the majority of the highway traffic cases having been settled prior to the opening of the proceeding as the accused persons paid fines in lieu of appearing.

PLANS PREPARED TO FLY BOMBERS ACROSS ATLANTIC

Three Outstanding Distance Fliers, One of Them a Canadian, Now En Route to Canada

By SAM ROBERTSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 25—(CP Cable) — means a quickening the flow of fliers, one of them a Canadian, are en route to Canada to pilot bombers across the Atlantic.

The fliers, who are expected to be joined by others shortly as a means of suickening the flow of North American built bombers to the United Kingdom for the use of the Royal Air Force, left by ship several days ago.

The Canadian is I. G. Ross, erstwhile "bush flier" from Montreal who has been one of Imperial Airways' ace pilots since 1936. Starting his career in 1929, he flew transport across Quebec's trackless bush and lake country to the northern mining camps for a number of years.

Arthur Wilcockson, O.B.E., a Londoner who has flown the Atlantic six times, is another of the bomber shuttler group. The experience Wilcockson gained in survey flights across the ocean in 1937 gained him the post of manager of Imperial's Atlantic division in 1938.

The third aviator is D. C. T. Bennett, who has been flying passenger and mail planes over Imperial's routes to Karachi, Durban and Egypt. He is a native of Queensland who has been cloud riding 11 years. He started his career with the Royal Australian Air Force when he was 19.

Pilot of Plane And Crew of Vessel Both Seek Rescue

London, July 25—(CP)— German marksmen scoring a hit upon an R.A.F. reconnaissance machine's gasoline tank led to a "rescue comedy at sea."

With his gasoline leaking the pilot turned and tried to reach England. His fuel ran out and he landed alongside a small naval vessel to facilitate rescue, the crew clambered out onto the wings.

Sailors from the naval craft at once swarmed over the side of their vessel and took up positions on the monopline's submerging wings.

Alarmed for the safety of his crew, the pilot pointed out to the sailors that he had landed to be rescued by the ship.

"That's funny," said one sailor, "we jumped onto your 'plane to be rescued ourselves. You see we've just been torpedoed."

Both crews remained clinging to the 'plane wreckage until a destroyer hove in sight to rescue them.

Nazi Decoy Tricks Are Unsuccessful

London, July 25.— (CP)—Nazi pilots often pretend to be hit in order to lure British fighting planes into a position where they can be pounced on by superior numbers, Royal Air Force fliers reported today.

The German planes, falling, faltering, emitting trails of smoke, seek to tempt the R.A.F. pilots from the severe formations of modern air warfare, but with little success, the British fighters say.

Decoy tricks described by one officer included "some means of loosing a flow of smoke which looks as though they're in trouble after a brush with us".

"It's natural for a young pilot to want to finish the enemy.

"But if he leaves formation he finds Jerry is all right; so much so that his cannon is firing and there are a couple of pals around to help him".

Von Papen Leaves To Visit Rome

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 25—(AP)— Franz Von Papen, German Ambassador to Turkey, on his way presumably to take part in Balkan conferences, departed for Berlin by plane today without conferring with Bulgarian statesmen who had expected to get German views and accompany him to the parleys.

R. A. F. Planes Swoop so Low Over Snow-Covered Mountain, They Seem to be Tobogganing

London, July 25 CP Cable) — Royal Air Force planes that swooped so low over a snow-clad mountain that they "seemed to be tobogganing" carried out a successful attack against enemy ships anchored in a Norwegian harbor.

A Canadian flight commander of the attacking squadron relating his experiences in a broadcast said that "as we looked back we could see smoke and flames." The planes flew so close to the mountain and the sea in launching the thrust that anti-aircraft crews firing on them from either side were believed to have hit each other.

The Canuck later revisited the harbor on a solo sortie and bombed and blew up an ammunition dump. He also told of the squadron's "most successful attack on an enemy airdrome" when 90 bombs were dropped in less than a minute.

"We counted 40 fires when we left," he said. "Some of them were in the woods, where aircraft probably were hidden."

Rumanian Minister to Britain Being Replaced Says Legation

V. V. Tilea, Present Minister, Will Not Likely Return to Rumania

STOICA SUGGESTED

London, July 25—(CP)— A spokesman at the Rumanian legation announced today that V. V. Tilea, Rumanian Minister to Britain since 1938, is being replaced.

The spokesman said he could not confirm the reported appointment of Wassile Stoica, present Ambassador to Turkey, as Tilea's successor but he said Stoica's name had been "strongly suggested."

The Foreign Office was believed to be preparing an official announcement of the change.

It was understood in diplomatic circles that Tilea is not planning to return to Bucharest for a considerable time despite his large business interests in Rumania. These circles said he had been relieved of his post because of his pro-British sentiments and he likely would be unpopular in Rumania, which is turning towards Britain's axis enemies.

Tilea has a large estate in Oxfordshire where he makes a hobby of running a model farm.

Stoica, unlike Tilea, is a career diplomat. He is a close personal friend of King Carol.

TWO SHIPMENTS OF OIL TO SPAIN HALTED BY U.S.

Cargoes Appear to Have Been Destined for Germany and Italy

Washington, July 25 — (AP) — Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau said today that two shipments of oil to Spain had been stopped because the cargoes appeared to be destined for Germany and Italy.

Approximately 200,000 barrels of oil were aboard two tankers whose sailing from a Texas port was halted a few days ago by the Maritime Commission.

Morgenthau declined to go into details. He did tell reporters, however, that the action had "no relations" with reports from London that Great Britain also was trying to prevent oil from getting into Germany through Spain.

Other authoritative sources said that the two tankers, denied clearance to sail for Spain until they unloaded their oil on shore, were the tankers Aryan and Nevada.

They were stopped July 10 and 11 at Houston, Tex., by the "office of merchant ship movements" set up by President Roosevelt recently under Morgenthau to supervise departures and arrivals of both foreign and domestic ships.

First word that the tankers had been held up came from the Maritime Commission.

BARN STRUCK BY BOLT

Campbellford, Ont., July 25 — (CP)—A large bank barn on the farm of Arthur Sheridan at nearby Healey Falls was destroyed by lightning when an electrical storm hit the district. A valuable horse, 40 loads of hay, pigs and implements were lost when a bucket brigade failed to douse the flames. The farm is owned by T. J. Horkins.

CAPTURED 'CHUTIST

Mrs. Daisy Cardwell, ABOVE, wife of a British northeast coast volunteer defence officer, proved herself a heroine when she calmly approached and "arrested" a German airman who came down via parachute in a field alongside her house. The prisoner was the pilot of a Junkers machine brought down by Spitfires. She commanded the airman to put up his hands which he did without hesitation and then took his revolver and marched him off.

ENGLISH AUTHOR TO TOUR CANADA

Minnie L. Haskins Wrote Quotation Used by His Majesty in Christmas Address

London, July 25.—(CP Cable)— Minnie L. Haskins English author, has sailed for Canada to conduct a six months' lecture tour, it was learned today. She war accompanied by a nephew who is expected to stay in the Dominion for the duration of the war.

Miss Haskins wrote the quotation with which the King concluded his Christmas broadcast. For some hours after His Majesty's talk to the Empire, the source of the quotation was a mystery to literary people. It turned out that Miss Haskins had written the words some 25 years previously in a circulated book of poems.

The quotation read:

"I said to a man who stood at the gate of the year, 'give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown,' and he replied, 'go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than the known way'."

Miss Haskins has a sister in Canada, Mrs. Margaret Greenham, who is the wife of the director of Mountain School at Banff, Alta.

Bernard Shaw, 84, Would Like to Hide His Age He Says

London, July 25—(CP)—Bernard Shaw, whose play "The Devil's Disciple" began tickling west end audiences last night, said today he would like to "conceal" his birthday Friday.

"The unfortunate fact that I have reached my 84th year is one which I wish to conceal. Not to advertise," he said when asked for an interview.

Shaw's play, starring Robert Donat, is spiced with laughs at the expense of the British War Office in the days of the American Revolution, and it jibes at "muddling" in modern days.

Skunk in Office Dodges 'Hitler' Sign But Stops Work

Ottawa, July 25—(CP)—A skunk stopped clerical war work in one of the capital's largest office buildings this morning by parading around in a street level window.

The animal got into the window in the early morning and greeted the civil servants as they arrived for the day's work. One clerk took the initiative and put a sign marked "Hitler" in the window. The skunk moved away from the sign.

Another clerk killed the animal with a stick and street cleaners carried it away.

Estonian Finally Makes His Escape

COOL AIR WAVE REPORT ON WAY, CHANGE FRIDAY

Two Cases of Prostration Are Reported in Toronto

CROPS SURVIVE HEAT

By The Canadian Press

The Ontario heatwave showed no signs of abating Thursday but the weatherman has words of encouragement. He said there are signs of a break Friday.

The break is expected to come when a mass of cool air, reported on its way down across the western and mid-western United States, reaches the Great Lakes area Friday night.

The heat continued in Ontario Thursday despite thunderstorms and heavy rains in many districts in central, western and northern parts of the province. Humidity in some places was higher after the rain and in Toronto it was around the 80 mark today, an increase of more than 12 points from Wednesday.

Two cases of prostration were reported in Toronto. Drownings occurred in a number of places as people sought relief in the water.

Power lines in the Sudbury district were put out of order for the second consecutive day of lightning. And lightning struck again today in Hamilton where some damage had been done yesterday. A chimney and tram wire were the latest objects of attack.

Crops Weather Heat

Crops generally were reported surviving the heat, Agricultural officials said the abundance of early-season moisture gave the crops an excellent foundation and the heat is helping the ripening processes.

In Caledon, however, the heat is held responsible for the hatching of millions of potato bugs which are reported to be threatening the entire crop in that township.

The greatest difficulty faced by farmers in Perth is in the danger to horses and other farm animals. There have been 11 animals die in this district this week. Six of the eleven deaths were attributed to lightning.

Cool Air Wave Seen

Chicago, July 25 (AP)—The prolonged United States heat wave showed signs of cracking today as a mass of cool air advanced from the northwest.

Cooler air began moving eastward last night, bringing relief to Montana, Wyoming, the Dakotas, and parts of Minnesota.

Forecasters said the air mass would overspread the upper Mississippi Valley and Great Lake region by tomorrow night and should be felt all the way to the Atlantic seaboard by Saturday.

At least 317 deaths were attributed directly or indirectly to the torrid spell, more than a week old in some sections There were 116 heat fatalities and 201 drownings.

Deaths in Middle West

Most of the heat deaths were recorded in the middle west. Illinois had 23, Minnesota 16, Michigan and Wisconsin 12 each.

Temperatures above 100 were common in the middle west yesterday. The mercury climbed to the dizzy height of 116 degrees at Beloit, Kas., and Long Pine, Neb.

A 68-year record for July 24 was smashed in Denver when the temperature reached 99.

Lightning stunned 12 men at the Plattsburg, N.Y. military camp and four boys at Detroit.

Italian Wheat Crop Down 28,292,110 Bu.

Rome, July 25—(AP)—The Minister of Agriculture advised Premier Mussolini today that Italy's wheat crop this year would total about 73,000,00 quintals— about 7,700,000 quintals below the average of the last three years.

(This would put the 1940 Italian wheat crop at 265,223,900 bushels, 28,292,110 bushels less than last year.)

The report said that continued cold had caused extensive damage to the crop in northern districts.

King George Forced To Take Cover On Inspection Tour

A South Coast Port in England, July 25.—(CP)—The King was forced to take cover in an air raid shelter during an inspection of naval training camps today but no bombs were dropped nearby.

His party was just leaving one camp when the alarm came.

The King lighted a cigarette and then strolled to a shelter witnesses said. He remained inside only a few minutes, however and after a look at the sky ordered the tour continued.

The King had reached the next point on his tour 20 miles away when the raider passed.

Besides the training of British sailors he saw Netherlands French and Norwegians and looked over warships of these nationalities. The fleet air arm put on an exhibition of stunt flying for him.

FORCED DOWN AT GANANOQUE

Kingston, Ont., July 25.—(CP)— A Royal Canadian Air Force motor biplane, on its way from Trenton to Ottawa, was forced down at Gananoque on account of the poor visibility today. None of the members of the crew of four was hurt when the plane made a perfect landing. The plane was tied up at Walter Staebler's dock waiting for improved weather conditions before it could take off.

500 MEMBERS DETAINED

London, July 25 (CP)—Home Secretary Sir John Anderson disclosed today that detention of more than 500 former members of Sir Oswald Mosley's British Union of Fascists has been ordered and steps taken to supervise the activities of about 9,000 union members.

NATIONAL PARK DEVELOPMENTS

One of the most ambitious and far-reaching developments in Canada's national parks system has been the linking of two of the Dominion's largest playgrounds, Banff and Jasper National Parks. This highway reduces from 511 to 186 miles the motoring distance between the towns of Banff and Jasper. It also provides the visiting motorist with some of the finest mountain scenery in the world, as for its entire length it has been constructed within sight of massive peaks and glacier-hung ranges.

The road leaves the town of Banff at an altitude of approximately 4,500 feet, and ascends the valley of the Bow River to within three miles of beautiful Lake Louise. Here it branches off from the main route of travel across the Rockies and runs due north through a region that heretofore has been accessible only by saddle-horse over park trails. The highway skirts the great Columbia Ice-field which extends over portions of Banff and Jasper National Parks, and on hot summer days motorists can leave their cars and stroll across the icy tongue of Athabaska Glacier, which lies within a few hundred yards of the right-of-way. Accommodation in the form of bungalow camps and public camp-grounds has been provided at different points along the way, and visitors will enjoy safe and delightful motoring over long, straight stretches, and up easy grades.

Another important road development is the completion of the "Big Bend" Highway around the great northern bend of the Columbia River between Revelstoke and Golden in British Columbia. This highway, 193 miles in length, forms the last link in the western section of the Trans-Canada Highway, and provides direct motor road connection between the Pacific Coast and the national parks in the Selkirk and Rocky Mountains. The Big Bend Higrway completes a motor route from Vancouver to the Great Lakes, and, with easy side extensions available to Mount Revelstoke, Kootenay, and Waterton Lakes National Parks, opens a door to a series of national playgrounds that embrace a total area of more than 8,000 square miles.

Although not included in Canada's chain of national parks, the | International Peace Garden in the Turtle Mountains on the boundary between Manitoba and North Dakota is a further demonstration of the harmony and good neighbourliness which exists and will continue to exist between Canada and the United States. Cooperation between the Governments and the peoples of these two countries has made possible the establishment of this 1,800-acre floral kingdom occupying a unique geographical position on the North American continent, being almost equi-distant from the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. The same desire to commemorate long years of unbroken friendship led to the dedication of the International Peace Arch on the boundary between Blaine in the State of Washington and Douglas in the Province of British Columbia, and around this arch is growing still another peace park. The spirit of friendship and goodwill exemplified in these international peace gardens pervades the entire national parks system of Canada, which has become a great international playground of incalculable value to the peoples of the whole continent. It is expected that the national parks will receive during 1940 a record number of visitors from both Canada and the United States. This great co-mingling of citizens of neighbouring countries in an atmosphere of peace and serenity such as the national parks provide will serve to further strengthen the friendship that has long stood the test of time, and thereby promote to an even greater degree those cordial relations which are the very foundation of our way of life on this continent.

HITLER'S GIFT OF ARMORED TRAIN TO IL DUCE

How thoughtful these dictators are of one another's safety! There is Hitler who thinks of his dear friend Mussolini and therewith presents him with an armored train to "protect you." Why the need of armored train by these two friends, in lands absolutely under their away!

Montreal Gazette has some sport at the expense of Il Duce, when it remarks that Hitler "knows how rash a man Mussolini is, how brave to the point of recklessness, how gallantly he endangers his own life in leading his armed forces into the thickest of the fight. He recalls how Mussolini dared everything in taking Italy into the war the moment Germany became involved in the early days of September last year and how tremendously helpful the naval and military co-operation of Italy was from that time on. He is not unmindful that the army of Italy under Mussolini's command fights with unexampled heroism in this war and that the Italian navy has been seeking British warships in vain in the Mediterranean with a fixed determination to destroy them. And so he feels that he must safeguard the life of this intrepid captain; must protect Mussolini even against himself."

So Il Duce gets an armored train. Mussolini must be satisfied that this train is amply protected for he knows that in a war in which modern invention plays so great a part, a bomb might happen to hit a train or perhaps some of his own troops might happen to fire on it as they are said to have done in some instances in Africa in firing on their own troops or as Italian anti-aircraft gunners at Rome were said to have done when they wounded civilians in Rome when the gunners were flustered over an unconfirmed report of a raid. Mussolini would not want anything so unbecoming to happen to the noble gift of his friend for it is to memorialize their friendship in peace and in war.

What Duce will give Adolf has yet to be seen. Between such friends trere must be the most absolute confidence and Il Duce will make a return gift for Hitler may expect such as a demonstration to Fascist and Nazi alike that if there is one enduring thing, durable beyond the metal of the train it is the comradeship of Adolf and Benito, comrades in the long pre-war orations and harangues and for a time so warmly attached to one another that Hitler said Italy would come into the war at the right time. That must have saved the face of the fascist a blush or so, whatever it did to Hitler.

So these men are one the giver and the other the receiver of the new gift which is a tribute to Mussolini's far-famed reputation as an inveterate traveller especially in war time to all the fronts and into all the places of interest within the Axis range.

Montreal Gazette remarks that if the gift were made in any less friendly spirib "it might be regarded as a prison on wheels" for it is to be manned by Germans.

An armor-plated train that can travel from Rome to Berlin is something that gives a man like Mussolini the true freedom he feels he needs in a world so cramped as he says his native Italy is. It gives him an opportunity for that roving spirit he has always shown and that expansive personality he has demonstrated in his desire to revive the Rome of Mussolini to the height of the glory of the Rome of two thousand years ago. Julius Caesar had to travel in a Roman warship or galley of the day propelled by men at the banks of oars. It was the thought of Hitler that something more modern was suitable for his great companion, the reviver of old Rome.

What Mussolini now would like to give Hitler is not clear. Probably the gift will be delayed until events clarify somewhat in the Balkans about which Mussolini has thought deeply and spoken vehemently in other days, though now it is Hitler who is inviting the Balkan leaders to Berlin. The train will serve very well any time the Italian dictator is summoned to go to Berlin to talk with Hitler.

What other use the train could have no one can see. In fact this gift of dictator to dictator means nothing to the world. It was just a Hitler gift.

HITLER TALKS OF "REASON"

"Listen to reason," is Hitler's plea to Britain. GRAPES OF WRATH

Censorship in Germany's newest slave states, Holland Belgium and France, has obscured the plight of the homeless hordes of civilians who fled before the armies that subjugated Western Europe. When their story has been told, their suffering recounted the world may know of the most intense tragedy of modern times. Groping for food and cover, seeking homes that were blasted and fields that were gutted and crops that lie flat beneath the iron cavalry's tread, the little people of Western Europe will not find peace for many a day. They live only because the urge to live is old, older even than armies. They travel until they are halted by the new master.—Brandon Sun.

At the approach of R.A.F. planes, radio stations at Bremen, Cologne, Munich, Leipsig, Berlin, Breslau, Frankfurt, Saarbrucken, Vienna, Brussels, Hilversum and Strasbourg went suddenly silent. And probably right in the middle of a cooking recipe—how to make one egg do for seven people.

GERMAN VESSEL ATTACKED

London, July 25—(CP)—A German auxiliary vessel with a naval escort was attacked early Friday in the North Sea by torpedo-carrying planes of the fleet air arm, the Admiralty announced tonight.

BRITISH THOROUGHNESS

Britain is now producing aircraft for all purposes at a greater rate than they can be manned by thoroughly trained personnel. It is interesting to note, however, that one thing the British won't skimp or cut down, is the thoroughness with which every man must be trained. The result of that training to date has been remarkable, four, five or ten to one odds not daunting any British airman. The report, however, on the need of the hour, more trained men for the air, is another grim reminder that the training plan, if adopted here in 1937 or 1938, would have vitally affected the present course of the war, and in favor of the Empire.—St. Catharines Standard.

RAN OUT OF SMOKES

Demand for cigarettes, chocolates and other gifts for soldiers was so heavy after the evacuation of the B.E.F. from Dunkerque that the army comforts depot here issued an S.O.S. for more stocks. It had distributed more than 1,000,000 cigarettes, and more than two tons of coffee.

Agreement is Made Over Wheat Requirements

Lisbon, July 25—(AP)—A Portuguese communique announced today conclusion of an agreement among the Portuguese, Spanish and British governments designed to meet Spain's wheat needs and to facilitate further her purchases of Portuguese colonial products.

The British government, it said, agreed payments for these products should be made through the British-Spanish clearing system up to £600,000 (about $2,400,000).

The agreement was concluded Tuesday.

Early Loss of Tonsils May Be Cause of Increase in Sinus Infection

When it was found some thirty years ago that infected tonsils caused rheumatism and rheumatism caused heart disease, there were thousands of children who had their tonsils removed if they had one attack of simple sore throat. Also, tonsils that were larger than normal without any symptoms whatever, were removed. And no one can blame parents and physicians, for that matter, for trying to prevent heart disease in children.

However, that the tonsils are useful organs up to the age of puberty (14 to 16) is admitted, so that physicians today do not advise removal of tonsils unless there are prevents it from going down to one or more attacks of tonsillitis are followed by rheumatic attacks a few weeks later, the removal of the tonsils is usually advised.

There has arisen in recent years a new problem, and that is the great increase in the number of cases of sinus infection, sinusitis as it is called. And physicians are telling us that there is more sinus infection now because of the early removal of tonsils which were doing some of the work done by the sinuses. The increase in the amount of work to be done by the sinuses—filtering blood and air—preventing nose, throat, and chest ailments, is increasing the number of cases of sinusitis.

An examination of school children with and without tonsils by Dr. Kayser, Rochester, N.Y., who has done so much research work on tonsils, found that sinus infection occurred more often in those whose tonsils had been removed during their early years.

It is the prevention of infection in the nose, throat and mouth, that repeated attacks of tonsillitis. If bronchial tubes and lungs causing bronchitis and pneumonia.

That sinus trouble is not always due to infection is pointed out by Dr. E. C. Mitchell, Memphis, Tenn., in West Virginia Medical Journal, who states that allergy (sensitiveness to various substances) can set up an irritation in a sinus which the patient, and sometimes the physican, may believe due to infection. He points out that if allergy or sensitiveness is causing the disturbance in the sinus, the material dropping into the throat is liquid or fluid and the lining of sinus and nose is pale, whereas in infection of the sinus, the material is a thick mucous and the lining of sinus and back of nose is red and boggy.

A. R. PANTS.

One immediate result of the air-raid warnings has been an increase in the sale of trousers. A housewife in one northwestern suburb where the sirens had never been used in earnest before set out on Thursday morning to buy a pair. Her first acquaintance with the dismal sirens had not enabled her to decide, though it had raised again, those barely soluble questions of how to act in an air raid; whether to waken the children and take them out of their beds to a shelter across the garden, whether to turn the gas off at the main or use it to make tea, and so on. But it had decided her that dressing gowns will not do for these occasions; they impede movement, and tend to make one feel flustered even if one is not.

Other women had found the same thing; the costumier had already sold in a few hours more trousers for women than the could remember selling for months, and had only three pairs left. Happily one of the three was the right size.—Manchester Guardian.

TO AMERICANS

Life is very pleasant in Canada these beautiful summer days. The roads from the border to the northern holiday regions are better than ever. There are plenty of fish to be caught, the water is invigorating and the weather marvelous. You will enjoy yourselves more this year than ever before, says The Monetary Times.

There isn't a Canadian from coast to coast who would not do his utmost to make your stay here the best vacation you have ever had. Every one of them is waiting to see and to welcome you. Do come.

You need not be afraid to enter a country at war. You will see very little of war activity, although there is a great deal of it going on. You will be treated with respect. The red tape you fear doesn't exist. Naturally you will be questioned at the border but no more than in previous years, and it will only last five minutes or less. We don't suspect you. We are just anxious to protect ourselves from fifth columnists as you are yourselves.

You will be as safe here as at home. But you will enjoy it more because you will be really away from home with all the excitement and thrill that that alone can bring. Come up and see us and bring your friends.—Windsor Daily Star.

THE OLD CHIVALRY

When Sir Arthur Longmore, British air marshal, ordered dropped on Italian territory in Africa a letter expressing regret at the death of Gen. Balbo and paying tribute to Balbo's "leadership and intrepidity", he perpetuated to fine flier's tradition of the old world war days. It is good to find that, even in these outrageous times, a trace of the amenities that used to be observed when civilized people fought still lingers.—Detroit Free Press.

Slang of This War

(From the New York Sun)

The European war has contributed a considerable addition to the stock of the world's slang.

"Some newer terms," says a Royal Air Force authority, "are 'fan' for aircrew, 'station master' for the commanding officer, and 'spun-in' for a bad mistake. To 'pancake' an airplane is now to 'crack down on the deck'. This calls for 'tearing of a strip', otherwise to reprimand. No longer does an enterprising airman 'win' a wanted article; he 'organises'. When supplies have been arranged, those supplies have been 'laid on'. If an airman is 'fed up', he is 'browned off'. If something displeases, 'a poor view' is taken of it. Something badly done is 'a black'. The correct method of doing anything is 'the right drill'. Bomb dropping to the R.A.F. pilot is 'egg-laying'." And a "blonde job", we are told, is a young woman with fair hair.

The German airmen, says the same British authority, also have their slang, "some of it quite incomprehensible even to the most orthodox Nazi layman". The famous Messerschmitt 'plane is commonly caller the "flying brick". Other terms to describe Nazi aircraft are "bathtub" and "trunks". All metal aircraft is "brass donkey"; a heavy bomber is a "pantechnicon".

The general name for German pilots is "Emil" and for observers "Franz". An observer is also a "staffgoggles". A young airman is a "hare"; an ace pilot is a "cannon"; an old pilot is called "peaceful Emil", and a crew is called a term meaning more or less a flying family. Bombs are "eggs" or "cigars". To open fire with a machine gun is "to bleat". Searchlights are "glowworms"; to be shot down in flames is "dismount hot". The weather forecasters of the Reich meteorological service are cynically called the "false prophets".

"Quisling", the "Fifth Column", the "Trojan horse" and "Blitzkrieg" are easily among the most widely known slang words born of the present war, and all four are likely to find a permanent place in the world's language. The name Quisling, says Weltwoche, a Zurich independent weekly, "will go down in history not because he was the spear head of the fifth column which helped pave the way for the invaders, but because his name has entered the languages of the world as a generic term for a new type of traitors who hope to win at least a nominal power by surrendering their countries to foreign aggressors."

PLOW OR BE FINED.

Odd items of news are appearing these days in English newspapers—as, for instance, reports of the fining of farmers for failing to plow land under the direction of the officials of the Emergency Powers (Defence) Cultivation of Land Order. In one case, thus reported, a Lancashire farmer was fined 15 pounds because he failed to turn 9.38 acres of his 61½ acres of grassland into plowed land. In a second prosecution a few days later a fine of 20 pounds was imposed for the same offence, the officials informing the court that they took "the gravest possible view of the case". When the defence identified the prosecution with "dictatorship", the prosecuting lawyer said it was "to prevent dictatorship coming to this country that 99 per cent. of the farmers and others had volunarily submitted to the regulations."—Winnipeg Free Press.

EROSION METERS

Ancient cemeteries and burying grounds are serving as erosion meters in many sections of the country in which valuable topsoil is being washed away, it is reported to the United States Department of Agriculture.

One cemetery in Perry County, Ark., undisturbed for fifty years, now stands eighteen inches above the level of surrounding fields. The elevation of the cemetery is caused by the fact that its topsoil has been held in place by closely matted roots of sod and sassafras trees, while the topsoil of the neighborhood fields, after two generations of cultivation with no thought of soil conservation, has washed away.

In other places skeletons of Indians have been unearthed by plows that are beginning to bite into the old graves as the depth of the topsoil over them decreases.—Windsor Daily Star.

The Ark Royal Just Won't Stay Under!

(From the Chicago Daily News)

The Germans don't have all the military secrets, or at least they don't have all the naval secrets. The case of the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal shows that the British have a few tricks up their sleeves, too. Here, as far as is known, is the first submersible warship, and while we get only occasional glimpses of what the Ark Royal can do, they indicate that it must involve several new principles in naval construction.

We know, for instance, that the Ark Royal was sunk on Sept. 26. This was officially announced, with natural pride, by the German command. It was a telling blow. The Ark Royal, Great Britain's finest aircraft carrier, was done for. Far from ending the story, however, the Ark Royal's destruction only sends it off to a good start.

The next development comes when an American naval attache says he has breakfast on the Ark Royal, a feat that smacks of Mr. Beebe and his bathysphere. Later it is announced that the Ark Royal has engaged in a long sea chase, ranging the Atlantic in search of the German pocket battleship, the Graf Spee. On Nov. 8 Mr. Churchill announces that the sunken ship has captured a valuable prize, and in March it is announced that the Ark Royal is back in port, breaking water, presumably, like Moby Dick.

Finally, a good ten months after she has been sent to a watery grave, the Ark Royal appears in the news again, this time being credited with playing an important part in the fratricide at Oran, when the British turned their guns on the French fleet.

Now you might assume with some basis in reason that the British, when they say the Ark Royal is still in combat condition, are covering up.

On July 11, however, corroboration comes from an unexpected quarter. A surprise witness appears. The Italians announce with suitable satisfaction that intrepid, virile Italian aviation has scored a direct hit with an intrepid, virile bomb on an aircraft carrier known to be the poor old Ark Royal, smiting a mighty blow against the very ship their allies sent to the bottom last fall. It calls for a little better cooperation between the publicity departments, possibly, and the victory writers, but it writes a new chapter in the history of one of the war's most interesting warships.

Just how the mystery ship operates hasn't been made clear; there hasn't even been a hint. Obviously, however, the A. R. incorporates many new discoveries. Heretofore it has been believed impossible for a ship to remain under water as much as ten months, inasmuch as water gets into the kitchen, not to mention the captain and the crew. How the British have been able to overcome this water factor remains to be seen.

On the other hand, the British are notoriously stubborn.

Looking Far Ahead

(Windsor Daily Star)

One of these days, we are going to hear suddenly that British troops have begun their march toward Berlin. That day will probably be a long time coming, but it is a heartening thought to keep in mind. We shall not always sit down and wait for attacks that must be fended off.

It is not fantastic to hear military authorities in Great Britain gravely discussing the necessity for building up huge stores of armaments and munitions against the day when we shall sail back across the Channel into European territory. It is simply an indication that these authorities are deliberately and calmly looking forward to far horizons and planning for their day whenever it shall come.

The most encouraging factor of all is the announcement that we have reached the point where our stocks of military supplies are being built up for purposes of attack. We have enough, the army tells us, for the defense of the British Isles, but we are not resting content on that. We are going ahead at constantly higher speed, to make sure that, when the time comes, there will be plenty of guns and shells and tanks and planes to carry us right through France and on into Germany.

Trained research-workers asked housewives from coast to coast: "What ready-to-eat cereal is the favourite in your family?" More than five times as many said "Kellogg's" as mentioned any other brand of corn flakes! Men whose living depends on their palate—such as Rolland Riendeau, Coffee Blender for the famous London House Coffee—check with housewives. Private Receives Public Scolding From Lady Astor

Galt, Ont., July 24 (CP)—Pte. Harvie (Snookie) Dolson, who looks no older than his 18 years, received a public scolding from Lady Nancy Astor at Plymouth and then heard his Colonel rebuked for taking such a young lad to France.

Snookie wrote his parents at nearby Blair village of how he returned from France with a Canadian unit in a heavily-bombed ship. In part, he said:

"We landed at Plymouth and Lady Astor was waiting to greet us. She picked on me, as everybody does here, saying: 'You little devil, You are too young to be going over there.' And then she starts calling down our Colonel for taking me to France."

GERMAN AREAS HEAVILY BOMBED

London, July 25—(CP)— Widespread British counter-attacks on German or German-held territory were outlined by the nightly Air Ministry communique.

Bomb targets last night included aircraft factories at Gotha, Kassel and Wenzendorf, oil depots at Hamburg and Gelsenkirchen and railways, anti-aircraft batteries and airdromes elsewhere in Germany and The Netherlands.

Bombers attacked patrol boats in Dunkerque harbor, France, yesterday afternoon and oil tanks at Flushing, The Netherlands, and docks at Amsterdam, during the night.

One plane failed to return and two German planes were reported shot down.

In Week All Highway Construction Ends Says T. B. McQuesten

Toronto, July 24—(CP)—A week today all highway construction ceases throughout the province, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, said today in carrying out Premier Hepburn's direction that government spending during the war must be cut to a minimum. No more contracts for highway construction are to be let for the war's duration, the minister said.

This means, Mr. McQuesten explained, that contracts now in operation will be terminated at this date, including work on the Queen Elizabeth way between Burlington and Niagara Falls. This highway will require some cleaning up but the cement is laid and opening of the highway will probably occur later in August. Rain has delayed construction.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along with Glasses Magee just walking along, and Glasses said, Look who's coming out of the grocer store with a box of eggs.

Meaning Puds Simkins, and I said, O boy what do you bet he dont fall down with them before he gets home?

Puds being a famous tripper and faller, and Glasses said, I bet he does, that's how much I bet he dont. Let's keep walking a little ways in back of him so we wont miss the show, he said.

Wich we started to do, me saying, Can you imagine Puds falling on top of a dozen eggs and Glasses saying, O boy talk about your raw omletts.

And we kept on following him home, me saying, Look at that, he almost bumped into that man, did you notice that? and Glasses saying, Sure, I was just waiting to see those eggs flying every wich way. A good bump would be as good as anything he said.

Puds being a famous bumper too, and we kept on following and watching and he just missed bumping into 3 more people, being exsiting as anything, and I said, There he goes now.

Meaning down, wich he almost did, tripping over something and just getting his ballance back in time, Glasses saying, O boy I'm a wreck, and me saying, Me too, I expected to see the insides of those eggs for sure that time, hay there he goes for real.

Wich he pritty near did but not quite, and he got all a ways home and went in the house without anything really happening, and he came out again and I said, You sure had some narrow excapes with those eggs, Puds, and he said, What eggs, that was a box of soda crackers.

Proving it's just as exhawsting getting exhawsted over nothing.

THE LUNAR auguries are for a continuance of high-pressure initiative, and with the added verve found in some sort of constructive changes in plans or methods of development. Other forms of departure from the normal or routine may be necessary, involving new scenes or strange personalities. There should be decided progress, although it would be advisable to exercise vigilance and precaution with all manner of papers, contracts or documents. Affix signatures carefully to all writings. In the personal affiliations there may be lively and happy engagements.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a lively and progressive year with many important developments of a wholly constructive and satisfying nature. The element of change may be necessary, either in plans, contacts or environs, but not of a major or disruptive consequence. It will be necessary, however, to keep an eagle eye on all writings, contracts or agreements, lest there be treachery, fraud or misconstruction. The social, domestic and affectional life is under fine auspices for activity.

A child born on this day, while being practical, businesslike and progressive, should also have much culture, cordiality and graciousness in its nature. In any creative art expression it would be practical as well as original.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Bad Sprain Causes More Pain Than Actual Break in Bone

Footwear for children today mostly takes the form of oxfords. This style may be all right during most of the year, but in summer when they are in camp romping around over rough ground, jumping out of trees and doing a bit of climbing, I rather like the old-fashioned high shoe.

I say this because I see so many sprained ankles each summer. Children will run and play, and if the terrain is rough they are all the happier. It is quite easy under these circumstances, to turn an ankle, particularly if the child is wearing low shoes that give no support to the ankle.

Sprained ankles seem to go with summer camps. I should know—this section of the country is right in the heart of summer camping areas.

Ordinarily, a sprained ankle occurs when a person steps on something that causes the foot to be turned in suddenly and unexpectedly. The body isn't ready for the sudden wrench and it hasn't time to go with the foot. The muscles, tendons and ligaments on the outside are badly stretched or, in the case of bad sprains, torn loose altogether. When this happens, the ankle swells rapidly, and any weight put on the foot causes excruciating pain. People who have had both a sprain and a break will tell you that the former is the more painful of the two. I have no reason to doubt them.

If anyone in the family, child or adult, sprain an ankle, or any joint for that matter, a doctor should be called at once. That is because there may be a danger that the end of the bone, on the outside of the ankle, may have been pulled off in the accident.

Unfortunately, at this time of year, when so many people are away in summer camps and cottages, a doctor isn't always handy. It may be some hours before medical aid can be summoned, or the victim taken to a doctor's office. Yet something should be done for that ankle right away. The most effective measure is to bind the ankle securely in adhesive tape, so as to relax the muscles that have been strained and torn.

Following are the directions for binding a sprained ankle so as to give relief to the patient until the doctor comes:

Take a strip of half-inch or one-inch adhesive tape about twenty inches long. Attach one end to the inside of the leg, four to six inches above the foot. Then bring the adhesive down, underneath the instep, around and up the outside of the leg, keeping the tap taut all the time. This should pull the ankle to the outside, and relax those strained injured tendons. Three more strips of adhesive, the same size, should be applied the same way. Then three smaller strips should be put around the leg, to bind the long strips and keep them from slipping.

If you follow these instructions carefully you will be doing a lot to help the injured ankle to heal, for sometimes injury is done to sprained joints after the accident.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She Wants to Be a Trained Nurse

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I graduated from high school two years ago. I'm 20 years old and have been working in an office for over a year.

I've always wanted to be a nurse but my parents were sending my sister to college and I had to get a job to help out. Sister has left college and my mother still depends on my pay envelope. Yet I want to take up nursing.

What shall I do, give up my job and try to become a probationer, keep my job and wait until I meet the right boy and get married, or go to night school and take the required subjects for hospital training? I did not get them in high school.

Thankful

As you've not met the right boy, it does not seem wise to give up prospects of fitting yourself for a good profession while waiting for him to turn up. In your place I'd keep on with the job, take up those subjects at night school which would make it easier to be admitted to a good hospital for training.

Husband Out of Town; Young Man Takes Her to Shows etc

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 24 and my husband is 29 years old. We've been married 18 months, and I think my husband is wonderful. We both like company and good times. We've become acquainted with a very likable young man, about our age, who comes over and joins in our fun whenever we have a crowd.

My husband is out of town four days a month and this boy has taken me out. My husband knows about this. I've also made dates with him for other girls, but they never last long as he is very particular, having been turned down once by a certain girl.

He pays a great deal of attention to me, and whenever possible, tries to have a moment with me alone and embraces be. He has even kissed me. Now I'm afraid this might be a mistake, so I'm asking you about it. Should I put my foot down and refuse all affection or just let things ride? He has a very magnetic personality, and sometimes it's hard to resist. I'm very affectionate and my husband is not. Is it because I've been married long enough and that I'm just taking our love for granted?

J. V. P.

Better put your foot down, as you suggest, if you want your marriage to continue happily. There really is no such thing as taking one's married love for granted and having these little side excursions with attractive young men. A certain type of young man is given to selecting attractive young married women for his attentions.

Mother Objects to Correspondence

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a boy of 19 years. My father died four years ago and I support my mother and younger brother.

I have been corresponding for three years with a girl who lives in another city. I see her once in a while. We love each other and hope to marry some day. But my mother doesn't like her, although she has seen her only twice. She says we don't see each other enough to know whether we really love. We write only twice a week, and my mother says we can't afford that six cents a week.

I've gone out with other girls but they don't appeal to me. I've tried to persuade my mother that this girl is all right, but she is so set in her ways. I don't know what to do. I want to see the girl and also remain loyal to my mother. Please help me in my problem, Miss Fairfax.

Puzzled

You must be a very capable boy to be able to earn the family living at nineteen, and creditable as well. I should be more inclined to accept your judgment in picking out the right girl than I would that of the average boy of your age.

Still, as you have two years to wait before you can vote, why rush to the altar? If you make haste slowly in the meantime, your younger brother may be able to help support the family. I certainly think you're entitled to spend six cents a week on postage.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

In Mourning

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1.—I have just lost my mother, and I wish you would please tell me how long I should dress in deep mourning, and what color I should change to from deep mourning.

2.—Should I wear my veil over my face, or on the back of my hat?

3.—Do you consider it wrong to play the radio or to go to a moving picture?

S. A.

1.—Today there are no definite rules about the wearing of mourning. It is left to one's personal choice whether or not one should wear mourning, whether or not one should wear deep mourning, and how long mourning dress should be worn. We are expected to do as we wish, according to our feelings and to the kind of life we must live.

Since you are now wearing deep mourning for your mother you will probably wish to wear this mourning for at least three months, possibly for six months. However, it is now considered in keeping with deep mourning to relieve the all-black effect by wearing touches of white-organdy or georgette, for example, in collars and cuffs. You might like to make this change from all-black to black-and-white after the three or six months, and then change, to, say, a dark gray suit, or to dark blue or other dark shades.

Remember too, in these summer days, that all-white (dull white) is considered as deep mourning as all-black.

2.—Today very few people in mourning—even a widow — wear crepe veils or even crepe-trimmed veils, after the day of the funeral. However, if you do decide to continue wearing your mourning veil, I advise you not to wear it over your face.

3.—There is no reason, except your own preference, why you should not listen to the radio and why you should not go to an occasional moving picture. If these are relaxations to you, welcome them as resources. No matter how deep our grief, dear lady, it is our high-placed duty to face life wisely and courageously and to join in simple diversions that will help our spirit to do this.

Answering Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I am at a loss as to just how to answer a wedding announcement that I have received from a very dear friend of mine, announcing the marriage of her daughter. Should I write the parents and also write the young bride? What should I say in my letter?

Anxious

Since this bride's mother is such a close friend of yours, it would be natural and gracious for you to write both to your friend and to the bride. In your letters tell each of them how happy you were to receive the news of the wedding; in your letter to the bride send your best wishes and felicitations to her and ask her to give her husband your congratulations. Whether or not you send the bride a wedding present, as well as your note of good wishes, depends on your wish.

Honor for Grandfather

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be proper for the bride's maternal grandfather to give her in marriage?

Beth

If, for any reason, it is not possible for the bride's father to give her in marriage, and if the bride chooses to have her grandfather take this honor, it is proper for him to do so.

Courtesy Tip

When you have finished eating, place your knife and fork in the centre of the plate parallel to each other, the handles turned slightly to the right.

FASHION FLASHES

DINING AT HOME? Then wear a charming hostess gown. A beauty is a side drape, pencil slim, available in black or wine red satin, and closing at the side with large rhinestone-set buttons.

IT'S SIMPLE to find a becoming hat, for every type and style is featured these days. Most becoming is a large off-face model in black felt, the wide brim laced through with black satin ribbon, dotted in red and white, which ties in a long-end bow in back.

THE LADY IN WHITE always attracts attention. Most wearable is a slim dinner dress of white silk jersey, done with a wide gathered midriff section, a casual shirtwaist bodice and a slim skirt. A jewelled ornament marks the breast pocket, and a similar ornament trims the draped front of a matching white jersey turban.

TREAT YOURSELF to a new bag to dress up black frocks. A handsome model is in black capeskin made into a squashy pouch, the leather softly gathered onto a wide shell frame studded with rhinestone-set gilt nailheads.

SEE AMERICA and take along clothes that can be worn en route and for sightseeing. A useful coat is of gray woolen with a large collar of gray fox that is detachable. Without the fur there is a collarless neckline and detailed seaming.

IVANHOE W.M.S.

The Ivanhoe W.M.S. was entertalend on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Mitz. The President, Mrs. F. Palmer, opened the meeting. Mrs. Lovibond led in prayer. One minute of silent prayer was held for the nation. During the business period plans were made for an associated helpers social and an autographed quilt was discussed. Mrs. Sam Twiddy then took charge of the meeting. A hymn was sung. Mrs. Albert Reid read the Scripture. Mrs. N. Thomlison read a prayer. Mrs. Donald Fleming, Mrs. S. Kilpatrick and Miss C. Prest gave readings on the Watch Tower. A hymn and the Mizpah benediction closed the meeting. The hostess served a delicious ten cent tea the proceeds of which were $1.60. Collection amounted to 60 cents.

Obedience Is Essential For The Happy Life

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Speaking on happiness and the education of children before the annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at Omaha, Nebraska, a few months ago, Dr. Carleton Washburn, President of the Progressive Education Association said, in essence, that whereas a child and adult in a practical world must be kept by force from doing a few things neither the child nor adult gains anything by way of education from this restraint.

I couldn't accept that. I believe that the learning of certain inhibitions essential to personal safety and the welfare and happiness of others is a basic part of every person's education at any age. I can't think of good character and citizenship without certain basic inhibitions well established and operating more or less automatically. I also believe that the happy, well-educated person has learned, especially in early years, that there are a few regular things he must do. The idea is to bring these things to pass with the least possible annoyance to all concerned.

Ask, Don't Order

"Dear Dr. Myers: My twenty-month old son has reached that period in his development where his greatest joy is to be my 'little helper.' He is never happier than when helping me with my household tasks. I do my best to foster this spirit because I believe every child should do his part of the work necessary in maintaining his home. But I anticipate the time when this interest will give way to others and when he will choose not to help. According to your articles you advocate never commanding a child to do a thing.

"Does this mean that he will never be expected to assume certain duties that will always be expected of him? If not, how do you recommend handling that transition period between his helping because he wishes to and that when he does so because it is his duty? If so, how is the child to reconcile himself to adult life, or even school life, when he must do as the majority decide, obey laws and fulfil an employer's demands regardless of his own personal wishes?"

Yes, I have often said in this column that, except for routines, I would almost never tell the child under five or six to do anything, and rarely thereafter. Instead, I would ask him and let him choose but I would ask him in such a way and at such a time that he would be likely to accede, I having set the stage for this success for some weeks, months or years.

Regular Procedure

But in routines I would include all such matters as coming in from play or going to bed at a definite regular time, regularly washing the hands and face, hanging up the hat or coat, and so on. After four or five months, I also would include a few definite regular assigned jobs like emptying the waste basket, setting the table, hanging up of the child's night or day clothes, or other definite items of tidying up his own room. Such he could not escape without penalty.

As he grew older a few inescapable routine duties would gradually be added. I should strive to help the child enjoy satisfaction eventually from doing them well and without prompting.

Hitting in Pinches By Oilers And Weird Base-Running By Moon Spells Defeat for Corbys

Shell Squad Takes Second Game of Playoff Series by 6-5 Count

WINNERS OUTHIT

Schrieder and Bawden Slash Homers to Keep Their Team in the Ball Game

Making their extra base hits count into runs, the Shell "Oilers" made it two straight over the Corby's A. C. in the Belleville intermediate "A" O.A.S.A. playdowns at Coleman Flats last evening, when the Oilers counted but six hits to win over the Corbys nine by a 6 to 5 score, after having won the initial contest the evening previous by a 6-4 count. The Oilers have to win but two more games to cinch the series and the right to advance in the O.A.S.A. play-offs, while the Corbys nine face the mountainous task of having to win the next two games to so much as knot the best-in-seven series.

Poor base running on the part of First Baseman Jack Moon spelled defeat for the Corbys on two occasions, as Gerald Barriage's green and red-clad Corbys outfit out-hit the Oilers 12 to six on the night's play, but the winners punched out timely extra base hits, including two circuit blows by Bawden and Schrieder. Twice Moon fell victim of some inexcusable base running, that terminated in double plays being registered against Corbys, when they were rallying.

Tie Score on Homer

Johnnie Bawden hit a home run scoring Henn ahead of him in the third to tie the score after Corbys had scored two in the second on hits by Cy Barriage and St. Louis, with an Oiler error tossed in for good measure. Eddie Schrieder helped his own cause with a circuit blow in the fifth with Rowbotham on the runways, giving the Oilers two runs as the result of two circuit blows. With Henn and Ronsky aboard in the eighth Cole doubled scoring both to account for the final brace of Shell runs. Carson singled and scored on Moon's hit for a Corby run in the fourth, while Reid and St. Louis doubled and Kiser singled to give Corbys their final two counters in the fifth.

Nine Stranded

Eddie Schrieder hurled for the victorious Oilers and was touched for an even dozen hits, while 'Lum' Carson pitched six-hit ball for Corbys and was forced to accept defeat as the result of some poor base running. Corbys left nine stranded on the run-ways as Schrieder was bearing down in the clutches, however.

Besides home runs by Bawden and Schrieder and Cole's timely double, Rowbotham was the only Shell batter to count more than one hit off Carson, as he collected two. Moon with three hits and Kiser and St. Louis with two each paced Corbys as every member of the losing nine counted at least one safety, except Lundberg. Fielding sensations were provided by Reid, Cy Barriage, Jim Barriage, Lundberg and Henn, who handled eight chances without a bobble.

SCORING SPLURGE IN SIXTH GIVES POINT ANNE WIN

Uptown Juniors Defeated in First Game of Semi-Finals for City Title 14-5

HOOK REPLACED

For Five Frames Hook and Luffman Hooked Up in Hurling Duel

A five run scoring splurge in the sixth inning, coming as the result of two walks, an error and three hits on the part of the Point Anne "Cementmen) spelled defeat for the local Juniors in the first game of a three out of five series in the semi-finals of the City Softball League played at Ox-Point last evening. The score was 14-5.

For five innings the game was as pretty a hurling duel as you would wish to see, with Luffman for the Homesters, and Hook for the locals pitching good ball to turn the batters back with regularity. After the fifth, however, Luffman gained the edge over his rival as wildness and errors on the part of the Belleville infield, caused Hook's replacement in the seventh after the damage was done.

Luffman limited the Juniors to seven safeties, including three homers, which incidentally accounted for all the local's runs as Hook clouted a four-bagger and Mansfield went one better to pole out two circuit clouts. Fourteen batters were whiffed by Luffman, who displayed perfect control as he failed to issue a single base on balls. Hook on the other hand was troubled with wildness, although he likewise held the opposition to seven bingles during his sojourn on the mound.

Mansfield with his two homers easily led all the hitters of the night, while Green with a homer and a double ran a close second. Luffman aided his own cause considerably when he clouted a triple with the bases loaded in the fatal sixth.

R. C. Y. C. YACHT EMERGES VICTOR

'Vision' Wins Freeman Cup Race from Sodus Bay to Main Duck Islands and Return

Sodus, N.Y., July 25 (AP)—W. L. Ballentyne's eight-metre "vision" of Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto emerged victor in the Freeman Cup long-distance cruising race of the Lake Yacht Racing Association as the 123-mile contest ended Wednesday at Sodus Bay.

The winning yacht also captured the new Rochester Yacht Club trophy for the best corrected time among the first four competing divisions. A time correction handicap gave her the winning corrected time of 22 hours, seven minutes, 51 seconds.

The Louise Freeman Cup, offered to boats least likely to win the big prize, went to E. V. Snyder's "Win Lassie" of Rochester Yacht Club. This craft is an islander in the one-design class.

Phil Farnham's "Kathea II" of Rochester Yacht Club walked off with the Mabbett Cup for the best time among R-boats, taking the trophy won last year by Newt Castle's "Shadow" of the R.Y.C. the Founders' Cup again went to Peter Grant's large cruiser "White Wings" of Royal Canadian Yacht Club, last year's Freeman Cup and Founders' Cup winner.

A total of 34 yachts started the cross-lake grind, but one dropped out and two had not finished last night, according to Commodore Blake Vanwinckle of Toronto, regatta Secretary.

At 11 a.m. today some 65 yachts, including those in the distance cruise, will get away for the three-day regatta races to be sailed around a nine-mile triangular course in Lake Ontario off Sodus Bay's lighthouse pier.

JERSEY GIANTS TAKE TWIN WIN FROM THE ROYALS

Fans Happier as Squad Pulls Up in Tie for Fourth Place by Double Victory

LEAFS SHUTOUT

Second-Place Newark Bears Gain Full Game on Leaders by Win

By The Associated Press

Jersey City fans who have watched with dismay as the little Giants plunged headlong from second to fifth place in the International League, are in a happier frame of mind today.

After watching their team sweep a doubleheader from the Montreal Royals yesterday, to take the series four games to two, they are satisfied that the club has pulled out of the tailspin, which dropped them 13 games behind the league-leading Rochester Red Wings.

Hy Vandenberg and Roy Henshaw co-starred in the twin-killing, Vandenberg limiting the Royals to seven hits in the 11-inning first game and winning his second straight victory 3-2 and Henshaw hurling four-hit ball to take the nightcap 3-1. Woody Jensen's single to centre scored Sid Gordon from second base to decide the opener.

Giants Still Fourth

The double victory kept Jersey City tied for fourth place with Baltimore Orioles, who took both ends of a double-header from Buffalo Bisons, and boosted them to within two games of the third place Royals.

Italo Chelini pitched and batted the flock to a 5-1 victory in the first game, holding Bisons to seven hits and clouting a three-run homer in the seventh inning, while the Orioles fell on four Buffalo pitchers for 12 hits and a 10-1 victory in the second. Bill Nagel connected for his 21st home run of the season, with the bases loaded, during the eight-run fifth inning of the finals.

Gain Full Game

The second-place Newark Bears gained a full game on the pace-setting Red Wings, beating Toronto 7-0 in a night game, while Rochester was losing 6-5 to Syracuse Chiefs.

Norman Branch yielded only three singles in shutting out Leafs before a crowd of 15,107 at Rupert Stadium. The Bears got the run necessary to win the second inning when Henry Majeski slammed his eighth homer of the year, but added another off Carl Fischer in the fifth and picked up four more in the seventh.

Rochester was winning 5-2 going into the last of the ninth at Syracuse when the Chiefs came to life with a four-run outburst. Hank Gornicki started for the Wings but was removed in the ninth just in time to avoid being charged with the loss. Pep Rambert went the distance for Syracuse, giving up nine hits.

Sports Roundup

New York, July 25.—(AP)—Gene (Junior) Thompson the Reds' right-hander, is on crutches as a result of that squabble with the Dodgers Tuesday night. He will be out for about ten days.

Doug Dean of the Buford (Ga.) team has hit safely in 58 consecutive games and at last reports was still going strong . . . And Bobby Lawrence of the DeKalb (G.) sandlotters has flung himself into the amateur hall of fame by winning five games in six days in an amateur tournament.

Here's an oddity about the Dodgers and Reds who are battling for the National League lead . . . last year the Reds used eight guys in left field . .. So far this year the Brooks have used nine in right. . . . Also, Atley Donald and Steve Sundra, who won 24 games for the Yanks in 1939, have won a grand total of two this season.

Bucky Walters Wins Fifteenth Game of Season by Defeating Dodgers in Night Game 6-3

Cincinnati Reds Now Enjoy Eight-Game Lead Over Brooklyn and Appear 'in'

YANKS OUTSLUGGED

St. Louis Browns Defeat Champions for Second Consecutive Time 14-12

(By Judson Bailey, Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cincinnati Reds look better day by day and twice as good by night.

As they thrashed Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-3, last night for Bucky Walters' 15th victory this season, fans sat back and told their neighbors they were looking at the next world champions.

The Reds never made a fielding error during the three-game series, which they swept with comparative ease to boost their first place margin to eight full games in the National League.

Walters was at the peak of his form in the night game that drew 30,000 paying patrons to Ebbets Field. His teammates scored one run in the first inning and four more in the second, when they drove Tex Carleton off the mound with a triple and four singles. Walters made two of the Reds' 11th hits. He muffled the Dodgers on five safeties until the ninth inning when a single by Joe Medwick and a home run by Dolph Camilli saved Brooklyn from a rout.

In the only other National League game, the Boston Bees beat the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, with Carvell Rowell's triple knocking in the deciding run.

Race Narrowed to Two Teams

While the Reds have been settling the pennant dispute in the National League to all intents and purposes, the American League field has narowed to two teams—Detroit and Cleveland.

Both won yesterday as the junior circuit came up with one of the wildest days in its history.

The Tigers kept half a game in front with a 7-5 decision over Washington Senators that was credited to Fred Hutchinson, their $70,000 rookie. With Hank Greenberg hitting his 18th homer and Pinky Higgins his seventh, Detroit acquired a 7-0 lead only to give back five of it in the sixth and seventh innings. It took some fine relief hurling by Al Benton to pull through the Tigers.

The Indians squeezed past Philadelphia Athletics, 7-6, with Roy Weatherly's two-run homer providing the principal impetus and lefty Al Smith getting credit for his 10th victory, although he lasted only until the sixth.

Chicago White Sox rolled up 20 hits in beating the Boston Red Sox, 12-10, for their sixth successive triumph. Chicago scored six runs in the first inning and intermittently thereafter, but Boston bunched five runs in the sixth. There were six home runs.

The worst debacle was at St. Louis, where the Browns ripped open New York Yankees, 14-12, after the Yanks had tallied six runs in the first frame. The Yanks got four homers, including one by Bill Dickey with the bases loaded and another by Joe DiMaggio, that extended his hitting streak to 17 games.

The Browns kept digging away for 17 hits off six New York pitchers, took a 12-10 lead in the seventh and after the Yanks tied the score in the ninth, Walter Judnich hit a homer with one on in the last half of the inning to win.

Altogether, the four games in the American League brought into action 30 pitchers, who gave up 111 hits and 73 runs.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Walter Judnich, Browns— Made five hits, one of them two-run homer in ninth inning, to beat Yankees.

Joe Kuhel, White Sox—Hit home run, double and two singles toward triumph over Red Sox.

WON IN NINTH

Winning Squad Punches Home Four Counters in Ninth Due to Heavy Hitting

Chuck Barnett's youthful Zeller's softball squad proved themselves opportunists on the Armouries lawn last night, and not only broke up a thrilling ball game but by virtue of some timely ninth inning slugging got a stranglehold on the first of a series of semi-final Ladies' City League playoffs by defeating the hard-hitting Corbins team by a 19-17 score.

The white-clad Zels were three runs down going into the last half of the ninth, but they pounced on Anderson's offerings to fill the bases, took advantage of relief hurler Marsh's wildness to send two runners scampering across the plate and galloped home with the winning counter after Garrow's solid smash to right field. None were out when the winning run was scored.

The game was a see-saw exhibition throughout with the score being tied on three separate occasions. Corbins held a five run lead in the sixth but the white-clad youngsters came back with five to tie it up.

The pastime was a free-hitting affair with the sluggers of both squads showing no mercy. Twenty-three hits including three homers rattled off the war-bludgeons of the winners with Corbin bats accounting for nineteen safeties which had a brace of four-baggers included.

Hits Well Scattered

Adams, Zeller's hurler, kept the opposition's hits well scattered with the exception of the first. Anderson, Corbin's chucker went well except in the fifth when the Zels got to her for five runs, and in the ninth, when she filled the bases with none out. Marsh relieved her, but the Zellers bats and her own wildness cost her the ball-game.

Garrow's mighty smash to the right of the post office was the best hit of the ball game. She also got herself a couple of singles while Colden and Adams helped the cause with round-trippers. Moore's right fielding was a treat to watch, with Hunter doing a good job in centre.

Archer and Blake contributed four-sackers to the loser's cause with Marsh getting two triples and a single. Archer's shortstop fielding was a highlight of the pastime.

The first game of the second semi-final series between Vikings and the K-Nines will be played on Friday night at the East Belleville playgrounds.

Score by innings:
Zeller's 2 2 5 1 0 3 0 2 4 x—19 23 5
Corbins 4 3 2 2 1 0 1 2 3 —18 19 7

Walter Mathews, who is 90 years young and still enjoying good health in his adopted home at Oakland, Cal., says the modern ball game doesn't appeal to the public as did the game when he played it 70 years ago. "The game seems too monotonous now. Everything is so automatic and players are becoming so perfect they seldom make errors," lamented Mr. Mathews as he reminisced in a news story recently. The near centenarian recalls the day he scored 14 runs against the immortal Cincinnati Red Stockings, the first professional baseball team in the world. After analyzing Mr. Mathew's views in the matter, it might be applicable to the diamond situation right here in Belleville. When the C.O.B.L. first operated and errors were frequent the fans got a much greater kick out of the game than when imports came along and fielding became more proficient.. The same thing holds good in local softball circles, as there was more interest when the game was played for the game's sake and not so much for commercial and the urge to win regardless as to the game itself.

Harold Bawden's Shell "Oilers" took a strangle hold on the city O.A.S.A. playdowns by beating Corbys 6-5 last night, but as was the case in the initial contest the losers practically presented the ultimate verdict to the Oilers. On Tuesday night it was a case of too many errors on the part of Corbys, while last night it was downright carelessness in base running on the part of Jack Moon, Corby's first baseman, that resulted in several sure-fire Corby runs being nipped, when double plays resulted from Moon's dismal efforts on the runways. Corbys touched Eddie Schrieder for 12 hits, one got on as the result of a walk and three on fielders' choices, giving Corbys 16 men reaching first base. The sympathy of the unbiased sport fans was extended to 'Lum' Carson, who limited the Oilers to six hits, but Schrieder hurled steady ball in the clutches to win. Home runs by Bawden and Schrieder and a double by Art Cole gave Shell all of their counters. Actually Corbys should have passed Cole with two on and two out in the eighth. While all of this was going on Point Anne beat the Uptown Juniors 14 to 5 in the City League semi-finals. Incidentally this evening's Shell-Corby game has been postponed until Saturday night.

Rallying in the ninth to come from behind, Chuck Barnett's Big-Z lassies eked out a 19 to 18 win over the Corbin "lockmakers" in the first play-off game in the Ladies' Softball loop last night. It was a nip-and-tuck contest all of the way with the score being tied on numerous occasions. Marion Anderson ascended the mound for Corbins, after pitching them into the play-off the night previous. The task proved too great and Miss Anderson gave over to Betty Marsh, whose wildness in no way helped Barney Smith's charges cause. Several circuit blows were seen during the game, but Helen Garrow's long smash out into Pinnacle Street was undoubtedly the longest hit seen at the armouries this season. The girls' loop softball play-offs, for the remainder of the season, will be played at the East Belleville playgrounds, commencing with Vikings versus Kresges on Friday night. The change of venue for these games was made necessary owing to military activities at the armouries.

Outfielder Bob Seeds of the New York Giants, who owns the Amarillo club of the West Texas-New Mexico League, took advantage of the All-Star lull in the majors by making a round-trip, via airplane, to look over his minor proteges. Manager Bill Terry, on giving Bob permission to make the trip said: "One reason I'm letting you go on this trip is that maybe you can find us some pitchers in that league."

On departing to rejoin the Giants, Seeds was instructed by his wife, who handles the affairs of the Amarillo club as business manager: "Be sure to send us some pitchers."

"There appears to be much concern in major league circles regarding the persistent reports that James A. Farley, postmaster general will head a syndicate that will purchase the New York Yankees and their farm system for $4,000,000," writes Edward B. Cochrane, sports editor of the Chicago Herald-American. "Concern because other magnates of the big circuits are smart enough to welcome into their fold with open arms a man like the celebrated chairman of the National Democratic Committee. It will be a great thing for the game, the Yanks and their minor league clubs and for Gen. Farley, if it is true that he will become head of that baseball organization. He is a great organizer and executive, who has run one of the most important departments of the federal government, probably more efficiently than it has ever been run before."

SPORT SPICE—We understand that Ex-Mayor George Tice caught himself a fine 28-pound maskinlonge from the waters of the Trent River yesterday. . . . However, George is guarding well the secret of his new angling grounds. . . . Softball in other places as well as Belleville is beginning to feel the pinch of military training. . . . Baseball is played in the afternoon, so if the boys really want to play softball for the love of the game they could play at 5.00 p.m. or earlier, if necessary. . . . Detroit's $70,000 pitching asset, Freddie Hutchinson, who has been in the minors for some weeks at his own request,, returned to the Tigers' line-up to chalk up a win yesterday. . . . It begins to look as though the reign of the Yankees is over—imagine the Bronx Bombers losing a slugfest. . . . Well the lowly Browns out-slugged 'em yesterday, gathering 17 to the Yanks' eleven safeties. Those softball boys from Wooler possess what it takes when play-off time roles around each year. . . . Last night they beat the Do-nuts in the Trenton loop playdowns. . . . Goalie Wilf Cude, who has worn many different hockey uniforms, is now wearing a Royal Montreal Regiment uniform. . . . Which reminds us that "Lum" Carson, pitching-coach of local softball circles, was accepted into the 47th Battery yesterday.

HUMMING-BIRD'S NEST IS FOUND

A rarity in bird-life was discovered the other day by George Godden of Campbellford. It was the tiny nest of a humming-bird, something rarely seen by human eyes. Fabricated from the softest down, the nest was about one and one-half inches in outside diameter. Its camouflage was almost perfect as it lay nestled in the crotch of two small branches of an apple tree.

Hundreds Sport on Beaches, Water Alive With Laughing Kiddies

Fat and Thin Folk Swelter in Humidity — Crowds in Motors Linger Along Bay Bridge Road and Shores of Bay

"It aint the 'eat", the cockney remarked, "it's the bloomin' 'umility". He was right. For the third successive day Belleville sweltered in humid atmospheres with the thermometer playing high jinks around the 83 mark.

As one corpulent gent remarked "It is h—— for the fat men". Rivulets of perspiration ran down double chins and cascaded in miniature rainpipe style on heaving chests. Neckties gained a respite and open necked shirts were in demand. Handkerchiefs were at a premium and the weekly laundry will boast hundred of the little white squares.

Nor did milady fare much better. The gals forgot in the most part to wear stockings and shorts and roomy slacks took the place of conventional dresses. Stenographers and other office workers sought the cooler places near windows, and some took advantage of the bosses' sudden golfing tendency to utilize his fans.

Youngsters Sleep in Park

Householders and apartment-dwellers likewise felt humid touch of the weather man and many sought the comparatively cooler spots near the bay. A group of youngsters took blankets and slept in Victoria Park. Long queues of breeze-seeking motorists lined the Bay Bridge and roads adjacent to the water. Long after midnight parked cars holding family groups, and others availed themselves of the somewhat cooler atmosphere in proximity to the water.

The Belleville beaches proved the mecca for hundreds of perspiring grownups and children. The water was alive with laughing children while more sedate adults lounged in bathing suits and light apparel in the shade of trees or cars.

Picnics became suddenly popular. Although the butter was soft and the salt damp, the ants active and the flies hungry, many families changed to these discomforts for the sultry humidity of apartment and house kitchens.

Brief Thunderstorms

A brief thunderstorm accompanied by rain brought a semi-respite this morning. After the shower a slight breeze, cooler than heretofore experienced zephyred in from the west.

However, the bloke that controls the weather says that the warm "spell" will continue and the coming week-end will see more humidity and heat.

Mrs. Lucy Grey, Trenton, Seriously Hurt in Collision

Taken to Belleville Hospital and Ten Stitches Required to Close Wound

WOOLER ADVANCES

Trenton, July 25. —(Special)— Seriously injured in an accident five miles west of here late last night, Mrs. Lucy Grey, 40 West Street, Trenton, was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital, early this morning. She suffered a severe scalp wound, that took ten stitches to close and shock.

The injured lady was a passenger in an automobile driven by her husband, Harry Grey. The car was proceeding slowly in an easterly direction on Highway No. 2, on account of a mechanical defect, when a Labatt's truck driven by Thomas H. Leslie, London, collided with the rear of the car. Both car and truck were badly damaged in the collision.

Mrs. E. Vanderberg, of Trenton, suffered lacerations of the face and head while her daughter, Anna aged 8, escaped injury. Both were passengers in the Grey automobile.

Constable D. Adair who investigated the accident stated, that no charges would be laid.

New Recruiting Stations

Recruiting stations were established yesterday at Stirling and Frankford, by Major Angus Mowat, Officer Commanding the Headquarters Company of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Second Battalion.

Separate platoons will be recruited at each place and will be connected with Headquarters Company. Second Lieutenant S. P. LaFontaine, of Frankford, will command the Frankford Platoon and Second Lieutenant Fred Houchin will command the one in Stirling.

Thirty-five men will be recruited at each place by the two officers. Training will be held separately with the aid of Company Quarter Master Sergeant G. Trounce and Company Sergeant Major McCoy, both of Headquarters Company.

The second drill of the recruits of the Headquarters Company was held here last night and considerable progress was made in marching and in other elementary military manoeuvres.

Lt.-Col. B. C. Donnan, Officer Commanding the Regiment, made his first appearance before the recruits last night and expressed his appreciation of the fine performance of the men.

"I am greatly surprised and delighted with your performance tonight", stated Lt.-Col. Donnan. "You men have answered the call of your country and I am sure you will do your best to make yourselves excellent soldiers. You have the honour of a fine regiment to uphold and I am sure you will do so".

During the drill, Lt.-Col. Donnan took over command and put the men through a number of movements in order to watch them on parade.

Company Quarter Master Sergeant G. Trounce lectured the recruits on the elementary movements and on the necessity of paying strict attention to their officers.

Courses for N.C.O.'s will be held every Thursday evening and Saturday afternoon, according to an announcement made by Major Mowat, last night. The courses will be purely voluntary and those wishing to take the courses will have to attend the classes at least one night a week.

Continues Winning Streak

Wooler continued its winning streak here last night, by defeating the Canadian Doughnuts 8 to 7 in a closely fought game. The win placed the Wooler team on up on their opponents in a two-out-of-three series for the right to continue in the finals of the Trenton District Softball League, against the R.C.A.F. Flyers.

Bo Burtt, who started on the mound for the losers turned in an exceptional performance for the first four frames by striking out ten of the opposing batters. However, in the fifth he blew up and five runs had crossed the plate before he was relieved by his brother, Cliff Burtt. The latter pitcher turned the heavy-hitting Woolerites back by allowing them only four hits, during the remaining four frames.

Stacey, hurling for the Wooler team, pitched steady ball throughout, although he gave up eight hits, most of them were well-scattered.

The Doughnuts took the lead in the first frame and were four runs up on their opponents by the fifth frame but the Wooler team started on the comeback trail and collected five runs in the fifth and two in the sixth to take the lead, which they held throughout the remainder of the game.

McCall with a homer in the fifth and three singles and Stacey with a homer in the fifth and two singles were the best at bat for the winners. Heaney with a homer and one single was the best for the losers.

May Lose Seniority

Town officials are chuckling over a letter received from a relief recipient who was recently cut off the relief rolls because of the new regulations set down by the Provincial Government.

The ex-reliefee was quite indignant about the whole thing and informs the officials that they can't do that to him. For eleven years this man has been receiving relief and now that he is cut off the rolls, he is sure that he will lose his seniority.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 25—(CP) — The firm tone persisted through the early hours on the Toronto Exchange with volume again dragging and only 46,000 shares changed hands in the first three hours. All four indices showed slight gains at noon.

Canadian Breweries firmed 5c to $1.20 and the prefered was off 5-8 to 23 3-4. Liquor stocks held steady along with the Foods, Steels, Banks and Utilities. A loss of a point to 38 for National Steel Car was the main change in the heavy industrial group.

Cariboo, McIntyre, Macassa and Broulan were gold group gainers and in the base metal list Noranda led with a fractional gain to 49.

Western Oils were as dull as other groups. Home Oil firmed 2c to $1.62 and South End Pete was down a fraction to 2 1-4. The bid for Royalite was lower.

WALL STREET

New York, July 25.—(AP)—Leading stocks again failed to make much headway today in another dawdling market. Minor fractional declines ruled near the fourth hour.

WILL BE CALLED UPON TO TAKE TRAINING

Ottawa, July 25.—(CP)—Young men who have been approved for enlistment in the Royal Canadian Air Force but are awaiting call will still be called upon to undergo military training under the general scheme, Air Minister Power said today.

His "own view" he said, was that this training would not do them any harm, even though they eventually would be called up by the R.C.A.F.

Mark Senn (Con. Haldimand) raised the point. Mr. Power added that the fact an application had been accepted did not prevent the applicant joining any other branch of the service.

Hog Quotations

ASST. SECRETARY OF WAR RESIGNS

Robert Porter Anderson Judge of Court of Appeals, Appointed in His Stead

Washington, July 25 (AP)— The White House announced today the resignation of Louis Johnson as Assistant Secretary of War and the nomination of Robert Porter Paterson of New York, Judge of the Second United States Circuit Court of Appeals, as his successor.

Stephen Early, Presidential Secretary, told reporters that "since time immortal," a cabinet officer has had the right to select his Assistant Secretary and that Henry L. Stimson, new Secretary of War, had asked the President to name Patterson.

Early said Johnson had resigned yesterday and flown to Bohmian Grove, near San Francisco.

As soon as President Roosevelt can get around to it, Early said, he will wire Johnson an acceptance to his resignation and "advise him that he is confidently expecting him, as soon as he has had a rest, to return to Washington for continued service with the government."

CHANGE WORKING HOURS

London, July 25.—(CP)— Supply Minister Herbert Morrison is planning a gradual reduction of war factory hours from the intense seven-day speed-up initiated May 10.

Some munitions workers have failed to show up for work because of "undue exhaustion" and their hours are being adjusted, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin told the House of Commons.

Picton and District

Picton — It was announced yesterday, that beginning next week, Magistrate's Court would be held in Picton every Tuesday instead of Wednesdays as in the past. This is to permit Magistrate R. J. Garvin of Kingston to more easily cover the larger territory which he has recently been given.

The very warm weather on Wednesday saw the town practically deserted with crowds heading for the beaches. Swimming was very popular and many stayed until the cool of the evening.

A merry-go-round and ferris wheel were the chief attractions for the crowd which gathered at the fair grounds Wednesday night. An amusement company arrived here for a four days stay, under the sponsorship of Picton Post Canadian Legion, who are raising funds to carry on their recreation room for the soldiers here.

Dr. G. W. Morden of Napanee is visiting friends in town for a time.

Capt. W. A. Davern of Wellington, who is officer commanding of "D" Company, Second Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, being recruited at Wellington, addressed a recruiting meeting at Consecon hall Wednesday night. He explained the plan of training and as a result many of the young men present signed for service. This company has around two hundred men signed and this is believed to be the best record of any company in the second battalion. The Picton Company, "C" held its first drill Tuesday night with sixty men present. Several were detailed for N.C.O. courses. They were taught elementary drills Due to the busy season on farms, not very many men from the rural areas have signed up yet but it is expected that they will volunteer as soon as the rush is over.

Grounds Being Levelled

The grounds on the mountain at the rear of the town which are being cleared for a gunnery and bombing school, is the scene of much activity and attracting crowds. Huge caterpillar tractors crash against the trees and pull them out by the roots. A large number of men have come here seeking work but preference is being given local men. Farmers complain that their help is leaving them in order to get this more lucrative employment as forty cents an hour is paid.

No Trace of Body

In spite of the fact, that search has been carried on since Sunday no trace of the body of George Markland who was drowned Sunday, has been found in the bay, up to last night. A drag net was made locally and 150 feet of rope is used as the water is very deep. Boats from the fish hatchery have been aiding in the search. It was about the same spot that E. R. Penrose, Collegiate teacher here, and Elmo Strawbridge, local youth, were drowned six years ago, when their sailing craft upset Penrose was found dead clinging to the overturned boat and Strawbridge's body was not found for over a week. The water is very cold at present and searchers believe they will have to wait for the body to come to the surface

MAN OVERCOME BY PAINT FUMES

Burt Cornell Working on Inside of Steel Tank When Incapacitated

Tweed, (Special)—While engaged in painting the inside of a large steel tank at Tweed Steel Works on Wednesday morning, Bert Cornell was overcome with fumes from the paint. He was removed from the tank through a man-hole in an unconscious condition. It was with considerable difficulty that his rescue was effected owing to the size of the opening. Medical assistance was at once secured but some time elapsed before Cornell recovered consciousness. He was taken to his home where he is resting comfortably.

54 Recruits Signed

Recruiting for the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Non-Permanent Active Militia of Canada, opened in Tweed on Tuesday night, at Tweed Arena. Capt. Newell Broad M.C., administered the oath to 54 recruits who had signed their application papers. He paraded the men on the floor of the Arena and complimented them on their enthusiastic response to the call for Home Defence service. He explained the purposes of the training and answered various questions put forward by the men. Capt. Broad was accompanied by Sgt. Murdock, who will assist in the training of the men.

Part of the training will be done at camp which will be held for twelve days beginning about August 25th. The remainder of the training will be carried on locally during parades held in the evening so that the military duties will not conflict with the regular employment of the civilians.

Part of "B" Company

The local group will be part of "B" Company of the Second Battalion with regimental headquarters at Madoc under Lt.-Col B. C. Donnan. Capt. Newell Broad will be in command of the Company. "A" Company at Bancroft is commanded by Major H. L. Babcock; "C" Company will be at Picton, under Capt. W. N. Grothier; "D" Company at Wellington under Capt. W. Davern; and Headquarters company at Trenton under the command of Major Angus Mowat. All the officers and non-commissioned officers saw active service in the Great War.

On Tuesday night, Dr. Fred Nickle of Eldorado, Medical Officer of the unit, examined a number of the men who wish to join the unit. 30,000 Germans Living in Lithuania Will be Repatriated

Berlin, July 25—(AP)— Thirty thousand Germans living in Lithuania now occupied by Russian troops, will be repatriated, it was reported today by the authoritative commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland. Germans in Estonia and Latvia were brought home to the Reich months ago.

The semi-official service said a commission now arranging for transfer of 110,000 Germans from Bucovina and Bessarabia would arrange the transfer from Lithuania, which, with Latvia and Estonia, petitioned for incorporation in the Soviet Union.

9 Black Cats Help Pirates to Win

Hutchinson, Kas., July 25—(AP) —Hutchinson's Pirates bought nine black cats from nine fans for $9 and ended their string of Western Association losses at nine games. Manager Buzz Arlitt scatted one of the cats toward Joplin's pitcher, Johnny Orr in the first inning — then drove in two runs. In the ninth with the score 11-all two out and a runner on first, Arlitt and his cat strolled to the plate again. His triple broke up the ball game.

Mauch Chunk, Pa., July 25—The Rev. A. C. Planz told friends today how his home-town newspaper served as identification. Britain Seeks Way To Plug Gap in Blockade of Reich

Nazis Have Direct Land Routes Across France to Spain Giving Her Use of Ports, Which Before Fall of France, Were Useless

U.S. STOPS SHIPMENT

Two Tankers Bound from Texas to Spanish Port Loaded With 200,000 Barrels of Oil Held Up by U. S. Gov't. — German Raiders Kept Away from Coast

London, July 25—(CP)—Britain has taken steps to halt oil shipments to Germany through Fascist Spain, thereby plugging a troublesome new gap in her blockade of the Reich, it was reported today.

Just what measures have been adopted were expected to be described to the House of Commons this afternoon in an "important statement" by Hugh Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare.

Britain's blockade sprang leaks with the fall of France, and one of the most important threats to Britain was the flow of oil, lifeblood of modern mechanized war, through General Francisci Franco's phalagist Spain.

There now are direct land routes from Germany across France to Spain, giving Germany indirect use of innumerable Spanish ports which before the fall of France were useless to her.

The well-informed Financial Times said today in discussing the problem:

"The British Government has been reviewing its blockade policy following the collapse of France. Spain is regarded as one of the weaknesses in the position, and the government has taken note of the extent to which that country has been building up oil stocks while supplying a good deal to Germany.

"The British Government will want definite assurances from Spain that oil supplies do not go to Germany. The Government does not object to Spain obtaining essential supplies up to the limit of her pre-civil war requirements."

Shipment Stopped

(An authoritative Federal source in Washington said the United States Government had stopped oil shipments to Spain, indicating a virtual embargo against such supplies which might reach Germany or Italy through an intermediary. The Maritime Commission halted the sailing of two tankers bound from a Texas port for Spain with 200,000 barrels of oil.)

It was assumed Mr. Dalton would refer also to an agreement concluded Tuesday among Britain, Spain and Portugal to dispose of more colonial products. The British agreed payments should be made through the British-Spanish clearing system.

German air raiders kept away from Britain's island fortress last night for the second night since they began large-scale daily bombings June 18, but came back after dawn with two attempted attacks on ships in convoy in the North Sea not far off the coast.

Driven Out to Sea

The ships and escorting vessels fired heavily and drove off both attacks without loss. Royal Air Force fighters drove the raiders out to sea.

Last night's lull followed a day of widespread attacks on ships and shipping routes. Twelve raiders, including one American-made bomber the Germans seized from the French, were known to have been blasted out of the sky by British fighters and anti-aircraft guns, the Government announced.

The second American-made plane was damaged by British Spitfires. These were the first such craft reported put in battle by the Germans. They were described as Chance Vought 156 dive bombers.

(This type of craft is listed by Jane's "All The World's Aircraft," an authoritative manual, as an export model of a United States navy plane. The Chance Vought Corporation now is a part of the Vought-Sikorsky division of United Aircraft Corporation of Stratford, Conn. The 156 is a low-wing monoplane carrying a pilot and gunner with machine-gun armament and bomb packs. It is described as "same as the standard U.S. navy model, with certain exclusive U.S. navy features removed.")

Britain also reported that the Germans for the first time used a rubber dinghy in a Messerschmitt 109, the dinghy and the pilot falling out of a stricken plane at the same time. The pilot parachuted to the sea and last was seen swimming toward the dinghy.

Review Losses

The Admiralty, in a review announced last night, said that since the start of the war Britain had lost one battleship, two aircraft carriers, three cruisers, four armed merchant cruisers, 26 destoyers, 11 submarines, 11 small naval vessels such as sloop and gunboats, and 61 small auxiliay craft.

This toll conformed to previously-announced sinkings. Although names were not given last night, the battleship was the 29,150-ton Royal Oak; the aircraft carriers, the 22,500-ton vessels Courageous and Glorious; and the cruisers, probably the 9,550-ton Effingham, the 4,290—ton Curlew and the 4,180-ton Calypso.

Washington, July 25—(AP)—Government stoppage of oil shipments to Spain in American tankers, an authoritative Federal source said today, indicates a virtual embargo against fuel or lubricant supplies which might reach Germany or Italy through an intermediary.

The stoppage became known officially when the Maritime Commission disclosed that a few days ago it had halted the sailing of two tankers, bound from a Texas port for Spain with 200,000 barrels of oil.

"A policy of restricting charter approvals to trips mostly within the western hemisphere has been adopted by the commission," an official explained. "This action was taken because the commission thought it dangerous to allow American ships to go so near belligerent activity."

The official said that the commission adopted the general policy without being asked to do so by the White House or State Department. He said foreign tankers were not affected.

An authoritative source elsewhere however, said that the embargo was directed against potential go-betweens for the axis powers or Japan, and that it was being applied under the recent presidential proclamation authorizing the treasury department to impose shipping controls.

pilot strove desperately but in vain for a safe landing.

"It seemed to me and my mals that it was coming straight for us and we threw ourselves into a hedge," said one spectator. "The plane hit a low brick wall and ploughed across the field where we had been standing. It burst quickly into flames and I saw one German throw his comrade out. The man had a broken leg.

"The pilot burned to death. A third member of the crew who was uninjured was seized by soldiers. This fellow had a package of English cigarettes in his pocket."

Thin Trail of White Smoke

Ten minutes before the appearance of the bombers, a solitary plane, flying so high that it was invisible, left a thin trail of white smoke.

When it turned tail for France, eight Junkers 87's swept from the clouds, cutting loose with bombs which kicked up huge geysers of water. A heavy smoke pall hung over the water sprays, forming a multi-colored display in the bright sun.

Series of Dogfights

R. A. F. fighters roared to the challenge and a series of dogfights broke out. A strong force of British craft pursued the German bombers to the French coast while other British planes engaged in a free-for-all with the strong force of German escort ships.

Watchers along the southeast coast said the bombers kept coming relentlessly despite the anti-aircraft fire which rocked the earth for miles around. The bombers split into three groups, each keeping in formation as best it could. The first group attacked the British ships hovering near the shore. The second and third blasted away at land objectives from which rose spirals of thick, brown smoke.

Curtain of Fire

Later another formation of 15 German planes, apparently fighters, flew in from the channel. They were strung out in a long line, one after the other. Ground defences set up a curtain of fire and R.A.F. fighters took to the air to chase them back across the channel.

Sank in Four Minutes

"It was torpedoed by a motorboat at 10.30 last night. Passengers and crew were given five minutes to take to the boats but each time she tried to signal her name she was again fired on and sank in four or five minutes."

It was reported that about 1,000 men were saved.

"I have just heard the German high command admit responsibility for this sinking," said Mr. Alexander. "Their communique today states that in an attack off the south coast of England one of their speedboats off Portland sank a large enemy merchant ship of 18,000 tons by torpedo."

Mr. Alexander said the Meknes was one of a number of ships used in accordance with the terms of the French-German armistice and French Government representatives had been informed in advance of Britain's intention to repatriate the men in French ships.

The Meknes left Southampton Wednesday for Marseille.

Precautions Taken

"Precautions were taken to make her neutral character apparent," Mr. Alexander emphasized.

"She was flying the French flag and the French colors were vividly painted on her deck and sides. At night the ship was fully illuminated, her navigation lights burning."

After the 6,127-ton vessel had been attacked, Mr. Alexander said British naval units and aircraft sped to the rescue.

OFFICIAL HONORS GIVEN FAMILY

Prince of Luxembourg and Six Children Are to be Welcomed by U. S. Officials

Washington, July 25—(AP)—Full official honors were ordered today for seven refugee members of the Royal Family of Luxembourg on their arrival at Annapolis aboard the United States cruiser Trenton.

Joseph E. Davies, former Minister to the tiny Duchy, was assigned to meet them, along with other representatives of the United States State and Navy Departments.

A motor trip to Washington for luncheon with President Roosevelt was on the day's program for Prince Felix of Bourbon-Parma and his six children, before their departure for an indefinite stay at Davies' Long Island, N.Y., home.

The Prince is husband of Grand Duchess Charlotte, ruler of the state overrun by German troops at the start of the May invasion of the lowlands and France. The Grand Duchess remained in Europe when the Prince sailed with their children from Lisbon on July 15.

The children range in age downward from 19-year-old Grand Duke Jean to Prince Alix, 10. The others are Prince Charles, 12, and the Princesses Elizabeth, 17, Marie-Adelaide, 16, and Marie-Gabrielle, 15.

Britons Heartened By Assurance of Lord Beaverbrook

London, July 25—(CP)— Britain was heartened today by assurance of its Minister of Aircraft production that help on a huge scale would be forthcoming soon from United States manufacturers of planes.

Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born peer, told the nation last night in a radio address that he had just received information from Morris Wilson, agent of the Aircraft Ministry in Canada and the United States, that the United States government would approve a plan under which Britain could purchase up to 3,000 planes a month.

"These plans," Lord Beaverbrook said, "will be developed without delay."

The Minister added his department had 12,115 American airplane engines which will be placed into British aircraft.

He emphasized, while lauding American manufacturers, that "our real source of supply depends as always on our home production. Here we are doing better every day compared with last year. The week just out was a record production and the month of July output of aircraft and engines is more than double the output of last July."

The Minister pledged the support of the aircraft industry in the national effort and said it would show once more "in our magnificent history the same resources that built and equipped the ships that won the freedom of the seas."

"If we are put to trial by fire, we think we can demonstrate that the workers in the aircraft industry will not fail you. At our posts we will stay, at our duty we will stand, at our benches we will meet and defeat the enemy."

'Conchies' Find Councils Are Less Leniently Disposed

Many Councils, Which Formerly Had No Objection to Keeping Them in Employ, Have Reversed Decision

London, July 25—(CP) — Conscientious objectors working for city and town councils have found their employers less leniently disposed towards them since Germany launched her blitzkrieg in western Europe.

Many councils which earlier in the war had no objections to keeping "conchies" in their employ have since reversed their decision. Swansea borough is one of them.

It had previously rejected a motion to suspend "for the duration" those members of the staff with conscientious objections, and those belonging to the Peace Pledge Union or whose opinions were opposed to the national war effort.

The question was raised again. And while the council met wives and mothers of soldiers, sailors and airmen massed around the Guildhall. They came in response to a request by the local branch of the British Legion. The resolution, formerly defeated by 23 votes to 20, was carried 33 to 12.

Northampton Town Council came to a novel decision. It decided to terminate the services of "conchies" and to re-engage them, if they wished, for the duration of the war at soldiers' pay plus a billetting allowance not exceeding $4.50 weekly.

Gloucester City Council, an exception to the general trend, rejected a motion to fire "conchies."

FISH CATCH REPORTED

Halifax, July 25—(CP)—Decrease quantityof 15,715,300 pounds is the total quantity of all fish landed and of $321,632 in its landed value as compared with the same month last year was reported today for June, 1940, by the Eastern Fisheries Division, Department of Fisheries.

Total quantity of all fish landed during the month was 63,822,000 pounds with a landed value of $1,073,910.

KINGSTON MAN HELD FOR THEFT

Police Allege G. S. MacCauley, Wireless Operator in R.C.A.F. School, Stole Articles from Fellow Students

Montreal, July 25—(CP)— Gordon C. MacCauley, 22-year-old wireless operator of Kingston, Ont., was arrested last night on charges of stealing money and personal belongings from fellow Royal Canadian Air Force students at the No. 1 wireless school here.

Police said they estimated that about $3,000 in money and articles had been stolen from students. According to a complaint laid by Sgt. D. H. Gordon, Provost-Sergeant at the school, the thefts were committed over a period of three months.

MacCauley, who was discharged from the school prior to arrival of police, jumped from a second storey window at the barracks, and was taken into custody after a chase during the height of an electrical storm.

Detective-Sergeant Armand Sylvestre said that a quantity of personal belongings valued at about $500 were found in MacCauley's automobile. Police also found a number of tickets of a Toronto pawn broker, but there was no trace of money which students said had been taken over a period of several months.

Between 75 and 100 students at the school had reported theft of money and personal articles.

Detective-Sergeant Sylvestre said he fired three shots into the air during the chase, in an effort to make MacCauley stop.

Rising Prices Of Meats, Rental, Coal Subject of Complaint

Ottawa, July 25—(CP)—The Wartime Prices and Trade Board reported Wednesday numerous complaints have been received on rising prices of meat, rentals and coal.

It was indicated that an inquiry into the subject was underway, although it was emphasized the Board cannot interfere in any way with the price of primary products on the farm.

A recent chart showed the increased price of steers on the hoof had gone up. The cost of dressed and retail meat immediately responded upwards. Prices vary in this line but the increase in price of most of them is about three cents per pound.

Because of the increased price of meat, Canada is finding difficulty in filling the Canadian export quota of live cattle to the United States. Bacon prices are maintained because of troop demand.

Complaints on the costs of rentals came mostly from points where there is a large transference of officer personnel, particularly in Ottawa, Kingston, Barrie and Halifax.

SENATOR NEIGHEN

Senator Dandurand, replying to Senator Meighen's question whether an afternoon could be taken for further debate on the subject said he was "always glad" to meet his honorable friend.

Editorial Referred to

Senator Meighen said his attention had been drawn to the article by an editorial in the Kingston (Ont.) Whig-Standard, "A journal which incidentally is more whig than standard."

"The Whig-Standard says that this is a slighting reference to the British intelligence and initiative, the superior and contemptuous tone of the writing are offensive and insidious propaganda of a dangerous and defeatist kind. Every word of that is true."

He quoted from the story and also read the Whig-Standard editorial. Senator Meighen thought the government acted in good faith in not banning the magazine but was sure they were in error.

Senator Hugessen said he was grieved, in view of the great position Senator Meighen occupied, that the Conservative Leader "should have made that story the basis of what I consider to be a totally unmerited attack upon the journal in which the story appears."

WATER SEEPING INTO SHIP

Cardinal, Ont., July 25—(CP) — It was reported here today water is seeping into the engine room of the British American Oil Company tanker, Britamolene, stranded on rocks in the Galoup Rapids, a short distance west of the entrance to the upper locks. The Pyke Salvage Company, Kingston, has lines to the vessel, aground since Monday morning, from the canal bank and an island nearby.

Trenches were being dug this morning in which to sink heavy timbers for anchors of the lines. It was expected an effort would be made late today to pull the craft from the rocks.

FIRE LOSS SHOWS INCREASE

Toronto, July 25 — (CP) — The Monetary Times reported today the fire loss in Canada for the week ending July 20 was $149,940, compared with $464,150 for the corresponding week of 1939. The cumulative total from Jan. 1 to July 20 was $8,761,960, a slight decrease from the total of $8,935,000 for the corresponding period of 1939.

SHINING WINDOWS

by Kathleen Norris

INSTALMENT 16.

Ben, looking red-eyed and sleepy, was having breakfast at the end of the kitchen table; Sally was busy between stove and sink; William Ballard was sitting awaiting his noon-time meal and Michael was plucking chickens.

Joyce drank her coffee thoughtfully. Once her eyes went to Michael's and she found him looking at her; Joyce's color came up hotly, but they both only smiled faintly, and nothing was said of the previous night's entertainment except what Joyce's mother and father could safely hear. Ben was somewhat noncommittal on the subject too. Late that day he went down to see Bootsy.

Bootsy had telephoned him about two o'clock; she had been working in "The Dime" since nine, but she sounded fresh and gay. It was Saturday; she would be on duty until six, but then why didn't Ben come get her and they would go out to "momma's". Momma had won on a raffle and had taken home last night a great roasted turkey and Bootsy and her friends proposed to make merry that evening.

Bootsy Florence, eighteen and beautiful and good, had but one weakness. She was affectionate. She loved Poppa and Momma and her two brothers and her three beautiful married sisters; she loved her little nieces and nephews, she had loved all her teachers, she loved every one in the store, she loved puppies, kittens, canaries, colts and calves. When she talked of her love for them she always cried, and she always cried at funerals, weddings and movies.

When she saw Ben arrive at the barn dance, fire blazed up in Bootsy, and her senses sang, and the world rocked beneath her pink satin slippers. If she was always beautiful—for the too gold hair and the too blue eyes and too pink cheeks that Joyce had criticized were unaided by artifice—she was more than ordinary beautiful when Ben came up for a dance. It had been a flattering surprise to him, the complete surrender of this really exquisite creature to his arms, and later on to his kisses; he had felt quite honestly that night that he was half in love with simple little Bootsy Florence, and when he went down to get her after store hours on the cold dark afternoon that followed, their meeting was that of lovers; laughing, ecstatic, confident.

Bootsy's mother was a stout plain florid woman who spoke in country fashion. Her father was crippled; the old "Cap'n" never left his chair. The house was filled with shells and gift cups, tidies and china frames, souvenirs from county fairs.

The group that had gathered to eat the turkey, and that welcomed Ben enthusiastically to warmth and light and the odor of food, was composed of young married couples, Walt and Mabel Wiggin and Chess and Dosie Smith, and Bootsy's recently married sister with her young husband. All these were brides and grooms, there was much kissing and teasing, and even Ben, who was no novice at love-making, was surprised and a little staggered by the obvious inclusion of Bootsy and himself in this group as another happy young pair.

"You remember Ben, Momma," Bootsy said happily. "Poppa," she went on, "this is Ben Ballard and I warn you that you've got to like him!"

The supper was hearty and delicious, and every one ate, and late, admitted to having eaten much too much.

Ben kept them in roars of laughter. Like all comedians he was at his best with a new audience; every one loved him instantly and Bootsy grew prouder and happier every instant. Mrs. Florence began to feel quite comfortable with him—motherly indeed; she sent him to the kitchen for some chocolate, and like every one else was presently calling him Ben.

Afterward the other eight played two tables of bridge and Bootsy carried Ben off to the "den". The den was stuffy with upholstery and rugs, but there was an air-tight stove there, two comfortable chairs, and agreeably dimmed lamp—and there was Bootsy, instantly getting into Ben's lap and locking her arms about his neck.

Ben never had known so innocently, so gayly affectionate a girl. She was talking homemaking already, the little place that they would have, their fireplace, their bright little kitchen where Bootsy would cook Ben's breakfasts, their little car to bring them home to Sunday dinners with Momma and Poppa.

"Momma wants me to stop working as soon as we're married," Bootsy said on a laugh of sheer delight between two kisses, "but there's time to talk about that. I don't even know your mother yet. But we'll always have to come back here a lot, Ben darling, sweetheart, because you see I'm the last one, and they were wild when Lily married Floyd at nineteen."

Ben sat holding her, loving her and feeling amused and superior at the same time, and feeling surprised over all. How had all this come about so swiftly? She was a little darling of course, but it would be crazy to begin to talk seriously of marriage now; they hardly knew each other—he hadn't a job or a penny—his mother would be wild at the mere thought—

But it was sweet to hold her and kiss her soft little temple against which the baby gold of her hair still clung in baby fashion, and listen to the happy talk that was punctuated by her fierce little eager kisses. Ben went home at eleven o'clock somewhat bewildered, for there had been an unmistakably parental note in the good nights of both Mrs. Florence and the Cap'n; Bootsy's sister Lily had said slowly to him in parting, "We all agree with Bootsy, Ben!" and Bootsy herself had extracted from him a promise to see her as early on Sunday as he could manage it.

"Do you go to church, you bad boy? Then wait for me after church and we'll take a walk or something," Bootsy had said, tears on her smiling little face as she had delivered a final shower of hugs and kisses.

Once or twice, driving home under the solemn winter stars, Ben laughed aloud, but it was uncomfortable laughter. After all, she was only a little country girl of eighteen; she didn't matter. It was all sort of silly but it wouldn't last long. Perhaps it would be as well to taper it off the very next time he saw her; perhaps it might be as well not to go to church and wait for her tomorrow; to let quite a few days go by without making any gesture at all.

But as a matter quite as much of design of chance he saw her every day for the next ten days. After that, as far as Ben was concerned the affair faded as rapidly as it had commenced. Ben had felt from the beginning that it must. Bootsy was exactly the affectionate little village belle and romp and beauty that she had seemed to him when first he met her, nothing more, and Bootsy's background and people were equally amazing.

But he didn't know what to do about it, for by this time Bootsy was hinting at announcing the engagement. Some of her more boisterous girl friends could not meet Ben downtown marketing of a winter morning without coquettish references to his affair with Bootsy, and there was talk of "showers" of various sorts; a kitchen shower, a garden shower. Ben uncomfortably mentioned the situation to Joyce.

Joyce's instant reaction of merriment was sobered by his own concern.

"Well—but how far did you go?"

"I've kissed her, of course. Fooling."

"But you're not in love with her?"

"Not any more." It was amazing, even to Ben himself, how completely he wasn't in love with her any more.

Early in December he had to go to San Francisco for a week, to be best man at a friend's wedding and he found the break an infinite relief. Bootsy couldn't telephone him every hour while he was away, Bootsy couldn't coax him out to take her to movies, or to come to hot noisy rich dinners at Momma's; Bootsy couldn't hang on his neck murmuring loving reproach, "When's your mother going to ask me to come to dinner, lover? I don't mind—I know how things are, you're just getting settled in, and all that. But you see Momma and Poppa think it's kind of queer."

Bootsy wrote him every day. But Ben didn't read the letters; their mere arrival made him uncomfortable.

On his third day in the city—and how good the city lights and noise and bustle seemed to him—he met Kate Pollock, who was a newspaper reporter, covering the Lilienkrantz-Merrill wedding. Kate was a slender straight well-groomed girl with dark eyes and a wide intelligent mouth; she and Ben sat in one of the pews in St. Luke's and murmured, while the rest of the crowd rehearsed for the wedding, and Kate laughed a good deal and listened to Ben; she did not say much, and what she did say would have been completely unintelligible to Bootsy Florence but it was all exactly what Ben was hungry to hear. Books, plays, cities, people, Kate's talk flickered over them all.

After the rehearsal Ben took her down to the newspaper office; he called there at six o'clock that afternoon and he and Kate walked to her house. She lived in an apartment on California street with her father and brother. The father was a doctor, the brother had known Ben in college; Ben fitted into their group as if he had known them always.

What he felt for Kate was already different from anything Ben had ever felt for any woman in the world before. She was two years older than he, she was infinitely beyond his reach; it made no difference. She inspired him; she thrilled him; she awed him. A slender girl with dark soft curls against her white temples, and life and laughter dancing in her dark eyes, everything she did and said seemed almost unendurably sweet and poignant and significant to Ben. The world was only Kate Pollock from that moment on. After the wedding Ben went back to the ranch dazedly, bewilderedly, trying to readjust life to include the wonderfulness of Kate.

He had not written Bootsy or any one else the exact hour of his arrival. Lissy and Joyce would be sure to be downtown shopping about 11 o'clock; Ben took a train that would get him to Merrivale at that time. Bootsy had anticipated his processes of thought; she had run over from "The Dime" where she worked to the station, and was there to meet him with open arms.

Incendiary Liquid In Bottles Hurled Thru Store Windows

Buenos Aires, July 25—(AP) — Bottles filled with an incendiary liquid were hurled through windows of the British-owned department store Harrods of London last night, starting several blazes which were extinguished promptly. A German-owned downtown cafe also was attacked.

Police began an investigation of numerous attacks, including explosion of paper bombs, perpetrated in Buenos Aires recently despite regulations banning demonstrations for or against belligerent powers.

AT THE McCARTHY

"The Saint's Double Trouble"

If you aren't acquainted with the daring exploits of Simon Templer, otherwise known as "The Saint", you've missed a great many unique thrills, brought to life on the motion picture screen. This International Robin Hood, who practices criminal methods against criminals as a career, is the scourge of the underworld and a big headache to the police whom he aids although outlawed by them.

The latest adventure of this colorful character created by Leslie Charteris in his widely read novels and made famous, on the screen by R.K.O. Radio Pictures, is now showing at the McCarthy theatre entitled "The Saint's Double Trouble" with the famous star George Sanders again in the principal role.

As usual, Sanders cuts a fine figure is the sauve, audacious hero who rids himself of his enemies with neatness and dispatch. In this case his principal antagonist is an international jewel smuggler who is a dead ringer for The Saint and as such is able to commit all kinds of violent deeds and fasten the blame on the notorious Simon Templar.

It is the Saint's determined efforts to clear himself of a murder perpetrated by his arch enemy and bring the criminal to justice with which the current story deals. In the process the lone wolf uncovers a huge smuggling plot, finds romance along the way, and runs the gauntlet of enough spine-tingling experiences to supply a twelve-episode film serial.

As in the previous offerings, Jonathan Hale plays Inspector Fernack, the friendly-enemy detective who is out-smarted but to whom Templar manages to pass the credit when the gem thief is brought to justice. Also turning in excellent performances are Helene Whitney, as the beautiful girl in the case;; Bela Lugosi, as a forboding heavy, Donald MacBride, as a hard-working detective, John F. Hamilton, as a thug, and Thomas Ross as an Egyptologist.

Charles Starrett, Western

A pip of a companion feature, Charles Starett in "Spoilers of the Range" one of the fastest action-crammed westerns of the year, is also now playing with the above "The Saint's Double Trouble" at the McCarthy theatre and for entertainment with a swell blend of mystery, romance, thrills and fun these both attraction are tops and make up a show all will enjoy and which we recommend.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Stagecoach War"

The King's Men, popular quartette of the Fibber McGee and Molly radio program, appear with William Boyd as "Hopalong" Cassidy in the latest Clarence E. Mulford action romance, "Stagecoach War", which is now playing at the Capitol theatre.

And it's not just as singing cowboys that the famous four who have so much to do with the widespread popularity of the McGee program, appear. They're bandits, and their machinations give "Hopalong" and his pal "Lucky" something real to think about.

"Stagecoach War" deals with a race between two rivals for a contract to carry the mails between two frontier communities. The race is complicated by the fact that the daughter of one contender is in love with the other contender. There is plenty at stake for her dependent on outcome of races.

The bandits played by The King's Men are interested in the outcome of the race, too. They don't care who wins so long as the contract is awarded, thus providing stagecoaches for them to rob. Cassidy and "Lucky" however, see to it that there is no robbing done, but not until there's some pretty hard fighting, Cassidy style.

"Danger Flight"

Two World War aces got together to write the story of Monogram's "Danger Flight," which is the second attraction now showing at the Capitol.

"Danger Flight" is a story of modern flying, and of the youngsters who learn about it from constructing model airplanes.

John Trent is again seen as Tailspin Tommy, idol of the nation's youth, Milburn Stone is Skeeter, Tommy's pal, and Marjorie Reynolds plays Betty Lou, Tommy's girl.

"Danger Flight" is the fourth in the Tailspin Tommy series.

Also showing on this big bill is the second chapter of the new serial "Buck Rogers" and the Canadian universal events of the day.

AT THE BELLE

"The Ghost Breakers"

A new mirthful mystery picture featuring Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard has arrived at the Belle theatre and is now playing. It is titled "The Ghost Breakers" which, for your information, are people who rid haunted houses of these pests. The co-stars had plenty to do in this respect.

George Marshall, the director, made it with a smile and goose-pimples. One moment you're silently holding your breath not knowing what will happen next when, without warning, Bob Hope or his colored man-servant, Willie Best, makes a remark that convulses the audience.

"The Ghost Breakers" suggests in treatment "The Cat and the Canary," that other eerie Paramount picture that proved so popular, a short time ago in which Bob and Paulette also co-starred.

The glamorous Paulette plays the role of a wealthy girl living in New York who inherits an historic castle on Black Island, Cuba. Bob Hope plays the part of a gossipy radio commentator in a manner that suggests he could do it very well in real life.

The two meet—fancy finding Bob there!—when she opens her trunk on board the boat for Cuba and finds him in it. He had taken refuge when he believed he had killed a man in her hotel. Despite many warnings he decides to accompany her on her trip. Together they meet with a series of hair-raising adventures on the island which was used by her ancestors as a trading post for African slaves. Finally, they accidentally stumble over the cause of all the warnings she received, in the sub-cellar of the castle. After all this excitement together, it doesn't take them long to realize that they can't get along very well without each other.

In addition to the co-stars and Willie Best other members of the cast deserving mention for their excellent work include Richard Carlson, Paul Lukas, Anthony Quinn, Pedro de Cordoba and Tom Dugan.

This all-fun program is concluded with the exhibition of a funny multiple reel comedy, "Andy Clyde Gets Spring Chicken," and Blue Barron and his orchestra presenting a smart musical revue.

R.A.F. DESTROYS 28 FOE PLANES, DAY'S RECORD

Re-Export to Nazi-Held Europe by Neutrals to be Made Impossible

Tighten Blockade, Ration Trade of Neutrals, Report

It is Reliably Reported in London Britain Has Decided on Method to Tighten Blockade on German-Dominated Europe

DETAILS GIVEN SHORTLY

Navicert System, it is Said, Will be Extended to Cover 'All Goods Proceeding from Any Part of the World to European Areas'

London, July 26—(CP)— Great Britain has decided to reinforce her economic blockade of all German-dominated Europe by rationing the trade of neutral countries "to the bare minimum necessary to their existence," it was reliably reported today.

The plan, it was said, would make "virtually impossible" re-export of goods to German-occupied territory through neutral channels.

The details will be announced early next week and will be implemented "very soon," it was said.

The Navicert system, hitherto confined to shipments from the United States and certain other American countries to pre-certified European destinations, will be extended to cover "all goods proceeding from any part of the world to European areas."

EARL OF ATHLONE TO OPEN C.N.E.

Itinerary for the Vice-Regal Fall Tour Announced by the Secretary

Ottawa, July 26—(CP)— The Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone, will open the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto Aug. 23, Sir Shuldham Redfern, Secretary to the Governor-General, said today in announcing the itinerary for the Vice-Regal fall tour.

His Excellency, accompanied by Princess Alice and their daughter, Lady May Abel-Smith, will leave the capital Aug. 22, remain in Toronto until Aug. 26, spend several days in Hamilton, and then make a brief tour of the Maritime Provinces.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Science Service Meteorologist

Radiation! Every book on the weather has or should have a chapter on radiation in connection with the atmosphere. Everyone realizes how important sunshine (radiation from the sun) is to animal and plant life The weatherman, in studying weather processes taking place in the atmosphere, must know the effects of radiation from sun, sky, earth and atmosphere. When radiations from these sources penetrate the atmosphere some of it is lost by reflection or absorption. Therefore measurements of radiation are made at the sources, be they sun, sky or earth, and also after going through the air.

Egg Shortage Causes First Food Line

London, July 26.—(CP)—A score of shoppers lined up in the Shepherd's Bush district today for eggs of which there is now a shortage. It was the first food line of the war.

OBEDIENCE SAVES CHILD'S LIFE

Told by Her Mother to Keep Hold of Large Ball Until Help Arrived

Winona, Ont., July 26—(CP)— Obedience to her mother's instructions was one of the factors in the rescue from drowning yesterday of ten-year-old Louis McAllister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McAllister.

The child was playing with a big ball in the water near her parents' camp, when suddenly a squall carried the ball and girl into the lake. Mrs. McAllister ran into the water and waded out for some distance but could not reach her daughter. Calling to the child to keep hold of the large ball, she made her way to shore and ran to the farm of Gordon Carpenter, Winona, for assistance.

Two youths, Gerald Harrison, Guelph and John Carpenter, Winona, responded to her appeal and ran to the lake shore. Both powerful swimmers, they plunged into the lake and swam out to the child who was about 200 yards from shore by this time. The little girl, obedient to her mother's behest to keep hold of the ball, was still clutching it when her rescuers arrived. They brought her to shore after she had been in the water for about half an hour.

STORM CAUSES POWER FAILURES

Montreal Experiences Before Dawn Spectacular Electric Storm

Montreal, July 26.—(CP) — A spectacular thunder and lightning storm rumbled across Montreal Island just before dawn today, blacking out five power distribution centres in suburbs. Power failures lasted for several hours in some areas.

A near-gale whipped branches from trees, and in one case blew a large elm tree across street car tracks, necessitationg re-routing of trams when early morning traffic started.

There was comparatively little rain accompanying the storm, reported as the "worst of the season".

Argentina A "Holdout" Over Pan-American Trusteeship

European Possessions in Western Hemisphere Are Cause of 'Holdout'

LIFT TO HULL

By J. C STARK

Associated Press Staff Writer

Havana, July 26—(AP) —Argentina was a "holdout" today against proposals before the conference of the 21 American Republics for Pan-American trusteeship over European possessions in the western hemisphere.

The southern nation took a determined stand against any general commitments or immediate measures, asserting it was impossible to delegate powers in anticipation of "hypothetical" situations.

Instead, Argentina recommended use on regular diplomatic channels for consultation and rapid application of measures which might be required for defence of the Americas in any situation that might arise.

Leopoldo Melo, head of the diplomatic channels for consultation and rapid application of measures which might be required for defence of the Americas in any situation that might arise.

Determined by People Claim

Leopold Melo, head of the Argentine delegation, declared last night the future status of the foreign possessions should be determined by the people involved, without outside pressure—even if they agreed to transfer to another non-American power— and that delegates from these possessions should be heard at the conference.

Argentina cannot contenance the application of force over American territory "even in the guise of treaties or conventions effected among the Americas," Mejo said.

Whether the other nations, including the United States, would proceed without Argentina on the "collective trusteeship" idea —advanced by the United States, Brazil and other republics—appeared to depend largely on the decision of State Secretary Cordell Hull of the United States.

Faced with an Argentine threat to unity of the 21 republics at the Lima conference in 1938, Hull waited for a compromise which brought the declaration of Lima — of pan American solidarity against foreign aggression—by unanimous vote.

Apparently, however, some opposition was anticipated in drafting the trusteeship proposal, since it contained a provision that only those nations ratifying it would participate in the projected temporary control over colonies threatened with a change of sovereignty to another European power.

WEST MEMBERS ADVOCATE HIGHER PROCESSING TAX

Want Price of Wheat for Human Consumption in Canada Brought Up to $1.25 a Bushel

BASIC PRICE CRITICIZED

All Members Regretted but Did Not Question Necessity of Adopting Treachery Bill

By CARL REINKE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 26—(CP)—A tax on wheat processing substantially above the 15-cents-a-bushel rate proposed by the government is advocated by western members of parliament.

The government might well set that tax at a figure to bring the price on wheat used in Canada for human consumption up to $1.25 a bushel, it was urged in the House of Commons yesterday. That increase would mean only one cent a loaf added to the retail price of bread and members argued bakers would raise the bread price that much anyway on the strength of the 15-cent levy.

LANDSLIDES KILL HUNDRED IN CHILE

Slides Followed Rainstorms Which Are Rare at This Time of Year

Antofagasta, Chile, July 26—(9P)—Landslides struck Chile's nitrate coast today and first reports said it was feared at least 100 persons were killed. The slides followed rainstorms which are rare at this time of year.

Reports by radio from the northern nitrate port of Tocopilla said almost 100 were killed in that region alone.

Sides of sandy hills tumbled down upon towns in Antofagasta Province, burying many persons and rendering hundreds homeless.

Numerous mines were flooded in the nitrate and copper producing desert between the Andes and the ocean, where rainstorms are unusual.

Broken communications prevented the full extent of the casualties and damage from being known immediately.

THREE CREWMEN HURT

Strathroy, Ont., July 26—(CP)— Three crew members were in hospital today following a rear-end collision of two Canadian National railway freight trains last night. An engine and a dozen freight cars were piled in a tangled, flaming mass of debris following the crash one mile west of here on a double track.

NO JUSTIFICATION TO INCREASE PRICE

Hector McKinnon Issues Statement After Some Bakers Announce Bread Price Increase

Ottawa, July 26—(CP)— Hector McKinnon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, said Thursday he saw no justification for "any concerted effort of groups of Canadian bakers to increase prices of bread."

Mr. McKinnon's statement was made in connection with reports that the newly-announced wheat processing tax of 15 cents a bushel on wheat processed for domestic human consumption might bring higher bread prices as a result of joint action in the baking industry.

Retail Price Up

Edmonton, July 26—(CP)— The retail price of flour rose 78 cents a barrel, or 35 cents for a 98-pound sack, here Thursday, following imposition of the new federal domestic processing tax on wheat of 15 cents a bushel. City bakers said it was too early to judge whether the new levy would affect the retail price of bread.

Calgary flour prices remained unchanged and retailers said they would continue to sell their present stocks at present prices. Any new stocks purchased would undoubtedly be sold at a higher retail price, they added.

Winnipeg, July 26—(CP)—Some western centres today expected a bread price increase to follow the 15 cents a bushel processing tax on wheat used for domestic human consumption.

An increase of about a cent a loaf is regarded inevitable at Vancouver but the Master Bakers' Association is expected to meet shortly to decide on a definite move. Ian Davidson, Secretary of the Association, said a price increase will probably result.

In Victoria it was reported that bakers for the present at least did not plan a price advance.

Leading retailers in Saskatoon said that a price change must soon follow as retail stocks were small and quotations from the mills showed a rise of 70 cents a barrel.

STIFF PENALTIES FOR THE DODGERS

U. S. Military Committee Decides to Recommend Passage of Compulsory Service Bill

Washington, July 26 (AP). — The Unitel States Senate Military Committee went to work today on methods of curbing peacetime draft dodgers under the pending Conscription Bill.

It studied penalty proposals which would impose five years imprisonment, and fines up to $10,000 for any man between 18 to 65 who sought to evade compulsory military service if the measure becomes law.

Having decided to recommend passage of the Compulsory Service Bill in principle, the committee devoted its session yesterday to the question of job security for conscripts who would be called to the colors for a year's service.

Three amendments were agreed on to protect the civilian jobs of men in the ranks.

The first provides that any employer, now subject to the Labor Relations Act, would be guilty of unfair labor practice if he wilfully refused to reinstate a demobilized conscript. Under this section, a convicted employer would be compelled to reinstate a conscript with back pay.

A second amendment—inserted for employers engaged only in intrastate commerce—holds it to be the "sense of Congress" that all conscripts should be given back their old jobs.

BALKANS FEAR FURTHER ADVANCES BY RUSSIAN FORCES

Berlin, July 26.—(CP)—Hitler today received Rumanian Premier Ion Gigurtu and Foreign Minister Mihail Manoilescu at Berchtesgaden. Informed circles said the Rumanian statesman would leave tonight for Rome.

Budapest, Hungary, July 26. — (AP)— Balkan sources here said today that fears of further Russian advances in the Balkans—and what Germany will do if that comes— seem on the increase in southeastern Europe.

A break between Russia and Germany was speculated upon if Russia attempts to press beyond her present frontier.

J. P. BICKELL HARD AT WORK

Takes Over Job 48 Hours After His Arrival in England

By HAROLD FAIR

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 26—(CP Cable) — With characteristic vigor, J. P. Bickell got his toes into his new job with the Ministry of Aircraft Production today, 48 hours after his arrival from Canada, whence he was summoned by his fellow Canadian, Lord Beaverbrook, to help step up Britain's plane output.

When would he start work, The Canadian Press asked Mr. Bickell. "I have started already," came the terse retort. Currently he is touring aircraft plants.

The mining man with many interests said he planned to remain for the duration.

DUTCH UNAWARE OF ANY APPEAL

Nazi - Controlled Netherlands Radio Says Committee in Netherlands Urges Roosevelt to Find Way of Peace

London, July 26 (CP).—The German controlled Netherlands radio at Hilversum broadcast a report today that a committee in the Netherlands has cabled President Roosevelt a request to arrange a discussion for "establishment of an honorable peace between Germany and England."

Both the committee and the broadcast promptly were disavowed by Netherlanders in London.

The committee was described by the radio announcer as "The Netherlands Committee for Organization of an International Peace Conference at The Hague." It asked President Roosevelt to do everything possible "in the name of humanity to prevent annihilation of either of these brother nations."

Netherland sources here said they had never heard of the committee and that it was in no way connected with The Netherlands government.

New York, July 26 (AP). — The German-controlled Netherlands radio was quoted today in an National Broadcasting Company broadcast from London as claiming that a Dutch "peace committee" had appealed to President Roosevelt to assist "in the name of humanity" to arrange a Hague peace conference.

NAZIS DISAGREE OVER BRITTANY

German Foreign Office Sources Deny Recognition of Autonomist Movement

New York, July 25—(CP)— The Nazi Foreign Office under Joachim von Ribbentrop and Joseph Goebbels' Propaganda Ministry apparently were in disagreement today over Germany's attitude to the Breton autonomist movement in France.

An Associated Press dispatch said foreign office sources in Berlin "flatly disavowed" the German official news agency's report that the Nazi government had recognized the autonomist movement.

The sources were quoted as saying the agency acted "without authorization" in circulating an article on the subject appearing in a newspaper published in Rennes, France

The foreign office sources said the French newspaper had "slipped this idea through when nobody was looking."

Goebbels Too Quick For Ribbentrop

The fact that the German news agency circulated the report, favorable to the idea of setting up an independent Breton State in northwestern France, normally would give it Nazi approval. This time, apparently, Goebbels acted two quickly to suit von Ribbentrop.

The agency reported yesterday that a separate military governor had been appointed for Brittany, western peninsula of German-occupied France, where an autonomist movement long has been in existence, and quoted the movement's newspaper, L'Heure Bretonne, as saying this means "German authorities officially recognize the existence of Brittany."

28 NAZI PLANES 'BAGGED' BY R.A.F. OVER BRITAIN

Record Day's Work Performed by Airmen and Anti-Aircraft Batteries

THURSDAY'S FIGHTS

Only Few Enemy Craft Ventured Over Island During Night as a Consequence

London, July 26.—(CP)— The toll of German aircraft taken by the Royal Air Force yesterday increased to 28 today, the highest day's bag over Britain since the war began.

"Full reports of yesterday's operations have confirmed that five more enemy aircraft were accounted for by our fighters," said an Air Ministry communique, "making a total of 28 enemy aircraft shot down during the day."

The Germans resumed their raids this morning and one bomber was shot down in the southwest of England, bringing Nazi losses since June 18 to 212 planes.

A statement from the Air Ministry and the Ministry of Home Security said that "in an attack on a town on the southeast coast this morning enemy aircraft destroyed some houses and damaged others."

"The casualties were small," it added. "One person was killed."

Record Bag

Yesterday's bag of 28 machines surpassed the previous record for one day, set July 11, when 23 enemy aircraft were shot down. Only five Royal Air Force fighter planes were lost in these operations.

"Slight enemy activity" was reported last night over southeast and southwest England and Wales, and some bombs were dropped near a town in East Anglia, but no damage was reported from any area, the Air Ministry and the Ministry of home Security, said.

THREE-CAR CRASH INJURES SEVERAL

Oakville Girl Sustains Skull Fracture and Severe Lacerations

Islington, Ont., July 26—(CP)— Four persons suffered severe injuries and several others received minor injuries last night in a three-car crash at the junction of the Dundas highway and Bloor Street.

Injured most seriously was Patricia Ware, 17, Oakville, with a possible fractured skull, fractured nose and loss of several teeth. Others injured were Isabel Farrel, seven, Toronto; M. C. Hart, 20, Oakville and John McGowan, Oakville.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Allan Boville of New Toronto collided with the Hart car in which Miss Ware and McGowan were riding. A third car, driven by Thomas Lackey, 51, Dixie, smashed into the Hart machine. Hart was charged with careless driving.

'Realities' of Times Make Office No Longer Necessary Says Avenol

Secretary - General of the League of Nations Resigns Post

ACTIVITY DECREASES

Geneva, July 26—(AP)— Joseph A. C. Avenol, Frenchman who has been Secretary-General of the League of Nations since July 1, 1933, announced his resignation today, stating the "realities" of the present times made his office no longer necessary.

Avenol submitted his resignation last night in a telegram sent to the governments of the League's member states.

Stating that until September, 1936, when he visited Premier Mussolini at Rome, he had believed "certain inevistable reforms would enable the League....to regroup the forces which were moving away from it," Avenol's wire declared the duties of his office now "no longer justify maintenance of political high direction, which no longer is consistent with the realities of the situation."

His telegram said:

"I am anxiously considering measures to assure the administration work of the League Secretariat shall continue. I shall make proposals on this subject in due course. ...The work of the technical section well could be adopted to the needs of the hour while involving the substantial economies."

Avenol said he would announce the date when his resignation becomes effective after a meeting of the supervisory committee he is calling for next month.

Avenol was elected unanimously as Secretary-General in October, 1932, and during this term saw Japan, Germany, Italy and a number of smaller states quit the League.

The League failed to bring peace in the Chinese-Japanese war, the Italian-Ethiopian war and the Spanish Civil War, or to save Albania, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia or Poland.

Since the outbreak of the war last September, League activity has dwindled to almost nothing.

Though Avenol handled few of the League's non-political activities himself, he took personal charge of last year's economy drive and slashed 226 employees from the the payroll, leaving 303 on the job. At its peak, in 1932, the League employed 725.

FIRE DESTROYS UNITED CHURCH AT PAUDASH LAKE

Building Struck by Lightning in Storm on Thursday Night

NO INSURANCE

Bancroft, (Special) — The United Church at Paudash Lake, ten miles west of Bancroft on Highway No. 28 was struck by lightning during a severe electric storm which swept through this district late Thursday evening and was completely destroyed.

Some of the contents of the church were saved by some men who happened to be nearby, when the lightning struck the building, instantly setting it afire, but the church was a complete loss. There was no insurance on the building and the loss has been tentatively estimated as being approximately two thousand dollars.

New York Times Advises Americans To Visit Canada

New York, July 26—(CP) — The New York Times, in an editorial captioned "Canada Holds Open House," said today:

"In normal times the largest single credit item Canada has on her books consists of money spent by tourists. Most of this money comes from the United States. Last year it amounted to nearly one-third of the Dominion's total exports, or about two-fifths of her total imports. This year it was shrunk dangerously because of misleading reports as to what happens to American tourists at the border.

"The truth is that if the tourist is an American citizen not carrying arms, he is welcomed in Canada as warmly and informally as he ever was. Canada wants him to come, and with the exception of a few areas where military secrets are guarded, the whole Dominion, from coast to coast, is at his disposal. He profits by a premium of 10 per cent which his American dollars command in Canada. He needs no passport to get in. 5 SMALL SHIPS OF COASTAL TRADE IN CONVOY, SUNK

Vessels' Total Tonnage of Only 5,104 Tons, Admiralty States

NAZI FIGURES DENIED

Five Other Small Vessels as Well as Two Destroyers Sustain Some Damage

London, July 26 (AP).—The Admiralty announced today that a German plane and torpedo-boat attack yesterday on a 21-ship convoy in the English Channel sank five and damaged five merchantmen and two British destroyers.

The Admiralty also announced loss of the trawler Fleming in a clash with four German dive bombers.

The Admiralty challenged the German high command's claim that eleven ships totalling 43,000 tons in the convoy were sunk.

The Admiralty's statement on yesterday's attacks on convoys follows:

"The German communique claiming to have sunk eleven ships totalling 43,000 tons and severely damaging a further 12,000 tons of shipping in an air attack on a convoy yesterday in the English Channel is grossly exaggerated.

British Statement.

"The facts are as follows:

"A convoy consisting of 21 small coastal vessels escorted by His Majesty's trawlers was heavily attacked by successive waves each of about 30 German aircraft. Five small vessels were sunk. These had a total tonnage of 5,104 tons. A further five small vessels totalling 5,123 tons received damage and one of these of 554 tons had to be beached.

"Shortly after these air attacks the convoy. Two of our destroyewere sighted proceeding to attack thethe convoy. Two of our destroyers and two of our motor torpedo boats at once proceeded to intercept and engage these enemy forces. The enemy motor torpedo boats retired behind a smoke screen immediately on sighting our forces. They were chased and engaged for about 15 minutes. The damage inflicted on the enemy was not observed owing to the smoke.

Destroyers Sustain Some Damage

"While returning from this chase our destroyers were twice heavily attacked by German dive bombers. Both ships sustained some damage and in one H.M.S. Boreas (Lt.-Cmdr. M. W. Tomkinson, R.N.) there were casualties.

"The next of kin are being informed.

"It was during the air fighting consequent upon the enemy attacks on the convoy and our destroyers that a large proportion of the enemy aircraft already announced by the Air Ministry as destroyed yesterday were shot down."

Nazi Distortion of Figures

An accompanying statement by the Air Ministry said:

"Germany's unscrupulous distortion to her own advantage of the figures given in her high command communique is roundly exposed today. To her exaggerated naval claims already corrected by the Admiralty communique must be added her equally untrustworthy figures for her own air losses, which were during yesterday 28 machines and not nine as she alleges."

The Admiralty's statement on the loss of the Fleming follows:

"The Secretary of the Admiralty regrets to announce that H. M trawler Berberis were in company when the four German aircraft appeared from the clouds. Two of the aircraft attacked the Fleming and two attacked the Berberis. The Fleming sustained a hit amidships and sank

"Th Berberis opened a hot and accurate fire with her anti-aircraft guns. One of her first shells scored a direct hit on one of the German dive bombers. It is thought that this shell must have hit the German bomb racks since the aircraft flew in pieces in mid-air.

Re-Export to Nazi-Held Europe by Neutrals to be Made Impossible

Tighten Blockade, Ration Trade of Neutrals, Report

It is Reliably Reported in London Britain Has Decided on Method to Tighten Blockade on German-Dominated Europe

DETAILS GIVEN SHORTLY

Navicert System, it is Said, Will be Extended to Cover 'All Goods Proceeding from Any Part of the World to European Areas'

London, July 26—(CP)— Great Britain has decided to reinforce her economic blockade of all German-dominated Europe by rationing the trade of neutral countries "to the bare minimum necessary to their existence," it was reliably reported today.

The plan, it was said, would make "virtually impossible" re-export of goods to German-occupied territory through neutral channels.

The details will be announced early next week and will be implemented "very soon," it was said.

The Navicert system, hitherto confined to shipments from the United States and certain other American countries to pre-certified European destinations, will be extended to cover "all goods proceeding from any part of the world to European areas."

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Radiation! Every book on the weather has or should have a chapter on radiation in connection with the atmosphere. Everyone realizes how important sunshine (radiation from the sun) is to animal and plant life. The weatherman, in studying weather processes taking place in the atmosphere, must know the effects of radiation from sun, sky, earth and atmosphere. When radiations from these sources penetrate the atmosphere some of it is lost by reflection or absorption. Therefore measurements of radiation are made at the sources, be they sun, sky or earth, and also after going through the air.

Egg Shortage Causes First Food Line

London, July 26.—(CP)—A score of shoppers lined up in the Shepherd's Bush district today for eggs of which there is now a shortage. It was the first food line of the war.

OBEDIENCE SAVES CHILD'S LIFE

Told by Her Mother to Keep Hold of Large Ball Until Help Arrived

Winona, Ont., July 26—(CP)—Obedience to her mother's instructions was one of the factors in the rescue from drowning yesterday of ten-year-old Louis McAllister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McAllister.

The child was playing with a big ball in the water near her parents' camp, when suddenly a squall carried the ball and girl into the lake. Mrs. McAllister ran into the water and waded out for some distance but could not reach her daughter. Calling to the child to keep hold of the large ball, she made her way to shore and ran to the farm of Gordon Carpenter, Winona, for assistance.

Two youths, Gerald Harrison, Guelph and John Carpenter, Winona, responded to her appeal and ran to the lake shore. Both powerful swimmers, they plunged into the lake and swam out to the child who was about 200 yards from shore by this time. The little girl, obedient to her mother's behest to keep hold of the ball, was still clutching it when her rescuers arrived. They brought her to shore after she had been in the water for about half an hour.

STORM CAUSES POWER FAILURES

Montreal Experiences Before Dawn Spectacular Electric Storm

Montreal, July 26.—(CP) — A spectacular thunder and lightning storm rumbled across Montreal Island just before dawn today, blacking out five power distribution centres in suburbs. Power failures lasted for several hours in some areas.

A near-gale whipped branches from trees, and in one case blew a large elm tree across street car tracks, necessitationg re-routing of trams when early morning traffic started.

There was comparatively little rain accompanying the storm, reported as the "worst of the season".

Argentina A "Holdout" Over Pan-American Trusteeship

European Possessions in Western Hemisphere Are Cause of 'Holdout'

LIFT TO HULL

By J. C STARK
Associated Press Staff Writer

Havana, July 26—(AP) —Argentina was a "holdout" today against proposals before the conference of the 21 American Republics for Pan-American trusteeship over European possessions in the western hemisphere.

The southern nation took a determined stand against any general commitments or immediate measures, asserting it was impossible to delegate powers in anticipation of "hypothetical" situations.

Instead, Argentina recommended use on regular diplomatic channels for consultation and rapid application of measures which might be required for defence of the Americas in any situation that might arise.

Leopoldo Melo, head of the diplomatic channels for consultation and rapid application of measures which might be required for defence of the Americas in any situation that might arise.

Determined by People Claim

Leopold Melo, head of the Argentine delegation, declared last night the future status of the foreign possessions should be determined by the people involved, without outside pressure—even if they agreed to transfer to another non-American power— and that delegates from these possessions should be heard at the conference.

Argentina cannot contenance the application of force over American territory "even in the guise of treaties or conventions effected among the Americas," Melo said.

Whether the other nations, including the United States, would proceed without Argentina on the "collective trusteeship" idea —advanced by the United States, Brazil and other republics—appeared to depend largely on the decision of State Secretary Cordell Hull of the United States.

Faced with an Argentine threat to unity of the 21 republics at the Lima conference in 1938, Hull waited for a compromise which brought the declaration of Lima — of pan American solidarity against foreign aggression—by unanimous vote.

Apparently, however, some opposition was anticipated in drafting the trusteeship proposal, since it contained a provision that only those nations ratifying it would participate in the projected temporary control over colonies threatened with a change of sovereignty to another European power.

WEST MEMBERS ADVOCATE HIGHER PROCESSING TAX

Want Price of Wheat for Human Consumption in Canada Brought Up to $1.25 a Bushel

BASIC PRICE CRITICIZED

All Members Regretted but Did Not Question Necessity of Adopting Treachery Bill

By CARL REINKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 26—(CP)—A tax on wheat processing substantially above the 15-cents-a-bushel rate proposed by the government is advocated by western members of parliament.

The government might well set that tax at a figure to bring the price on wheat used in Canada for human consumption up to $1.25 a bushel, it was urged in the House of Commons yesterday. That increase would mean only one cent a loaf added to the retail price of bread and members argued bakers would raise the bread price that much anyway on the strength of the 15-cent levy.

LANDSLIDES KILL HUNDRED IN CHILE

Slides Followed Rainstorms Which Are Rare at This Time of Year

Antofagasta, Chile, July 26—(9P)—Landslides struck Chile's nitrate coast today and first reports said it was feared at least 100 persons were killed. The slides followed rainstorms which are rare at this time of year.

Reports by radio from the northern nitrate port of Tocopilla said almost 100 were killed in that region alone.

Sides of sandy hills tumbled down upon towns in Antofagasta Province, burying many persons and rendering hundreds homeless.

Numerous mines were flooded in the nitrate and copper producing desert between the Andes and the ocean, where rainstorms are unusual.

Broken communications prevented the full extent of the casualties and damage from being known immediately.

THREE CREWMEN HURT

Strathroy, Ont., July 26—(CP)—Three crew members were in hospital today following a rear-end collision of two Canadian National railway freight trains last night. An engine and a dozen freight cars were piled in a tangled, flaming mass of debris following the crash one mile west of here on a double track.

NO JUSTIFICATION TO INCREASE PRICE

Hector McKinnon Issues Statement After Some Bakers, Announce Bread Price Increase

Ottawa, July 26—(CP)— Hector McKinnon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, said Thursday he saw no justification for "any concerted effort of groups of Canadian bakers to increase prices of bread."

Mr. McKinnon's statement was made in connection with reports that the newly-announced wheat processing tax of 15 cents a bushel on wheat processed for domestic human consumption might bring higher bread prices as a result of joint action in the baking industry.

Retail Price Up

Edmonton, July 26—(CP)— The retail price of flour rose 78 cents a barrel, or 35 cents for a 98-pound sack, here Thursday, following imposition of the new federal domestic processing tax on wheat of 15 cents a bushel. City bakers said it was too early to judge whether the new levy would affect the retail price of bread.

Calgary flour prices remained unchanged and retailers said they would continue to sell their present stocks at present prices. Any new stocks purchased would undoubtedly be sold at a higher retail price, they added.

Winnipeg, July 26—(CP)—Some western centres today expected a bread price increase to follow the 15 cents a bushel processing tax on wheat used for domestic human consumption.

An increase of about a cent a loaf is regarded inevitable at Vancouver but the Master Bakers' Association is expected to meet shortly to decide on a definite move. Ian Davidson, Secretary of the Association, said a price increase will probably result.

In Victoria it was reported that bakers for the present at least did not plan a price advance.

Leading retailers in Saskatoon said that a price change must soon follow as retail stocks were small and quotations from the mills showed a rise of 70 cents a barrel.

STIFF PENALTIES FOR THE DODGERS

U. S. Military Committee Decides to Recommend Passage of Compulsory Service Bill

Washington, July 26 (AP). — The United States Senate Military Committee went to work today on methods of curbing peacetime draft dodgers under the pending Conscription Bill.

It studied penalty proposals which would impose five years imprisonment, and fines up to $10,000 for any man between 18 to 65 who sought to evade compulsory military service if the measure becomes law.

Having decided to recommend passage of the Compulsory Service Bill in principle, the committee devoted its session yesterday to the question of job security for conscripts who would be called to the colors for a year's service.

Three amendments were agreed on to protect the civilian jobs of men in the ranks.

The first provides that any employer, now subject to the Labor Relations Act, would be guilty of unfair labor practice if he wilfully refused to reinstate a demobilized conscript. Under this section, a convicted employer would be compelled to reinstate a conscript with back pay.

A second amendment—inserted for employers engaged only in intrastate commerce—holds it to be the "sense of Congress" that all conscripts should be given back their old jobs.

BALKANS FEAR FURTHER ADVANCES BY RUSSIAN FORCES

Berlin, July 25.—(CP)—Hitler today received Rumanian Premier Ion Gigurtu and Foreign Minister Mihail Manoilescu at Berchtesgaden. Informed circles said the Rumanian statesman would leave tonight for Rome.

Budapest, Hungary, July 26. — (AP)— Balkan sources here said today that fears of further Russian advances in the Balkans—and what Germany will do if that comes—seem on the increase in southeastern Europe.

A break between Russia and Germany was speculated upon if Russia attempts to press beyond her present frontier.

J. P. BICKELL HARD AT WORK

Takes Over Job 48 Hours After His Arrival in England

By HAROLD FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 26—(CP Cable) — With characteristic vigor, J. P. Bickell got his toes into his new job with the Ministry of Aircraft Production today, 48 hours after his arrival from Canada, whence he was summoned by his fellow Canadian, Lord Beaverbrook, to help step up Britain's plane output.

When would he start work, The Canadian Press asked Mr. Bickell. "I have started already," came the terse retort. Currently he is touring aircraft plants.

The mining man with many interests said he planned to remain for the duration.

DUTCH UNAWARE OF ANY APPEAL

Nazi - Controlled Netherlands Radio Says Committee in Netherlands Urges Roosevelt to Find Way of Peace

London, July 26 (CP).—The German controlled Netherlands radio at Helversum broadcast a report today that a committee in the Netherlands has cabled President Roosevelt a request to arrange a discussion for "establishment of an honorable peace between Germany and England."

Both the committee and the broadcast promptly were disavowed by Netherlanders in London.

The committee was described by the radio announcer as "The Netherlands Committee for Organization of an International Peace Conference at The Hague." It asked President Roosevelt to do everything possible "in the name of humanity to prevent annihilation of either of these brother nations."

Netherland sources here said they had never heard of the committee and that it was in no way connected with The Netherlands government.

New York, July 26 (AP). — The German-controlled Netherlands radio was quoted today in an National Broadcasting Company broadcast from London as claiming that a Dutch "peace committee" had appealed to President Roosevelt to assist "in the name of humanity" to arrange a Hague peace conference.

NAZIS DISAGREE OVER BRITTANY

German Foreign Office Sources Deny Recognition of Autonomist Movement

New York, July 25—(CP)— The Nazi Foreign Office under Joachim von Ribbentrop and Joseph Goebbels' Propaganda Ministry apparently were in disagreement today over Germany's attitude to the Breton autonomist movement in France.

An Associated Press dispatch said foreign office sources in Berlin "flatly disavowed" the German official news agency's report that the Nazi government had recognized the autonomist movement.

The sources were quoted as saying the agency acted "without authorization" in circulating an article on the subject appearing in a newspaper published in Rennes, France

The foreign office sources said the French newspaper had "slipped this idea through when nobody was looking."

Goebbels Too Quick For Ribbentrop

The fact that the German news agency circulated the report, favorable to the idea of setting up an independent Breton State in northwestern France, normally would give it Nazi approval. This time, apparently, Goebbels acted two quickly to suit von Ribbentrop.

The agency reported yesterday that a separate military governor had been appointed for Brittany, western peninsula of German-occupied France, where an autonomist movement long has been in existence, and quoted the movement's newspaper, L'Heure Bretonne, as saying this means "German authorities officially recognize the existence of Brittany."

28 NAZI PLANES 'BAGGED' BY R.A.F. OVER BRITAIN

Record Day's Work Performed by Airmen and Anti-Aircraft Batteries

THURSDAY'S FIGHTS

Only Few Enemy Craft Ventured Over Island During Night as a Consequence

London, July 26.—(CP)— The toll of German aircraft taken by the Royal Air Force yesterday increased to 28 today, the highest day's bag over Britain since the war began.

"Full reports of yesterday's operations have confirmed that five more enemy aircraft were accounted for by our fighters," said an Air Ministry communique, "making a total of 28 enemy aircraft shot down during the day."

The Germans resumed their raids this morning and one bomber was shot down in the southwest of England, bringing Nazi losses since June 18 to 212 planes.

A statement from the Air Ministry and the Ministry of Home Security said that "in an attack on a town on the southeast coast this morning enemy aircraft destroyed some houses and damaged others."

"The casualties were small," it added. "One person was killed."

Record Bag

Yesterday's bag of 28 machines surpassed the previous record for one day, set July 11, when 23 enemy aircraft were shot down. Only five Royal Air Force fighter planes were lost in these operations.

"Slight enemy activity" was reported last night over southeast and southwest England and Wales, and some bombs were dropped near a town in East Anglia, but no damage was reported from any area, the Air Ministry and the Ministry of home Security, said.

THREE-CAR CRASH INJURES SEVERAL

Islington, Ont., July 26—(CP)—Four persons suffered severe injuries and several others received minor injuries last night in a three-car crash at the junction of the Dundas highway and Bloor Street.

Injured most seriously was Patricia Ware, 17, Oakville, with a possible fractured skull, fractured nose and loss of several teeth. Others injured were Isabel Farrel, seven, Toronto; M. C. Hart, 20, Oakville and John McGowan, Oakville.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Allan Boville of New Toronto collided with the Hart car in which Miss Ware and McGowan were riding. A third car, driven by Thomas Leckey, 51, Dixie, smashed into the Hart machine. Hart was charged with careless driving.

'Realities' of Times Make Office No Longer Necessary, Says Avenol

Secretary - General of the League of Nations Resigns Post

ACTIVITY DECREASES

Geneva, July 26—(AP)— Joseph A. C. Avenol, Frenchman who has been Secretary-General of the League of Nations since July 1, 1933, announced his resignation today, stating the "realities" of the present times made his office no longer necessary.

Avenol submitted his resignation last night in a telegram sent to the governments of the League's member states.

Stating that until September, 1936, when he visited Premier Mussolini at Rome, he had believed "certain inevistable reforms would enable the League....to regroup the forces which were moving away from it," Avenol's wire declared the duties of his office now "no longer justify maintenance of political high direction, which no longer is consistent with the realities of the situation."

His telegram said:

"I am anxiously considering measures to assure the administration work of the League Secretariat shall continue. I shall make proposals on this subject in due course. ...The work of the technical section well could be adopted to the needs of the hour while involving the substantial economies."

Avenol said he would announce the date when his resignation becomes effective after a meeting of the supervisory committee he is calling for next month.

Avenol was elected unanimously as Secretary-General in October, 1932, and during this term saw Japan, Germany, Italy and a number of smaller states quit the League.

The League failed to bring peace in the Chinese-Japanese war, the Italian-Ethiopian war and the Spanish Civil War, or to save Albania, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia or Poland.

Since the outbreak of the war last September, League activity has dwindled to almost nothing.

Though Avenol handled few of the League's non-political activities himself, he took personal charge of last year's economy drive and slashed 226 employees from the the payroll, leaving 303 on the job. At its peak, in 1932, the League employed 725.

FIRE DESTROYS UNITED CHURCH AT PAUDASH LAKE

Building Struck by Lightning in Storm on Thursday Night

NO INSURANCE

Bancroft, (Special) — The United Church at Paudash Lake, ten miles west of Bancroft on Highway No. 28 was struck by lightning during a severe electric storm which swept through this district late Thursday evening and was completely destroyed.

Some of the contents of the church were saved by some men who happened to be nearby, when the lightning struck the building, instantly setting it afire, but the church was a complete loss. There was no insurance on the building and the loss has been tentatively estimated as being approximately two thousand dollars.

New York Times Advises Americans To Visit Canada

New York, July 26—(CP) — The New York Times, in an editorial captioned "Canada Holds Open House," said today:

"In normal times the largest single credit item Canada has on her books consists of money spent by tourists. Most of this money comes from the United States. Last year it amounted to nearly one-third of the Dominion's total exports, or about two-fifths of her total imports. This year it was shrunk dangerously because of misleading reports as to what happens to American tourists at the border.

"The truth is that if the tourist is an American citizen not carrying arms, he is welcomed in Canada as warmly and informally as he ever was. Canada wants him to come, and with the exception of a few areas where military secrets are guarded, the whole Dominion, from coast to coast, is at his disposal. He profits by a premium of 10 per cent which his American dollars command in Canada. He needs no passport to get in. FARMERS SUPPLIED WITH FARM LABOR

There is no immediate shortage of farm labor in this district, Employment Office officials stated today. By the same token applications for farm jobs are also very low, about six laborers having registered for work of this nature.

"WET PAINT"

I like to see the sign "Wet Paint"
Put on a house, a stoop, a swing,
A fence, a door, a chicken coop,
A dog-house or on anything.

It means that folks with worthy pride,
Cooperate to do their bit
To make this world a brighter place—
With me that always makes a hit.

Come in and buy some paint today.
Give this and that a pretty dress.
And when they're painted you'll preserve
For years the things that you possess.

When things are painted bright and new,
We know you'll feel extremely fine,
Invest a kopec or a sou,
Come on, hang out a "WET PAINT" sign.

May Use $7,500 Of Grynzspan Fund For War Relief

New York, July 26.—(AP)—Approximately $7,500 which remains for the defence of Herschel Grynzspan, Polish Jew who killed Ernst Von Rath, third secretary of the German Embassy in Paris in November, 1938, will be used for war relief work, if reports of his capture by the Nazis are confirmed.

Representatives of the Journalists' defence fund, established to pay legal fees for Grynzspans' defence, said today contributions had totalled more than $35,000. When the trial was postponed indefinitely by the war, much of the money was used for relief work.

HUMIDITY BROKEN BY HEAVY RAIN

Raging Wind Follows in Wake of Storm and Trees Badly Damaged

Humidity, heat and now by way of showing his versatility the weatherman capped a sweltering three-day performance by sending his wind legions roaring over city and countryside.

Racing out of the west in the wake of a heavy thunderstorm early today a wind of gale-like proportions caused damage to trees and gardens leaving broken boughs and branches littering lawns in various parts of the city.

In the rural areas grain was whipped down and in several districts is levelled completely. Plant crops suffered some damage but no serious effect of the wind has been reported.

The wind whipped the harbor and bay into a sea of foaming white caps and several boat-owners who had sought the coolness of cabins for the night were awakened by the pounding of water on their craft.

A heavy rain preceded the wind and belated travellers stated that driving safety was reduced considerably. Transports between Kingston and Belleville were forced to halt at the roadside until the heaviest part of the storm had passed.

Police Blotter

"This week has been one of the quietest I've experienced in many years at the desk", remarked Desk Sergeant Arthur Harman as he went off duty this a.m., and in review of the week's police activities.

City police officers while patrolling their beats only found one door insecure in the downtown area this week, a feature, which is also below average in Belleville. Last night two transients sought shelter at the police station, while for the entire week only five have slumbered in doors.

Police arrested a local youth last night on a charge of intoxication this being the only misdemeanour registered on the police blotter this week. Today before Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., in city police court the young man indicated he would have to serve 14 days in jail in default of the fine levied. Two domestic cases both incorporating alleged non-support, were held in camera.

Chief Kidd issued a warning to local cyclists today following complaints from citizens regarding the riding of bicycles on city sidewalks. "We have plenty of paved streets in Belleville and there is no excuse to offer for those riding bicycles on our sidewalks. If this practice is not discontinued the police may have to take such measures as the confiscation of bicycles from offenders". warned Chief Kidd.

MANY CITIZENS USING BEACHES

Association Very Pleased With Response to Appeal for Funds but More is Needed

With the advent of the recent humid wave residents of the city and district have availed themselves of the bathing and lounging facilities afforded by the Belleville Beaches. Every day and evening sees large numbers of children and grown-ups disporting themselves in the cooling waters of the bay or sitting in cars in the immediate vicinity enjoying the cooling breezes.

Last Sunday afternoon approximately six hundred people were seen on the beach and in the water. Daily large numbers of residents visit Belleville's summer spot. Appreciation of its facilities has been voiced in many instances not only by family heads and other individuals but by out-of-town people as well.

The drive for subscriptions to add to the beaches beauty and to instal various appliances and buildings that will eventually, it is hoped, place the project on a paying basis is proceeding satisfactorily. A substantial amount has already been subscribed by business men, restauranteurs and private individuals but still more funds are needed in order to put the proposed scheme "over the top."

Officials and members of the Beaches Association expressed their appreciation today of the fine response to their appeal for funds, but remind those, who have not already subscribed, that their donations will be more than welcome. Following is a list of those who have contributed: Mead, Johnson Co., Stevenson-Adamson Co., Dr. Van Blakslee, Weese Confectionery, Thompson Funeral Home, Geo. CANADIANS FACE RISE IN RETAIL PRICE OF BREAD

Bread May Go Up One-Half to One Cent as Result of New Processing Tax

PRICE BOARD CAN ACT

Canadians generally faced today a possible one-half cent to one cent rise in the retail price of a loaf of bread as a result of the newly-imposed processing tax on wheat.

A Canadian Press survey at key cities in the dominion indicated the general belief that the federal levy of 15 cents a bushel on wheat processed for domestic human consumption would be passed along to the consumer.

This was forecast despite the statement at Ottawa of Hector McKinnon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, that he saw no justification for "any concerted effort of groups of Canadian bakers to increase prices of bread." The board has power to prevent increases in bread or other prices.

At Edmonton the retail price of flour rose 78 cents a barrel or 35 cents a 98-pound sack, while Calgary retailers said higher prices would be charged for new stocks. Edmonton bakers said it was too early to judge whether the new levy would affect retail bread prices. Other Western Canada Bakeries said, however, a price increase was inevitable.

Leading retailers in Saskatoon said a price change appeared imminent since retail stocks are small and quotations from the mills already showed a rise of 70 cents a barrel. A one-cent increase was forecast at Vancouver.

Ottawa expected a one-cent rise in the price of the 24-ounce loaf which now sells for 10 cents. Montreal pointed to recent increases in both federal and Quebec provincial taxes on other ingredients as well as the processing levy and looked for a similar increase.

Ottawa expected a one-cent rise in the price of the 24-ounce loaf which now sells for 10 cents. Montreal pointed to recent increases in both federal and Quebec provincial taxes on other ingredients as well as the processing levy and looked for a similar increase.

No Rise in Halifax

Halifax, however, already pays 10 cents for a 20-ounce loaf and expects no rise. Toronto, Niagara Falls, Kingston and Welland, among other points, report one-half to one-cent increases in the offing. Present prices range from eight to 10 cents for standard-sized loaves.

W. E. Gordon, General Manager of a Dominion-wide Baking Company (Purity), sent wires to 20 Canadian branches, suggesting they "get together with other large bakers and arrange as a group to give newspapers some sound publicity on the additional cost to our industry of this tax so that consumers are honestly informed when we have to adjust prices which we in Toronto think should be done at once."

TOURIST CAMP A BUSY PLACE

Decided Increase of Canadian Tourists Stopping at Camp is Noted

Despite a reported slackening off in the tourist traffic in parts of Canada this year, registrations at the Belleville Tourist Camp thus far in the season compare quite favourably with those of last year as a scrutiny of the registration book at the local camp revealed this morning. Receipts too, at the local camp compare favourably with other years it was revealed.

A decided increase in the number of Canadian tourists at the local camp has been noticed this season, according to the caretaker, with visitors from Quebec and Manitoba, as well as from points in Ontario, predominating.

All speak in glowing terms of the conditions and accommodations offered, with almost every motorist stopping at the camp expressing his pleasure with appearance of the camp. The Belleville Horticultural Society through their generosity in supplying flowers and shrubs are greatly responsible for the lovely appearance of the camp and the officals are greatful for this assistance in making the camp attractive to tourists.

American visitors are especially loud in their praise of the local camp, with one American who hails from Florida, and who stops at the Belleville camp with unfailing regularity during his passage through this section of Ontario, summing it up with these words: "I come back year after year, nuff sed." Such commentaries as "a lovely spot," and "excellent conditions with good accommodations" are heard frequently by appreciative tourists who vow they will make the local camp their stopping place on their next trip through this district.

WIND AND RAIN DAMAGE CROPS IN W. ONTARIO

Communication Lines Are Broken by Falling Trees

High wind and heavy rain lashed Ontario early today, causing damage to trees, crops and other property from the western section to the east with the Toronto-Hamilton district bearing the storm's brunt.

Falling trees carried communication lines with them and Central Ontario was cut off from the western section by telegraph for several houds. The storm hit at one a.m. and let up about 2:30.

At Hamilton tree limbs littered the streets as sleepy-eyed citizens surveyed the damage, while other evidence of the storm included broken windows and "dead" telephones. Hydro-electric service was also disrupted for a short time. Traffic was banned on some city streets until broken trees were cleared away.

On Paradise Road in the city the street was cluttered with debris for several blocks and every telegraph pole in that range was snapped off.

Signs and Trees Suffer in Toronto.

At Toronto signs and trees suffered while Lake Ontario was whipped to a fury. Hundreds of flags were blown away, leaving scarcely a thread clinging to the ropes.

West of Hamilton, in Brantford area, linemen worked past dawn to repair broken wires and put up new poles. Grain was knocked down in the fields but farmers expressed hope much damage.

At Galt one of the most violent storms of the year was reported, leaving the city without electric power for a time.

London, in the heart of Western Ontario, had communication troubles. The Canadian Press leased wire service there went out at 1 a.m., as it did in other districts. Trees were blown down over telegraph wires near Drumbo in Woodstock district, while a train collision at Strathroy further complicated the work of hard-pressed linemen by setting fire to poles along the right-of-way.

By 9 a.m. most of the wire services had been patched up and communications were rapidly returning to normal.

Brockville Escapes

Brockville district in the east escaped storm damage, but lightning there was heavy. This was a continuation of yesterday's electrical disturbances which injured eight persons in the Province and caused property damage.

The storm appeared to have little effect on the current heat-humidity wave, although the weatherman held out promises that a break was expected soon. Weekend forecasts were for fair and cooler weather.

VOLUNTEER CIVIL GUARD TO OPERATE IN THE PROVINCE

Agreement Reached Between Members of the Federal and Provincial Governments After All Day's Session

STATEMENT ISSUED

Ottawa, July 26—(CP)—Agreement on the formation and operation of volunteer civil guards in Ontario was reached today at a conference attended by Defence Minister Ralston, Air Minister Power and Naval Minister MacDonald representing the Dominion government and Premier Hepburn, Attorney-General Conant and Labor Minister Hipel representing the Ontario government.

The Ontario ministers assured the federal war ministers the civil bodies would not interfere with recruiting of armed forces under the Department of National Defence and the federal ministers said there was no objection to organization of bodies of citizens for the purpose of internal security.

The conference lasted most of the day and Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Conant then returned to Toronto. Mr. Hipel remained to discuss employment and labor matters with officials of the Federal Department of Labor.

The conference brought members of the Ontario and Dominion governments together for the first time since recent disputes arising from the Premier's criticism of the federal administration.

Statement Issued

A statement issued after the conference said:

Various matters regarding Dominion and Provincial co-operation, especially concerning internal security, were discussed, and full agreement and understanding were reached on all points.

Among the matters considered was the formation of civil guards. It was made clear by the provincial representatives that the formation of such bodies would not interfere with the recruiting of armed forces by the Department of National Defence, and that they would be distinctly the responsibility and under the jurisdiction of the Provincial government as auxiliary to the Provincial Police Force.

The Federal ministers were able to assure the Provincial representatives that there was no objection whatever to this procedure and that they fully understood the value of bodies of citizens so organized in connection with matters of local internal security.

Procedure Considered

The matter of the procedure for calling out the militia in aid of the civil power was also considered, and the Federal ministers gave assurance that there would be favorable consideration of amendments to facilitate this procedure.

The Federal ministers expressed themselves as warmly appreciative of the action of the Ontario government from time to time in placing at the disposal of the Federal services a number of valuable properties and facilities for use in connection with war activities.

WEST MEMBERS

While the administration's wheat program came in for extended criticism, there was considerable commendation in the debate which preceded first reading of the bill amending the Wheat Board Act.

For example, the principle of the processing levy was unanimously endorsed by those who spoke, although criticising its rate. Approval was also forthcoming for the proposal to pay storage on grain held on the farms, but a serious question raised was how that part of the group would be financed.

Closing of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange was recommended by all but one of the western speakers and the 70-cent basic price continued on the 1940 crop was attacked as insufficient by several.

The wheat debate picked up where the treachery act left off. A large part of the day was spent discussing this act which provides the death penalty for treason.

M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F. Rosetown-Biggar) proposed an amendment providing the alternative penalty of life imprisonment but was voted down.

Members representing all parties, most of them having served on the Defence of Canada Regulations Committee, spoke on the Treachery Bill. All regretted but did not question the necessity of adopting it as a possible means of preventing in Canada acts of treason such as contributed to the downfall of Norway, the Low Countries and France.

The section dealing with treason and imposing the death penalty is copied from the United Kingdom Act. Another section, for which life imprisonment is imposed, was taken from the British Defence regulations and applies to any person who "does any act which is likely to assist the enemy or prejudice the public safety, the defence of the realm or the efficient prosecution of the war."

The more serious offence of treachery, punishable by death, was described as the act of any person who "with intent to help the enemy, does, or attempts or conspires with any other person to do any act which is designed or likely to give assistance to the naval, military or air operations of the enemy, to impede such operations of His Majesty's forces, or to endanger life."

Mr. Coldwell said he had more respect for the Treachery Act than for the Defence of Canada Regulations because the former retained all the rules of law and the rights of the subject were safeguarded.

Howard Green, (Cons. Vancouver South) delegated to speak on the bill for the official opposition, said it was a "strange" measure to be before a Canadian Parliament.

Few would have envisioned such steps before the tragic events in Europe of recent months.

Ample Evidence For Passing

The United Kingdom government had seen the necessity of such a measure and enacted it last May and there was ample evidence to indicate that Canada could do no less.

A. J. Brooks, (Cons. Royal) supported the bill as one means of discouraging a form of attack which materially aided the Germans in their European conquests.

Brooke Claxton, (Lib. Montreal-St. Lawrence-St. George) and E. G. Hansell (N. D. Macleod) both supported the act.

Mr. Hansell endorsed the request for a secret session of parliament to discuss all aspects of the war effort, made by Conservative leader Hanson a few days ago.

If such an opportunity were not provided for secret discussion and the obtaining of more complete information without embarrassment, members might have to discuss such matters openly. A secret session, he felt, would be a source of satisfaction to all parties.

He said that outlawing of the religious sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses had created an impression in some quarters that they were no longer at liberty to teach the Bible freely.

The Macleod member made clear he was not a supporter of Jehovah's Witnesses. He had read some of their teachings and believed them "all haywire."

Prairie Farm Assistance

A start was also made in committee on Agriculture Minister Gardiner's act for Prairie farm assistance, where there are crop failures. The Commons learned that about $2,000,000 was collected from prairie wheat producers last year in the one per cent on their wheat and that $9,763,000 had been paid out in acreage bonuses.

Those with heaviest losses, getting $2.50 an acre, got $2,839,000. Those being paid the $2 rate, received $173,971; at $1.50, $2,617,000; and at $1, $4,132,000.

Harry Leader (Lib. Portage La Prairie) stated that he had "never been impressed with the government's wheat policy." He believed the government was unfriendly to the wheat board and traced the reductions in the guaranteed price as evidence.

Tariffs Blamed

He blamed tariffs for much of the wheat marketing trouble. High tariffs kept out British goods which could be used in Canada, with the result that Britain did not buy from Canada all the wheat she might.

Advocating closure of the Futures Market, Mr. Leader revealed that the exchange had been asked to cut commission from one cent to three-quarters of a cent, but had refused, even though the producers had their back to the wall.

As to the 70-cent basic guaranteed price, he told the House the average from 1906 to 1938 had been 90 3-4 cents a bushel, but the average for the last ten years had been less than half that at 36 cents.

Criticize Basic Price

Other members joined in the complaint against the 70-cent price, claiming that only the operator of a large mechanized farm could make money at that rate.

E. E. Perley, (Con. Qu'Appelle) complained that no information as to the activities of the Wheat Board had been forthcoming from the Government, even when Trade Minister MacKinnon made his statement on wheat policy Wednesday night.

A universal price for wheat was suggested by Dr. T. F. Donnelly, (Lib. Wood Mountain) who advocated that transportation costs be pooled among all producers. At present the grower in Saskatchewan got substantially less than the man living near Fort William or in Ontario.

The Act itself contained few surprises after Mr. MacKinnon's clear-cut statement as to its intent. One amendment removes the stipulation that the Wheat Board must "continuously" offer wheat for sale.

AT THE BELLE

"The Ghost Breakers"

If you ever saw a hair-raising comedy before don't miss bubbling Bob Hope and sparkling Paulette Goddard in Paramount's "The Ghost Breakers" which is now closing a highly successful engagement at the Belle.

It's thrilling and spoofing in just the right proportions with ghosts and gags following each other in rapid succession. One minute you hold your breath in suspense, and the next moment you let it go in a side—splitting laugh. Lovely Paulette Goddard is Bob Hope's romantic interest in this exceptional all-laugh week program.

"Andy Clyde gets Spring Chicken", and Blue Barron and his famed orchestra in a smart revue precede the feature attraction.

"My Son My Son"!

Lovely golden-haired Madeliene Carroll, star of innumerable Hollywood hits, plays the role of Livia Vaynol in Edward Small's great screen production of Howard Springs international best seller,—"My Son, My Son!" which will be shown next at the Belle Theatre. Miss Carroll shares stellar honors in the production with Brian Aherne and Louis Hayward and the supporting cast features Henry Hull, Josephine Hutchinson, Sophie Stewart and Laraine Day. This new picture was directed by Charles Vidor from the screenplay written by Lenore Coffee. It is being released through United Artists.

Considered one of the prize plums of the motion picture season, "My Son, My Son!" was accorded an outstanding production budget by Producer Small so that the typical English atmosphere engendered by Mr. Spring's novel might be preserved intact for the screen. John Ducasse Schulze, noted art director, was called in by Small to bring England to Hollywood, and Harry Stradling, the Hollywood boy who made good in Europe, was engaged for his expert camera technique.

Edward Ward, famed musical conductor and composer, was signed to score the backgroupnd music for "My Son, My Son!" to give additional dramatic value to the now famous story of a father who made too many sacrifices for an undeserving son. He used more than 70 musicians in the symphony orchestra with which he recorded the music.

Among the outstanding sets constructed for "My Son, My Son!" are included the slums of Manchester, Victoria Station in London a chateau in France and two spectacular country homes.

The popular Belle Newsreel, and a funny Popeye Cartoon, "Me Feelin's is Hurt", will also be exhibited.

On the week-end matinee an interesting and entertaining chapter of the popular western serial, "Oregon Trail", is announced for presentation.

AT THE McCARTHY

"The Saint's Double Trouble"

Now playing at the McCarthy Theatre, the fourth in the great series of feature films revolving around the exploits of Simon Templer, the greatest character in modern crime fiction, "The Saint's Double Thouble" with George Sanders again in the famous role of "The Saint". It is a film of rare distinction which will be enjoyed by moviegoers from the opening comedy scenes, through the mystery, thrills and suspense which the heart of the story is woven around, right up to the final fade-out which is romantic to the degree that sweethearts in the audience are bound to be holding hands.

As in the previous offerings of the series, the new picture deals with another of The Saint's amazing adventures in foiling the plans of a criminal gang at the risk of his own life. A personal element is injected into the story by reason of the fact that his jewel-smuggling opponent is a perfect double of The Saint himself. Although his efforts to turn the tables on his adversary are not so successful, they do lead The Saint to a triumphant climax —with freedom to go on to his next exploit!

Previous films in the series were "The Saint in New York", "The Saint Strikes Back" and "The Saint in London", all based on the works of Leslie Charteris, renowned mystery fiction author.

In "The Saint's Double Trouble" Helen Whitney makes her debut as a leading lady, while other important roles are filled by Jonathan Hale, again playing Inspector Fernack; Bela Lugosi, Donald MacBride and John F. Hamilton.

Charles Starrett Western

The screen's popular western star, Charles Starrett in "Spoilers" of the Range" a swell musical-western which is certain to be enjoyed by the entire family, is presented in addition to "The Saint's Double Trouble" and makes a show that is one of the best presented at the McCarthy Theatre this year.

AT THE CAPITOL

"'Til We Meet Again."

What happens when a girl who is afraid of the future, meets a man who is afraid to face his past? This is the striking theme of the Capitol Theatre's next attraction, "'Til We Meet Again." Co-starred in the film are Merle Oberon and George Brent, with Pat O'Brien, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Binnie Barnes and Frank McHugh heading the supporting cast. Edmund Goulding, who has demonstrated his genius for handling romantic themes in his two most recent successes, "Dark Victory" and "The Old Maid," directed "'Til We Meet Again."

Roadside Workers Struck by Car and One is Killed

Chatham, Ont., July 26—(CP) — Charles Kozumplik of Chatham was killed and two other men injured seriously last night when they were struck by a passing automobile as they worked over their parked car repairing a tire. The accident occurred two miles south of here.

Injured were Charles Horlic, 30, Raleigh Township, and Adolph Golich, 42, Raleigh Township. Martin Kominck, Raleigh Township, who was sitting in the Kozumplik car, escaped injury.

The car which struck the men was driven by Merrel Murray, 17, Chatham, and turned out to pass another car. It was then the car struck the three roadside workers.

British Press Says Budget A 'Timid and Inadequate' One

Claims British People Want a Real War Budget Framed "With Financial Realism"

BETTING NOT TAXED

London, July 25—(CP)—The British people, faced by the heaviest taxation in their history condemned today the £3,467,000,000 ($15,428,150,000) budget of Exchequer Chancellor Sir Kingsley Wood as "timid and inadequate" and clamored for "a real war budget" framed with "financial realism."

Prime Minister Churchill's government, which has asessed a 42 1-2 per cent income tax, thus found itself faced with the same charge levelled against the cabinet of Neville Chamberlain—that of "puny" war finance.

From the Manchester Guardian and the London Times to the tabloid Daily Mirror, the press joined in attacks on the supplementary budget. Most of them gave Sir Kingsley his due for seeing the real danger, a rise in national income and fall in the supply of consumable goods.

But the Times pointed out that "the only steps taken to meet the menace are a few turns of old familiar screws—income tax, estate duties and duties on beer and tobacco."

Termed Sop to Rich

The Daily Mirror termed the Chancellor "true to the appeasement clique" and his budget "another sop to the rich."

London financial circles had expected a "strong" budget. Prof. John Maynard Keynes and other outstanding economists had been consulted and felt their proposal, if not accepted in full, might have influenced Sir Kingsley.

A Manchester Guardian editorial asked: "Did something happen to the budget? Did the Treasury originally conceive it as a really radical instrument which, when the Chancellor (and the war cabinet) saw it was, for political reasons, severely whittled away?"

The Times, traditional supporter of the government's financial policy, declared the budget falls through imposing heavier taxes on those whose incomes have been wrecked by the war and leaves untouched those whose incomes have increased, especially munitions workers.

Duff Cooper Criticised

At the same time the London News Chronicle attacked Alfred Duff Cooper, Minister of Information, as responsible for recent campaigns to prevent "alarm and despondency" and to create the stillborn "silent column."

The budget proposals and Duff Cooper's campaigns are under fire in the letter columns of The Times.

A 26-word letter by A. P. Herbert, humorist and member of parliament, said:

"Bibles are to be taxed. Prayer books are to be taxed. Handel and Shakespeare are to be taxed more. But betting is not taxed at all."

It's bandits and a thrilling race between two rival stagecoach owners that brings Bill Boyd as "Hopalong" Cassidy back to town in "Stagecoach War," the action romance which is now shewing at the Capitol as well as Tailspin Tommy in "Danger Flight."

Do You Know Why Sunoco Oil Prevents Hard Carbon?

Because it is made by an entirely unique method of refining . . . A method that yields from crude oil only those parts which are highest in lubricating quality, lowest in carbon-forming tendency . . . producing a pure lubricant uncontaminated with the undesirable parts of raw crude, some of which are left in almost all other motor oils.

STEADY GROWTH OF PLANES

Britain is exercising now those mighty forces which she has built up during her history. One is the force of the character of her people, which has withstood many a shock, the greatest before this age being in the days of Napoleon, a dictator, who tried to rule Europe but smashed himself upon the solid rocks of human justice. Napoleon was a throwback to a barbarous idea as are Hitler and his political doctrine of nazism but they both have had to face the sturdy British type which stands firm in the presence of danger, so that at this moment even the somewhat rash Hitler hesitates, it is said, as his satellites dispute over invasion or delay because of the risks.

The great obstacle to German aggression is of course the reliability of British character. With her allies officially out of the war but with many of the people of the Allied nations training in her armies and fighting in her ranks, she goes on undaunted, her courage rising as the associated nations of Norway, Holland, Belgium and France, fell away and left her alone but for the brave souls who fight in her armies and for those brave souls of the subjected races who can do nothing but endure the chains of the Hun until the dawn breaks when they will stir a great tumult against the would-be destroyer of races and conqueror of the earth.

There is the obstacle of her defences, her powerful navy, her great air force which has performed deeds excelling anything ever done by men in these months of war, her army, and her citizens of all ranks, all playing a part in that mighty fortress for the defence of the liberty of the world. For her the prayers of every race which knows liberty or has known it rise daily that she may be strong and hurl back the would-be invader as the angels of heaven hurled back the satanic hosts of Lucifer. Well might the nazi leaders who would crush weak nations hesitate before they undertake the task. But they cannot dodge the issue. They have picked a quarrel against the world that wanted peace, they have armed to crush, they have lied and distorted facts, they have polluted the stream of international life and they must pay. They cannot dodge Britain. Her aim is to bring the victory by an offensive in the course of time.

In the interim Britain will be growing in strength. She will buy three thousand planes a month, beyond present orders, in the United States on the pledge of the U. S. Government and will pay for the construction of factories in which the planes are to be made. This surpasses Hitler in the very thing he intended to bring him victory—the air arm of the German army. Britain, as she holds on whether or not the Huns try to invade the precious island set in the silver sea, will approach the day of that great superiority in numbers of planes which will bear the fruit of the seed which the young airmen of the present have been planting in the tremendous attacks upon German strategical centres. Britain, too, is expanding production of planes at home as her airmen spread their wings and take in so much German military territory and objectives.

The growing strength of Britain in the air is seen in the majestic work of the R.A.F., which is credited with disrupting the German plans against the tight little isle. It will grow from more to more.

A comment yesterday from the lips of the Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, tells a story of the financial and economic strength of Britain. He said that the British Government "seemed to have plenty of money" and "the sums involved are colossal." That says much.

These resources, human, material and mechanical, are making Britain the great tower of strength she is to the world which prays for her success in banishing from the earth the viper of nazism.

FINE BRITISH INSTINCTS

Britons today show the same high instincts which have made them leaders among the peoples of the earth. In war as well as in peace days they perform their duty to the fullest as the heroic endeavors of soldiers, sailors, airmen, statesmen and people reveal.

A few days ago a battle was fought in the Mediterranean in which the crack Italian warship, Bartolomeo Colleoni, was hit and sunk. That was an event of war which showed Australian superiority but the victorious Australians, true to their birth and high instincts, stopped to rescue more than half the crew of the sinking ship of war. Then just the other day came a dispatch that the commander of the sunken Italian warship had died of wounds while being treated on a British hospital ship and that the dead commander was given full military honors at his funeral in Alexandria.

It is this finer instinct which has made the British people a power for good in human progress. It is this which gives them strength when their country and empire are compelled to go to war and it is this which to no small degree brings the victory.

Events have taken place in this war which shed no credit on the nazis. Crews of nazi German ships have let men sink to their deaths after the nazis have blown up merchant ships without any effort at rescue.

But the British have gone to measures which have actually impeded their own urgent business, as the Woodstock Sentinel Review points out, to rescue enemy combatants. The Germans know this and have often depended upon this courtesy and compassion of the Britishers when they (the enemy) scuttled their ships.

This very fact that Britons go to great pains to save an enemy combatant in distress is a proof that the British did not start the war. The fact that Germans have left sinking British sailors or passengers of torpedoed merchantmen to sink to watery graves when they might have rescued them is a proof that the nazi aim in this war is not the defence of Germany but to aid and abet that aggression with which the nazi government has drawn the world into the vortex of war. Men who will stop to save an enemy are not those who will break the peace of the world. But those who will allow helpless human beings to sink to watery graves or will make them suffer as the Germans have made the populations of Norway, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, The Netherlands, Belgium and France suffer, are just the callous people who do start wars.

The German nazi may look upon chivalry as a sign of weakness but it is a sign of strength that the Britisher possesses in his character.

The world has long had evidence of the two peoples at war and the world chooses the Britisher for honor and the German for execration for his dastardly deeds, done, it is to be presumed, with the approval of the barbaric nazis who have willingly courted the reputation of being cruel and relentless.

Czechoslovakia Still Lives

(Montreal Star)

When Dr. Eduard Benes resigned on October 5, 1938, as president of Czechoslovakia, he broadcast a message to his fellow-countrymen. "The crown of the tree which is our homeland has been cut off," he said, "but the roots of the nation stand fast in the soil." Benes is again President of Czechoslovakia, although he is still an exile. The roots of his nation have found sustenance in British soil, for the United Kingdom Government yesterday granted recognition to a provisional Czech Government headed by the former associate of Masaryk. With the governments of Poland, Norway, The Netherlands, and the French Committee headed by General de Gaulle, the Czechoslovak group will work hand in hand with Britain to bring about Hitler's defeat.

The exploit of the Czech Legion, composed of thousands of Austrian army to fight for Russia against their former oppressor, only to find themselves trapped in a revolution, has become a legend. They fought their way back across Siberia to Europe and fohmed the nucleus of the post-Versailles Czechoslovakian army.

That spirit still lives. Not again will a Czech Premier be chased around a conference table by Ribbentrop and Hitler and forced to sign a shameful treaty. That happened to Hacha, but no one can imagine its happening to Benes. For years he and Masaryk fought ceaselessly for the cause of Czech independence. Benes and Masaryk's son are prepared to do it all over again.

Speed On The Sea

(Windsor Daily Star)

Refitting by the American Navy of four destroyers which saw service in the last war is an indication of the manner in which the United States is learning the lessons of modern warfare. While the building of huge capital ships is being argued in Congress, the navy goes ahead in an effort to inject more speed into its striking power.

The whole theory of American naval building is undergoing a radical change, due to what the country has observed of present-day fighting methods. The United States has always gone in for power and size, big ships and big guns. The theory was that it was a defensive fleet that was needed, one that could lie off the coast and wait for an enemy to attack, then proceeds to blow him out of the water.

Speed, rather than power, has now become the chief element in warfare, at sea, in the air and on land. The United States realizes today that an attack on her shores might come swiftly and at a totally unexpected spot. In such case, it would be worth everything to have available a largo force of fast, light ships that could be moved about quickly.

Probably Britain's attempt to buy some of these last-war destroyers from the United States has brought home more clearly to that country than anything else the need for speed and manoeuvrability. In any case, the Americans are taking action while it is yet not too late.

Modernizing Annual Report

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

Whoever has had occasion to read the annual reports of our Canadian business houses needs no description of their lack of interest, their very sketchy financial statements, or of their dryly presented facts. A very different picture of what they might be is presented by A. D. Ellwood, investment editor of the Financial Post. Writing in the summer number of the Quarterly Review of Commerce, published by the Department of business administration of the University of Western Ontario, Mr. Ellwood is much in favor of touching all annual reports with the wand of modernization.

Shareholders, employees, and the public are all interested in the welfare of the business. Mr. Ellwood describes in his article various ways of brightening up the essentially material parts of the report to make it more readable and interesting.

As a means of selling the company to the public, as well as to its owners and workers, Mr. Ellwood believes the annual report to have great potentialities. He describes these potentialities as "finding an entirely new and active use for something which has become more or less of a burden." The frequent use of illustrations, a sales statement on the product, and statements of policy on matters that may have changed during the year are some of the elements which he considers essential.

In view of the lack of personal contact between management, employees, and owners in modern corporations, the function of the annual report takes on a much more important appearance than it previously held. In this modern age of "public relations," "psychological advertising," etc., it is particularly true that the businessman who overlooks the annual report as an advertising medium is ignoring what is perhaps its most important use and to be of value as such a medium, the report must be both readable and worth reading.

Diet Treatment For Tic Doloreux —Trifacial Neuralgia

I have spoken before of seeing an operation to give the patient relief from the terrible pain in the face called tic doloreux or trifacial neuralgia. I have never forgotten it and greatly wondered at the time if there were any pain severe enough to require such an extensive operation.

Fortunately, the use of injections of various substances often gives relief for months and years so that fewer of these operations are now performed.

What appears to be a great advance in the treatment of this severe face neuralgia is reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association by two physicians Drs. Henry Borsook and M. Y. Kremers, and a dentist Dr. C. G. Wiggins of Pasadena, California.

Observing the relief given by vitamin B1 in neuritis and arthritis, and in an attempt to find something less severe than operation, they decided to use vitamin B1 in a number of cases of tic doloreux.

The advantage of the treatment is that it is available everywhere and can be administered by any practitioner, and with some instruction, even by the patient himself.

The treatment may be divided into two parts: (1) active treatment, and (2) change in the diet with the addition of certain foods. The active treatment consists of injections into the veins daily of thiamin chloride (vitamin B1). In about 25 per cent of the cases, liver extract was also injected because the patients did not respond satisfactorily to the vitamin B1 alone.

The diet treatment consists of a high vitamin, low starch diet, and in some cases 1 ounce daily of rice polishings were given by mouth.

There were fifty-eight patients treated, of which thirty-seven were markedly improved, fifteen improved, three slightly improved, and three not improved.

I have spoken before of the work done by Dr. W. J. McCormick, Toronto, in relieving cases of arthritis by means of vitamin B1. Dr. McCormick points out that it is the inability of oxygen to reach these nerves that causes the pain. Vitamin B1 enables the oxygen to penetrate the fat or covering of the nerve and give relief.

It might be well for all who have painful joints muscles or nerves to eat more foods containing vitamin B1. Some foods rich in vitamin B1 are: whole wheat bread, brewers' yeast, peanuts, beef liver, almonds, bacon, ham.

The Nazi Way

(London Times)

Phrase books in English and German have been issued to the German army, containing questions which German troops would be likely to put to English citizens if they succeeded in achieving their desire to overrun the country. Throughout there is a warning that if you fail to tell their soldiers the truth you will be shot.

Some of the questions in this phrase book are apparently designed for use in cross-examining civic leaders. The question "Are you the Mayor?" is followed by the demand "Open all cupboards" and "Where is the cash?" The handbook then "instructs" the Nazi soldier how to ask the mayor to write down the amount which is in the safe, and to find out if there is any more money in the building. Should he succeed in obtaining information he would then use the phrase "I confiscate all this money".

A whole section consists of questions intended to enable the German troops to find their way about the country. The authors of the handbook do not appear to have overlooked any contingency. There are even such phrases as "I have the stomach ache," "Give me opium", or "Give me pills."

Locusts and Civil War Aftermath Blamed for Distress in Spain

Almost famine conditions now prevail in Spain. Spanish newspapers received here present a revealing picture. Partly, the shortage of food is the fatal aftermath of civil war; partly, distressing crop conditions are due to a locust plague which occurred this Winter and Spring in large parts of Spain.

"The whole of central Spain was overrun by locusts, with enormous areas reaching practically to the Portuguese frontier," says El Norte de Castilla. "The immediate district of Madrid was ravaged on an unprecedented scale. So menacing was the attack of locusts that the army and air force were called out to fight the plague. It was estimated that, in the sections which suffered most, there were 600,000,000 locusts per hectare (2.47 acres). Four hundred and forty thousand acres were invaded to a degree hitherto unheard of."

"One hundred and sixty thousand kilogrammes of poison had to be prepared. Army units moved over the country in truck with equipment. Private persons were required to put their vehicles at the disposal of the government for use in the common effort. Many organizations pledged themselves to collect so many kilogrammes per person of the pest. The districts chiefly affected were Ciudad Real, Toledo, Madrid, Badajos in the extreme west, Caceres, Cuena, Guadalajara and Cordoba—also important sections of Albacete, Avila, Burgos, Granada, Salamanca, Zamora and Zaragosa."

Rationing of Food

The devastating effect of the locust plague, together with the already distressing food situation in Spain, has culminated in a general system of rationing of food which takes in even green vegetables. The range of ration cards covers everything from such comparative luxuries as coffee, down to the common onion and potato.

The coffee ration is the same as in Italy: 250 grammes per person per month. The sugar ration is the same. Olive oil, 3-4 of a litre per person. The shortage of bread became so critical that, at a special meeting, the Council of Ministers decided to increase the ration to poor families, as bread is the chief item of food among them. "The wreckage of national economy, which has resulted in the severe shortage of grain and bread, is due to the Reds," comments El Norte.

The relationing system differs from that used in other countries. Each person is given a card with a number. When supplies arrive, the official newspapers print the numbers of those persons who are entitled to apply at the provision stores for their rations. It frequently happens, especially in the case of meat distribution, that after the numbers printed, much as in a lottery, the brief official notice follows: "No supplies available."

Rationing Regulations

Practically every paper carries notices of fines imposed for infractions of the rationing regulations. One Madrid paper carried fifty in one day.

Rationing applies not only to food, but also to factories due to the shortage of raw materials.

Sometimes, Press comment has a touch of unintended naivety. Thus, from Arriba, Madrid:

"In order to establish mendicants homes and refuges for medicant children, 170,000 pesetas have been set aside.

"To rebuild the palace of the Infanta at Guadalajara, the government voted 1,500,000 pesetas."

A wholesale reorganization of industry is under way. Workmen are being regimented in recreation clubs on the Dopo Lavora pattern in Italy and the Kraft durch Freude plan in Germany. A general census of industry, agriculture and mining is being taken, preparatory to putting in a thorough going system of national control.

Evidence of German Influence

Evidence of German influence is flagrant. Barcelona papers report the celebration in "German town", the Nazi section of Barcelona, of Hitler's victory and of "The Day", the anniversary of Franco's victory.

Italian papers, published in Italy, bear witness to the sympathy between Italy and Spain. Crowds in the squares of Madrid, Barcelona, Rome and Berlin re-echo the same cries, the same slogans. Enthusiastic crowds of Spanish phalangists in Italy shout for the legitimate annexation of Gibraltar to Spain, that Gibraltar is Spanish. "This," says Leodalba, Rome, "is the vibrant cry of the whole of Franco's glorious Spain."

Spanish official papers do not hesitate even to print notices from the German government in the German language. "All German citizens," reads such a notice in La Patria of Granada," must report forthwith to the Consulate. Any failure to report, any failure to notify the consul of change of address or change of occupation will be punishable in accordance with Germany law."

But the spearhead of German influence is seen in the effort to mould Spanish, Italian and German interests in an aggressive policy in South America. Germany flatters and fosters Spanish old-world dreams of re-establishing her umpire in South America. On the council of the Spanish American Committee in the France Government figures the name of the German, General Faupel, as president.

Germany sees Spain as a supremely useful tool in her ambitions in South America.

Passage of Unemployment Insurance Act in 1935 Called 'Election Bluff' by Premier King

Says Whole Setup Instituted — Eve and During an Election Campaign

CLASHES WITH HANSON

Ottawa, July 26 (CP)—Passage of the Unemployment and Social Insurance Act of 1935 and subsequent setting up of a commission by the Bennett government was "a pure election bluff, nothing more or less" Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared in the House of Commons today.

"It was an effort to have the people of Canada believe that the Conservative party of that day was determined to put this legislation on the statute books," Mr. King said, recalling that all this had been done on the eve of and during a general election campaign.

Meeting for the second morning sitting, in sweltering weather, the Commons chamber saw further heat generated when Conservative leader Hanson charged Mr. Mackenzie King with showing discourtesy to Col. Gordon Harrington, former Premier of Nova Scotia and chairman of the short-lived Unemployment Insurance Commission set up in 1935.

The interchange came during consideration in committee of the new unemployment insurance bill which came back last night from a special Commons committee with a number of amendments.

Replying to a charge from Mr. Hanson that the House was being unduly rushed in dealing with this measure, Mr. King said he believed it was the desire of most members to dispose of it quickly since "we are told that it is likely to meet with a long delay in another chamber (the Senate)."

Sparks Flew in House

Mr. Hanson started sparks flying when he read copies of letters written by Col. Harrington after the general election of 1935 when the Liberal Party replaced the Bennett Administration. He charged Mr. King had shown discourtesy in not replying to these letters the second of which contained Col. Harrington's resignation.

The Prime Minister said Col. Harrington's letters had been designed only to put him in a position to say Mr. King had dismissed him before the court had ruled upon the constitutionality of the Bennett Unemployment Insurance Legislation.

He said Col. Harrington and his associates all knew the Liberal intention, if successful in the election, was to submit the measure for a test of its constitutional validity and if it was found ultra vires, to ignore all that had been done to set up the machinery of Unemployment Insurance.

Members in Favor

Angus MacInnis (C.C.F. Vancouver East) and Gordon Graydon (Con. Peel) both called for passage of the Bill at once. Mr. MacInnis declared the working man had waited a long while for this "small measure of social justice" and he would not accept kindly any further delay.

Charging "almost indecent haste" in dealing with the Insurance Bill, Mr. Hanson said he was "not going to take responsibility for holding up this measure", but adequate time had not been given members to study it.

Mr. Hanson said evidence taken before the committee had reached him only three minutes before the sitting opened. "It cannot be said that members of this House have had adequate time to study this measure. Certainly there has been no time to study the evidence".

Realizing the government was determined to put the bill through at once, Mr. Hanson said he would content himself by placing on record correspondence from Col. Gordon Harrington, former chairman of the short-lived unemployment insurance commission set up in 1935, to Prime Minister Mackenzie King immediately after the Dominion election of that year.

The first communication dated Nov. 1, 1935, was described by Mr. Hanson as a letter "from one gentleman to another" had received "scant consideration" from the Prime Minister."

This letter inquired as to the commission's future and described in some detail its proposed workings. The letter, said Mr. Hanson, was never acknowledged as far as the file showed. However, there had apparently been some oral communication between the Prime Minister's office and Mr. Harrington.

On Jan. 21, 1936, Mr. Harrington wrote a further letter to the Prime Minister.

In the intervening months there had been no communication between the government and Mr. Harrington as commissioner.

Because he had received no communication, Mr. Harrington eventually resigned.

To explain the Harrington correspondence it would be necessary to go back to circumstances of his appointment, Mr. King said. Former Prime Minister Bennett had introduced and adopted an unemployment insurance measure in 1935, just prior to a general election, against the opinion of the then Liberal opposition which demanded a reference to the Supreme Court on constitutionality of the measure, Mr. King said.

After parliament had been dissolved and the election campaign was on Mr. Bennett proceeded to set up the commission with Col. Harrington as its head.

Throughout the election the Liberal party took the stand that, if elected, it would refer the measure to the courts, which it did immediately after the election was over. It also promised if the measure was found unconstitutional, to consult the provinces with a view to obtaining consent to constitutional changes.

"Did you tell that to Col. Harrington?" Mr. Hanson asked.

"Col. Harrington is not without experience in public life," Mr. King replied. "He has nothing to learn from me in that respect. He understands these things."

Labor Minister McLarty, sponsor of the bill, gave an outline of proposed amendments to the original draft, as recommended by the special committee. He said machinery to put the scheme in operation would be complicated and would require a long time to set up. The was his answer, in part, to pleas made before the committee that the bill be delayed until next session.

It was not as if this was a new idea. It was the subject of intensive study over a five-year period and "no bill that has ever been presented to the Parliament of Canada has had more full and careful consideration," Mr. McLarty said.

Mr. McLarty said the government could not subscribe to the claims made before the committee that certain institutions such as banks which already have machinery for taking care of employees, should be exempt. These institutions, even if they reaped no direct result, should not begrudge a small fraction of their earnings to assist in building up a national system of unemployment insurance.

Ottawa, July 26—(CP)—The familiar figure of the scarlet-coated Mountie will be seen less frequently in advertising after this.

Before any commercial use is made in advertising or trade marks of the likeness of a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer now, consent of the commissioner must be obtained and Acting-Justice Minister Cardin indicated that consent would be hard to get.

"We want to stop that kind of advertising entirely," he said.

In recent years some objectional advertisements appeared in connection with the name and uniform of the force.

The bust of a Mountie is being used by the Department of Agriculture, with the consent of the R.C.M.P., as a seal of a standard of quality of certain Canadian goods, it is explained.

$1,000,000 Plant Will Manufacture Sulphuric Acid

Ottawa, July 26 (CP)—Immediate construction of a $1,000,000 plant for manufacture of sulphuric acid was announced today by Munitions Minister Howe. It will be in operation early in 1941.

The new sulphuric acid plant will be erected close to one of the major explosives projects now under construction. It is being built for British account under the supervision of the Department of Munitions and Supply by the Nichols Chemical Company.

In order to aid the war effort, this company has waived its engineering fees, estimated at $100,000, as well as its management fee which would run to some $31,000 annually. Also the company has waived all its rights to royalties and licence fee under the patents and pro- for the occasion.

FRENCH WARSHIPS IN BRITISH HANDS READY FOR SERVICE

London, July 26—(CP)—The admiralty announced tonight that "steps are already well advanced for manning French warships which arrived in our ports before the signing of the armistice between France and Germany."

The announcement added: "A number of French ships of varying sizes are now being manned and prepared for sea entirely by officers and men of the free French naval forces headed by Admiral Meseller.

"He was appointed to this post by Gen. De Gaulle some time ago. One ship manned entirely by Frenchmen has already been at sea taking an active and successful part in operations.

"In addition, French ships which cannot be manned by free French naval forces are being manned chiefly by British crews assisted by a nucleus of French ratings. These ships will fly both the tricolor and the white ensign.

"Other Allied naval forces are also helping to man French ships. The French ships in the above categories will come under the general direction of the British admiralty and it is hoped that many will be at sea shortly, carrying out operations in the common cause."

U. S. Foreign Affairs Committee Approves Bill to Permit Use U.S. Vessels to Remove Refugee Children From War Zones

Washington, July 26 (AP). — Chairman Sol Bloom said today the House Foreign Affairs Committee had approved unanimously a bill to permit the use of United States vessels to remove refugee children from European war zones—an arrangement President Roosevelt described as possible.

Under the bill each vessel so used shall have painted plainly on both sides a United States flag "and a statement that such vessel is a refugee child rescue ship of the United States or under United States registry, so that night or day there can be no mistake as to the identity of such vessels."

Also any American vessel to be used for child rescue work must have its safe conduct granted by all nations at war.

The President at a press conference asserted that the United States desired to do everything possible to remove children from England and he added that the administration might ask for reasonable assurances that refugee children could obtain safe passage.

The first step, he told a press conference, involved providing perhaps 10,000 children in Britain with passports.

The next step, he said, would be to find out what the British government would be able to do about sending the children to the United States, or perhaps Canada, in British vessels.

A little later on, the president continued, the stage might be reached when the United States would ask for reasonable assurance that if American vessels went over to evacuate them, there would be no torpedoings.

There are three sides to the problem, the president said, on being asked for comment on legislation pending in congress to permit the use of American vessels in war zones to bring out children.

First, he said, there is the attitude of the British government, then our own deep desire to do everything we can, and finally there is the safety of the children to consider. The latter, he said, is the crux of the matter.

RED SUB USED AS "DIVING BOARD"

The thought of a possible entry into war is probably remote from the minds of these Russian submarine men who enjoy leisure moments by diving from their submersible into cool waters at some undisclosed destination. The swimming is a great relief after being in the sub's cramped quarters during a tour of duty.

Homely Woman Can Achieve Distinction by Making Most of What She Has

Time was when the beauty of women was thought to be the gift of God. Homely women accepted their fate and tried to get around their lack of pulchritude by having sweet dispositions, being thrifty, good housekeepers, faithful wives and mothers.

Apparently, few of these sisters who missed "angel kisses" at birth decided to make the best of things and help out the scant gifts of nature by a few pegs, such as cosmetics, hairdos and, best of all, perfect grooming. In fact, ladies not dowered by beauty seemed to have taken a grim pleasure in making themselves less attractive than they were when cast in the original mold.

Regard the old family album and you will see that Aunt Jane or Cousin Jenny might have improved herself considerably by a becoming hairdo instead of that awful slicked-back arrangement ending in a knot that looked as if it had been twisted up by a monkey wrench.

Today the homely woman studies herself, and few of them are without some good point or other. It may be fine eyes, a piquant nose, a dimpled chin, lovely hair, or a good figure, and the semi-ugly duckling converts herself into a swan by dressing up to any one of these blessings. She studies to make the most of the gift the gods provided. She'll pick her beauty parlor expert more carefully than she will her doctor, and be put on the right track as to cosmetics or makeup. She will study actresses to see how those who fall short of actual beauty get away with it.

But the greatest asset of the homely woman is perfect grooming. There is a beauty in perfection of detail and absolute daintiness. A reasonable amount of dieting and sensible exercise will correct excess poundage. Good posture in sitting or walking will do wonders for the figure. Experts say if one never slouches in a chair and holds the head erect, the telltale double chin may be avoided.

Of course, women who do their own housework do not require gymnasium workouts, calisthenics or vapor baths. But the woman whose job keeps her tethered to a desk will find her figure immensely improved by these things.

Complexions are kept smooth and fine at least a decade longer than they were a generation ago. "The price of wisdom is above rubies" we are told on the best authority and woman's wisdom consists in choosing the proper type of cream, soap and astringent for her particular skin. A good hairbrush applied daily will give to a matronly head that sheen once supposed to be the glory of youth.

When it comes to clothes, women should live down those inherent complexes which make the fat, roly-poly type go in for flounces and full skirts, and the tall, thin person for cylindrical effects. Heaven only knows why, but women until they know themselves, are prone to pick out styles, cuts and colors to which they are allergic. Modern magazines have such good clothes suggestions that the innocent should have no difficulty in studying their types and selecting styles accordingly.

Vacation Post-Cards Show Individual Taste

In the small fraction of the year that most of us have for our vacation, it is an unreasonable spending of time to write many letters. Our minds should be relaxed, not constantly haunted by "Oh, I wish that letter were written".

Instead of spending precious minutes of your holiday in this agitation, make up your mind—and warn your family and friends of this before you leave—that you are not going to be so prodigal of the time that you need for rest and recreation. Unless your vacation is to be a long one, get a supply of post-cards, plain and "picture" and use them to carry the messages that are reminders of your thoughtfulness.

Members of the family and your close friends will be comforted and delighted with messages written on "scenery cards—a card a day if you wish. Your daily message will take only a minute or two and cost only a cent or two. Yet what a difference this thoughtfulness will make to the people back home. They want only a word or two, visible proof that all is well, that you are happy.

A few simple words, such as "If you were here this place would seem twice as lovely", or "Another year we must try to come here together. You would love it" express affection and yet they could be shouted from the housetops.

At this point your taste steps in, for a post-card should be discreet and self-controlled. It expresses us "for better or for worse", and can be read by anybody who chooses to read it. That in itself is a responsibility.

Perhaps I needn't warn you how very easy it is to let your pen run away with your manners, and especially with your sense of discretion. When girl writes boy or boy writes girl their pens should not divulge unguarded thoughts, sentences that may later rear their heads to cause embarrassment or even shame. Distance, remember, can bring disenchantment too.

Don't let yourself impulsively buy cards that are supposed to be funny or ones that on second thought, will not be as funny when they arrive as you thought they would be when you sent them.

Don't, on your cards or in your vacation letters, use subjectless sentences, provincially associated with this type of message. Write "We are having a wonderful time", not "Having a wonderful time".

Use no abbreviations (except necessary ones, like Mr. or Mrs.) in the address. Write Street Avenue and spell in full the name of the city and state.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I received a gift of ten dollars from the girls where I worked before I left to have my baby. Do you think it would be nicer to write a thank-you note or just send a card?

If you do tell me to write a note, would you be so kind as to give me some suggestions as to what I should write? BETTY

Please don't send a ready-made thank-you card; it has no personal quality and is never correct. Your former co-workers made such a generously friendly plan that it calls for a personal and friendly acknowledgment from you.

You undoubtedly know who the individual contributors were, and would suggest that you write each one a warm-hearted note of thanks. Tell each girl how much you appreciated her kindness, her part in the group gift. If you have already bought something with the money, tell each giver about this. Or tell her what you are planning to buy with the money. In other words, just chat informally with each giver, as if you were talking with her face-to-face.

Agreeable Parents Will Create Happy Homes

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Three things which parents can do to further home happiness of their children are, first, that the parents get along well with each other; second, that the parents take real interest in what the children are doing but without snooping or interfering; and, third, that the parents should be frank about the family budget, so that if necessary the children could earn additional funds to save face among their companions, or so they would understand why they could not have more.

I think that the relationships between parents—how cooperative, agreeable and companionable they are—is the first essential to happy, wholesome upbringing of the children. Constantly I have been pleading for a better understanding by the parents of the child, and great consideration and respect by the parents of the child as a sacred personality; for a family atmosphere, moreover, in which every member shares in the family plans, including the family budget.

All Overlap

All these three factors which further home happiness overlap, as you can see. Parents who have great regard for each other as persons, each deferring to the other, neither considering himself or herself superior to the other; parents who exercise toward each other the nice amenities of social grace, who strive never to sink to the level of the common plane in their mutual relationship, who celebrate successes in each other who cooperate and try to pull together as a team—such parents find it easy to treat their growing children as they treat each other.

Parent Ideals

Of course it is too much to suppose that any parent pair will entirely attain these ideals in relationship all the time, human nature being what it is. Nevertheless some parents get very near to these goals and many are able to progress toward them. Fortunate are those children whose parents keep striving toward these desirable objectives and don't give up, however hard the struggle may become.

It seems to me that intelligent parents, beginning even before the first child is born, are doing well when they often talk together about their aims, ideals and goals as parents and try to work out together a program they are able and willing to follow.

Then, as they find themselves achieving some successes with this program they gain assurance that they can press on toward the goals they have set for themselves.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. How are we going to "toughen" the child enough if we don't make fun of him?

A. Leave it to his playmates and friends his age. In the rough and tumble of the playground; in the hall, locker room, athletic field, at school; in the club—informal gathering outside of school; in the sorority, fraternity or bull-session at college.

THE ASTRAL configurations for this day are conflicting and perplexing. There are rather peculiar mental problems and social contradictions, but with the mentality receiving certain very reliable stabilizing rays it is probable that all dubious situations may be safely adjusted and treacherous predicaments ironed out happily. But keep alert to schemes and equivocal entanglements in business as well as the private associations.

Those whose birthday it is may find their year interesting and intriguing because of certain peculiar, subtle and entangling alliances which may challenge their integrity, discernment and sound judgment. While the situation is not exactly sinister, it will take finesse and discretion to avoid duplicity, snares and pitfalls in both business and private relations. Still there is a dependable balance in mental adjustments which may result in "turning imps (of annoyance and apprehension) into angels," pleasant and gracious.

A child born on this day may have a well balanced mentality, with much sound judgment and shrewdness. It will be persistent and dogged, probably provoking the hostility of its associates and superiors.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Bone Breaks Must Receive Immediate Medical Care

No series of articles about injuries that occur to children during the summer would be complete without a word about broken arms and legs. I know I have my share of them every year. One young lad has come to me with broken bones each summer for the past three years. I'm wondering if he will repeat this year. Each time the story behind the accident has been the same. He had been climbing, he slipped, he fell.

Children will climb, and they will have falls; if you are spending the summer away out in the country somewhere, you would be wise to find out something about how to care for breaks and sprains until medical help arrives.

A doctor usually likes to get a patient with a broken bone or a sprain to some place where he can have a look at it under the X-ray. By this means the doctor can tell how the bones are going back together much better than by manual examination. In the case of a sprain, I always like an X-ray, because one can't always be sure that it is a simple sprain. There may be broken bones as well.

A man once asked me what I did a few years ago when I couldn't get my patient to the X-ray. I simply treated most sprains as though there were breaks too. That was the only way I could be sure.

When a break occurs in an arm or a leg it doesn't take very long for diagnosis; it is quite apparent what is the matter. Usually, there is an angle in the normally straight limb. If it is a leg that is broken, the victim can't stand on it. If it is an arm, it cannot be moved. In severe cases, the jagged ends of the broken bone may be actually pushed through the flesh.

When there are broken bones to deal with, get a doctor without delay. I think the best thing to do is leave the patient where he is until the doctor arrives. If this can't be done, then splints should be placed on the limb to hold it absolutely still while the trip is being made to the nearest medical aid.

A broom handle makes a very good splint, and usually there is one of these around. However, if no broom is available, any strong piece of wood three or four feet in length will do. If the stick is square with sharp edges it should be bound first with newspapers or with cloth so it won't cut into the flesh.

Take this splint and bind it securely to the broken leg with three or four handkerchiefs. Don't tie it so tightly that circulation will be stopped, but see to it that the limb is kept from moving, for every move may aggravate the break, make it worse, and make the setting more difficult.

I never minded setting children's broken bones so much, but when you get an elderly person to work on, it isn't so good. I think the worst case of bone setting I ever had was a man of 75 who fell off a haystack, broke both legs, his collarbone, and a couple of ribs.

It was a good many years ago, and it happened away out in the country, miles from any hospital. In those days we had to make our own splints, and I remember I made them for this old fellow with shingles. I tell you, it was a job. When I finished, I was all in. I didn't really expect the old fellow to live, because pneumonia developed, as it often does when old people are injured. But he pulled through and died of plain old age ten years later.

There's quite a difference between setting bones now than in those days. Today we have X-rays, and if a doctor is called to make a difficult setting and doesn't make a perfect job of it, he's apt to be sued In those days, people knew you In those days, pepole knew you were doing your best for them, whether it was a perfect job or not.

Sudden Surge of White Sox Lifts Team to Within Game Of First Division of the Loop

Jimmy Dykes Has Won Last Seven Games in a Row and Red Sox Latest Victims

TIGERS INCREASE LEAD

Detroit Lucky to Beat Senators 5-2, Newhouser Winning With Sore Arm

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Strange things are happening in the American league, but not the least surprising is the sudden surge of the Chicago White Sox, who have won seven straight games.

Jimmy Dykes has been something of a magician with his skimpy materials for years, but the way he has his club cruising now rates with his best tricks, except that Jimmy hasn't done any playing himself—yet.

Now the sensational streak has lifted the Sox to within a game of the first division and they'll have a chance to move right into the upper storey if they can conquer New York Yankees in their series this week-end. They already have won seven of the 12 games they have played with the crumbling world champions.

They beat Boston Red Sox 6-4 yesterday and it included Joe Kuhel's 18th homer, three triples and two doubles. It was the eighth consecutive defeat for Boston.

The only reason the score was so close, considering that Jack Knott and Clint Brown held the Red Sox to eight hits, was that two of them were home runs by Jim Tabor and another four-base blow by Bobby Doerr.

Tigers Increase Lead

Detroit Tigers continued their near-miraculous winning and built their American league lead back to a game and a half as Cleveland Indians lost.

The Tigers were outhit by Washington Senators 9-8, but triumphed 5-2 with the help of three Washington errors. Rookie Hal Newhouser got credit for the victory although his sore arm put him in difficulty in the seventh inning and Archie McKain rescued him with a one-hit relief chore.

The Indians had won five games in a row before folding in front of Philadelphia Athletics 7-6. Sam Chapman sent the A's away on the right foot with a two-run homer in the first frame and Buck Ross protected the lead with 10-hit pitching.

New York's Yankees came out of a five-game losing streak with a wild 13-8 victory over St. Louis Browns in a 26-hit ball game. Red Ruffing went the route for his ninth victory, giving up a dozen hits, but the champs got him two runs in the first inning and five more in the third. Joe Gordon hit two home runs and Joe Dimaggio extended his hitting streak to 18 consecutive games by getting two doubles and a single.

The national league program was a mere two games, with Pittsburgh Pirates putting New York Giants through a 2-1 wringer in one and Chicago Cubs crushing Boston Bees 8-4 in the other.

Truett (Rip) Sewell was the hero of Pittsburgh's victory. The seventh of the season against two losses for the redhead. He allowed nine hits, but stranded 11 runners and the only run off him was unearned.

WOMEN SPORTS TO HOLD STAGE

Ontario Track and Field Championships to be Decided at Toronto

Toronto, July 26—(CP)—It will be former junior stars against veteran senior performers in the Women's Ontario Track and Field championships scheduled here tomorrow at the Beaches Olympic stadium.

Spotlight of the program will centre on the 80-metre hurdles where Phyllis Lefoy of Sault Ste. Marie, Jessie Scott of Hamilton Olympics, now a senior, and Thelma Mantle and Peggy Davis of Toronto Lakesides will battle it out for provincial honours. Miss Lefoy equalled the Canadian intermediate record in winning the event at the Dominion test last year. The other three girls are former champions in their classes.

Heading the list of last year's junior stars is Toronto's Jessie Smerdon competing in the shot put and discus contests. Lois Shoenberg and May Stark, both of Hamilton, will supply real opposition in both contests.

Helen Morrison, Toronto Lakesides, will defend her 80 and 100-metre sprint crowns against team mate Nancy Murral, who is expected to furnish the most competition.

UNIQUE GOLF RECORD

GEORGE CUMMING

Toronto, July 26—The first official entry to be received for the 33rd Canadian Open Golf Championship, which will be held at the Scarboro Golf and Country club, Toronto, on August 15th, 16th and 17th, was that of George Cumming, veteran professional of the Toronto Golf Club. Cumming holds a most unique record in golf as he has competed in every one of the preceding 32 Canadian Opens, winning in 1905 and being runner-up on four other occasions. Golf records fail to show a string of consecutive appearances in a National Championship that approaches that of the Toronto veteran who is now serving his 41st year with the Toronto Golf Club. He claims that he has no designs on the Seagram Gold Cup nor the $1,000 first prize money but he states he is determined to be among the qualifiers for the last two rounds on the final day.

AIRPLANE GOLF GAME

Springfield, Ill., July 26 (CP) — Well, here's a modern golf. A game in which a player makes his first shot from an airplane has been inaugurated here.

Each golfer is taken up in an open cockpit plane. As it soars over the course at a low altitude, the player tries to drop a ball close to the green to be played. Then the plane lands and the golfer must rely on his clubs. The scores? Par is still mighty fine.

Sports Roundup

(By Eddie Brietz)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, July 26.—(AP)—Baseball banter: the Big Town honestly hasn't got a pennant contender, yet look what's happening . . . 75,000 more fans have seen the declining Dodgers in their home games so far than saw 'em last year . . . For 40 home stands the jints are 35,000 patrons better off . . . and the Yanks have drawn more than 500,000 (about the same as last year) which tops every other club in the A. L. for home attendance . . . . Ed Head, the 20-year-old Elmira hurler the Dodgers just bought, whiffed 220 batsmen for Abbeyville, La., last year, his first in pro ball, and this year has miffed 116 Elmira enemies . . . . another feller? . . .

One-minute interview
Bob Brown, owner of the Vancouver, B.C., baseball team: "The war seems to have stimulated interest in Canadian sports, if attendance at baseball and hockey games is a criterion. Yet I hear your attendance has dropped, and you're not at war. Curious, isn't it?"

Today's guest star
Charles Burton, Dallas Morning News: "The most genuinely popular gent in Texas League circles is Jack Zeller, the Detroit Tiger official, who paid Oklahoma City $10,000 for Pitcher Charley Fuchs and gave the Dallas rebels approximately the same amount for Pitcher Bob Uhle. Looks as if he's keeping the League going".

Jim Doyle of the Cleveland Plain Dealer learned a horse named Mr. Ambassador was scratched at Thistle Downs recently because it was stung on the neck by a bee. . . which prompted Jim to quip that Europe isn't the only place where Ambassadors are being withdrawn with pains in their necks.

Truett Sewell, Pirates: Kept nine hits scattered and knocked in winning run with fly against Giants.

Joe Gordon, Yankees: Hit two home runs to pace 16-hit assault on Browns.

Joe Kuhel, White Sox: His 18th home run led extra-base attack that routed Red Sox.

Dominic Dallessandro, Cubs: Singled with bases loaded against Bees.

Archie McKain, Tigers: Saved victory over Senators with three-inning one-hit relief pitching.

Sam Chapman, Athletics: Hit homer in first inning to give Philadelphia lead it kept over Indians.

DOUBLEHEADERS TAKE THEIR TOLL FROM THE ROYALS

In Fifth Twin Bill Since July 4, Royals Drop Two to Newark Bears

TORONTO DEFEATED

Jersey City Giants Only Half-Game Out of Third Place by Win

right — until the schedule makers crossed them up with a series of five consecutive double-headers.

From July 4 to July 21, the Royals won 14 out of 19 games to zoom from fifth place in the International League standings to within three games of second, then they started on the twin bills.

After getting past Rochester Red Wings by taking both ends of Sunday's double bill, the strain began to tell and they split the next two against Jersey City and lost both sets of the third.

Yesterday Royals continued falling and lost two games to Newark, 7-5 and 9-2, and as a result are eight games behind the second place Bears.

Royals outslugged the Bruins in the first tilt, 11 hits to 9, but left 14 runners stranded on the bases. George Washburn pitched five-hit ball for the Bears in the seven-inning second game to win his 11th victory as his mates pounded Bill Crouch for 11 safeties, including homers by Alex Kampouris and Henry Majeski.

The double defeat lowered Montreal to within half a game of the fourth place Jersey City Giants, who won their fourth straight game 3-2, at the expense of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Frank Pearce scattered nine hits effectively in winning his 10th victory for Jersey City. The Little Giants collected 10 hits off Jim Walkup and Pat McLaughlin.

Syracuse Chiefs continued their drive toward the first division by taking two games from the skidding Buffalo Bisons.

Oadis Swigart limited Bisons to four hits in winning the opener, 2-1 and Lloyd Dietz allowed seven to take the nightcap 4-1.

Rochester and Baltimore were not scheduled.

Grandma Visions Ol' Dizzy In Pulpit If He Fails In Comeback Trail

Tulsa, Okla., July 26 (CP)—Dizzy Dean, trying to rekindle the $185,000 bonfire in his right arm with south-western sunshine, is optimistic over the preliminary results.

"It's getting better," says the Dizzy One of his new "side-wheeler" delivery that he is attempting to develop as a means of relieving the muscle misery that has plagued him.

"The new delivery still throws me off balance a little but we're working on that."

Dizzy doesn't even consider the possibility that he won't be able to make the grade again with the Cubs and his Texas league fans seem to have the same philosophy—all except one of Dizzy's staunchest friends. She doesn't attend baseball games, but she has it all figured out what Dizzy can do if his arm fails him permanently.

The lady is 87 years old and she is Dizzy's grandmother, Mrs. C. M. Dean of Beggs, Okla.

Her idea: if Dizzy is ever washed out of baseball she thinks he would make a fine preacher.

Dutch Reuther, the scout who was sent along with Dizzy from the Chicago Cubs to coach him while he tries to reconstruct his pitching form, says he now can see improvement in Dizzy's performance.

Many Local Fans

The concrete evidence that Dis isn't doing so badly was displayed to the packed grandstands in the first two Sunday ball games that Dizzy pitched for the Tulsa Oilers in the Texas league. Dis won both games.

His persistence and his enthusiasm under trying conditions have convinced his Oiler teammates that Dean is determined his return to the Texas league will be a short one and that he soon will be back with the Cubs.

The whole thing, of course, was Dizzy's idea at the start. His brother Paul once returned to the Texas circuit and he now is doing all right with the New York Giants.

"Paul's 100 per cent better for having returned to the Texas league," says Dizzy, who feels that if Paul did it, he can too.

COURSE RECORD MAY BE BROKEN

Top Professional Golfers Start First Round of $7,500 Open at St. Paul

St. Paul, July 2 —(AP)— An assault on par which may make an historic dent in the record books was a more than usual possibility as the nation's top golf professionals shot the first round of the $7,500 St. Paul open tournament over the Keller course today.

A week of near 100-degree heat, with its inevitable drying effect, has made the course more vulnerable, especially to the long hitters.

It would be no great surprise therefore to see someone, possibly the champion himself, beat the record-breaking 270 score for 72 holes—18 under par—which Dick Metz established in winning last year's event.

Metz, Lake Forest, Ills., star, apparently comes to Keller on top of his game. Only a few days ago he won the Chicago open with a 10-under par 278.

ALL-STAR JINX?

Max West, batting ace of the Boston Bees and star of the recent all-star game at St. Louis, is here shown undergoing a short wave diathermy treatment for his injured back. Max was hurt in the all-star game and may add another name to the long list of diamond stars who have had their careers blighted in the annual all-star get-together.

We are in receipt of a letter from Walter Gerow, Sr., Belleville baseball player and coach in the days when this city boasted of powerful and colorful diamond teams, who is at present coaching the Kirkland Lake nine in the Nickel Belt League. Walter wants it known that he went north at the request of the Kirkland Lake Club and was assured of his coaching position before he ever left Napanee. "As a matter of fact I had an offer from this club last season," writes Walter. The Kirkland Lake Club practice every afternoon they are not playing baseball, which means pretty much of a fulltime job of baseball for Walter, but knowing the elongated Belleville veteran as we do, he just couldn't get too much baseball. Walter writes to say they had snow in Kirkland Lake the last week in June, but that it is very hot there now. Walter concludes by saying he could provide Belleville with some high-class baseball material to assure this city with a top-notch senior ball club another year.

The ranks of the local softball teams will be sorely depleted within the next ten days. Besides those boys we mentioned recently who have joined the Argyll Light Infantry, no less than five Belleville boys, from the City Senior Softball loop, have joined the 47th Battery, C.A.S.F. There's "Lum" Carson, Freddie McGuire and Harold Reid, all of Corby's A. C. and Gord Sword, Red Townsend's rookie shortstop find, while Umpire Don Thomas is also signed with the 47th, which may be the reason he and the boys have been getting on so well during the current Shell-Corby series; or could it? Just when the Corby-Shell series will be concluded is hard to say, but the teams will resume their diamond feud at the Flats on Saturday evening in the third of a best-in-seven series when Connie Harris and Johnnie Bawden will doubtless get the hurling assignment. Under the present military training program it would appear as though the Shell and Corby's won't be playing their fourth game until next Wednesday, however. In the meantime they are trying a Saturday night fixture.

Various unions affiliated with the Canadian Rugby Union have been advised by the officials of the parent body that it is the wish of the Federal Government that there should be no curtailment of competitive sports in Canada, other than those normally arising out of the drafting into industry or military service of those who would ordinarily take part in sports. This quest came from Hon. C. G. Power, Assistant Minister of National Defence. Whether this request will cause the Intercollegiate Rugby Union to change their plans and continue operations was not made known this morning, but the O.R.F.U. will continue to operate and endeavour to provide sports entertainment for the general populace during the war period.

Ken Strong, former outfielder who had trials with the New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers and played with New Haven, Jersey City, Hazleton and Toronto, but deserted the game for professional football, is reported seriously ill in Flushing Hospital, New York, of peritonitis, following an operation for stomach ulcers.

Efforts to provide a suitable playing site for the remaining games of the Girls' Softball loop are progressing with satisfaction at the East Belleville playgrounds. Chairman Ted Schwab had the grass cut and the city roller levelled the infield until it is as smooth as a pool table, or should be. There is a splendid heavy wire screen backstop already in place and the girls will swing into action on their new grounds this evening when Stub Barrett's K-Nines meet "Lum" Carson's Vikings in the league semi-finals. Speaking of the East Belleville playgrounds, that is the site of the old Ontario Baseball Club and for many years was known as the Ontario Field. Prior to the last war many a thrilling baseball game was played at the Ontario Field, situated at the corner of East Bridge St. and Bleecker Ave., the new home of girls' softball in Belleville.

Did you know that Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox uses a novel set of signals to Moe Berg, bull-pen catcher, when summoning a relief pitcher. Cronin's arm, extended about three feet off the ground, with palm open, means that Charley Wagner, who is short in stature, is wanted. If Joe circles his face with his right hand, that's the sign to send in Emerson Dickman, called "Pretty Boy." The right arm moving low at Cronin's side means Sidearm Joe Heving. Flipping the left arm summons Lefty Ostermueller, and the right hand rubbed over an imaginary protruding stomach is the sign for Jack Wilson.

Sport Spice — Regardless as to suggestions of continuing sports in a normal manner, the Sarnia Imperials will not play rugby football in the senior O.R.F.U. this season...."Too much pressing business," was President Norman Perry of the Imps stated today.. Western Ontario baseball and softball teams are suffering from enlistments, which is not surprising as the sporting fraternity always responded gallantly, even as Drake....Pitcher Bob Feller was struck in the face by a thrown ball during the warm-up period before yesterday's game, with the result that a molar was cracked and will have to be extracted... To add insult to injury the A's went on to beat the Indians 7-6. Buffalo West Sides are leading the parade in the Canadian Henley at Port Dalhousie....Haven't heard anything more regarding the proposed war charity softball game for Civic Holiday, which is to include three N.H.L. pucksters as umpires.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

4 Regular Newsmen From U. S. in Paris

Paris (via Berlin), July 22—(Delayed)—(AP)—Only four regular American newspapermen remain in Paris of a corps which last January numbered 40.

While many correspondents are with the government at Vichy, those in Paris are Roy P. Porter and Robert Okin of the Associated Press, Glenn Stadler of the United Press and Alex Small of the Chicago Tribune.

Since there still are no wire facilities out of Paris, these correspondents' stories are carried by German courier plane to Berlin, where the Nazi Propaganda Office delivers them to the Berlin offices of the writers.

Airplanes Used To Battle 'Hoppers'

Boise City, Okla., July 26—(AP)—Five reconnaissance planes roared out over the bald prairie— the roving eyes of a mechanized army bent on extermination.

In the half light before daybreak, the pilots scanned the flat land below, noted moving formations, banked and flew back to report to headquarters.

Up from the airfield thundered eight planes. They swooped down on the moving formation, bombed, destroyed or dispersed them.

Thus, taking a cue from modern mechanized warfare, did the United States Bureau of Entomology successfully battle this month one of the greatest hordes of grasshoppers ever to ravage the Oklahoma panhandle

Back and forth from airfield to battle scene shuttled the fighter plane, equipped to sow 50 acres with poison bait within five minutes. Ahead the scouter craft sought out more formations and likely landing fields.

INSTALMENT 17.

Oh, he had been away five years instead of five days Bootsy told Ben, and she had been the lonesomest girl that ever was in the world; she hadn't gone anywhere or done anything because Ben was away! And his sister's car was parked right outside the post office, Bootsy told him eagerly; they could sit in the car and talk, and the girls would be sure not to miss them!

Ben kissed her duly, and they walked over and got into the car. While she poured out the story of her loneliness and faithfulness Ben sat squared about on the front seat and smiled at her vaguely and wondered what he could do. What on earth could he do? His brief absence, far from cooling Bootsy's ardors, had seemed to crystallize their affair into a definite engagement with a marriage close ahead.

"And listen, sweet darling," said Bootsy. "Momma wants to know when I'm going up to your house for dinner, see? I don't care," she interpolated hastily, her fond blue eyes devouring him, "but Poppa and Momma do. So you go home now—I've got to get back to the store, and you're coming down to supper tonight—Momma's cooking chickens and I don't know what all, and you tell her then what night you'll come for me to have dinner with your folks, see? Because—if we're going to be married in February—

"Oh, and I forgot to tell you that!" she interrupted herself again in a serious capable manner. "Momma and I talked it over. Momma's anniversary and my birthday both come on the twentieth of February—well, and my Florence grandfather and grandmother are having their golden wedding on the sixteenth of March, that's in Detroit. So Momma and Poppa thought if we were married first, then Chess would drive them to Detroit for the golden wedding."

It was as if he never had seen this blonde fresh chattering little creature before. His senses were in complete confusion; he seemed to be two persons at once.

"Look here, Bootsy," he presently said. "We're going pretty fast! My father's lost all his money, you know and I've not got a penny. I've got to get up to town, and get a job, and see where I stand. We can't talk marriage for a couple of years.

"And I never asked you to marry me, or implied that I wanted to," he longed for courage to add honestly. "We danced together, and I kissed you, and we talked a lot of nonsense that night I had dinner with your family, but that's the beginning and the end of it. You haven't had much to build all this on—"

He dared not say this. What he did say staggered Bootsy for a moment.

"How d'you mean 'a couple of years', you bad boy? That's nonsense!" Bootsy said, recovering. "There's my grandmother Krussinger's money, you know. It was seventeen thousand dollars when I was only a baby; I don't know what it is now. So you see, Mister Scarey, we'll have something to go on. But, Ben—you'll have to get a job here. Momma'll never let me move to the city, much less San Francisco! It'd kill her. So now be a good boy—come pick me up at the store tonight, and we'll go home together! I've got to get back, and here come Dodo and Joyce anyway."

Ben's younger sisters arrived in a flurry of welcome and kisses. They were full of family ranch chatter. Ben listened abstractedly; he was more worried than he ever had been in his life. What to do? In whom could he confide? He couldn't—he simply couldn't go down to the noisy Florence house tonight, he couldn't carry on this farce any longer, find himself alone in the den with Bootsy, listen to her talk of engagement showers and plans for meeting his own people!

"No, but Ben, didn't you think that's rather thrilling?" Joyce was demanding.

"About—?"

"You're not listening! About Lissy, Archie coming to see her twice, and bringing her candy. And Lissy's so gentle and amiable, isn't she, Dodo? And mother of course is majestic; we're not to tease Lissy, or make any comments on it at all. Isn't it—"

Ben was not listening. Archie, he was thinking, had somehow managed to slip out of his engagement with Lissy smoothly enough. But no one could ever slip out of anything with Bootsy. The man to whom she found herself engaged would from now on come second with Bootsy; it was being engaged that counted, the excitement that the dinners, the showers and trousseau, the wedding plans. Bootsy would pay half-hearted attention to any talk of breaking the engagement now; it simply couldn't be done in the face of Momma's consent and Poppa's approval and the fact that the news had been confided to a score of Bootsy's intimate friends.

Ben looked up at the winter hills, he felt the fresh chilliness on his face and he groaned in spirit. Kate Pollack seemed to recede from him. She was not for him. He had wrecked his life.

"Mother's having a turkey dinner to celebrate your coming back," Joyce presently told him.

And Bootsy's mother was cooking chicken! Ben smiled a sickly smile, wishing only that a mortal sickness might be laid upon him before supper time arrived.

x x x

Mrs. Ballard, complacent and capable, had told her two younger daughters that nothing must be said of Archie to Lissy. Lissy, she explained, felt very badly about the whole matter, but she understood Archie's position perfectly, and admired and respected him for the stand he had taken.

"Admired and respected him for jilting her—for breaking the engagement!" Joyce exclaimed.

"I wish you wouldn't put it that way, Joyce. It's so—so humiliating to poor Lissy," Sally reproved her. "Archie is in a very difficult position; his father is far from being a young man, and he is simply doing what he feels to be his duty. I admit it's a great pity, but I believe both of them are acting finely."

"Are they just going on being friends, mother, after all this?"

"No, not at all," Sally said, displeased at Joyce's and Dodo's healthy curiosity. "They are not to see each other again—she explained to daddy and me last night. But there's a—a perfect understanding, and now I think we needn't discuss it any more."

This closed all general talk on the subject, but Joyce and Dodo debated it endlessly between themselves. Lissy probably wouldn't marry now; she was twenty-five and unlikely to meet any one interesting down here.

"Michael," Joyce suggested once, and they both laughed guiltily. The younger girls had accepted Michael whole-heartedly, but Lissy never forgot for an instant that the young Englishman was her father's farm hand.

She bore herself during this trying time with a proud sad dignity. Lissy had to have a pose of some sort, Joyce and Dodo decided; her pose of the moment was that of martyr, and it was obvious that she was enjoying it. Any love affair—even one of Archie's peculiar conditioning—was better than none. Never had Lissy's family known her to be so gentle, so considerate, so adaptable; harmony reigned during the first Christmas holidays at the ranch house.

Ben too was strangely amiable and affectionate. Indeed he seemed quite contented to wander off on walks with Joyce or his father now and then he went down to the village for unexplained evenings, but he always came home early and Sally felt she could not complain.

"What's this Gertrude Florence who telephones Ben?" Sally asked Joyce.

"Bootsy. She's a girl who works in The Dime. Ben takes her to the movies when he goes out, nights."

"What kind of girl is she?"

"Oh, too pretty! Gold, yellow and blue. She looks like enamel!"

"I wish he wouldn't!" Sally said anxiously. "I wish you'd go with him, Joy, when he takes her anywhere."

But Joyce would go to village festivities no more. Her one scalding experience, at the barn dance, had cured her of any interest in rustic affairs. She stayed at home nights, and worked over the tables of auction bridge as if she were studying arithmetic again, and tried to persuade herself that she enjoyed Shakespeare as much as a murder or mystery story.

Dodo sometimes accompanied her brother. Dodo even met all the Florences, and joined them, somewhat flushed and shy and bewildered, at a Saturday supper before the movie. Charlie Sallock was there on this occasion, and Dodo reported seriously to Joyce the next day that the Sallocks were lovely people; their grandmother had been French.

And all this time Ben was writhing in Bootsy's net. She had consented to put off the announcement of her engagement until March, but she was more loving, more possessive than ever. Unless she heard from Ben every day she telephoned to the ranch; in self-protection Ben had to satisfy her with at least a brief note, or a call at the store. She knew that his ardor had cooled, and he knew that she knew it, but Bootsy was as determined as she was affectionate, and she overlooked his changed feelings with superb unconcern. Ben couldn't break with her; that would be too outrageous, after the way Momma and Poppa and Lily and every one had treated him, and unless he broke with her the fine gradations of his feelings wouldn't worry Bootsy.

Ben finally told his father about it. It was the first time in their two lives that the men had talked together with complete confidence.

They talked up at the barn, Ben lounging against the table in the harness room, his father sitting on an upturned barrel.

William Ballard's first impression was amusement. The boy had got himself involved with a pretty girl in the village, eh? Well, why not, if she was a decent girl, with a good family back of her?

"You'll not want to marry for a while, Ben. She wouldn't want to come here, and you're not fixed up with a job yet."

"Dad, I never was in love with her!" Ben's face was scarlet, and drawn with distress. "It was just dancing—and of course I kissed her—she's awfully pretty, and all that. But the family—her mother and everything, and the house—"

Displaying a marked interest in the proceedings, the Dionne Quintuplets are pictured grouped around Judge J. A. Valin, one of their guardians, as they each purchased five hundred dollars' worth of Dominion of Canada war savings certificates. The purchase by the five famous sisters enriched the national war fund by $2,520, a maximum contribution, since five hundred dollars is the largest amount that any individual is permitted to invest in these certificates in any one calendar year.

Little Benny's Note Book

My cousin Artie stayed at my house for supper, being ham crocketts and peas and things, and I said, Hay Artie, get your funny face out of that glass of milk and slide me a hunk of bread.

Well, such manners, my, such English, ma said. Do you realize in modern civilized life it's not considered a crime to be polite even to their worst enemies, although that may be running a good thing into the ground.

Well shall I ask Artie politely? I said, and ma said, I think we can stand it if you can, and pop said, Yes, please don't attempt it if you feel the shock will be greater than your unprepared system is ready for.

Both being sourcastic, and I said to Artie, I say, old chap old chappie, would you mind very much if I annoyed you to pass me the bread if you know what mean?

Why certainly, with the greatest of pleasure, old chap, Artie said. I assure you nothing would give me greater relief old chap, he said, and I said, Well then if you wouldn't mind having the goodness to have the kindness to get started and do it, I'll be much obliged.

Dont mention it, old chap, the obligation will be all mine, I assure you, I'll be only too pleased and too glad to pass you the bread, Artie said, and I said, Well then for Peet sake get a wiggle on you and go ahead and pass it, you poor mutt.

Why sure, here it is, why didn't you say so before, you ignorant ignoramus, Artie said.

And she shoved it over, proving sometimes the only way to get results is to be naturel.

Petroleum And Scrap Metals Made Subject to Possible Embargo

Washington, July 25—(AP)—President Roosevelt today added petroleum and petroleum products, scrap iron and other srcap metal to the list of commodities subject to possible embargo.

He signed an order subjecting these to a system of export licensing should it be deemed necessary.

The order amended a proclamation and regulations issued last July 2 designed to keep in the United States materials essential to the national defence.

The law these regulations implemented provided legal authority for the control of exports of munitions, materials and machinery needed for defence.

Stephen Early, Presidential Secretary, said the order did not mean an embargo was being placed on these products but that the authority merely was being provided to control shipments to other countries.

Lady Stanhope Has Been Dead For 100 Years

London, July 26—(CP Cable) — Britain is chuckling over an Italian broadcaster's tumble into the "pit of prevarication" in an effort to smear England.

The Rome radio, with grea seriousness, broadcast an article "sent by Lady Stanhope from Arabia," in which she said she was ashamed to be an Englishwoman.

What the broadcaster forgot to mention was that the writer, the eccentric Lady Hester Stanhope, wrote the diatribe more than 100 years ago.

In 1814 Lady Hester settled among the semi-savage tribes near Mount Lebanon because she found the restrictions of English society intolerable. She lived there the remainder of her life in the style of an eastern potentate and died in1839.

Butter Holds For First Time Since Weekend

Butter prices were steady on the Toronto open produce market yesterday for the first time since Saturday. Cheese and eggs also were unchanged in price.

After easing slightly on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, first-grade Ontario creamery butter finally came to rest yesterday at a price range of 22 1-4c to 22 1-2c. LOSS IS HEAVY IN RAILWAY FIRE

Fireman James Connelly of Hamilton Seriously Injured in Collision

Strathroy, Ont., July 26—(CP)—Firemen James Connelly of Hamilton, injured last night when an eastbound Canadian National Railways freight train ran into the rear end of another which had stopped here for water, is in serious condition in hospital here.

The locomotive in which he was working turned on its side and 25 cars of the train were derailed and caught fire.

Engineer James Tinchum of Sarnia and brakeman Walter Duncan of Hamilton who, with Connelly, made up the head and crew of the second train, suffered less serious injuries. The crew of the other train escaped injury.

A loss unofficially estimated in the "hundreds of thousands of dollars" was suffered in the fire which burned most of the contents of the derailed freight cars.

The accident occurred shortly before midnight when it was reported visibility was poor. Tinchum and Connelly were trapped in their locomotive as it ploughed into the other train and turned over.

About 30 car-lengths of track were torn up and wrecking crews are working on clearing the line for traffic. There is double track at the point and one of the lines is expected to be cleared early.

Connelly suffered concussion, severe cuts and possible internal injuries. Tinchum suffered burns and Duncan body injuries.

The Strathroy fire department, handicapped by a lack of water mains in the vicinity, brought the fire under control with chemicals.

23 NAZI PLANES

It was the second successive night of lulls in aerial activity—attributed the previous night to unfavorable weather—and the third since Germany began large-scale daily bombings June 18.

Until twilight, however, massed Nazi air raiders thundered over the English channel in repeated waves yesterday, striking at British ship convoys.

Late in the day hundreds of German Stuka dive-bombers, German fighters and British fighters battled above a convoy of at least 20 ships, which the Germans first bombed and dispersed, then bombed again when it reformed.

The Admiralty acknowledged loss of two naval trawlers—The Kingstn Galena and the Rodino—but did not say where they were sunk or give any casualty totals.

The Admiralty also disclosed that 57 were killed and 23 wounded in the torpedoing and sinking of the British destroyer Whirlwind, which it announced was sunk on July 8.

An Air Ministry communique last night said that five British planes were lost during the day, said that "hour after hour from dawn to late this evening" British fighter planes —Spitfires and Hurricanes—tackled large forces of German bombers.

Spitfires Attack Large Formation

In one instance, the communique said, six Spitfires attacked a formation of 30 bombers escorted by at least 30 fighters.

Some casualties were caused and a few houses were damaged today when a German raider dropped bombs on and near a southeast-of-England town. The crew, pursued, apparently were frightened into jeattisoning their missiles.

A communique of the Ministry of Home Security and Air Ministry said:

"During last night there was slight enemy air activity over southeast and southwest England and Wales.

"Some bombs were dropped near a town in east Anglia. No damage was reported from any area.

"It is now established that in addition to 20 previously reported three more enemy aircraft were shot down, one by R.A.F. fighters and two by anti-aircraft fire.

"This makes a grand total of 23 enemy aircraft destroyed during yesterday."

SWISS CITIZEN HIGHLY TAXED

Armed Peace Costs Higher Than Price Paid by Citizens in Countries at War

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, JR.
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Berne, Switzerland, July 26 (AP). —The Swiss citizen learned today the price he paid, in cash, for armed peace was even greater than the price citizens of some European nations were paying, in cash, for war.

Morning newspapers published a breakdown of the new capital levy which the Swiss parliament voted as an emergency measure to pay part of the cost of keeping the Swiss army of half a million men on a war footing since last September.

The levy ranges from 1.5 per cent on persons and corporations with only 5,000 francs ($1,140) in the bank or in securities to 4.5 per cent on fortunes of more than 1,250,000 francs ($284,000).

In addition income taxes in peaceful Switzerland this year are higher than those in belligerent countries.

If a Swiss and his wife earned the equivalent of $3,000 a year, they now pay as much as $620 income tax in some cantons. In Germany they would pay $519, in Britain $868, but in the United States only $8.

The capital levy loaded on top of this is said to be non-recurring but covers only an estimated 500,000,000 of the estimated 1,200,000,000 francs ($272,400,000 spent on mobilization which took the Swiss citizen away from his home and his job for several months.

WATCH PRESENTED EVERETT WEBBER

Employee of the Public Utilities Joins 3-47th Battery for Active Service

On Thursday afternoon after working hours, the employees of the Belleville Public Utilities Office and operating staff gathered in the Front St. office to honor with a presentation, a former employee, Mr. Everett Webber, of 36 Ponton St., who has recently severed his connection with the local office to enlist with the 3/47 Field Battery, R.C.A.

Mr. Webber was formerly employed by the Ontario Shore Gas Company and since its amalgamation with the Belleville Public Utilities has been connected with the Utilities Office, where he filled an important role in the servicing department. Always a competent and valued employee, in the time of his country's need he had shown the essential qualities which bade him do his bit for his country.

The gathering was called to order by Mr. Ross Stiver who spoke in glowing terms of Mr. Webber, soon to leave to join his battery in training camp. Mr. Stiver also read a short address with Miss Helen Wilson presenting Mr. Webber with a beautiful engraved wrist watch. Mr. Webber made a suitable reply, thanking his friends for the lovely gift. The meeting concluded with all joining in singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Departure Delayed Due to Crew's Refusal To Sail Without Arms

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—The Dutch merchant vessel Prins Willem III rode at anchor outside the Lake Michigan breakwater today, her departure delayed by the crew's refusal to sail aboard an unarmed ship.

Crew members said that the 2,800 ton freighter had been the target of German bombers off Flushing, Holland, on May 10 and that they wanted armament to protect themselves in the event of future attacks.

Seventeen of the crew—the complement except for a steward and Capt. W. P. C. Heisdingen—announced their decision shortly before the vessel was scheduled to sail for an unnamed foreign port.

The freighter out of Antwerp and owned by the Oranje Lines, unloaded a cargo of seeds and twine here June 27 after calls at Montreal, Duluth and Milwaukee.

Immigration authorities placed a detainer order against the ship pending advice from Washington. They said the crewmen could not land here, being aliens without necessary papers.

U.S. MIDDLEWEST HEATWAVEBROKEN

419 Deaths Attributed Directly to Recent Heat Wave

Chicago, July 26 — (AP)—Cool winds brought lower temperatures to most of the heatstricken United States middlewest today, marking the breakup of the season's longest heat wave.

A trough of low pressure extending from Utah and Arizona to the lake region moved slowly eastward and southward, pushing before it the stagnant air responsible for the torrid spell. Relatively high temperatures still prevailed south of belt of cool air, the Weather Bureau said moderate temperatures were in prospect for all sections of the nation by Sunday.

A total of 419 deaths were attributed directly and indirectly to the protracted heat wave. They included 190 heat fatalities and 229 drownings. Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania suffered the heaviest losses.

Thundershowers helped bring relief to sections of the middlewest last night but the rains were too light to be of much help to corn and other crops suffering from lack of moisture.

High winds uprooted trees and smashed windows in Chicago. Coast guardsmen rescued several craft caught in a squall on Lake Michigan.

Utility officials reported 1,500 breaks in northern Illinois power lines. Physicians at the Swedish American hospital in Rockford, Ill. performed two appendectomies and delivered two babies by lamp light when a storm disrupted electric light service.

Two bridges over the Chicago River could not immediately be closed after being lifted for a boat. The heat expanded the metal.

The released Polish prisoners, it was said, must work but will be free to choose where—whether in Germany or Poland.

Trenton and District

Trenton, July 26 — (Special)—Twenty-nine recruits of the Headquarters Company of the H. & P. E. turned out for voluntary drill last night. These voluntary drills are being held twice a week for those who wish to try out for non-commissioned officers. These drills are being conducted by Company Quartermaster Sergeant G. Trounce and Company Sergeant Major W. J. McCoy.

Reports from Frankford and Stirling recruiting offices indicate that these two platoons should have their full quota of men within two days. Sixteen more recruits were signed on at the Trenton Armoury last night and will receive their medical examination this evening.

Donations of a phonograph, a loudspeaker and a large Union Jack would be greatly appreciated, stated Major Angus Mowat this morning. Without a band, it will be necessary to obtain some sort of music for the soldiers in their marching, in order that they can get the right marching time.

Wooler in Finals

Wooler and Canadian Doughnuts will battle it out tonight at Bayside Park in the second game of the Trenton district softball playdowns. Wooler won the first game on Wednesday night by a score of 8 to 7. If they make it two straight tonight Wooler will meet the R. C. A. F. Flyers on Monday night in the first of a three-out-of-five series. A win by the Doughnuts or a tie will necessitate a third game on Monday night and the finals will start on Wednesday evening next.

At least two teams from the Trenton District League will enter the O.A.S.A. playdowns, according to President Jesse Baker this morning. The R.C.A.F. Flyers will enter the Intermediate "B" playdowns and Wooler will enter the Intermediate "C" playdowns. There is a possibility that Glen Miller will also enter the Intermediate "C" class in which case Wooler and Glen Miller will be forced to playoff for the right to continue the playdowns.

Bernard Shaw on 84th Birthday Wants to Know What Fight is About

London, July 26 (CP)—Playwright George Bernard Shaw, celebrating an 84th birthday which "it would be kinder to forget" said today "I wouldn't be surprised" when asked if he had been arrested for anti-war activity a rumor attributed to a German radio station but untraced by British Broadcasting Radio Corporation listening posts.

Shaw confessed he is "too old to have any conscience" about this war or "any other matter," and said of his birthday:

It was an "unfortunate fact" he wished to conceal, "not to advertise."

One London newspaper duly recorded the anniversary in its court circular column.

The great man planned to spend the day quietly in his fourth-floor apartment in Whitehall court, in the centre of London.

Since the outbreak of the war Shaw has taken keen delight in writing letters-to-the-editor airing his views on the war.

Last October he called on Neville Chamberlain, then Prime Minister, to pursue the war "with logical ruthlessness" by bombing Berlin—or else have a peace conference.

Shaw demanded to know what all the fight was about, declaring he was "born a coward" and disliked "extremely all this blackout business and ruinous taxation and the rest of it."

In his most recent pronouncement G.B.S. suggested Britain lift the blockade and supply Germany with all the food she needs to fight the war to a finish.

"Starving your enemy may prevent you from fighting to a finish," he argued.

English Farmer, in Stocking Feet, Captures Nazi Pilot on His Farm

London, July 26 (CP)—In his stocking feet, an English farmer, B. J. Parsons, 47, captured a German bomber pilot in southwest England today.

Seeing the Nazi airman parachute to earth, Parsons grabbed up a double-barreled shotgun and raced across his farmyard to make the seizure.

Parsons is a member of the home guard of "parashooters" organized to combat the landing of Nazi parachute troops.

The War Today

By GUY RHOADES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A new peace banner, apparently made in Berlin flew today from atop Holland's Helversum radio station, claiming a Netherlands committee had asked President Roosevelt of the United States "in the name of humanity" to arrange a Hague peace conference.

Who constituted the "Netherlands peace committee" appeared to be a mystery. The Netherlands government, working from London since the German invasion of the lowlands, said it had never heard of such a body.

The broadcast said the committee had cabled President Roosevelt asking him to arrange for discussion for establishment "of an honorable peace between Germany and England." It further requested the President to do everything possible "in the name of humanity to prevent annihilation of either of these brother nations."

The broadcast and possibly the cable (Washington did not acknowledge its receipt immediately) appeared to be provoked by Nazi sources afraid of having to fulfill their threat to "annihilate England."

Believe Nazis Backing Down

It was widely believed that the results of the last few days' air raids and attempted torpedo-boat raids had produced considerable funk in high Nazi circles. British authorities said the results were comparatively negligible and enemy losses comparatively heavy. There have been no night air attacks on Britain for two nights in succession. The Nazis attribute it to bad weather, but this appears to have been local over Britain as the Royal Air Force continued its raids on Germany.

The Germans resumed their raids today, apparently in small numbers. One Nazi bomber, bewildered by the fiery pursuit of R.A.F. fighters, jettisoned his bomb load over an English village, wrecking some dwellings and killing a civilian. Another was shot down and three of its crew killed.

The pilot was the only man saved in this crash. An English farmer living nearby, dashed from his house and captured him.

Verbal Outburst By Japan.

While the mysterious white flag flew from Holland, Japan reacted with a verbal outburst against United States orders requiring export licenses hereafter for those who wish to send her oil or scrap metal.

The new law provides that supplies of such materials may be cut off when United States authorities deem such action desirable. It was generally agreed that the order was a virtual embargo but Japan preferred, apparently to think not.

A Tokyo foreign office spokesman said that should an embargo be imposed Japan's reaction would be "very great". He did not elaborate.

Top for butcher bulls was $6 on Monday. Fed calves closed at $8.25 to $10 cwt. on light demand.

The pick of Monday's stockers sold at $7 to $7.25 cwt. For the balance of the week, common to medium kinds sold at $5 to $6.50. Milker and springer trade was dull at $45 to $70 with tops generally at $65 each.

R.A.F. CARRIES WAR TO ENEMY IN MEDITERRANEAN

Belief Growing Hitler Not to Launch Blitzkrieg Against Britain Soon

Signs Increase Hitler Looks East In Search of Oil

Churchill Government is Keeping Sharp Eye Lest Axis Launch Major Push Into Iraq and Iran or South Into Africa

BRITISH OPTIMISTIC

Chances of Dealing Italo-German Dictators Decisive Blow Much Greater Than as Recently as a Month Ago — Reasons for Optimism Cited

(By Sam Robertson Canadian Press Staff Writer).

London, July 27 (CP Cable)—Belief is growing in high quarters that Hitler may not launch his blitzkrieg invasion of the United Kingdom in the immediate future.

Instead indications are increasing that he may attempt to push east in search of oil, which is so vital to the operation of his mechanized war colossus.

While maintaining the greatest defensive force ever billeted in the British Isles and operating on the assumption that "tomorrow may be the day for the invasion" the Churchill government is keeping a sharp eye elsewhere lest the axis launch a major push eastward toward the rich oil fields of Iraq and Iran, or South into Africa.

Situation Not Serious

Although pro-British sentiment in the French Colonial Empire and the Belgian Congo is understood to have deteriorated recently, the situation is not regarded here as approaching a serious stage.

On the contrary, high circles are known to be more optimistic about the chances of dealing the Italo-German dictators a decisive blow than they were as recently as a month ago.

Among the reasons for optimism are:

1. The increasing strength of the Allied forces concentrated in the United Kingdom and elsewhere in the Empire.

2 The vastly accelerated production of war materials in the British Isles.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Science Service Meteorologist

Light, warm and cold! No light is so good as daylight: it is powerful and the sky serves as a good reflector, lighting objects on sides opposite the sun. Sunlight is a warm light, however, and so are all artificial lights. Lamps either burn some substance, or some substance is made hot more or less directly. Cold light has been dreamed of for years. The nearest approach is the vapor lamp. Fireflies have been pointed out as very efficient; but since we have to reckon the cost of light on a power-consuming basis, firefly light is not over 3 per cent efficient.

PILOT UNHARMED, PLANE CRASHES IN PASTURE FIELD

New Finch Trainer Damaged and Telephone and Hydro Wires Broken

MOTOR STALLS

His motor stalling when coming out of a dive, an R.C.A.F. pilot emerged with a slight shaking up this morning, when the new Finch training plane he was flying crashed through a telephone line; landed perfectly, and turned turtle, when the prop struck a stone in a pasture field on the farm of J. R. Anderson, Mountain View.

The propeller of the single-motored plane was smashed as was the tail assembly. The pilot was taken to hospital by an R.C.A.F. ambulance, while other planes and salvage crews were rushed to the scene.

According to P. B. Hamilton, neighboring farmer, who with his daughter, was picking berries in a nearby field, the plane circle high over head and swooped down in a dive. Flattening out, the motor stalled and the pilot glided his plane to the pasture field. He struck a telephone line with right wing.

5-YEAR-OLD GIRL BURNED TO DEATH IN TRAILER HOME

Older Brother Attempts to Pull Sister, Hilda Green, Through Window of Trailer

ASLEEP IN BUNK

Orangeville, Ont., July 27 (CP)—Hilda Green, five, was burned to death early today despite the brave attempts of her 13-year-old brother, Maurice, to pull her through the window of a blazing trailer.

Maurice was almost successful in saving his sister, but his strength failed, and the little girl fell back onto the floor after he lifted her by the arms to the top of the window sill.

Mrs. Tom Green of Hockley was preparing a meal for her husband and Mr. and Mrs William Wood in their small trailer home on the seventh line of Mono when the fumes from their gasoline stove caught fire. Mrs. Green and Mrs. Wood, who was assisting in preparing the meal, rushed outside.

The two children were sleeping in the bunks in the trailer. Maurice was the first to be awakened by the smoke. He managed to crawl through the window to safety, but his attempts to save Hilda were futile. The little girl was engulfed in the flames. The trailer was destroyed.

Mrs. Green, forgetting her children momentarily in the excitement attempted to re-enter the blazing trailer, to save her child. She had to be restrained by her husband. Provincial Bert Hammer investigated. Dr. C. I. Scott, Coroner, announced an inquest would be held.

PETAIN GOV'T PERPLEXED BY A NEW PROBLEM

Reported German Gov't. Releasing French Prisoners and Putting Them in French-Occupied Territory

TO CONSERVE FOOD

Troops Stated They Were Given Army Rations for Two or Three Days and Then Had to Shift for Themselves

(By Charles S. Foltz, Jr., Associated Press Staff Writer).

Berne, Switzerland, July 27 (AP)—In an effort to reduce the millions of hungry mouths in German-held portions of France, the German army of occupation is reported to be releasing hundreds of thousands of imprisoned French soldiers, shoving them across the demarcation line into French-ruled territory, it was reported today.

Released prisoners whose homes are in the unoccupied zone are delighted, but officials of the Vichy government, already hard-pressed for food supplies, are described as frightened and perplexed by the problem of feeding the former soldiers.

Travellers arriving here said the Germans were herding the disarmed French soldiers across the line regardless of whether their homes were in occupied or unoccupied territory.

(The Germans, in announcing yesterday the release of 250,000 Polish prisoners to be used as farm laborers, said they were unwilling to release French war prisoners, although press in unoccupied France has been calling for their liberation.)

The Eclaireur De Nice published interviews with some of the interned soldiers from three prison camps in the western French towns of Surgeres, Niort and St. Jean D'Angely.

Tell Typical Story

Soldiers from the Surgeres camp, where they said there were 26,000 prisoners, told what appeared to be a typical story:

The Germans treated them well and gave them army rations the first few days. Then they took the French officers to another camp and ordered the French civil authorities to feed the enlisted men.

But the authorities in the town, of only 3,500 population, had neither food nor supplies for such a multitude.

There were not even barracks or tents and the soldiers had to scramble for whatever shelter they could find.

Finally, without notice, the Germans loaded all the prisoners onto trains and took them to the border of the unoccupied area.

Eighty thousand from the camps at Niort and St. Jean D'Angely were said to have been treated similarly.

At the demarcation line, the French authorities sent home those who lived in the unoccupied zone and kept the others in the army in the hope of getting German permission to send them to their homes in the north of France.

How to feed these soldiers "exiled" in their own country is a gigantic problem to the Vichy government, already trying to find sustenance for Belgian and other refugees.

N. S.-BORN PILOT OFFICER AWARDED D. F. C.

D. A. A. Romans Performs "Fine Feat of Airmanship" Over Eschewege Airdrome

PILOT INJURED

By HAROLD FAIR

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 27 (C.P. Cable) — Nova Scotia-born Pilot Officer David Albert Alton Romans was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross today for what was described as a "fine feat of airmanship" in gaining control of an aircraft after the pilot was knocked unconscious during a bombing attack on Eschewege Airdrome.

Roman, a native of Glace Bay, whose father lives in Halifax, was navigator and bomb aimer on the plane and during the attack it was hit by a shell from the ground defences with the result that the pilot was rendered unconscious.

Ralizing that the plane was flying in an erratic manner and that he was not receiving communications from the pilot, Romans proceeded to the cockpit. Sitting on the unconscious pilot's knees, the Canadian gained control of the aircraft. He continued to fly it under these conditions until the injured pilot was removed 20 minutes later by the remainder of the crew.

The announcement accompanying the award said "this officer performed a fine feat of airmanship and showed great presence of mind in gaining control of the aircraft under such difficult conditions, especially as it was flying at a dangerously low altitude and subjected to intense and accurate anti-aircraft fire. He further succeeded in flying the aircraft safely back to its base, which necessitated accurate navigation without assistance."

Dream Comes True in Far Alaska After Long Sea Trip in 'Funny Boat'

Juneau, Alaska July 27—(AP)—Paul Satko's escape from a world skeptical of his attempt to free himself from a possible rut and start life again at 49 with his wife and seven children, was complete in this Alaskan capital today.

The jobless former Richmond, Va., welder and machinist, anchored here yesterday in his homemade "ark" after a three-month voyage of struggle from Tacoma, Wash.

Almost at once came an opportunity. The Alaskan employment service offered him a steady job for three years on its 96-acre farm where he would care for its farm implements.

His arrival ended a three-year dream. The Satkos saved every penny with which to buy materials for their funny boat. They towed it clear across the United States and finished it on Puget Sound. In it they installed a 14-year-old automobile motor.

Coming across the country, people pointed them out, shouting after them:

"Look at Noah and his ark."

And the "ark" it became. In Seattle he was arrested, hailed into court and told his boat was unseaworthy and that the trip would endanger the lives of his minor children. But Satko slipped away one night for the far north in his marine monstrosity, overcame the perils of sea and several mishaps, to do what Seattle mariners said was almost impossible.

"If a man wants to accomplish something bad enough, he'll accomplish it. I believe there is nothing I can't do"—this was Satko's oft repeated speech to non-believers.

He said he made the trip rather than live on relief in Virginia. He had been unemployed for several years.

Hops Into Air Like Grasshopper, New Autogiro Needs No Runway

Willow Grove, Pa., July 27 — (AP)—A "grasshopper" type airplane able to take off and land in a space no larger than a tennis curt is the aviation industry's latest contribution to flying.

Developed by the Pitcairn Autogiro Company the new type autogiro literally hops into the air. Its predecessors could land at a dead stop, but required a runway for the takeoff.

In its first public demonstrations yesterday, the new ship leaped skyward more than 20 feet.

This "jump takeoff" ability, said Harold F. Pitcairn, President of the company, makes the plane "completely independent of ground obstacles."

The takeoff is made by speeding the overhead rotor blades to 300 rotations per minute—100 more than under flying conditions — while the blades are in a horizontal position. The pilot then tilts the blades and the 'giro shoots vertically into the air.

Designed primarily for private use, the autogiro uses automobile type starting, lighting and ignition systems, and seats. The engine is located behind the seat to lighten the plane's nose and provide better vision for the pilot.

In One Particular Raid R.A.F. Bombs Large Factory at Gotha, Where Messerschmitt Planes Are Made — 14 Airdromes in Germany and Holland Blasted

London, July 27 (CP)—Two enemy planes were shot down today over the English Channel in a resumption of German air assaults against Britain.

Today's daylight raids were a continuation of widespread night forays in which two persons, a man and a woman, were killed by Nazi bombs.

The night raiders aimed their bombs at southeast and southwest England, Wales and northeast Scotland. One house was wrecked and a number damaged in southeast England, but the Ministry of Home Defence said that elsewhere the Nazi bombs fell in isolated regions with but little damage. One bomb in Scotland left a crater 25 feet deep.

PILGRIMS PAY SAINT TRIBUTE

Many Infirm and Crippled Among Worshippers at Ste. Anne de Beaupre

Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que., July 27—(CP)—A long procession of pontifical zouaves marched by torchlight last night up a winding path on the north shore of the St. Lawrence to the Roman Catholic Basilica to Ste. Anne. The ceremoney brought to an end celebrations in this shrine village marking the feats of Ste. Anne.

Many infirm and crippled were among the pilgrims who filed to the shrine in a steady stream all day yesterday in tribute to the Saint to whom miraculous healing powers are attributed.

In the afternoon, throngs of faithful crowded the basilica as Mgr. Joseph Charbonneau, Coadjutor-Archbishop of Montreal, invoked the blessing of the sick, held after vespers.

During the morning alone more than 100 masses were said on the altars of the basilica, situated near the river in this village 20 miles north-east of Quebec.

The traditional annual celebrations were held at the shrine near the place where a crew of French seamen years ago erected a tiny church to Ste. Anne in thanksgiving for their safe delivery after a stormy voyage.

Merchant Ships Sunk This Week

News dispatches told of the sinking of nine merchant ships in the week ending July 26.

Five of these, small vessels aggregating 5,104 tons, were announced by the Admiralty in denying an exaggerated German claim.

The Admiralty, which has given up the practice of announcing each loss individually, said nine British ships totalling 23,963 tons, four allied ships totalling 7,335 tons and six neutral ships totalling 20,734 tons were sunk by the enemy in the week ending July 14. This was a drop from the two preceding weeks.

Besides the five small vessels announced as sunk by the Admiralty, news dispatches during the past week told of the sinking of the 5,824 ton Norwegian tanker Sarita, the 1,865-ton Estonian vessel Tlice, the 1,466-ton Greek ship Adamastos, and the 1,000-ton British ship Elarcy.

U. S. CAN GEAR UP ARMS MAKE FOR 2,000,000 MEN

'Best Production Facilities and Technique in World' Will Gain Momentum

KNUDSEN'S STATEMENT

Washington, July 27—(AP)—Assurances that the United States can gear up its arms production to equip a force of 2,000,000 men came from the Defence Industrial Chief today as steps were taken to expand naval shipbuilding and construct a $92,000,000 aircraft engine plant.

Laying out a balance sheet of both the progress and problems of the rearmament effort, William S. Knudsen, Defence Commission member in charge of production, said in a statement:

"This can be accomplished just as fast as the best production facilities and techniques in the world can gain momentum through favorable Congressional action upon this augmented program."

Knudsen Testifies

Congressional study of the program, for which President Roosevelt recently requested an additional $4,800,000,000, continued with Knudsen himself and Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., another Defence Commission member, testifying privately before a House Appropriations Sub-committee yesterday.

The Senate will open debate early next week on the completed committee draft of a compulsory military training bill, only peacetime conscription measure in United States history. The only other important defence measure remaining is the $4,800,000,000 Appropriation Bill.

With more money on the way to start laying keels for a two-ocean navy twice the size of the present fleet, Knudsen told a Press conference yesterday naval shipbuilding would be extended beyond the Atlantic seaboard to five "dormant" yards on the Pacific and Gulf coasts, including one at Seattle and one at Los Angeles. The others were not identified.

Advance to Wright Aeronautical

A $92,000,000 advance given the Wright Aeronautical Corporation by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation represented the agency's first major defence production loan. The money will be used for

CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS

JAPANESE LEGATION MEMBER FINED

A member of the Japanese Legation at Ottawa was apprehended speeding in Belleville yesterday and charged with infractions of the city traffic regulations. Traffic Officer Doug Ellis made the 'pinch' when he apprehended Commander Hasuyke Yamari, a member of the Japanese Legation at Ottawa, driving his automobile at a 45 miles per hour clip on Dundas Street East shortly before 4.00 p.m. last evening. The conventional minimum fine was levied.

MAJ. E. W. MATTHEWS GUARDING AIRDROME

Somewhere in England, prepared to give any intruder a warm greeting with cold steel, several hundred Canadian troops guard an airdrome, that is home to one of the Royal Canadian Air Force squadrons now in England.

The battle-thirsty Canadians are a cog in a broad scheme worked out for the defence of the airports that dot Britain's embattled island.

Lieut.-General McNaughton spelled off a strong formation from Canadian Active Service reserve units to guard and defend the 'drome in which the Army Co-operation Squadron under Squadron-Leader Van Vliet, well-known in local circles, is poised for action.

Major E. W. Matthews of Stirling, Ont., and well known in the district was selected by the Canadian commander to command the force which is composed of men representing every combat unit in the First Canadian Division.

SHORT-CHANGE ARTIST OPERATING IN TRENTON

Be on the look-out for a short-change artist, Chief Kidd warned local business houses this morning. Reports from Trenton today revealed that a man about 35 years of age, rather good looking and of dark complexion had victimized Trenton merchants in the old short change racket that invariably confuses the clerk making change.

The method employed is quite simple, but hard to detect when the operator commences to "sales talk." Usually a $10 or $20 bill is tendered for a purchase and after change has been made, the operator suddenly discovers he has the proper change to pay for the article. It is during the switch back that the clerk is victimized and before the mistake is discovered the operator has disappeared. Merchants and clerks are warned to be on the alert regarding such practices.

CARCASS OF DOG REMOVED FROM TRACKS

Struck by either a passing motor car or a C.P.R. train, the body of a dead dog was found at the C.P.R. cross-over at Pinnacle St. this morning. The animal had been dead for sometime before being reported to the police. The carcass was later removed by the city scavenger.

FORM OF WET ROT SEEN IN POTATOES

A form of wet rot has made its appearance in some potato crops of the district, especially those planted in the low-lying districts, according to farmers and vendors on the city market today.

The rot is not general, it is said, and is due to the consistent rains and heavy moisture of the past few days, aided and abetted by the wave of humidity that enveloped the district.

The rot is confined to the surface of the potatoes and readily rubs away with the fingers. Growers having crops in the higher regions report no signs of the disease in their crops.

C.G.I.T. GIRLS RETURN FROM CAMP

The C.G.I.T. girls, who for the past twelve days have been camping at the Belleville Boys' Camp at Moira Lake, will break camp and return to city life today. Even though the girls' time at camp was shorter than that enjoyed by the first contingent of boys who broke camp two weeks ago, at least the girls had it over the boys when it came to suitable camping weather, as the past week has been ideal for camp life.

Before the next contingent of campers take up residence at the camp on Moira Lake, all buildings, etc. connected with the camp will receive a thorough cleaning and will also take on a new coat of paint.

$25 TOOL KIT STOLEN FROM LOCAL CONTRACTOR

Burglars entered the toolhouse of E. F. Rutherford, Belleville contractor, and stole a tool kit valued at $25.00 early today. The tools had been left in a toolhouse at the corner of Bleecker Avenue and Bridge Street by workmen who are engaged by Mr. Rutherford in the erection of a home being built by E. Bernstein.

Workmen saw a suspicious looking character carrying a package east on Bridge Street early today, but after giving chase the man disappeared along Purdy's lane and hid in a large hay field. Police were notified shortly after 8.00 p.m. and a posse organized headed by Sergt. Arthur Booth, P.C. Taylor and Provincial Constables D. Adair and Hubbell. The posse conducted a search of the transient jungles east of the city seeking the apprehension of the robber.

Shortly before noon today Leonard Orton was apprehended by police authorities near Leavens' Airfield, approximately two miles east of Belleville on Highway No. 2, and was arrested on a charge of breaking and entering and theft. The charge arose out of the disappearance of a tool kit from a toolhouse on the corner of Bleecker Ave. and Bridge Street early today and was the result of a chase by police posse of a suspicious appearing character who had been seen carrying a package on Bridge St. The tools, the property of E. F. Rutherford, Belleville contractor, were recovered near where Orton was arrested.

EXPECT 8,000,000 WILL REGISTER ON AUG. 19, 20, 21

'Our Heritage Must be Defended' Says Hon. J. G. Gardiner in Radio Broadcast

ANSWERS CLASSIFIED

Ottawa, July 27—(CP) — When national registration is completed there will be listed the names of 8,000,000 Canadians "pledged to protect the liberties which make this country a refuge in the time of storm throughout the world," Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of National War Services, said in a broadcast address last night.

Speaking over the National network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Gardiner said the dates for registration would be Aug. 19, 20 and 21.

"Our heritage of freedom must be defended," declared the War Services Minister. "That defence requires a mobilization of all our material and human resources.

"We are therefore, going to register all the people of Canada from 16 years up. We are going to join in the task and make its accomplishment a joy."

The human manpower of Canada he said, was working its way into production, industry, the navy, the air force and the army and the registration was necessary to guide efforts, to assist those needing help at home and abroad and "in short, to help the government to help you in every walk of life."

Classified to Assist War Effort

Everyone of 16 years and over must register, males answering 18 questions and females 19. The answers, Mr. Gardiner declared, would be classified to assist in doing certain things over a period of four or five years.

Industries of business places having less than 200 employees, will be supplied with cards by the registrar for their constituency, if they desire to cooperate by assisting employees to fill them out. The individuals will then take them to the booths, sign then and receive their cards.

The minister asked those industries employing more than 200 persons to place registrars at the disposal of the department to register employees at the place of business.

Those organizations or industries which do not avail themselves of either of these methods will be asked to permit their employees time to go to booths as directed and register personally.

He called for more volunteers to help in the work and said: "Everyone listening to my voice tonight can make a concrete contribution to Canada's war effort by aiding in this registration.

"We must turn what at any other time might be considered an inconvenience or annoyance into the work of patriotism and pleasure," said the minister. "There is no greater joy than that of working toward a common good purpose."

HAMILTON MAN FALLS OFF PIER

Deckhand Saw Man Fall in Water but Artificial Respiration Not Successful

Toronto, July 27—(CP)—Richard Garfield Langrill, aged about 60, of Hamilton drowned in Toronto Harbor early today.

Police said they have a statement from George Gilchrist, deckhand on the S.S. Cayuga, who said he noticed Langrill sitting on Pier No. 8 for a time. After hearing a splash, Gilchrist saw that Langrill had disappeared and sought aid.

Langrill was brought from the water and artificial respiration was applied unsuccessfully.

The man was identified by papers in his pockets. There also was a card saying in case of accident communication should be made with Mrs. Arkness at a Hamilton street address.

Heavily Laden Transport Crashes Into The Ditch

Port Hope, Ont., July 27 (CP)—Gordon Cooper, driver of a Toronto-Peterboro transport company unit, escaped injury today when his heavily laden transport crashed into the ditch as he attempted to avoid a collision with an approaching car. Cooper said he was crowded into the ditch when two United States cars attempted to pass on a curve.

The scene of the accident is at the southern entrance to series of curves on Highway No. 28 enroute to Bewdley. The American cars failed to stop.

The transport crashed into a tree. The tree cleared the tractor cab by a few inches and imbedded itself in the first of two trailers.

'Laughing Water' Weary, Wounded Is Home Again

"Little Chief" eight foot wooden Indian mascot of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, "somewhere in England" won't have his girl-friend with him after all.

Yesterday afternoon, "Laughing Water" roving Indian Squaw, scion of a noble line of cedar trees, who was "squaw-knpped" from her position in front of Harry Ketcheson's tourist camp two miles west of the city, quietly returned to her position and job as tourist greeter.

But "Laughing Water" who mysteriously turned up in Camp Borden, came home a casualty. She was minus an arm and a leg. Today she is in hospital, where operations will be performed by competent tree-surgeons.

But that is not all. Her irate owner who was incensed beyond description following the disappearance of his favorite decoration, nearly had a cardiac attack, when the truck conveying "Laughing Water" drew up to his door.

The driver dismounted and presented Harry with a bill for ten dollars, "transportation of one wooden Indian from Camp Borden to Belleville."

Harry gasped. He looked at the driver, then at the bill, and gasped again. Then he looked at the shattered body of "Laughing Water" and gasped again. He put his hand in his pocket, drew forth a ten-dollar bill and paid the driver.

"Well I'll be blankety-blanked," he shouted, "If that's not adding insult to injury. The sons-'o-guns steal my Indian, then send it back collect. I had put it down as a youthful prank for when I was a young fellow we did such things, but by cracky, this making me pay for their fun is too much. I'm going to take action and get that ten bucks back."

"Laughing Water" it is believed, was taken from her proud position by members of an army unit and taken to Camp Borden. She is valued at $1,000 by her owner, and formerly occupied a proud position as a cigar-store Indian in this city.

And so, "Little Chief" is destined to live his days, for the present at least in a bachelor atmosphere.

SOLDIER TELLS OF EXPEDITION

Ship Loaded With Explosives Fights Off Enemy Attacks With Heavy Barrages

Montreal, July 27 (CP)—In an air-mail letter to his parents here, Sub-Lt. Jack Pickford tells of a wrecking expedition in which he took part in France. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Pickford believe it is the one for which their son was mentioned in naval despatches.

Pickford was in charge of a group of 16 men during the expedition. His letter does not mention the locale of the wrecking, but an accompanying clipping from a London paper mentioned Dieppe, Le Havre and Brest as having been wrecked, has Brest underlined.

The party knew they were going to France as soon as they were told to don battle dress, June 17, the letter says. "But of course we did not know where or why. We went aboard a patrol vessel and proceeded to sea. The ship was loaded down with explosives and this told us that our job was to be demolition.

"We transferred to another destroyer about 11 a.m. No sooner was the first ship out of sight when we had our first air attack. With all our explosives aboard, even a small bomb would have finished us completely, but we gave them such a heavy barrage that they didn't dare come very close."

The ship passed through other air attacks until it reached port. The party set out in four lorries to their objectives throughout the city, with the commander of the entire landing party along to show how the explosives were to be laid.

Meets 3 Canadians

"One of the strangest things happened after we docked. An army lorry drove up and it had three Canadian soldiers aboard. They were privates in an eastern Canadian regiment, and had been left behind because their lorry had broken down. They repaired it and cruised about France for 10 days having a wonderful time, with the Germans on their trail but it didn't seem to worry them in the least. They were fine fellows and were only too glad to let us have their truck to drive it for us.

"By 9.30 p.m., our charges were ready. Then we went from job to job, lit the fuses and watched 'em blow up. Our destroyer back for us and tied up alongside a large crane which I had to blow up."

The destroyer had to move out into the harbor, leaving a small boat behind for the landing party, before the crane could be demolished.

"Much to my disappointment," relates Pickford, "this particular crane did not fall, although the job was so weakened that it could never be moved again.

"To get back to the ship we had to drive our lorry through flames of several oil tanks which had been blown up. We found the boat and were rowed out to the ship, but before we left, we even blew up our lorry, not wishing to leave much for Jerry.

"And believe me, we didn't leave much."

AGED RECLUSE IS FOUND DEAD

George Coulter of Chapman's Corners Found in Chair of Home, Death Being Due Due to Heart Attack

Missing from his usual work in his truck-garden for some time, the lifeless body of George Coulter, 71, aged recluse of Chapman's Corners, near Tweed, was found in a recumbent position in a chair in his kitchen late yesterday afternoon. Death was due to natural causes, according to Coroner Dr. M. G. Dales, who stated that no inquest would be held.

The deceased, whose wife died some years ago, lived on a small plot of land where he raised vegetables. He lived alone.

Yesterday Mr. H. C. Myles, of Tweed, a customer of the deceased, visited Coulter's house to purchase vegetables. Noticing the kitchen door partly opened he looked inside and saw the body in a reclining position in an armchair. It was bloated and gave other evidences of being there for some time. According to physicians Coulter had been dead for some 36 hours.

Mr. Myles notified the coroner who in turn notified Chief of Police Clare Hayes. The body was taken to the Blakely Funeral Home.

Capt. J. W. Nicholson has been appointed to take charge of organization of Auxiliary Military Pioneer Corps throughout Wales.

Capital Closeups

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 27—(CP)—Parliament struggled towards prorogation this week through an 11th hour flood of words that bears heavily on the legislators in the sweltering summer heat.

Switching abruptly from strictly war problems, members focussed attention on unemployment insurance, the new wheat policy and the proposal to establish a provincially-owned and controlled bank in Alberta.

The finale to the session, which has been going full-blast since May 16, will probably come next week and it won't be too soon for the majority of the M. P.'s. A comprehensive statement on progress of the war program will feature the windup.

Picked up in Passing

An American wrote the Governor-General and addressed the letter, "Mr. Earl Athlone, or Acting General..." Hon. R. J. Manion remains in Ottawa and intimates say he is doing considerable writing...he's already the author of two books...

The dignity of parliament doesn't allow members to dispense with coats in the Commons or Senate ...but when the unemployment insurance committee met in camera it was a coatless assembly...

Putting in an unexpected and somewhat unprecedented appearance in the unemployment insurance committee, the United States minister, J. Pierrepont Moffat, arrived just in time to hear a Canadian Manufacturers' Association representative say that the American insurance plan had been "forced down their throats by the brain trusters in Washington..."

Champion statement before the same committee came from S. J. Hodgson, youthful Labor Department expert...he told the members he would "quote at length from the pundits, since their well-rounded periods will be perhaps more cogent than my own spontaneous utterances..."

Sessional Chaff

Most significant political manoeuvre of the session has been the abortive drive of the Conservatives for a national government ... it folded up almost overnight when the huge Liberal majority showed it was definitely frigid to the proposal...

The Dominion's war triumvirate — Defence Minister Ralston, Air Minister Power and Navy Minister Macdonald — has the support and approval of practically every member...the trio practically forms a war council and probably no three men in Ottawa could work closer together or more harmoniously...

Disappointment of the session was the showing of many new members who scarcely opened their mouths...the young white hopes were entirely out of the picture... Conservative Leader Hanson gained in prestige in the Commons as the session progressed...

The War This Week

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Cable Editor

The marksmanship of the gunners in Britain's fighter aircraft and of those who man the anti-aircraft guns below sharpened to a fine point in the 47th week of the war as the Nazi leadership again hesitated to attempt to carry out its threat to invade the British Isles.

Concentrating its attack on convoys of merchant ships in the English channel, the German air force found more than its match in the British defenders. On Thursday alone, 28 German airplanes were shot down on British territory or in the waters around Britain, with a loss of only five fighter planes of the Royal Air Force.

Divided councils in the Nazi hierarchy over the advisability of a full-fledged onslaught against Britain were rumored, but any last hope Hitler might have entertained of an easy victory was shattered by Lord Halifax's declaration Monday that Britain would "not cease fighting till freedom for ourselves and others has been secured."

Important Help

Important help for Britain came from the United States. First, Washington authorities promised to do all in their power to facilitate the building in the United States for Britain of 3,000 aircraft a month in addition to the large orders already in production.

Secondly, President Roosevelt issued an order banning exports of oil and scrap metal except under special licence. This is expected to halt the flow of United States gasoline to Germany and Italy by way of Spanish and Portuguese ports. At the same time it was announced that Britain is preparing a stringent rationing system for exports to all non-belligerent countries to prevent the possibility of re-exports to the enemy.

Japan, which obtains 85 per cent of her scrap metal and 65 per cent of her oil from the United States, is expected to be hit hard also, adding additional strain to Japanese-American relations. In retaliation Japan was reported to have practically banned American business activity in Japanese-occupied North China.

Additional Sacrifices

The British people were called on to make additional financial sacrifices in a special war budget introduced in the House of Commons by Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer. It raised the standard rate of income tax to 42 1-2 per cent and imposed an assortment of new levies.

Soviet Russia formally added the Baltic states, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, to her territory and, while openly acquiescent, Berlin was reported to be annoyed. Russia also appeared as a champion of Bulgaria's claims on Rumania, adding a new unsettling factor to the Balkan situation where Germany is attempting to create harmony while she is busy in the west. Britain, now that Rumania has a government friendly to the enemy, is said to have associated herself with the Soviet action in Sofia.

Glancing back 25 years: French forces in the Vosges mountains attacked vigorously in the week of July 21-27, 1915, capturing heights controlling the main road to Colmar. In Poland, Austro-German frces battled across the Narew and Vistula Rivers as their drive on Warsaw gained momentum.

SOLD SWASTIKAS IN SOUTH AFRICA

Government Takes Action to Round Up Bold Fifth Columnists

Worcester, South Africa—(CP)—When Dr. Colin Steyn, Minister of Justice, made a statement here that immediate and effective action would be taken by the government against the "fifth column" and inimical propaganda, the gathering cheered him.

Worcester had a special reason for cheering. Even before the outbreak of war the pro-Nazi propaganda here was far too blatant.

The latest indication has been the sale of swastikas among local schoolboys. These are made of copper metal for use in button-holes. The swastika itself is worn inside the lapel of the jacket.

Several schoolboys were engaged in the sale of the Nazi emblem.

Frankford

Frankford — The Good Will Group of the W. A. met at the home of Mrs. Walter Morrow on Tuesday evening. The meeting was opened by the leader, Mrs. S. Osterhout in the usual manner. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Mikel. Another hymn was sung. Frances and Alice Lohnes favoured throughout the evening with several duets, which were thoroughly enjoyed. Readings were given by Mrs. F. Ketcheson, Mrs. Geo. Montgomery and Mrs. Sine and Mrs. A. Thompson. Mrs. J. Carr and Mrs. W. Morrow favoured with a piano duet. An apple contest was won by Mrs. Hubble, who also won the bean guessing contest. Mrs. H. Hadley won the prize for a ditty in honour of the hostess. An "age" contest was won by Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. P. Brown. The evening was brought to a close by "God Save the King", Mizpah benediction and Grace. A most delicious lunch was served by Mrs. W. Morrow and Mrs. S. Osterhout.

RED SCHOOLHOUSE IS MAKING EXIT

Modern Education Methods Oust Simple Building of Father's Day

New Westminster, B. C.—(CP)—The little country schoolhouse is fast becoming a thing of the past in British Columbia's Fraser Valley and other rural areas, and next term many a farmer's son and daughter will troop to a school as modern as any attended by their city cousins.

The small one-room "little red schoolhouse," where many men now prominent in public got their first taste of three "R's", are quickly being replaced by modern new halls of learning, fed from far and wide by the school bus. The new structures embody home economics and gymnasiums, formerly frowned on by the rural folk.

For years the farmer vote in the Fraser Valley turned down school bylaws embodying modern "frills." Farmers claimed their boys could exercise "pitching hay." Their wives believed in teaching the daughters culinary art in the home kitchen instead of at school.

But this year, these ideas seem to have been swept aside, and the Fraser Valley is now launched on a modern school program. New junior-senior high schools are being erected in Burnaby, Surrey and Maple Ridge Municipalities at a total cost close to $400,000, part of which is being contributed by the provincial government. They will provide all modern education facilities for more than 1,500 students.

COAST HIGHWAY DEFENCE ROAD

Alaska to Argentina Way With Canadian Link is Again Pressed

San Francisco—(CP)—America's defence program has revived plans for an Alaska-to-Argentina highway.

The road long has been advocated by western motoring organizations. It again has been brought to the attention of Congress by Thomas P. Henry of Detroit, president of the American Automobile Association, who points out it would be valuable for moving troops and munitions. Existing highways form part of the route. Some of the longest routes yet to be developed are in Canada and Central America.

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE SINKING OF THE MEKNES BY A GERMAN BOAT

Why does the nazi German or the Hun as he has been called, commit such deeds of horror as that of the sinking of the French liner Meknes, carrying thirteen hundred French officers and soldiers who were being repatriated from England to their homes in France to which they expressed a wish to return.

There is no room for any explanation that the whole tragedy might be a mistake. It could not be. The British Government had informed France that the men were returning on a French ship and every measure was taken to treat the ship as one carrying repatriates to a neutral country. The ship was flying the French flag, the colors of France were painted on deck and sides and the vessel was fully illuminated.

The officer of the Hun motor torpedo boat which sank the Meknes is declared to have fired without warning and to have given five minutes to abandon the ship. In that period every attempt by the Meknes to signal her name was met by another burst of fire.

Fortunately British warships saved about one thousand of the men. Yet at least three hundred and some say perhaps as many as four hundred and fifty lost their lives.

What prompts the horrible act of sinking an unarmed vessel, bearing all the signs of neutrality? Is it the sense of frustration in the commission of a criminal act of trying to rob the world of everything that is most precious?

Many criminal acts have been performed by the nazis in this war and yet the outside world has never been told of a single person responsible for such a heinous offense being brought to justice by the nazi authorities for an offence against humanity.

This much seems clear, the perpetrator of that awful deed could hardly have expected to be reprimanded or punished for an offence which disgraces the name of the race from whom such a person comes. No nation that respects decency and honor would allow to escape any man who would commit such a deed which blackens the name of his race and raises the spirit of a united humanity against such a criminal and against a people that will allow such things to be done in its name.

No military purpose was served in this deed.

But there have been signs that nazi Germany has desired to make itself hideous and horrible to the nations of the earth and in that hope she tries to frighten them into subjection.

The effort to terrify was made in the invasion of the Low Countries. But the Germans cannot terrify the British people who cannot be disturbed even by the maniacal acts of such a man as the commander of the nazi ship which sent the French soldiers and officers to their graves.

A proof of the depths to which nazism has reduced the enemy is shown by the fact that acts of wanton cruelty have not been few and far between. There have been only too many of them and the wonder is that so many men have been found to do what evidently meets with the approval of those in charge of the war.

FINE RECORD IN HIGHWAY SAFETY

At the fourteenth annual meeting of the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, it was brought to light that 480 drivers employed by 45 transport companies had rolled up 45 million miles of absolutely no-accident driving. In this group were 41 men who have completed five consecutive years of driving without so much as having scraped a fender. 62 drivers had a clean record for four years, 88 for three years, 123 for two years and 166 for one year?

It is to be pointed out that these records have been achieved by transport companies who entered the Association's safe driving competitions.

This achievement deserves the attention of the public, especially the driving class for it indicates a concerted effort on the part of companies and drivers to make the highways safe for travel.

These records are those only of transport companies who entered the Automotive Association's safe driving competitions.

The private passenger car operator may very well learn a lesson on safety from the results of this concerted effort to avoid accidents. When one considers the number of drivers who have a clean sheet as far as accidents are concerned for one, two, three, four and five years, it tends to correct the fatalistic view which some persons seem unfortunately to hold that accidents will "happen" anyway. That is incorrect and a very unsafe view to hold for it may incline to lack of safety precautions in driving. Every driver must fully realize that accidents don't just happen, and that the human factor is the chief element in safe driving. The mechanism of modern motor vehicles is such that they cannot be blamed.

This report indicates that safe driving is possible and that care taken in driving brings its own rich reward in the absence of accidents.

The magnificent record above is healthy news for the public and an inspiration to drivers of all classes of vehicles to try and repeat what the drivers above mentioned have been able to do.

FRUIT PRODUCTION ESTIMATES

The preliminary estimates of fruit production in Canada this season are generally smaller than the 1939 estimates. Substantially reduced apple crops are in prospect in all producing provinces except British Columbia where only a slightly lighter yield than the record production of last year is expected. The present crop is estimated at 4,559,200 barrels compared with 5,791,900 barrels of last season. The production of 550,000 bushels of pears indicated for the current season is only slightly below the 1939 crop of 577,100 bushels, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Plums and prunes also show a decrease for the country as a whole. The reduction is due to the smaller yields expected in British Columbia as in Nova Scotia and Ontario better yields than in 1939 are anticipated. Canadian production this year is estimated at 220,900 bushels compared with the previous year's crop of 268,100 bushels. Prospects for the peach crop show a slight improvement in British Columbia in contrast to the substantial reduction anticipated in Ontario. Canadian production for 1940 is estimated at 754,100 bushels which is well below last year's crop of 935,000 bushels. Apricots in British Columbia, the only province producing this fruit on a commercial scale, are estimated at 64,100 bushels compared with the 1939 crop of 59,000 bushels.

This year's cherry crop of 151,000 bushels is considerably reduced from the 223,000 bushels produced last season. The greatest reduction is reported in Ontario, although a slight decrease is also expected in British Columbia. The prospective production of grapes this year is also below the 1939 yield. Although a substantial increase is anticipated in British Columbia, the decrease in Ontario reduces the Canadian total. The 1940 crop estimate amounts to 42,909,500 pounds compared with the 1939 production of 55,595,900 pounds.

For To See

(New York Times)

That "British phlegm" which the French and other Continental writers used to dwell upon and wonder at is still current. A London paper tells of natives of a certain northern town which was being raided from the air. They carried stairs and stools into the street, lighted their cigarettes and watched the show in the outdoor theatre. There was no bravado in this and probably no calculation of chances; nor can reading about so many other raids have induced a contemptuous familiarity with danger.

In the war before this the same ardor for sightseeing appeared. The London constables had hard work to convince old ladies that they ought to keep indoors when there was an air raid. The old ladies pleaded innocently: "We can't see what's going on unless we come out."

Rosenberg On Honour

(Montreal Star)

Alfred Rosenberg, whose role of interpreter of the Nazi philosophy to that part of the world which is still in outer darkness brings him into prominence from time to time, has been telling foreign press correspondents in Berlin all about the future of that part of the Scandinavian world which Germany has overrun. It is, it seems, merely being protected, against what or whom Herr Rosenberg does not say. The protection in question appears to have been rendered necessary because the Germans had "wandered" out of these countries, thereby presumably withdrawing the light of Germanic kultur from them and rendering a subsequent invasion of these regions—strictly, of course, for their own good—essential.

Herr Rosenberg is, however, at his best—as was to be expected—when he turns to the subject of national honor. Nazi views on honor in all its aspects are always interesting, untrammelled as they are by those considerations which hamper the non-Nazi world. Herr Rosenberg explains that a small nation need have no fear of any misinterpretation so long as it is smashed by a big one. Little countries which have the great advantage of having been ruined by Germany in the last year may therefore sleep in peace, their honor intact, though their people have been slaughtered and their wealth dispersed. That will doubtless restore the spirit of a number of small nations which must have been much worried about how their big conqueror felt.

It is said that Germany produces aircraft at the rate of 60 per day, and the British supply and production are higher than that. The Nazis, moreover, will never catch up to the quality of the young men who man British machines, and the quantity pouring into the service has scarcely reached any momentum as yet.—St. Catharines Standard.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JULY 27, 1920.

Mr. Frank Garrett of North Bay was one of the old boys present at the re-union who has been absent from "the old home town" for many years, and he met many old timers who gave him a hearty welcome.

Sergt. P. J. Naphan, the genial police officer, chaperoned the reunion parades at midnight and after. At one time he lost his helmet, but never lost his temper and the captured headpiece was recovered without any casualties.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Edwards of Brockville were here for the reunion and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Austin.

The community dance on Front street, from Bridge street to Victoria avenue, was a lively and enjoyable part of the old boys' reunion.

Capt. William Robinson of Chicago, Ill., was welcomed by many old friends at the re-union.

The baseball match between Old Timers from a distance and Old Timers at home was an interesting event on the program at the Old Boys' Reunion. The result was victory for the Old Timers from a distance, the score being 19-7. The following were the players: Old Timers home for the reunion—Mark Dulmage, J. Holland, J. Ballantyne, John Gibson, W. Oliphant, J. Wonnacott, J. E. Bulger, A. J. Parker and Hampton. Old Timers at home—W. Thomson, A. R. Symons, J. E. Parks, R. Mackie, R. H. Ketcheson, Phil Harrison, George Moxam, M. Lynch and A. Jones. Col. Lazier acted as umpire for a part of the game and then George Dulmage took over. The game afforded great merriment.

JULY 27, 1910.

The Belleville Old Boys' Reunion of 1910 is now a thing of the past. Most of the old boys and girls have returned to their homes—many in far off places — but many a long year will roll by ere either visitors or Bellevillians will forget the whole-hearted welcome, the gay festivities and the happy reunions of the past few days. And so we say goodbye to the friends of other days, may fortune smile upon them in their homes, wherever they may dwell, and may they all be back to see us again at some future time.

All the officials of the reunion did excellent work and the citizens in general did themselves proud.

Professor Circles Globe To Go From Norway to England

The strange Odyssey of Lancelot Hogben, noted British scientist and author, who wrote a book on mathematics that became a best seller in nine languages, was revealed by Professor Hogben on his arrival in New York.

It took Professor Hogben a few hours to go from England to Norway to deliver lectures exposing the Hitler race doctrines. He was in Oslo on April 9, the day the Germans arrived. It has taken him ever since to get to New York on his way back to England, and at present he expressed himself as dubious whether he would reach there.

The odyssey of Professor Hogben makes the original Ulysses a mere commuter, speaking in terms of relativity, on which Dr. Hogben is an authority. From Norway he made his way to Sweden in a lorry, dodging the invading Nazis. After a six weeks' delay for a visa, he flew to Moscow, then travelled by trans-Siberian railway to Vladivostok, where the Soviet customs authorities took the little money he had left.

From Vladivostok the odyssey continued by boat to Tsuruga, Japan. From Japan he sailed to San Francisco, and then travelled by train to New York. But he is still 3,000 miles from home. If he reaches his home, he will have travelled around the world on a journey that ordinarily took a few hours by boat.

On April 9, when the blitzkrieg was begun, Dr. Hogben was on an airbus going to the airport in Oslo, to take a plane for England. He was half way to the airfield when the bombing began. Suddenly the streets of Oslo were filled with Nazi soldiers.

Sharing the odyssey was his 21-year-old daughter. She matriculated last week at the University of Wisconsin. His wife also is a scientist in her own right. She is Dr. Enid Charles, an authority on population. She came to the United States direct from England.

While in Sweden he earned money by making translations from Swedish into English—under the British war regulations he had been permitted to take only £10 with him. Professor Hogben speaks and writes three principal Scandinavian languages and also reads Icelandic. He picked these up, he explained, during the last three years.

Professor Hogben, 45, but looking much younger, was formerly research professor of human biology at the University of London and has served for the last three years as Regius Professor at Natural History at the University of Aberdeen, Scotland. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society for his research work on the pituitary gland, and won the Gold Medal of the Royal Society of Edinburgh for his published works on the mathematical theory of genetics, particularly human inbreeding. He is well known for his book "Mathematics for the Millions."

THOUGHTS WHILE FALLING

(New York Times)

A Russian aviator, Major Boris Kharakhanoff, claims the world's record for a delayed parachute jump. Major K. left his plane at a height of 40,813 feet and did not pull his rip cord until he was 2,100 feet from the ground. He dropped nearly 7½ miles, so to speak, on his own.

What did he think about? Was he happy in the knowledge that Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were being absorbed into the Soviet Union? Did he meditate on the beautiful simplicity of the materialistic conception of history? Did he raise a cheer, among the clouds, for the dear old party line?

Probably he just dropped, hoping he could break a record without breaking a leg. There are situations in which politics ceases to interest. Falling through the clouds with an unopened parachute must be one of them.

Halifax To Hitler

(Ottawa Journal)

Lord Halifax's reply to Hitler was what the world knew it would be. This:

"We shall not stop fighting till freedom, for ourselves and others, is secure."

These are not the words of a militarist or of what Hitler is pleased to call a "warmonger". They come from a man who all through his career has been known as an advocate of peace, as one of deep spiritual and religious beliefs. They voice the soul of England.

Hitler, of course, doesn't want peace. He wants surrender; the surrender of the last bastion of freedom — the enslavement of the one people in Europe who refuse to be enslaved.

Hitler will fail. He will never break the spirit of the British people, nor desecrate their soil; in the end he will cry for mercy, or betake himself from the land he is plunging into ruin. That may take years, but, as Mr. Churchill has said, whether the time be short or long, the end will be the same.

Laughter, Ever Young

(New York Times)

The development of film comedy is to be the theme of a series of showings, beginning in August and running through September, at the Film Library of the Museum of Modern Art. Programs for the first two weeks carry us back as far as 1910, though the "early Chaplin comedies" bear the beginning date of 1914. Of course the old-timers will welcome these relics. They may even, in their misguided zeal and their stubborn resistance to change, question the use of the word "development". Is today's motion picture comedy better than yesterday's? One can only say that it is different. It is more subtle, It is spread out thinner. In the old days heroes and heroines couldn't make wisecracks. They can now. Even the sacred emotions of love, devotion to duty and hatred of all that is low, wicked and disorderly are allowed their lighter moments. Homer not only nods but smiles.

John Bunny is announced as one of those who will receive attention We hope so. He has to be seen to be believed. The mere statement that a generation or so ago a certain fat man—or rather the voiceless shadow of a fat man—moved up to happy laughter is not convincing. We hope also that the really early Chaplins will again be seen. There was a day when the immortal Charlie took a matter of weeks instead of years to turn out a film, when mirth was his only—and his richest—contribution and objective, when no social significance could be attached to what he did. He may be ashamed of that day now—he need not be.

The world is not so funny as it used to be, if we add up the tragedy and the sadness that have sprung up on every side. And yet the most divine humor, like divine pity and divine beauty, springs from contrast. It is the other side of tears, it is the stout underpinning of valor. We need it now, more than ever. May those who seek to divert us today learn from their forerunners of yesterday: he who offers his fellows the priceless gift of laughter is also a good citizen and a patriot.

Germany Land Of Fiction

(Hamilton Spectator)

It must be difficult to think in Germany. Perhaps people there have ceased to think, or find it too bewildering to do so and substitute some other process for the exercise of their minds—if they have any left. Thinking is only possible when permanent factors are present. Nothing is real in Germany. Things are not what they seem. Skim milk masquerades as cream, as Schwenck Gilbert stated in terms which Mr. Hitler would quite fail to understand.

But it is verily so with the Nazis. They deal in untruth to such an extent that their falsehood is indistinguishable from reality. Thus they account for the day's events, not by the obvious causes, but by imaginary causes which harmonize with the fiction of their lives. An example is the explanation they give, and accept, of the refusal of Britain to listen to Hitler's terms of peace. They attribute it to President Roosevelt's promise to send arms to Britain. They cannot imagine that Britain has such resolution of spirit that surrender to Hitler is too impossible to be considered. The truth of British resolve and the lies of the Nazis are irreconcilable.

There is humor beyond the knowledge of Nazi character in the advice of London's Punch to Italy, not to sink any British warships in the Mediterranean that Germany has already sunk in the North Sea. The Ark Royal, for example, has been "sunk" several times in both seas.

17,000 POLITICAL ARRESTS

Reports that there have been at least 17,000 political arrests in France since Petain's surrender while indicating that the Gestapo is already at work in that unhappy land also supply evidence in proof of the claim that the German occupation of France will lead to a situation not unlike what happens at a picnic when some imp of Satan lets loose a swarm of bees that has been robbed of house and hive.—Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

Shining in The Dark

(New York Sun,

At the National Zoological park in Washington, Assistant Director E. P. Walker has been studying the gleam of beasts' eyes when a beam of light falls on them in the dark and the observer's line of vision is parallel with the beam.

The greenish gleam of cats' eyes is familiar to most persons. Mr. Walker reports some of his findings in the year book of the Smithsonian Institution. The shining results from reflection from some surface of the eye; color and character vary with the kind of animal.

Colors range from silvery to blue-green, pale gold, reddish-gold, brown, amber and pink; most resembled reflection from a burnished metal surface, those of crocodiles and alligators gave the effect of gazing into "a brilliantly glowing pinkish opening in a dull-surfaced bed of coal."

Glowing eyes gave the impression of reflection from the surface of the retina; the observer seemed to be looking through the pupil. Metallic gleams, on the other hand gave no impression of looking into the interior of the eye.

Various experiments support the theory that the shining results from simple reflection; no light seems to originate in the animal eye. Mr. Walker found no proof of the alleged shining of human eyes, although the most brilliant reflections of all were from the eyes of two types of those allies of the monkeys, the lemurs, the slow loris and the potto.

The results obtained by Mr. Walker were noted in Great Britain, and a resident of Stratford-on-Avon, Denis G. A. Dyson of King Edward VI school now says in Nature that "for many years he has known of an 'undoubted case' of shining eyes in a shop assistant in Birmingham."

Mr. Dyson did not know that night shining eyes were rare in man and he paid little attention to these, but he thinks the glow was of a dark red color. That shop assistant is in for it; the scientists will soon be after him and he will be lucky if with their examinations they do not turn him into a nocturnal animal like the lemurs. If they do, they should at least refrain from enforcing arboreal habits on him.

Nazi Cannot Maintain German-Ridden Europe

(The Times, London)

Seventy-five million Germans, even assuming that they were solid in their loyalty to the Nazi cause, cannot permanently hold down a population of ninety millions united in their hatred of the German yoke. Administratively, a German-run and German-ridden Europe is not merely a nightmare. It is a tour de force which Napoleon could not maintain, which Germany cannot maintain, which no one European race could hope to maintain. Economically, the vision of a Nazi Europe seems still more extravagant and unreal. Mobilization, devastation, and the mass movement of refugees have shattered the economic structure of a large part of Europe, as especially of some of its most densely inhabited regions. A correspondent recently drew a stark picture of ruined harvests and of the shadow of famine lengthening over these stricken countries. But were these apprehensions overcome, and the present chaos reduced to some semblance of order, the problem of organizing Europe as a self-contained economic unit under German control, and in defiance of the rest of the world, remains none the less insoluble.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

General Treatment for Dizziness, Nausea and Vomiting—Meniere's Disease

I have spoken before of the diet (low in salt) treatment of Meniere's disease in which there is dizziness with nausea and vomiting, so often blamed on the liver and gall bladder but really due to ear disturbance. There is also pallor, sweating, gas distension of abdomen, and often the eyes move from side to side continuously. Between attacks there is often pain in back of the head and behind the ears.

Before the attack of dizziness, nausea and vomiting occurs, the patient has a feeling of fullness in the head, particularly in the ear.

No definite cause has yet been found for Meniere's disease, although too much water in the tissues, lack of vitamins in the food, sensitiveness or allergy toward certain foods, infection of the sinuses, are all believed to be factors.

Dr. Miles Atkinson, New York, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal points out that a complete or partial closure of the eustachian tube (the tube carrying air from back of throat to inner side of the ear drum) is a very frequent cause of the dizziness and other symptoms. The opening up of the eustachian tube, by means of pumping air through it or by inserting instruments to stretch it open, will usually bring relief from the symptoms. Dr. Atkinson finds that this partial or complete closing of the eustachian tube together with food allergy is a very common cause of Meniere's disease.

Other suggestions regarding treatment of this distressing ailment which makes life extremely miserable, are to correct any irregular manner of living, particularly from the standpoint of sleep and diet. All infection—sinuses, teeth, tonsils, — must be removed, and tobacco and alcohol forbidden.

From the foregoing it can be seen that a case of Menieres disease requires careful investigation by the family physician, the family dentist and the ear, nose and throat specialist. While the cause cannot always be found, relief can usually be obtained by supervision of the daily health habits, removal of infection, the opening up of the eustachian tube, and, in extreme cases, where the symptoms cannot long be borne, the cutting of the nerve supplying the ear.

North Channel

(Hamilton Spectator)

With the decision of the Admiralty to close St. George's channel and the southern approach to the Irish sea, and direct navigation around the north of Ireland and through the north channel to western British ports, it is obvious that the authorities are preparing for the threatened attacks by the enemy on the southern coasts of England. It will be easier to care for navigation by the northern channel, with its narrow entrance between Fair Head or Benmore and the Mull of Cantyre, only fourteen miles across at its narrowest point; the watch for submarines and other dangers can be concentrated there.

It is of this channel that Thomas Moore wrote in his poem, "Silent, O Moyle, be the roar of thy waters," for there is no more turbulent sea to be found in those parts. The short daylight passage from Larne to Stranraer is favored by many, but even there the two hours of tossing is too much for most passengers and rivals the Dover and other English channel crossings in its disagreeable effects. Nevertheless, there is a great and important traffic through the north channel, and this will now be increased.

Those who have the daylight opportunity to view the scenery of Fair Head and Murlough Bay, which has been described as one of the finest prospects in the world, will hope that the period will not be prolonged through which these war measures will give it unparalleled importance. Meanwhile the southern areas of the Irish waters are to be mined and the value of the enemy bases on the French coast minimized as far as possible.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SET PRECEDENTS TO FIT HERSELF

Wife of President Nominated for Third Term in 1933 a Wider Life for White House Chatelaines

By SIGRID ARNE

Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington— (AP) —Since the gray morning in March, 1933, when Eleanor Roosevelt — wife of the President nominated for a third term—entered the White House, she has shattered the traditional pattern followed by American "First Ladies."

Before the inauguration she had held her first press conference and announced it would be a weekly event. No other President's wife had done that. It started conjectures, but no conjecture came within shouting distance of the Eleanor Roosevelt the country was to know.

The 50-odd women writers at that first conference were a little awed, but their awe quickly melted at Mrs. Roosevelt's "Good morning." She shook hands with each, then opened a box of candied orange peel. "Will you please pass this around? It's near lunch time and you must be hungry."

A few days later she made it clear she did not need a police guard. She drove up to the Women's Trade Union League offices in New York. "My word," she said, to four policemen she found there, "what are you doing here?" When she found they were detailed to guard her she telephoned Police Commissioner Mulrooney. The guard left, and she finished the day happily, walking alone down Fifth avenue to buy a tea strainer for the White House.

Speedy Reformer

That was news in those days. But now no gas station attendant is greatly surprised if he sees Mrs. Roosevelt in her little roadster. She even has been scolded by a traffic cop who found her doing 60. "The children have always wanted this to happen to me," she said, chuckling.

Two weeks after she arrived in Washington people living in the city's slums saw her picking her way around garbage cans with some housing experts. Some of those slums are gone now.

She attended a gridiron dinner given by the Women's National Press club; the first President's wife to thus expose herself. She pulled off the best witticism herself.

She was the first President's lady to fly. The most spectacular trip was in 1934 to the Virgin Islands, where she gathered information for her husband on schools, illness and poverty.

Once she startled Washington airport by turning up at 4 a. m. after a cross-country flight to be home for Christmas. Her sudden appearances were best pointed up, perhaps, by a cartoon that showed two coal miners looking up from their diggings. Said one, "For gosh sakes, there comes Mrs. Roosevelt."

Writer and Speaker

She lectured, spoke on the radio, wrote for magazines and turned out a daily newspaper column.

Her lectures could have been a political boomerang to a woman less sure of herself. She was heckled at the American Youth Conference this year when a youngster shouted "We want jobs, not theories." Mrs. Roosevelt eyed the gallery. "You may boo me if you like, but while I speak please hear me." The heckler hushed.

She wrote an amazingly frank autobiography. No other First Lady had done so while still in the White House.

Adolf Hitler Would Sink Ship Loaded With Angels From Heaven If He Believed Military Advantage Would be Gained' -Times

New York, July 27—(CP)—The New York Times, urging Congress editorially not to quibble over the question of whether safe-conduct guarantees should be required of Germany before sending United States ships to evacuate British children, put the situation succinctly today:

"Adolf Hitler would sink a ship loaded with angels from heaven if he believed that a military advantage would be gained."

However, The Times said Hitler probably would not sink an American ship if the only likely result would be to infuriate "a nation which is still legally neutral" and urged Congress to leave the question of safe conduct in the hands of the President and the State Department. It said "some kind of understanding" probably can be reached with Germany.

Both The Times and The Herald commended the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives for approving so speedily a bill under which British refugee children would be evacuated in United States ships.

SOLDIERS BOOM PEMBROKE TOWN

Bordering on Petawawa Camp Old Lumber Metropolis Has Happy Days Again

Pembroke, Ont.—(CP)—Gunners and sappers from Petawawa military camp near here are turning Pembroke once again into the roaring town it was in the halcyon days of the lumber trade in the upper Ottawa valley.

This town is a peaceful place in normal times but the troops transform it into a boisterous community. In the First Great War the men from Petawawa camp kept the town in a delirium of excitement and it's the same story again on an even larger scale.

In the past six weeks the camp has filled up with about 8,000 artillerymen and engineers of the Canadian Active Service Force and frequent leaves are granted the youthful fighters to give them a chance for some relaxation in Pembroke.

So the town booms again as the army takes over on Saturday nights and stages partial invasions during the week. Old timers say the shantymen of the early years of the century have nothing on this new batch of men in khaki for whooping it up.

Every Saturday night practically the whole camp moves in and the civilian population of Pembroke, about 11,000, just about has to sit at home. The main street is clogged with soldiers; restaurants, taverns, hotels, canteens and dance halls jammed.

There isn't much trouble about this influx of fighting men. Pembroke takes it in its stride like any town that knew the booms of the early days. But military police patrol the streets in squads keeping their men in order. Several times a night a large truck moves up and down the main street doing the duties of the provost marshal's picket of other days.

Trade in the town has increased tremendously and merchants, restaurant owners and hotel keepers are finding unprecedented prosperity in army business. Taxi business is so good it is impossible to get a cab for hours at a time Saturday nights.

Little Benny's Note Book

Sattiday afternoon pop was going to take me for a drive in the car and ma was waiting for the bridge ladies to come and play, saying to pop, Now whatever you do Willyum be careful, it seems everybody we know has been in an automobile axsident, so for goodness sakes dont make it unanimous.

Now mother, dont start to worry on general principals, pop said. If you're going in for that sort of thing there's no limit to it, you'd have to start the first thing in the morning and worry whether I'm going to swallow my toothbrush, he said, and ma said, Now there's no use conjuring up axsidents that nobody ever heard of.

Plenty of people will hear of it the first time it hapens, the papers will be full of it, it's just the kind of thing people like to read about, wich automatically puts it under the head of news, pop said. Didn't you read that article about the man who was lying safely in his bed half asleep and he wanted to scratch the middle of his back but he happened to be lying on both his hands so he decided to use his foot to scratch with, and he broke his leg straining to reach the middle of his back with his toes, he said, and ma said, Now Willyum that's enough of such impossible figments, all I ask you is to be careful for land sakes.

But jimminy, ma, there's such a thing as being too careful, I said. How about the man that was walking exter careful because he didn't want to slip, and he hit the bottom of his chin with his knee and knocked himself unconscious, I said, and pop said, Anyway, mother, you can calm your fears because I'm not going to drive at all. I'm too smart a man to fool myself into thinking that I'm getting exercize by driving, so I've decided not to even try, he said.

The result being we took a walk.

TO SAVE CROPS

London,—(CP)—English farming districts have been equipped with hand fire-fighting equipment for use in case the grain crops are set afire by German bombs from raiding planes.

Overcrowding of second class coaches has led to the abolition of that class within 54 miles of Sydney, Australia. All coaches are first class within the area.

SEEK NEW IDEAS IN BEAUTY GARB

San Francisco Presents Chance for New Career People in Show Business

San Francisco—(CP)—With experts of "Gay Paree" apparently out of the running, a highly-paid career awaits anyone who can think up a new way to undrape the American showgirl.

The opportunity is apparent at the San Francisco World's Fair, where many girl shows — some costly and elaborate — are competing for the public eye.

Although some of the best designers have had a hand in the costumes, they seem to have reached the end of their rope in the way of originality. Present day chorines trip onto the stage in adaptations of costumes their mothers might have worn in the palmy days of Flo Ziegfeld.

Even the Folies Berger, noted for the opulence and the daring with which it decks its beauties, admits that a truly original costume is hard to find.

"Our designs were done in Paris, largely by Freddie Wittop," said Manager Eddie Lewis. "They represent a high percentage of the cost of the production. And it's mighty hard to get new ideas. The man who can consistently work them out has a future. Naturally the designs for the chorus are the most difficult in this regard. In decorating a slow-moving showgirl one has more leeway."

Dad Knew The Types

Exposition showmen agree that most costumes in American revues must continue to fall into familiar classes — the military, ballet, nationalistic and the lingerie; those based on sports outfits, those simulating animals, those suggesting a period such as the Gay Nineties and so on.

Most of the ingenuity and expense goes into the elaborate individual creations for the footlight parades largely associated with Ziegfeld and his "glorifying" of the American girl. Today Will Rogers' remark still applies to these spectacles:

"I don't know about glorifying her, but Ziggy has certainly undressed her."

WARTIME BOOSTS MAKING OF FLAGS

Vancouver Reports Heavy Demand for Bunting and English Ensigns

Vancouver — (CP)—Flagmaking, like munitions manufacture, is a booming industry in wartime.

It is estimated that Vancouverites bought four times as many flags last month than in any other single month before the war. Flag manufacturers predict that more than 40,000 flags may be manufactured here before the end of the year, mostly Union Jacks and Canadian ensigns.

The orders come from all sources. Patriotic citizens who never thought of flags before, buy them in wartime and all boat owners seek to have a flag on their vessels. The biggest orders however come for ensigns and signalling flags for the Royal Canadian Navy.

I. S. Jones, Jr., official of one Vancouver flag - manufacturing firm, said that many orders are received for foreign flags. No one has ordered an enemy flag since the start of the war, and Mr. Jones adds, that such an order would not be filled anyway.

Parcel Post Rates Reduced to C. A. S. F. Members in Nfld.

Ottawa, July 27 (CP).—Special reduced parcel post rates on packages mailed to members of the Canadian Active Service Force stationed in Newfoundland were announced Friday by Postmaster General Mulock.

The new rates, made possible by negotiations entered into with the Newfoundland Postal Administration, are ten cents for each pound or fraction thereof. Gift parcels will be admitted to Newfoundland duty free, the postmaster said, and letters and newspapers may pass at regular postage rates for the civil mails to Newfoundland.

Other postal charges on mail to members of Canada's armed forces include letters, postcards and newspapers for Canadian troops in the United Kingdom, 12 cents a pound, with no duty charged on gift parcels.

Parcels for men on His Majesty's ships and His Majesty's Canadian ships abroad, and for members of official auxiliary forces in the United Kingdom are also entitled to the 12 cents per pound rate.

All mail addressed to Canadian troops in the West Indies and Iceland will pass at regular postage rates for the civil mails to these countries.

Running on producer gas, G. Firth made a trip from Melbourne to Canberra, Australia, a distance of 400 miles, on $3 worth of charcoal. Gasoline for the trip would cost $12 here.

WARTIME BOOSTS TIN PRODUCTION

World Output for First Months of 1940 Shows Big Increase

London— (CP) —The Statistical Office of the International Tin Research and Development Council at the Hague has ceased to function since the invasion of Holland, and the Monthly Statistical Bulletin for May was not issued but publication has been resumed with an abridged edition which is being issued from the Council's head office at Greenford, England.

World production of tin in May, 1940 is estimated at 17,300 tons, against 13,500 tons in the previous month. The total production in the first five months of the current year was approximately 83,100 tons, compared to 55,700 tons in the corresponding period of 1939.

Tin consumption in the United Kingdom totalled 9,695 tons in the first four months of 1940, against 6,680 tons in the first four months of 1939, showing an increase of 45 per cent. Deliveries of tin to United States' consumers totalled 41,384 tons in the first five months of 1940, compared to 25,075 tons in the corresponding period of 1939, representing an increase of 65 per cent.

World stocks of tin, including smelters' stocks and "Straits" carry-over (but not including European carry-over) were 40,783 tons at the end of May, 1940, compared to 40,680 tons at the end of April, and 39,519 tons a year previously.

SWEDEN SURVEYS ITS NEW GENIUS

Much of Its Trade Cut Off Nation Takes Stock of Inventions

Stockholm—(CP)—Present conditions with many of the most important trade routes cut off, has caused the Swedish Government to institute recently another state organization, "The Board of Inventions." The aim will be to exploit to an increasing extent one of the Swedes' most valuable resources, their "inventive genius," whereby it is hoped to bring out valuable contributions for the solution of many current crisis problems.

The chairman of the Institution, Helge Ericson of the Swedish Telegraph Office, explained some of its functions. The Board is established to promote and utilize inventions and technical ideas which in so far as they can be realized with necessary despatch and at reasonable cost are of value for the national economy and the defence of the country.

In the first place the Board has to give consideration to the utilization of Swedish raw materials in any of the plans submitted, and in that way bring out substitutes for commodities which are difficult to obtain from abroad.

The Board is composed of three members, appointed by the government, but will have the power to call on outside collaborators and advisers for assistance in judging specific cases. All documents relating to inventions will be kept secret and matters will be dealt with in the simplest and most expeditious manner.

Ontario Harvests May Be Handled by Soldiers

Ottawa, July 27 (CP)—Help in handling Ontario harvests may be drawn from military camps in the province under a plan authorized by Labor Minister McLarty.

Hon. N. O. Hipel, Ontario Labor Minister, has obtained government endorsement of a plan that farmers may apply to officers commanding regiments to release soldiers for a few days or a week for voluntary farm work.

Volunteers would be paid the prevailing farm wages for their work, as well as their regular military pay.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Danger on Wheels."

"Danger on Wheels," Universal's action-packed drama of the speedways co-starring Richard Arlen and Andy Devine, comes to the McCarthy Theatre next.

Newest of the popular Arlen-Devine series, "Danger on Wheels," is said to be one of the stars' best vehicles to date, with spectacular thrills and roaring action of the auto race-track providing the background of the story.

Arlen is seen first as a daredevil test driver, who goes through death-defying stunts testing new automobiles. Later he becomes a race driver, smashing through to victory in the Indianapolis Speed Classic in the film's climax.

Andy Devine appears as Arlen's faithful but slow-witted mechanic. Peggy Moran, young screen player who is rapidly rising to film fame is Dick's romantic interest. Other supporting roles are carried by Herbert Corthell, Harry Bradley, Sandra King and Landers Stevens

The program also includes a splendid co-feature, starring Edmund Lowe entitled "Wolf of New York." Rose Hobart has the feminine lead, while James Stephenson, William Demarest, Andrew Tombs and Ben Welden, have the important featured roles in this powerful drama. Latest McCarthy-Fox News reel flashes are also to be shown.

"The Saint's Double Trouble."

AT THE CAPITOL

"'Til We Meet Again"

The Capitol Theatre's new film, starting next, will be "'Til We Meet Again", co-starring Merle Oberon, the lustrous star of "Wuthering Heights" and George Brent, the reckless hero of "Fighting 69th". Directed by Edmund Goulding, whose most recent successes include "Dark Victory" and "The Old Maid", the fine supporting cast includes Pat O'Brien, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Binnie Barnes and Frank McHugh.

"'Til We Meet Again" is the poignant romantic tale of a man and a woman for whom there was no tomorrow, and audiences who have previewed the film in Hollywood have hailed Miss Oberon and Brent as the ideal love team to portray the dramatic pair. Set against the brilliant background of a trans-Pacific luxury liner, the story tells of the shipboard love affair between a girl who knows that she has but a few months to live and a man who is being brought back to San Quentin to pay the death penalty. Each guards his secret jealously, wishing to spare the other pain.

The knowledge of their impending doom makes their brief time together doubly precious, and although he finds a means to escape with his life, he gives up his chance rather than leave her. To reveal further details of the plot here would detract from the tender beauty of the story as it is enfolded on the screen.

Geraldine Fitzgerald, the lovely Irish star, who also appeared with Miss Oberon in "Wuthering Heights", plays the role of her friend and confidante in "'Til We Meet Again". Pat O'Brien who was teamed with Brent in "Fighting 69th", is cast as the detective who sincerely dislikes his job of bringing Brent back to prison.

As a card-sharping phoney French countess, Binnie Barnes has the type of high comedy role at which she excels, while Frank McHugh portrays her partner in crime. Eric Blore plays the vapid English lord from whom they reap a tidy fortune en route.

Others in the cast include Henry O'Neill, George Reeves, Doris Lloyd, Marjorie Gateson and Regis Toomey.

AT THE BELLE

"My Son, My Son!"

Headed by a cast of superlative players and starring Brian Aherne, Madeleine Carroll, Louis Hayward, Henry Hull, Josephine Hutchinson, Sophie Stewart and Laraine Day, Edward Small's film production of Howard Spring's international best-seller, "My Son, My Son!" is scheduled for its premiere showing at the Belle theatre. Directed by Chas. Vidor from the screenplay written by Lenore Coffee, "My Son, My Son!" is being released through United Artists and is now playing at the Belle.

Due to the fact that the story of "My Son, My Son!" travels through several cities and country sections of England and covers a period of more than 25 years, Mr. Small called in John Ducasse Schulze, his noted art director, and explained that England would have to be brought to Hollywood. Schulze in turn, put a corps of research workers to work to preserve the accuracy of every little detail of set construction and decoration. The result is that audiences will see the cast performing in settings that are minutely patterned after places which actually exist in England.

Among the many sets constructed for the production, one of the outstanding shows the slums of Manchester in the latter part of the nineteenth century. Schulze unearthed an old photograph showing just such a street and from this photograph the set was designed, built and decorated.

Among the other spectacular sets constructed for the film are included a massive beach home known as "Heronwater" and "The Beeches," representing the country home of William and Nellie Essex after the former becomes a famous novelist. In addition to these massive sets, which required the services of hundreds of skilled workmen, Art Director Schulze built nearly 40 other sets representing workshops, living rooms, bedrooms, a theatre and auditorium, trenches as they were known to English Tommies from 1914 to 1918, a chateau in France, Victoria Station in London and numerous other places.

The story of "My Son, My Son!" revolves around the dreams of two men who are life-long friends. The novelist William Essex, played by Brian Aherne, and the furniture designer Dermot O'Riorden played by Henry Hull, get married while they are still poor and unknown. When each has a son, they make their plans for their children. Essex plans a glorious future for his son. O'Riorden, an enthusiastic Irish patriot, looks forward to the day when his son will return to Ireland.

How these plans are carried through amid changing times and unexpected drama carries, the story of "My Son, My Son!" through many exciting scenes.

The popular Belle newsreel and a funny Popeye Cartoon, "Me Feelin's Is Hurt," precede the exhibition of the feature attraction.

The Caries Will Catch You If You Don't Watch Out

"Tartar, sometimes, is respon sluggish blood streams.

By HELEN FOLLETT

How about a little talk on toothology? How do you treat your mouth pearls? When it comes to frequent brushings do you belong to the skip 'em class? Bad girl. Why not follow a policy of preservation?

Dentists acknowledge that much has yet to be learned about the cause of caries. Some believe that diet is an important factor, others that brushing immediately after meals is even more important than a varied diet. Foreign particles left in the mouth go through chemical changes very quickly; that is particularly true of sweet foods; these substances must be removed if dentine is to be kept sound and healthy.

Those specialists who believe in getting help from vitamins recommend the free intake of juice of citrus fruits, suggest that small doses of halibut liver oil are of benefit.

Exploring Brushes

The large toothbrush of firm bristles isn't as popular as it has been in the past. A small brush, bristles set in groups, digs into all the little spaces, adjusts itself more conveniently to the oral arches.

Tartar causes trouble. Even with mouth hygiene practiced daily these incrustations will form, push up under the gums, sometimes be responsible for painful conditions. Twice a year the dentist should get after these barnacles, removing them with his murderous little pickaxes and spikes.

Hollow cheeks are not improved by application of commercial blushes. Rouge forms a shadow; placed in the centre of the cheek it flattens the flesh there.

The face will look less thin and gaunt if rosy coloring is placed high on the temples and across the eyelids.

To cultivate plumpness take a quart of milk a day and to each glass add a little cream. Have an egg and a hot cereal for breakfast. Every night, after washing the face, apply a heavy cream. Spread fingers and thumbs over the cheeks and lift the trumpeter's muscles with a clawing movement. Finish with an ice friction to awaken sible for painful conditions."

Prenatal Care Takes Strides

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

We in Canada are making progress in the care of expectant mothers. In many communities there are free public clinics and dispensaries which make available to all expectant mothers of these communities the best medical care.

Some Pioneers

The City of Cleveland, for example, has pioneered in excellent services to expectant mothers. The Child Health Association there, under the able direction of Dr. Richard A. Bolt, in cooperation with the local Medical Association, has for a number of years carried on a program in prenatal care which has become the pattern for many other cities.

The Child Health Association conducts classes in prenatal care for expectant mothers. At the present time, this program, with 118 classes per month, reaches about 5,000 expectant mothers a year, which is about one-third of all mothers confined in Cleveland. Nine lectures per series are given in these classes. Free lesson outlines are distributed to each class member and bound copies are sold at 25 cents the copy. Recently, classes for expectant fathers also have been established.

Lower Mortality Rate

Statistics show a decidedly lower mortality not only among the mothers but also among the infants born following this prenatal care. They also show that each added 500 women reached by the instruction program resulted in the saving of at least another life. The Cleveland maternal mortality rate has been reduced from 7.2 per thousand live births in 1931 to 3.1 in 1938, and this reduction has undoubtedly been effected, in a great measure, by the educational program of the Child Health Association.

For the entire nation, the rate for the first half of 1939 is 4 deaths of mothers for every 1000 live babies born, a drop of 23 per cent. since 1937. And, whereas, 15 years ago, 74 out of every 1000 babies born alive were doomed to die before a year of age, the rate has fallen to 50. Too bad they have such a warring world to come to!

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you believe in whipping children over five or six?

A. No. I don't, except in very rare instances.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Predated Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it ever proper to send wedding announcements before the wedding? I had thought that this plan might be a solution to my problem.

I am planning to be married in the Fall. The wedding is to be in the morning at the rectory, with one attendant for each of us, and the plan now is to have only the member of the immediate families present. But now I am wondering if it would be possible for me to invite a few relative and close friends.

If I may invite others than those specifically named above, how would I notify them of the date set? I couldn't very well send invitations, and therefore I am wondering if it would be possible for me to send announcements in advance: "Mr. and Mrs. —— announce the marriage of their daughter——on (advance dates, instead of the usual post-date)", and enclose a note to those who have expressed a desire to come. My co-workers do not know of my plans, and if you tell me that such an announcement would be acceptible, I would be able to place it on the bulletin board a few days in advance of the date set.

Beatrice

I am glad that you wrote me about this, for I would like to persuade you that this plan about your announcements would be thoroughly out-of-order and happily, thoroughly unnecessary. No matter what the circumstances, it would never be proper, because it is illogical, to send announcements of a marriage that has not yet taken place.

I am puzzled at your reason for saying "I couldn't very well send invitations", for that is just what you could properly do if space in the rectory permits.

Find out from the minister just how many guests the rectory accommodates, make your list of guests according to this information, and then invite your guests, either verbally or by notes.

It would not be proper for you to place your marriage announcement on the bulletin board until after the ceremony has taken place.

If possible, why not have the ceremony take place in the church or a chapel of the church? Then you could increase the number of guests.

Announcing Secret Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been secretly married for several years. We have now decided to announce our marriage and would like to mail announcements to our friends. Will you please tell me how to word these announcements?

M. T. D.

You may, if you wish, send formal announcements of your marriage to your relatives and friends. But keep in mind that on the announcements must be the date when the marriage took place. It seems to me that these announcements would emphasize those "several years' between the marriage and the announcement.

I wonder if you really wouldn't prefer to make this announcement more informally? Perhaps by telling your relatives and close friends, and writing to those who live too far away to tell verbally. Then, if you and your husband are now starting a home, you might give a housewarming and invite your relatives and friends. These plans would it seems to me, make the belated announcements more graciously and naturally than would formal announcements.

Gift From Best Man

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be best man at a wedding soon. Is it proper for me to give the couple a wedding gift?

W. A.

Yes.

For the young men's race, winners were Dorland Bell 1st, Clinton Brown 2nd, Glenn Bradshaw 3rd.

A soda biscuit race caused merriment, the first to finish eating had to whistle a bar of Annie Laurie, Dorland Bell won first place, Frank Hall 2nd, Agnes Pigden 3rd.

Little Marion and Phyllis Parks, Toronto, entertained with a rhythm song "Down by the Old Mill Stream." The booth proved a centre of attraction for the youngsters. At five o'clock all wended their way home feeling it was a day well spent in social intercourse and fun.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Object to Daughter Marrying

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A year ago I met a young lady through business association and I fell in love with her. She is 21 and I'm 28. I am a Canadian and although she was born in another country, she came here when a young child and has grown up here. Her family refused to let her associate with anyone outside their nationality.

The only way she can see me is by sneaking. Why is it that they treat me so? I'm proud of my character but above all I want to marry her. She adores me and has consented to be my wife, but says we'll have to remain away from her family forever if we marry.

I have no family and would welcome a chance to associate with hers, even though their ways might be foreign to me. I could adjust myself. I've asked her repeatedly to let me call but she refuses, saying they would only be cold toward me.

I don't need financial assistance. All I want is the happiness of my wife at least partly assured, and I feel this can be accomplished only by being allowed to visit with her family. Do you have some suggestion for solving our problem or maybe your readers might help?

MAC

My dander always rises when I hear of people who have immigrated to this country, benefited by its liberal laws and succeeded financially and then object to their daughters marrying its citizens.

As the young lady is 21, earns her own living, I think she might add a touch of independence by walking off with you some fine day and getting married. Her family will probably put on a good dose of Old World fireworks. They may rage, scream and read her out of the family circle. But as you have a good job and do not need their financial assistance, they'll probably come 'round.

Wants Divorce to Marry Younger Man

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I was too young to know what real love was I married a man eleven years older than I am, very high tempered and set in his ways. A year later I met a boy, with whom I've fallen deeply in love. He's my sisters boy friend, but he says he loves me and if I weren't married he could love me more.

That was about five years ago, and I've loved him ever since, and have been out with him. My husband doesn't believe in dancing or having good times, and if he knew I did these things he would "raise the roof".

Do you think I ought to get a divorce, so I could marry this younger man who is more my ideal? Or do you think he's just kidding me along because he knows I'm married? He has never suggested marriage.

Unhappy A.

Hundreds of married women have found themselves out on the limb towards which you seem to be climbing. They're married and not in love with their husbands, and hanging around is some young man who pays them compliments and makes love. This young man feels no sense of responsibility because the women to whom he makes love is married. He's free as air.

The woman has an idea if she were to get a divorce the Lothario would suggest marriage, but he doesn't. And there she is, out on the limb, which her divorce has sawed through. The young man suggested marriage and would probably take to the tall timber, once she were free to marry him. I've had scores of letters such as yours, all cases which ended in disaster.

She Can't Decide Between the Two

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I know two very fine boys, and at one time or another halfway promised to marry both of them. The first boy left the city just about time we planned to marry, to start on a new position but things didn't work out satisfactorly and he resigned and is trying to get back his old job in this city. He writes and calls me up from this distant city.

When he left the city, I met another young man who impressed me very much and we started to go together. As I thought the first boy would never come back, I promised to marry the second boy, as I wanted to be established in a home of my own. I never had training to support myself, so I thought marriage was the best thing. Now I find that I love both these men, especially the first one.

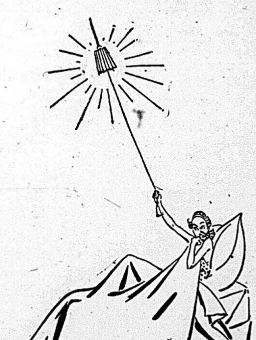
Edith

You tell me quite frankly that you decided to marry as you had no training for self-support. That my dear, impressed me as a strangely unmodern solution of your problem. Women used to marry for economic reasons, but today they fit themselves for a job and wait until the right man comes along.

Without true love, marriage is likely to be a sorry affair. You were equally willing to marry either of these boys. Isn't it likely that if you marry one or the other of them, someone you like better than either will appear on the scene when you are not free to marry?

Wait until you are so much in love that there is no doubt at all in your mind. In the meantime, take up something by which you can earn an honest penny. It is well for every man and woman to have a means of livelihood.

Sleep—Or Weep



By HELEN FOLLETT

Fight off the sand man, get in bed at all hours, and it won't be long before you'll have plenty of beauty troubles. You can curl your nose at exercise. Live the life of Reilly, nibble between meals, forget to cream your complexion, but go without sleep and the reflection in the mirror will give you chills along your spine.

Thorough Rest

Life nowadays is a sort of delirium of emotion. We need lots of sleep to carry on. During slumber the heart catches intervals of rest. The pulse is slower, breathing is lighter, the pupils of the eyes are contracted, intestinal peristaltic movements are lessened.

Loss of sleep is often responsible for wrinkles, sallow skin, lack luster eyes and grouches. Tear off nine hours of sleep by the clock. The cost is nothing, the rewards are many.

GO AWAY but don't forget a travel coat. Fine soft tweed done on easy lines with back fullness flaring from a deep yoke is used for a coat which is done in a huge plaided design in yellow, black, white and navy blue.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, July 28

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds auguries of several very unusual and dramatic events, in which those who are able to withstand the tests and perhaps tribulations of experience and human adventure may be selected for tokens of esteem, preferment and promotion.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for the thrilling adventure of having hibh honors, dignity, promation or expression of favoritism from those in high pqlaces.

A child born on this day, while being impulsive, aggressive and possibly quarrelsome, should be remarkably endowed with creative talents of unusual scope.

For Monday, July 29

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a very lively and eventful day in which there may be some sudden and devastating event, probably upsetting many orthodox plans or normal ways of living. With discretion this may not prove destructive.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of sudden and unusual happenings, which may prove disruptingg unless handled with much poise, wisdom and discretion.

A child born on this day may be extremely versatile and talented, with many abilities and an unusual or subtle nature, springing perhaps from keen intuitions or other extra sensory perceptions.

Don't Become a Jiffy Dresser

"All kinds of green foods are good friends of the young lady who has taken on weight."

By HELEN FOLLETT

With no buttons or hooks and eyes to bother her, with slipintos, slip-overs and zippers a girl can dress in a jiffy. Yet it is our opinion that she should take her time. Stocking seams must be straight, stockings pulled up neatly so they will be smooth. A wrinkle in a stocking makes a woman look blowsy.

Keeping shoes in order is something else to think about. Girls are not as fastidious as they might be. Collar and cuff sets must be immaculately white; and aren't they the pretty duds these days? Soiled gloves are a horror. Purses that look as if they held everything but the groceries for dinner might have a housecleaning now and then.

Getting into the foundation garment requires time if it is to be properly adjusted. Up too far it lets the tummy do a plop.

Facial Batik

As for the coiffure and putting on the facial batik there must be no haste. Raking through the hair with a comb and letting it go at that means that the result will be scrambled tresses. Powder must be fluffed on lightly, more added if necessary instead of being slapped on in clouds to look patchy. Be cautious with the use of mascara or the eyebrow crayon if you indulge in these beauty aids. When tinting the lips—but we're tired talking about that. The smears that many girls wear are a disgrace to the sex.

Lettuce, spinach, asparagus, beet tops, water cress, all kinds of green foods, are good friends to the young lady—or the old one either—who has taken on weight. They are bulky, satisfy the appetite, don't put on an ounce of weight, are good for a lot of beauty ills that beset her.

Likes and dislikes for foods are largely habits. If the plumpie will avoid sugar in her coffee for a week or two she'll never want it any other way.

Dr. Dafoe's Column on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Improper Diving May Cause Sinusitis

I once knew a woman who lived beside a small river. During the summer she would put her small children to play in the stream and leave them there most of the day. That was her way of getting the children off her hands. Personally, I am in favor of children swimming in the summer. I think every child should learn to swim. But I do think this woman overdid it.

Bathing is a very healthy sport for children—for grown-ups, too, for that matter. For one thing, their bodies get abundance of sunshine. It is marvelous exercise, too, for when you are swimming you use nearly every muscle in your body. Haven't you noticed how the best swimmers always have such fine bodies?

I think every child should learn to swim as early as possible; the earlier they learn, the easier it is.

Once they learn, they never lose the knack. A friend of mine, who declared he hadn't been swimming for fifteen years was dumped out of a boat. Regardless of the fact that he was fully clothed and hadn't had any swimming for so long, he got to shore.

One of my great regrets is that I never learned to swim. I used to go and paddle about in the lake near my old home but no one ever showed me how to strike out and swim, and I never picked it up myself. But I made sure that my boy Bill learned. He has won several medals.

There are a few simple rules parents should follow in connection with their children's swimming this summer. Young children shouldn't stay in the water for longer than half an hour—less on cool days.

Diving is good fun, and sooner or later children will try it. Teach them how to dive properly, and make sure they understand the danger of diving into strange water where rocks may be hidden right under the surface.

Some children should never dive. Those with heart conditions, disturbed circulation or lung weakness of any kind shouldn't attempt it. Nor should anyone, child or adult, dive when they have had infections of the ears or sinuses. Diving places pressure on these parts, and floods them with water under force. This sometimes causes inflammation in organs that are not strong.

But worse than any amount of diving is the habit of jumping into the water feet first. Be sure and warn your child not to do it. Water under great pressure rushes up the nose and floods the frontal sinus; it often causes sinusitis.

Why Mosquitoes Bite Some Persons—Pass Others

Medical Science Explains the Distinction Between Immunity and "Entomogenous Allergy"

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

"They poison me, but the guides don't mind them at all. All the fleas and mosquitoes in our neighborhood concentrate on me and never bite my wife. My wife attracts fleas only, while I am eaten alive by mosquitoes and do not ever remember having had a flea bite."

Is there any scientific basis for these inaccurate observations? Yes—yes, indeed—they are not inaccurate. They are perfectly true. And the subject has been studied with all the ardour which medical investigators bring to more serious and consequential matters. It has even been given a five syllable name: if you are sensitive to mosquitoes, bees, wasps or fleas you have "entomogenous allergy".

Sometimes insect bites really are serious—even to death. Dr. Meuse relates the story of a vigorous man who was stung on the septum of the nose by a bee. Supported by a friend he walked to his house a few yards away and lay down. He rose immediately to go to the well, stepped a few paces, fell and expired. It was thirty minutes from the time of the sting to the man's death.

Skeeters As Bad.

A woman—the history is related by Dr. Vaughan of Richmond—was stung just once by a bee. She collapsed before she could reach the dining room. A physician who was called found her shocked and pulseless. She was revived by the use of adrenalin. She had had two previous experiences.

Mosquitoes may be almost as bad. An American woman went to Canada and reacted to mosquito bites so that her whole face was swollen, the eyes closed, and the arms swollen to twice their ordinary size.

Extract Helps.

An extract of mosquito "poison" diluted and injected in small, increasing amounts will reduce this sensitiveness to nil. That's what happens to the guides. The mosquitoes themselves give the guides the treatment—a full course in allergy immunisation.

Clewes reports a patient who was so sensitive that gnat bites caused such dropsy and swelling as to keep her in bed for several days. Clewes collected the gnats and made an "extract" of them. After several treatments the lady could lie out near the lake and "be bitten with pleasure".

The reaction of different people to flea bites varies widely. In the San Francisco Bay region, which abounds in fleas, they do not encroach on the rights of most of the local population, but are a source of great misery to newcomers until they acquire an immunity. This usually takes several months, and in rare instances is never acquired.

With insects which poison by injecting a fluid under the skin and extract can be made of the stinging part of the insect—heads of mosquitoes, tails of bees and wasps—and a solution of the offending agent obtained for immunizing purposes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M.L.F.—"I would like information concerning tuberculosis of the bone. I have not been able to find anything about this particular form of tuberculosis. Have there been no studies made of it? Or is it rather unimportant in comparison to other forms the disease has taken?"

Answer—Tuberculosis of the bone has been the subject of a great many studies and is a very important subject. Orthopedic surgeons deal with it constantly. It occurs usually in children and affects most often the bones of the spine, of the hip, the knee and the elbow. It may run along for a long time and be called "rheumatism" or "growing pains". Treatment is by rest, immobilization of the part by braces or casts, and the general treatment of tuberculosis. Great success has been obtained by exposure to sunlight in high mountain climates—the method of Rollier.

H.S.M.—"When one has fever does sponging off with soda water do more harm than good?"

Answer—Sponging in high fevers is probably the best method of treatment that we have. It is not necessary, however, to use soda water. Plain, tepid water of a temperature of about 75 should be used and during the bath the temperature can gradually be reduced to 65. The patient should be sponged one limb at a time, then the abdomen and chest in front, then the back, keeping the rest of the body covered. The sponge bath should last about ten minutes.

British Woman M.P. Shoots Way Into Men's Rifle Club

Dr. Edith Summerskill who is just as determined as she looks, has shot her way into membership in the Palace of Westminster Rifle Club—and probably the House of Commons unit of Local Defence Volunteers.

It was more of a moral victory accomplished by the labor member for Fulham, not only for herself but for British women in general, who have been agitating for weeks to join the men in their L.D.V. groups, organized to deal with invading parachute troops. But most veterans—generally comprising the body — turned their backs on the idea of women being armed.

The women argued that a lot of female shots had won rifle fame for themselves, including Marjorie Foster, who captured the King's Prize at Bisley. The men argued they were exceptions.

Never Fired a Gun.

So it was up to Dr. Summerskill to prove the men were wrong. She had never fired a gun in her life. She had imagined rifle shooting a real re-man's job. Still, she was willing to defend the right of women to defend themselves and their homes. If women were to claim equality with men they must be prepared to shoulder equal burdens and dangers.

Ears were cocked to hear what she had to say, but the men merely shrugged shoulders with the suggestion that Dr. Summerskill was off on another series of her fiery speech making.

Called into consultation was James Luxford, Commons official who serves as executive of the rifle range. Then Dr. Summerskill and Luxford appeared at the range. The doctor tossed aside her long checked coat, rolled up the sleeves of her blue blouse and took hold of the 12-pound rifle handed her.

"This Isn't Heavy."

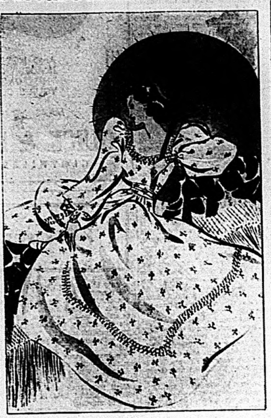
"Crumbs," she ejaculated with surprise, "this isn't heavy."

When the firing ceased Luxford called in the target. Seven of the ten shots had hit the black centre, four of the "bull's-eyes" or "magpies" being scored in succession. Her other three hit the card.

"Thank goodness," she exclaimed laughingly as she checked her score, "I'm so glad I didn't disgrace women. I'm most pleased because I want to establish the right of strong, healthy women to join the boys and men from 17 to 65 years old who now form the L.D.V."

So when the Westminster Brigade of the L.D.V. drill again in a square at the back of the house, a woman with a rifle and long tweed coat probably will be parading with peers, lords and ordinary male members of the House.

Picture of Enchantment



By PRUNELLA WOOD

Did you ever dance in the sunlight . . . or watch the pretty native girls in Mexico or South America at festival time? Their dresses with full skirts and hand-embroidered inspired this fluttering frock for a young girl's summer pleasure. She'll like it for garden parties as well as for moonlight evenings, and find nothing lovelier for parties at commencement.

The material is mousseline of a softness similar to mull, that old-fashioned fabric Paris is again using for quaint negligees and evening gowns. Small flowers are embroidered in black and fuchsia with cross stitching in the same contrast around the neck, billowy sleeves and hem. The dress is moderately-priced and one to be enjoyed more than a single season.

Rural Charms In Central Park

By TEMPLE MANNING

Know one great city and know it well in every one of its complex phases, and you'll be a real traveller. Discover its charm, its unexpectedness, the adventures in beauty and interest that await the seeker, and you'll get the ultimate out of your visit.

New York City is one metropolis that is all things to all men. The traveller when he is there may turn from the bright lights, cease to marvel at the towers of steel and stone that fling their modern angles to the sky, and go to the parks, where he takes out a membership in the Gotham Country Club. Dues are nil, with but a slight charge for the use of various facilities. He can spend much time in Central Park, that green ribbon that winds through the grey cloak of mid-Manhattan. He rides, bicycles, rows, skates. Nowhere are the simplest pleasures more fun than in the heart of a great city.

If you are coming to New York this summer, spare some time to enjoy Central Park. You'll spend less and have more fun and you'll be a full-fledged member of country club. Maybe you haven't rowed in years, but there's no reason why you shouldn't be tempted to do so when you spy the two lovely lakes in Central Park. Chances are that there'll be boats out filled with sailors, taking their "busman's holiday".

On the west side of the Mall in Central Park, you'll see folks bicycling like mad. The city fathers have given over a fine stretch of pedalling ground along the Center Drive, and there are shops near the park where bikes can be got on a low rental basis.

Parallel to the bicycling reservation there's a roller skating area, and as it is free, it's worth while buying a pair of skates. Skating again, doing the things you haven't even thought of for years, is part of a holiday. The park has wonderful riding trails.

Devote an entire day to the zoo, housed in a marvelous enclosure, all new and shining. Have lunch or tea on the terrace of the city cafeteria there, under a gay umbrella, while the seals frolic specially for you.

Tricky Knitting

David Gray, new American Minister to Eire, began today to fly a knitted home made woolen flag from the staff of his automobile instead of one of silk.

He decided on a knitted flag because those of silk which he could easily obtain, are soon tattered by constant rippling in the breeze. Mrs. Katherin Wood Crocker, of New York, friend of Mrs. Gray, knitted a flag in wool for him, according to the standard design, down to the complicated five-pointed stars in a blue field.

Household Hint

As place favors at a birthday party for a two-year-old child, frost firm cart-wheel cookies with powdered sugar frosting colored red. While frosting is moist, place upright in the centre a stick of red and white candy about three inches high and five-eights inch in diameter. Round the edge put a row of five animal crackers, facing in the same direction. These favors resemble miniature merry-go-rounrs semble miniature merry-go-rounds ers, being edible and easily digestible.

Housekeeping Is A Business

Here are some hints for the inexperienced housewife. First of all, don't have anything in your house that is neither useful nor pleasing to your artistic sense. Don't buy more furniture at the beginning than you really need. The more you have the more work to be done. You can always add later. Another thing, don't choose furniture which is only raised about half an inch from the ground—this will mean you'll have to shift it every time you clean, or grovel on your hands and knees.

Now for the job of turning out a room. Sounds simple — but how many new housewives know just how to set about it. First brush thoroughly all small upholstered chairs and put them and other easily carried things out of the room. Then thoroughly brush all the larger upholstered furniture and cover with dust sheets. After that sweep the floor. If you have a large carpet which cannot be taken up easily, sweep the carpet next. Then leave the room for a while to allow to settle. Return and dust every article in the room, clean the window, and don't forget the window ledges, top of the door and skirtings, also picture rails. Take down the pictures, dust and replace. Polish floor surrounds.

Use furniture polish twice a year after washing off the old polish with vinegar and water. Floors, of course, need polishing more often—a lot depends upon the kind of floor and the amount of traffic over it. Finally replace small furniture.

When you are cooking and have finished with any pot, pan, basin or bowl, fill it with cold water at once. Leave your dish pan in the sink, filled with cold water, and drop into it any plates, dishes, forks or spoons used while cooking. Just before a meal, see that the dish pan is full of cold water and as the plates and dishes from each course are carried away, drop them into the bowl or fill them with cold water. By the time you are ready to wash up, the plates have been soaked and only need rinsing in hot soapy water.

It's possible to pick up western togs after your arrival at farm or lodge, but if pennies count, it's a good idea to take along one serviceable, inexpensive outfit. Town Prepares To More

The children, unlike some of their parents in this village of 506 population, will have a new building for their daily activities when 124-year-old Greenville packs up and moves two miles north of its present location late this year or early next.

The school board, looking into the future in a fashion none too pleasing to schoolboys, is preparing to accept bids for erection of a new and modern high and grade school building on the site of the new town. The board will use an $82,705 fund granted by decision of Federal District Judge George H. Moore in St. Louis in a condemnation suit filed by the Federal government.

About $4,000 in bonded indebtedness on the present school structure must be paid from the fund before the new building is built.

Greenville is to be flooded by waters backed up by the Wappapello dam, due for completion about July 1, 1941. The dam is designed to check floods such as those which wrought extensive damage in Dunklin county, Missouri and in north Arkansas many times in the past several years.

Many homes and some business buildings will be moved to the new location. Greenville citizens at present believe they can wait until next summer to leave their property.

The school building at the old site is a comparatively new one. A condemnation suit also is pending against the county for possession of the courthouse and other public buildings.

If Moon-Faced Shun Severity

According to an important Hollywood make-up expert, about the worst thing a round-faced woman can do is to comb her hair straight back from her face and forehead and slick it down all around. Any such severe effect will make her round face seem positively full and moon-like.

She ought to wear it softly waved, he says, keeping the line that serves as a frame for the face equally soft. Straight bangs are all wrong. So are round dips and round, thick curls.

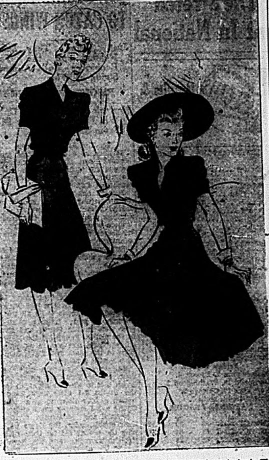
If your face is round but very small, perhaps an upswept coiffure with curls piled atop your head will be becoming. But if it is round and quite large, some version of the long bob probably will be more flattering. Softness over ears and on the neckline below and behind ears will tend to make the face appear longer.

Wear your rouge on the outer sections of checks, blending it upward over temples and downward almost to the jawline. Incidentally, you might try a darker rouge than you have been wearing. Dark rouge creates shadows and shadows are what the round-faced girl lacks.

Use foundation cream and powder which are one or two shades darker than the natural tones of your skin. Light, transparent effects are for thin-faced women with natural shadows below cheek bones.

Make your mouth up to look as wide as possible. The wider the mouth, the less obvious the distance from corners of it to ears. Choose a slightly darker lipstick to match the darker rouge.

Black On The Job



By PRUNELLA WOOD

The first day back from vacation isn't such a trial if you have something new to put on. Forget about that suitcase groaning with soiled, rumpled cottons and limp prints and slip into the neat little black frock you wisely purchased before leaving town.

The dresses shown are not only blessings now but investments for fall. Left is a version of the chemisier frock, adjusted to the waist by the belt which is stitched front and on the sides, but loose in back. The acetate crepe is of a shantung texture, cool and lightweight. Gold teardrop buttons fasten the bodice. Sizes run from 12 to 42.

Right, black rayon crepe is cut in one youthful piece with all-around pleated skirt and side-buttoned closing.

Keep your sandals black, but change from a white hat and white gloves to black hat and black gloves, or all brown accessories. The gold buttons on both dresses permit gold costume accents.

Gay Dinner Partners

It's a wonderful life we live in summer. A salad satisfies luncheon guests, five-and-ten glasses are accepted for tall, cool drinks. Sun goggles save our hats, beach sandals our shoes. The bodice closes with a zipper and the trousers fasten at the ankle instead of flopping sloppily about the leg. This pajama, like the majority for semi-formal wear, is made in one neat piece. Others are cut of bright all-over floral crepe.

The Time To Eat Onions

By BETSY NEWMAN

Ragout means to me The Arabian Nights Tales, in which some unlucky wight always was getting into difficulties with the Beautiful Princess by eating ragout with onions or garlic. London's leading fashion houses have started a two-fold drive to capture the title of world fashion centre lost by Paris.

In one move, a three-day series of shows for United States buyers began here today. Collections totalling an estimated 240 numbers are presented by Hartnell, Worth, Stiebel, Morton, Lachasse and Pacquin.

As a second move, a wool collection designed jointly by Hartnell, Stiebel and Morton in co-operation with the wool secretariat—a promotion organization—will be dispatched soon to New York for display at the world's fair.

Of the Parisian establishments frozen out by the French defeat, Molyneux's has fallen back on its London branch, but its present plans are "wait and see". Mme. Schitparelli has gone to New York. Other designers are reported considering the South American field.

English dressmakers are concentrating on North and South America but recognize the difficulties facing them.

Stiebel observed that "it will be hard to fetch their hearts from Paris," even while expressing belief that Americans would "like what we have to show them."

"Glitter tweed" suits, made with a material in which sequins have been woven, form one phase of the London displays.

Dinner dresses have long, tight sleeves and restrained lines.

To "soothe edgy nerves", Hartnell has chosen cloth of pale, calm colors—greens, yellows and mauves.

The all-wool collection ranges from husky tweeds to fine dress weights based on four colour groups—blue-red, blue-green, biscuit tan and red-brown. A special section is devoted to prints.

"I Spy"

By JANET GOFF

Good news to me this week is the assurance of buyers and manufacturers that the latter are beginning to bring their collections closer to the season. Next summer, if not this, it may be a cinch to buy the swim suit I want in the size and color I want, as late as August. I might even find a silk print frock in stock instead of on sale, soiled and dejected looking.

The tiny ice blue feather toque dark-haired Mrs. Raymond Ives is wearing these hot afternoons was certainly an inspiration for July . . . a water lily snatched from the pond couldn't look any cooler. . . . White feather toques lately arrived from Paris are veiled in black.

Speaking of flowers, is there a decoy in the house? Florists are favoring ducks instead of vases these days. . . . One shop is also selling a duplicate of the old oaken bucket filled with flowers. . . . The bucket can be used later as an ice cube pail.

Laughing Boys From Chicago May Get Hot In The Stretch And Cop Pennant In National

Just Finished Taking Four Out of Five and Scored 39 Runs in Drive

DODGERS TIE

Detroit Tigers Only Have Half-Game Lead by Losing to the A's 7-4

If the class in baseball history will please come to order, the professor's lecture today will have to do with those laughing boys from Wrigley Field.

It takes only a very small dip into recent records to show that in the last five years or so, just about the time a club figured it had the National League flag all polished up and nailed to its mast, those Chicago laughing boys got hot in the stretch to make trouble.

There was that time in '38, for instance, when the Pittsburgh Pirates had all arrangements made for the world series at Forbes Field, even to the extra hot-dog stands. Along came the laughing boys with 20 out of 25 in August, a dozen more in September—and the Buc balloon was busted, like the bag full of eggs you dropped.

Then, in '36, they sizzled in September to finish a fast-coming second to the Giants. Who in the class forgets '35, when the Cubs poured it on at the end with 21 straight to take the flag.

Now, this is hardly the spot to bring up that gag about history repeating, what with the Cincinnati Reds riding along there 8 1-2 games in front of the pack, after yesterday's 9-5 decision over the Phillies. It's still much too early for the Cubs to be beginning their regular stretch drive of it, if that's what they have in mind. However, since there doesn't seem to be any other club around ready to give the Rhinelanders a tussle for the title, you might read between the lines of the handwriting on the wall in the Cubs' doings of late.

They've just finished taking four out of their last five. They've scored 39 runs in that stretch, topping the whole thing off with a gaudy 14-1 decision over the New York Giants yesterday.

Terry Moore belted two homers as the highlight of the get-together between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers, but rain forced a halt in the tenth and they wound up in a 3-all deadlock. Ken Heintzelman left-handed the Boston Bees silly and tossed the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 9-0 win.

Detroit's American League lead was shaved to half a game, by (of all folks) the Philadelphia Athletics. George Caster was hot when he had to be and pitched an eight-hit 7-4 victory in that one. At the same time, second-place Cleveland walloped Washington 13-2.

The New York Yankees, invading Chicago for a night game before a roaring crowd of 48,104, looked like the real thing for a change as they whipped the White Sox 10-2. The Boston Red Sox also broke out their hitting bats and climbed all over the St. Louis Browns, 14-7.

"Week-end" Golfer, Factory Worker Meet in Final

By GEORGE STAUTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Detroit, July 27—(AP)—A 31-year-old "week-end" golfer and a 23-year-old unemployed automotive factory worker who never have won a title of any consequence met today for pay-as-you-go golf's highest honor.

At Rackham municipal course, where all week a huge field has torn par to pieces, Robert Clark of St. Paul and Michael Dietz of Detroit faced a 36-hole duel for the National Public Links crown.

Their only claims to golfing fame are the St. Paul city championship won this year by Clark and medalist honors taken by Dietz in the sectional qualifying trial for the public links tournament.

Clark, hardware salesman and father of two children, has been the meet's dark horse. Until he got by Louis Jennings, Oregon State amateur champion, in the quarter-finals he had gone unnoticed.

NEWARK BEARS HAVE HARD TIME TO CATCH WINGS

Just When They Seem Headed for the Top Rochester Pulls Another String of Wins

BISONS SPLIT PAIR

Newark Bears Could Only Win One of Double Bill From Montreal

By The Associated Press

It must be a heartbreaking task Newark Bears of the International League are facing—trying to catch up with the apparently invincible Rochester Red Wings.

Newark has managed to stay within hailing distance simply by taking advantage of every break—winning a game when the league leaders were idle, or copping a doubleheader while the Wings were winning one.

But just when the Bears feel they have a chance, the Wings come up with a championship-calibre victory such as the 9-3 triumph they carved out last night over Baltimore Orioles.

There was a world of power in that typical victory. The Red Wings bunched their blows to do all their scoring in two innings—getting four runs in the fourth and five in the eighth. Fallon led the 15-hit barrage with five hits in as many trips to the plate and Davis helped out with a homer.

Buffalo and Syracuse split a doubleheader, Earl Cook giving only six hits to win the nightcap for the Bisons 8-1 after Jack Tising hurled a four-hitter to give the Chiefs a 3-1 opening game victory.

Newark and Montreal divided their doubleheader, the Bears winning the opener 5-4 for their fifth straight triumph and the Royals taking the abbreviated nightcap, 6-5.

Toronto and Jersey City were not scheduled.

$50,000 CLASSIC AT LOS ANGELES AN OPEN AFFAIR

Challedon, Kayak II and Can't Wait Are Picked by Experts to be in Money

FILISTEO TO START

Horse Owned by Harry Hatch of Toronto Not Given Any Chance

By ROBERT MYERS

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Los Angeles, July 27 (AP).—Turf enthusiasts byl the thousands swept on suburban Hollywood Park today, chanting the names of Challendon, Kayak II, Can't Wait and other thoroughbred stars slated to go postward in the third running of the $50,000 added Hollywood Gold cup.

By airplane, train and motor car, rich and poor, famous and humble, they came to watch the summer time racing classic of the west—which fell to the pounding strides of the mighty Seabiscuit in 1938, and to his Argentine stablemate, Kayak II, a year ago.

It was Kayak and the Maryland-bred Challedon against the field; the racing silks of Charles S. Howard once again pitted against the colors of W. L. Brann, but there was more than a chance for an upset in the mile and one quarter battle for the top purse of some $35,000.

Myron Sleznick's Can't Wait, which hurried west for the Hollywood special just as did the great Challedon, was a prime upset threat, and there was high regard for Valdina Farm's Viscounty. There were scattered votes for Kayak's running mate, Odvocator, Louis B. Mayer's Joy Boy, and Speedy Specify, the A. A. Baroni chestnut which ran third in the race last year.

Filisteo, owned by Harry Hatch of Toronto, Hysterical, Wedding Call, Vain Bo and Mount Vernon II were given outside chances of finishing in the money.

K-NINES SNATCH OVERTIME WIN FROM VIKINGS

Stub Barrett's Crew Come From Behind in Ninth to Tie and Win in Tenth

SCORE IS 14-13

Outstanding and Sensational Running Catches Made by Members of Both Teams

In true Merriwell fashion Stub Barrett's K-Nines snatched a 10-inning 14 to 13 victory over the Viking girls in the semi-final play-offs in the Ladies' Mercantile Softball loop played at the East Belleville playgrounds last evening. It was the first overtime game of the current girls' softball season and a juicy morsel for the victorious Kresge nine, who came from behind to knot the count with a two run rally in the top half of the ninth and went on to win in the extra inning.

The batters held away and swung heavy and trusty bludgeons throughout, there being forty hits registered and many of the extra base nature, Kresges outhitting the losers 22 to 18. The score see-sawed all evening at rather even terms, when Lum Carson's Vikings forged to the fore with a three run rally in the eighth and seemed headed towards a win but the K-Nines rallied and scored two runs to knot the count in the ninth as Lickfold, Clarke and Richardson hit in succession to count a brace of runs. The K-Nines blanked the Vikings in the bottom half of the ninth and went to bat in the overtime frame to score two runs on a walk, two errors and Corneal came through with a timely hit. In the last half of the tenth the Vikings went to bat with determination in their eye. Ruth Thompson walked, D. Zebedee, batting for Adams, popped to second, but Woodcock slashed a double to score Thompson and later advanced when Fleming was safe at first on an error, Maker flew to centre and Woodcock failed to score from third. Mary Lickfold struck out Greatrix for the final out and victory.

Some outstanding and sensational running catches were made by both nines, featured by Woodcock, Greatrix and Maker for the Vikings, while Belnap, Richardson and Orr duplicated these feats for Kresges. Woodcock, Maker, Thompson and Greatrix hit well for the losers, while Clarke, Orr. H. Thompson and Corneal delivered for the winning K-Nines. On Tuesday night at East Belleville playgrounds the Corbin "lockmakers" meet Zellers in the second game of the league semi-finals.

Sports Roundup

(By Eddie Brietz, Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, July 27—(AP)—Hoss talk: The smart guys have been touting Alf Vanderbilt's New World for the Arlington Futurity today. . . . In our book he's got a lot of horse to beat in Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention. . . . What's this about all not being well with Kayak's training? We'll find out when he looks Challedon in the eye this afternoon at Hollywood.

Today's guest star:

Bob Whiting, Paterson Morning Call: "Those baseball fans who visioned a nickel world series this year—the Yankees vs. Brooklyn—are thinking of moving to Ohio. Cincinnati and Cleveland looks like a much better parlay."

Mary Hardwick of London, who came over 11 months ago to play in the Wightman Cup matches, has stayed to travel 35,000 miles.

Joe Rue, the ump who stood there and let those Yankee fans shower him with pop bottles, had had some truck with bottles before, it develops. About ten years ago when he was calling 'em in the American Association, a Columbus crowd grew irate over a decision made by Rue's co-umpire. As the two were leaving the field, a fan leaned over to smack the ump who made the decision — and dented Rue's skull by mistake!

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with Ken J. Colling

A certain dear old lady made it her duty to visit the patients of the local hospital.

On one occasion she went up to a much bandaged individual who was sitting up in bed, and after a little preliminary talk said to him very sympathetically: "I suppose your wife must miss you a great deal?"

"No, mum," came the prompt reply; "she's got a wonderful aim for a woman." Which is characteristic of the pitchers in the local girls' softball loop, their aim at hitting their opponents' bats is nothing short of uncanny.

When it comes to providing thrills and tense moments leave it to the girl softballers to get in on the ground floor. Playing their first game on their new East Belleville playgrounds last night the K-nines not only came from behind in true Merriwell spirit to win, but did it in overtime, the game going ten frames for the first extra inning contest of the season in the girls' loop. It was a batting contest throughout with the Kresges not only winning 14 to 13, but out-slugging the Vikings 14 to 13. Some of the best fielding of the season was seen, catches of the sensational type being made by Belnap, Richardson and Orr for the winners, but even these fine plays were slightly overshadowed with catches made by Woodcock and Greatrix for Vikings, while Norma Maker took a line drive over her shoulder. Peg Ketcheson served 'em up for the Vikings, while Mary Lickfold hurled for the winners, but it was the batters, that held the upper hand, counting 40 hits in all, 22 of which went to Stub Barrett's K-nines. Another added feature came when Umpire Harold Bawden thumbed Coach Lum Carson from the game following an argument. The league play-offs continue next Tuesday.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers, one of the best-dressed men in the game, is as careful about his diamond toggery as he is of the clothes he wears when he leaves the clubhouse. When Durocher returns to the clubhouse after a game, he places his cap neatly in the back of his locker so it will be free of creases the next day. And Leo abhors dirty uniforms as much as he does soiled shirts. When the Brooklyn manager was a Yankee rookie at St. Petersburg, Fla., in 1928, Ed Barrow, then the club's business manager, called up Mark Roth, road secretary, to inquire about the recruit infielder who had a bigger laundry bill than any one else on the club, including Col. Ruppert.

There seems to be an air of uncertainty surrounding the city softball finals for the O.A.S.A. rights between the Corby's A.C. and the Shell "Oilers" owing to training. However, the league ex-military enlistments and volunteer executive is endeavoring to arrange play-off dates suitable to all concerned with the result a Saturday evening play-off is slated between these two ancient diamond enemies this evening at the Flats. Although Corby's have out-hit the Oilers badly in their first two games, the Bawden-led golden-jerseyed mushballers are two games up in a best-in-seven series. Corby's have outhit the Shell 20 to 14 on the series, but the Oilers have outscored Corby's 12 to 9. The Shell boys say they'll wind things up in four straight and Johnnie Bawden says he's in possession of a quantity of the coin of the realm to substantiate his convictions. To date Coach Harold Bawden says he's outsmarted the Barriage-Simpson outfit at every turn, but figures go to prove that "old lady luck" has not been smiling particularly in their favor, but tonight's another game, quoth the Corby nine.

Sixty-six years old and as inseparable from Pittsburgh baseball as Forbes Field itself, Honus (Hans) Wagner, one of the greatest ball players of all times, is participating as coach in his twenty-ninth season in the National League. In twenty-one years as a player, the "Flying Dutchman" shone as one of the game's brightest stars, leaving on the books some records never equalled. He still enjoys telling how Ed Barrow, now president of New York Yankees, found him throwing stones, like kids will, and signed him to a contract. That's how one of baseball's greatest careers started. The late Barney Dreyfus, then owner of Louisville Pirates, signed Wagner to a $2,000-a-year contract. He played for the Pirates until Dreyfus retired, coming to Pittsburgh from Louisville when Dreyfus transferred the franchise. Wagner now serves as coach of the team for which he played in 2,785 games in every position but catcher. He pounded out 3,430 hits and posted the all-time batting average of .329. He scored 1,740 runs and batted .300 or better for seventeen years.

Promoter Mike Jacobs has abandoned all plans to hold a Max Baer-Joe Louis fight in September. However, the wily Mike is substituting the winner of the forthcoming Billie Conn-Bob Pastor scrap of August 13. It would begin to look as though Maxie Baer crossed up the big fight moguls by sopping Tony Galento, as Jacobs now sees the folly of a Baer-Louis fight, although it is safe in assuming that had Galento won there would have been a Galento-Louis brawl in September as per schedule. There are those who feel that Conn is the next heavyweight champ, providing, however, he bides his time and awaits the much-needed additional avoirdupois before meeting the 205-pound Louis. Conn weighs 183 pounds today.

SPORT SPICE — Harry Rollins, local O.A.S.A. executive member, is in Hamilton today attending an executive meeting of the provincial softball body. . . . Harry says he'll propose to abandon provincial softball play-offs, providing they interfere with Canada's volunteer military training. . . . Ernie Simpson, Kingston executive member, arrived in town last night and accompanied Harry to the Ambitious City. . . . Bob Feller chalked up his 16th win of the season yesterday, scattering eight hits masterfully as the Indians beat the Senators 13-2. . . . Challedon and Kayak 2nd are the favorites for the rich $50,000 Hollywood Cup to be raced for outside Los Angeles today. . . . "Hammerin' Hank" Armstrong is in hospital today having an operation on his eye tissues, which proves that Lew Jenkins really socked him the other night. . . . And it's over to Coleman Flats and the Shell-Corby playoff we go.

CANADA INCLUDED

These Canadian arrangements were handled by Ralph P. Bell, the directing head of aircraft production in Canada, and Morris W. Wilson, representing Lord Beaverbrook, British Minister of Aircraft Production.

A number of Canadian aircraft firms at present are engaged to the limit of productive capacity in turning out planes to be used in training pilots under the air training plan. But other plants will turn out first line fighting planes which could be used in air battles almost as soon as they leave the assembly line.

Bomber Made Here

The Bristol Bolingbroke bomber is one of the speediest and most efficient planes made in Canada at present and this presumably would be one type of aircraft in which production would be stepped up. The Hurricane Hawker, a fighter craft, is another type that might be turned out in more numerous quantities.

However, there might be a switch made from production of these British-designed planes to American types, because Mr. Howe stated that in order to assure maximum production as rapidly as possible, all aircraft to be built under the plan will be of design, material and equipment available on this continent.

The orders will be placed jointly by Britain and Canada.

Two "conscientious objectors" in London asked their names be removed from the list of c. o.'s after France's capitulation. They had decided to fight after all.

LONE 'HOLD-OUT' READY TO YIELD

Argentina Ready to Sign Some Sort of Agreement to Protect Western Hemisphere Against Threats Arising from Its European-Held Possessions

Havana, July 27—(AP)—Argentina, the lone "hold-out" was reported today to be ready to yield on the question of signing some sort of agreement to protect the western hemisphere against threats arising from its European-held possessions.

Optimism grew among delegates to the Pan-American Conference here that a compromise accord acceptable to Argentina would be reached soon

After a brief session last night of the peace commission of the conference, one delegate predicted agreement today.

(In Buenos Aires, Argentine Foreign Minister Jose Maria Cantilo expressed belief an agreement would be reached after "a little mutual compromise.")

At the same time proposals to develop inter-American economy and strike vigorously at "fifth column" activities progressed through committees toward virtually certain adoption.

Strives For Agreement

State Secretary Cordell Hull of the United States is striving for unanimous agreement without sacrificing vital objectives in the United States suggestion of "collective trusteeship" over the European colonies.

The basic problem was Argentina's reluctance to enter any broad commitments on measures to meet possible emergencies. The southern nation apparently was unwilling to take action which might prejudice her future trade relations with Europe.

On the other hand, the United States and most of the other republics evinced a strong desire to create machinery for quick and decisive action to meet any foreign threat involving control of French, Dutch or British possessions in the new world. The United States advocates the trusteeship for any colony threatened with transfer.

Some delegates expressed belief that Argentina's objections to the trusteeship plan would be met by its original provision that only those republics ratifying it would participate.

Argentina has taken the position that the colonies should decide their own future status.

INSTALMENT 18.

William Ballard listened thoughtfully.

"Why'd you ask her?" he presently demanded.

"I didn't ask her! I give you my word, dad, I never thought of getting married! It was just her—her taking it all for granted — telling them all we were sweethearts—"

The older man was nodding; his narrowed eyes fixed on space.

"Seen some one else you like better, Ben?"

"Oh, yes! Not that I'd ever have a chance with her. But she's—she's a gentlewoman, knows things, speaks languages—"

A silence. Then Ben said eagerly:

"But dad, long before I met Kate I knew it wasn't any use with Bootsy. Her kissing me—her friends—the whole thing, it bores me so I can't bear it—and she knows it, too, only she won't admit it. I've tried to say that we're both too young, and we've no prospects, but she goes right on talking of linen and china cups!"

"Well, Ben," William Ballard said slowly, after a long pause. "There's only one thing for you to do. Go down and see her tonight, tell her, right before her mother and father if you have to, that your feelings have changed—face it. It'll be awful, but it won't hurt you as much as what might come along later would. This sounds more like a romantic little country beauty who has fallen more in love with love than she has with you. She'll get over it; but if you marry and make a mistake—you won't, either one of you."

Ben said nothing but his father noticed that he was unusually serious and silent for the rest of the day. Late in the afternoon they talked together again.

He saw Bootsy that evening. Bootsy met him in animated reproach.

"Oh, you bad boy! If you were coming tonight why didn't you pick me up at the store and come for supper? Momma, here's Ben now," Bootsy sang rather than said.

"I want to talk to you, Bootsy, and then afterward I want to talk to you and Captain Florence, Mrs. Florence," Ben said courageously. His heart was beating unevenly and his hands were cold. All the time he kept thinking of the moment when he would tell his father about this, up at the barn tomorrow. "She won't die, she won't die of it, they can't kill me," he thought.

But it was all worse than his worst anticipations. Bootsy was incredulous and laughing at first, and then loving and reproachful; she called it a lovers' quarrel; he mustn't be mean to her because she had gone to the Woodmen's Ball with Kane Mason. Kane had been her schoolday sweetheart before ever she had heard of Ben.

Sobered and frightened at last, Bootsy grew only the more resolutely forgiving and affectionate. Her arms were about him, he was to kiss her, and ask her pardon, and not say such silly things!

"I want to tell your father and mother," Ben persisted, trying to free his arms of her. But Bootsy was crying frantically now, and wouldn't let him go. They all l-l-loved him, and this would kill poppa! Ben looked at the strayed chandelier in the parlor that was hung with little suede umbrellas and football pompoms, and sighed. If only she wouldn't cry!

But in the end the crying saved him, for Mrs. Florence, not believing her ears, opened the door a crack and peeped in, and Ben called to her.

"Mrs. Florence, I feel terribly about this, but Bootsy and I've been talking—"

Aroused, suspicious, hostile, the mother came in.

"Stay out of this, momma!" Bootsy commanded hysterically. But momma would not stay out of it now. She came in and put her arms about Bootsy protectively, and it was Bootsy who sobbed out the terrible truth.

"Ben's tired of me, momma! He wants to break our engagement! He says now that he never asked me!"

"She asked you, I suppose?" Mrs. Florence demanded roundly. "Don't you talk any such nonsense as breaking your engagement to me. For there isn't a poltroon in the country that's mean enough to hurt a loving child like this!"

"Don't call Ben names, momma," Bootsy sobbed. "I love him!"

Ben was conscious of a strange detachment, and again he told himself that they couldn't kill him; he felt himself oddly no more than an outsider, a witness, to this excitement.

"I'm horribly sorry," he said more than once. He said it gently, as both mother and daughter entreated him to come to his senses and tell them that this was all a dreadful joke. Bootsy was flung across her bed, crying wildly, and somehow Lily and Floyd were in the fray, when Ben left at last. Mrs. Florence, roused to fury, flung after him a threat of a horsewhipping; when he found himself alone in the chill and silence of the night Ben drove about aimlessly for a long while.

Then he went home and joined the bridge players in the kitchen. Sitting down with a book he nodded to his father; Sally heard them talking, when she was warm in bed, talking late into the night. She couldn't imagine what they were talking about, and nothing that was said the next day gave her any hint. Ben was quieter than ever for a while, and went to the village no more.

Winters closed in cold and early that year. There was never snow, but the roads were deep in the mud that froze and thawed and froze and thawed again. Chickens took to the warm hay barns; cows came disconsolately home from the hills at three o'clock; the cold sun disappeared before five, and Ben's days were one long struggle with stove wood.

Michael was now a member of the family and slept in the kitchen bedroom. Why Lissy didn't transfer her affections to him Joyce often wondered; but of course Lissy never thought of an itinerant fruit hand as a possible mate. That he happened to be a gentleman never would occur to Lissy now; his first appearance had placed him once and for all. Then of course Michael was paid no more than something like twenty-five dollars a month; that would be an important point to Lissy. Joyce laughed, thinking about it, and told her father she was losing all sense of values.

"Or getting it," William Ballard said.

"Well, or getting it. Because honestly, Michael seems to me one of the pleasantest persons I ever met."

"He is. The fact that he hasn't any particular ambition to succeed as other men do, isn't so serious. Perhaps we Americans make it more important than it is."

When the time came for Archie to go to Scotland to keep his promise to his cousin Jean he was frankly reluctant. He took Lissy's father into his confidence.

"The awkward thing is that I simply don't feel I can go. I—you have no idea how I feel about Felicity. I cannot go on with any—any other arrangement."

"H'm!" Lissy's father said doubtfully. "It is expected of you, of course. That is too bad"

For they all had come somehow to like Archie in spite of his handsome young pompousness and his stupid management of his affairs of the heart. He was so determined in his helpless way to be a gentleman through it all and to do his duty by the family and the Ross firm that first Lissy and then the other forgave him past defections, and came to see that once Archie's loyalty was engaged it was established for life. The awkwardness of the deferred marriage and broken engagement had all come about because Archie never really had included Lissy among his obligations; she was included now, and the situation, infinitely entangled, was a happier one for her than even the first days of her engagement had been. Or if not exactly happier, it was at least more exciting; less certain in one way, more certain in another. Lissy knew that she loved Archie now, loved him with all her heart, and Archie's protestations and Archie's admiration were infinitely more definite than they had been a year ago.

It was finally decided that the only honest thing to do was for Archie to take the trip as planned to Scotland, see his cousin, and have a talk with her. Jean was a sensible girl, she would understand. Archie would tell her frankly that his old love for Felicity Ballard had returned, against his will even, and ask her to set him free from his promise, and to use her influence with his uncle to let the business arrangements stand.

Solemnly, tearfully indeed, he and Felicity parted. He would be back in late March, and a year after it had been originally planned their marriage would quietly take place—this time in the old farmhouse. "For this is my home," Archie said, "and you are all my people. I never have been so happy as I have been on these Sundays; this is the way I like to live, this is the way every one ought to live!"

Lissy was very pensive for several days after he went away, but she was not unhappy. A grave sort of dignity marked her manner.

"We have found each other again," she said. "There will be no more misunderstandings now."

"I think this little time of trial has developed both their natures," Sally said. "We never knew what a really fine fellow Archie was before, and Lissy has been superb through it all. Well, Dodo," she added philosophically, "what will you and I do left here alone without the girls?"

Dodo would smile at this sort of thing mysteriously; she was a silent little creature; always happiest when close to one of the others, following Joyce's confident directions, listening to what Lissy or her mother or Ben said. Joyce reasoned with her on the subject of Charley Sallock.

"Don't let yourself get to liking him, Dodo."

"I won't, of course!" Dodo answered. "But why not?"

"Why not?" Joyce echoed. "Well, because his family is a regular small town family. His mother has freckled arms and red hair and takes prizes for pickles at county fairs. His father has a feed-store, and Marie Therese is going with the Labaree boy who delivers milk. You certainly wouldn't want to move over to a ranch in the San Joachin, and wash milk pans for the rest of your life on a dairy farm!"

"I don't say I would," Dodo said, her face flushed, "but it wouldn't be so very different from what we are doing here, would it?"

Joyce regarded her with surprise and alarm.

Madoc and District

Madoc—The street carnival and dance held at Madoc on Wednesday evening was an outstanding success. The affair was sponsored by the Men's Community Club. Bingo games were well patronized by the crowd. Music for the dance was provided by George Wade and the "Cornhuskers". Over four hundred dollars was cleared and will be used for Red Cross. TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 27 (CP)—The demand for the gold shares picked up sharply in today's two hour session of the Toronto stock exchange and prices adanced all along the line. Gains up to 20 cents or more were posted. Base metal and industrial stocks firmed more moderately. Volume was around 150,000 shares for the short session.

East Malartic gained 25 cents to 3.05, Wright Hargreaves 25 cents to 5.75, Kerr-Addison 15 cents to 2.20, and Malartic Gold Fields 9 cents to 95. Gains of 5 to 10 cents were netted by San Antonio, Aunor, Buffalo-Ankerite, Coniarium, Hard Rock, MacLeod Cockshutt and others. The stranger market in London recently for the south African gold stocks apparently influenced the tone here in today's trade.

Noranda moved up ¾ to 50½ and Nickel gained ¼ while Pend Oreille added 5 cents. Other base metal shares were steady.

Most of the industrial groups displayed strength on light turnover. Foods, steels, papers and utilities looked better. Bell Telephone firmed 1½ to 148½. Canners B, Laura Secord and C.P.R. improved small fractions. Abitibi pfd. was slightly stronger at 3¾.

WALL ST. CLOSE

New York, July 27—(AP)—Buyers were shy and sellers equally timid in today's stock market, with the net result a large-sized zero so far as real trends were concerned.

The volume of around 100,000 shares was the smallest for any Saturday since Aug. 3, 1918, and compared with 111,220 in the preceding two-hour session.

Holding fairly well throughout were Youngstown Sheet, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Curtiss-Wright, Anaconda and N. Y. Central.

Backward were U.S. Rubber, Phillip Morris, General Electric, Standard Oil of N.J., Texas Corp. Republic Steel and North American.

Canadian stocks and bonds were quiet. Dome lost 5-8 while Walkers gained a fraction. In the bond market Canada 4s were inactive.

22 MEN LOST ON 2 TRAWLERS SUNK DURING THIS WEEK

London, July 27—(CP)—Twenty-two men were lost on the two British trawlers sunk this week by enemy air attacks, the Admiralty announced today.

The sinkings were announced on Thursday.

Two were killed and 16 missing and presumed dead on the Kingston Galena, and two killed and two missing and presumed dead on the Rodino.

Apportumity Given to Improve Stock

The fact that there is a surplus of breeding stock in the Waterloo district does not mean much unless some organized effort is made to purchase some of it. Young sows six months of age from qualified dams can be purchased for $25.00 plus transportation.

Members of the grading staff make frequent calls on these advanced registry breeders and could act as purchasing agents if orders were placed at this office.

This is not a request for farmers to increase their breeding stock but rather an opportunity to improve it.

Some good lots of hogs marketed out of the Belleville district during the week of July 26, 1940, are as follows:

Uninhabited Isle 'Talks Back' About Wind, Rain, Heat and Cold

Washington, July 27—(AP)—Two federal research workers have perfected an apparatus by which a desert island can talk back to the government.

Assuming that most of our weather is made way upstairs or off in distant places, W. S. Hinman and Harry Diamond of the United States Bureau of Standards claim to have an invention that gives reports from isolated spots without having men stationed there.

Their invention—an automatic weather reporter—can be located on a desert island, in the middle of a prairie, or on top of a mountain.

Through a set of highly technical instruments, the weather reporter will report by radio such vital information as wind velocity, rainfall, temperature, humidity, and barometric readings.

With thousands of these out-of-the-way instruments located throughout the world, scientists say that international weather reporting will be made much easier.

Second Fire Within 24 Hours Breaks Out in C.N.R. Train Wreck

Strathroy, Ont., July 27 (CP)—The second fire within 12 hours broke out last night as wrecking crews struggled to open the double-track line, closed in the rear-end collision of two Canadian National Railways freight trains late Thursday night. Three men were injured in the crash and damage estimated at "more than $100,000."

A locomotive and 25 cars were derailed and caught fire in the crash. A tank car caught fire late Friday afternoon, sending flames 200 feet in the air and another blaze broke out in the wreckage as crews worked in extreme heat to clear the main Chicago-Montreal line of the C.N.R.

Fireman James Connelly of Hamilton remained unconscious in Strathroy hospital today. Most seriously injured of the three crew members, he is suffering from internal injuries and a fractured skull. Engineer James Tinkham of Sarnia and brakeman Walter Duncan, Hamilton, also are in hospital.

Cause of the collision has not yet been determined.

Although it appears to be her good luck to find the much desired multiple clover leaf, Mrs. Tracey says that she has not been aware of any outstanding good fortune to come her way by reason of her finding them.

ORDNANCE

It was authoritatively stated there was no truth in reports of a German air attack on a convoy off Northern Ireland yesterday. These reports arose from evidences of a sea battle witnessed from the Irish coast. Just what did occur there was not disclosed in London.

Describing today's raids, a youth in one southwest town said "our whole house tumbled down" when a bomb struck in the night.

"When I climbed out I found the gas stove had been lying across my neck and the wash basin from the bathroom was on top of me," he said. "The ceiling was within two feet of the floor."

It was disclosed that British ordnance plants are turning out equipment for use by the part of the French fleet now under British control.

Meanwhile latest reports available showed the Royal Air Force was continuing to pound Germany's war industrial areas, railways and arms and oil storage dumps. The last report available, covering Thursday night, said six oil dumps were set alight, 14 airdromes in Germany and Holland were blasted and numerous other objectives were hit.

In one particular raid the R.A.F. bombed a large factory at Gotha which turns out Messerschmitt fighter planes. For 40 minutes the Britons pounded the factory and when they left flames were leaping hundreds of feet in the air.

Meanwhile German air raids over Britain slackened and a peace move came from an unrecognized body broadcasting over the Hilversum, Holland, radio station.

30 Downed in Two Days

Only a few German aircraft were seen over Britain yesterday and of those two were shot down, bringing the Nazi casualty list over Britain to 30 in two days.

The number of French ships and French naval men still fighting for Britain and the restoration of French freedom was not disclosed, but it was recalled that when Britain took over part of the French fleet Prime Minister Churchill said the requisitioned French ships included two battleships, two light cruisers, numerous submarines, including the Surcouf, largest in the world, eight destroyers and 200 minesweepers.

The unidentified body which called for peace over the Hilversum radio urged that Britain and Germany cease fighting to prevent "these brother nations" from destroying each other.

The Netherlands government in London promptly disavowed the broadcasters and said it could not identify them. The Hilversum station, formerly renowned for the excellence of its musical programs, is now under control of the German radio.

Almost simultaneously with this plea for peace came an announcement from the German-controlled Amsterdam administration that 12,000,000 laying hens, two-thirds of Holland's poultry would be slaughtered before Sept. 15 because of a shortage of chicken feed.

WIRE-BOUND

nected with the Attorney General's Department Toronto, carried out a post mortem on the body in the early morning hours but his report to Crown Attorney G. S. Robertson was not made public.

Sectionmen Find Body

James Thow and James McGraw both of Trenton, sectionmen working on the Canadian National Railway noticed the body of the child floating near the pier of the bridge over the Trent River, shortly after two o'clock.

The police were immediately notified and Constable Frank Lozo of the Trenton police rushed to the scene. The body was floating about three feet from the shore, near the pier of the bridge. A wire bound around the stomach of the child had an extra loop, where it is thought that a weight had been used.

Coroner Dr. J. W. Farley, of Trenton, who was called to the scene stated that the body had been in the water for approximately 24 hours. No statement was made as to whether the child had been drowned or whether it was dead when thrown into the water.

Investigate Complaint

For a short time the body of the child was unidentified, until Chief William Bain and Constable Frank Lozo recalled the complaint made by Mrs. Mountenay, of Baptiste street, Trenton, on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Mountenay had informed Chief Bain that a child belonging to Mrs. Alice Archer McFarlane of Thursday evening in regard to the but that she had received no money from the parent, according to the agreement.

Chief Bain had telephoned Mrs. McFarlane to come to Trenton on Thursday evening in regards to the child. That evening it was agreed that Mrs. McFarlane would take her own child.

Positive identification of the child, as that belonging to Mrs. McFarlane was made by Mrs. Mountenay yesterday afternoon.

Following the identification, Chief Bain and Constable Lozo went to Frankford and arrested Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane. The couple were brought to the Trenton police station, where they were questioned by Chief Bain and Crown Attorney Robertson.

Later the couple were taken to the scene by Chief Bain and Constable Lozo in company with Jack Tinney, court reporter, who took down everything that was said by Mr. and Mrs McFarlane. Police did not reveal anything that was said by the couple.

Interviewed by The Ontario Intelligencer last evening, Mrs. Mountenay stated that the child had been left with her on the morning of July 11, one day previous to the marriage, by the mother of the child, Mrs. McFarlane. Arrangements had been made on Tuesday, July 9, by Mr. P. Johnson, brother-in-law of Mrs. McFarlane for the boarding of the child for a short time, she said.

Arrangements for Keep Outlined

"The child was left with me and I was to receive $3.50 per week for its upkeep," said Mrs. Mountenay, who often boards children. "As I had not received any money in two weeks, I asked Chief Bain to help me collect. This was on Thursday afternoon. That evening, Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane came and took the child away with them, promising to pay me the seven dollars on Monday night."

"When Mrs. Mcfarlane brought the child to the home, she left in a hurry, saying 'I'd better be going before the child starts crying for me.' Since that time, the mother did not return to my place to see the child until Thursday evening, when she took him away," continued Mrs. Mountenay.

Mr. and Mrs. Mcfarlane with the child went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson for supper. They left about nine o'clock and both seemed to be quite happy.

Mrs. Mcfarlane is just a child in appearance. Small in build, she is about five feet tall with brown hair and brown eyes. Mr. Mcfarlane is about five feet four inches in height and also of slight build, with light hair.

Unaware Sen Held

Unaware that her son was being held in connection with the murder of two-year-old Gordon Archer, Mrs. Elsie McFarlane of Frankford, today sent her second son, George, to the Bata Shoe Company to ascertain whether he had shown up for work this morning.

While at the plant, George was shown the morning paper with the story of the incident. The family immediately journeyed to Trenton to verify the story.

Mrs. McFarlane collapsed at the police station when she was told of the incident by the police, but was revived.

"Robert was such a good lad. He always had a job and was very industrious. I didn't know that they were to be married until they walked into the house after the wedding," commented Mrs. McFarlane.

"No, I didn't know anything about the child," she said, when asked if she knew that her daughter-in-law had a child. "They didn't tell me anything about it and I didn't know that they were bringing it out to Frankford."

According to the various members of the family the couple seemed to be very happy since their marriage.

Police indicated this morning that it was possible that more serious charges would be laid this afternoon or evening.

a plant in Hamilton County, Ohio, near Cincinnati to boost the firm's output of high-speed engines to 12,000 a year. The plant will employ 12,000 to 15,000 men and would step up United States engine production toward 30,000 a year—enough for 20,000 planes, on a basis of 1 1-2 motors per plane. Present United States production indicates an annual output of 18,000 by next March.

While the aircraft industry expects to produce only 895 planes next month, not including pleasure craft, Knudsen said there is "every indication" that the rate will rise to 25,000 war planes a year by July 1, 1942.

If it was not a fact that His Majesty's Mediterranean fleet is continuing to dominate the sea the Italians would like to make "our lake", the worsening situation in the French colonies might be regarded more seriously.

French possessions in North and Equatorial Africa have been showing indications of acquiescing in the peace the Petain Government made with Germany and the Italians.

That is true also of Syria but in her case it must be remembered that she is dependent on Britain for access to her markets. It is reported that Syria would face bankruptcy if she was cut off from her markets for a few months.

The situation in the Belgian Congo likewise is uncertain. The new governor general, who has just reached there indicated he would like to 'ride the fence". Such a policy would be a reverse for Britain, for previously the Congo has been distinctly friendly.

The Congo has rich mineral and petroleum deposits. However, more important is its geographical position on the borders of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Rhodesia and Uganda.

24 Veterans Leave For Training Camp

Swinging trimly to strains of traditional martial music as played by Pipe-Major Jamie Clarke, twenty-four veterans of the last war marched from the local Armories to the station today to entrain for Ottawa where they will enter Veterans' Home Guard training camp. The twenty-four men, with addition of twelve who left for Ottawa yesterday, complete the establishment which Belleville and district was asked to recruit.

The veterans displayed oceans of enthusiasm and all were pleased to be back in the army again, with many a repartee being heard at the recruiting desk as comrades of the last war, waited for their chance to again serve their country. One veteran was heard asking a pal, "Well, back in the army again, working for the King, eh Bill?"

"Yep," was the gay reply. "Working for the King, but not the same King."

Included in the party which left today for Ottawa were several veterans of the Imperial Army and also one Sgt. George Neal, who served with the Australian forces from 1914-18, when he was discharged from the army. Sgt. Neal now lives in Prince Edward County, residing near Mountain View.

Lt. Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., who recruited the local company of the Veterans' Home Guard, stated this morning that with the departure of the men to Ottawa today, the establishment for this district was completed and recruiting will have ceased for the time being. Lt. Col. Keeler will proceed to R.M.C., Kingston, on Sunday, July 28th.

ONE WAY YOU CAN HELP

HOW often in these days of world stress do we hear people say: " . . . . but there isn't anything I can do about it." Mostly they are people precluded by age or sex from military service, who contemplate with bewilderment the possibility of disruption of the even tenor of their lives.

There is something that they — and everyone else not serving directly in Canada's war effort — can do about it. THEY CAN CONTINUE THEIR NORMAL EXPENDITURES.

People who curtail expenditures at this time wouldn't like to be called "Fifth Columnists" but, in truth, they are doing harm to their country and the cause of the Allies.

Our ability to carry on normal domestic trade during the war period will contribute much towards the final victory of Allied arms. Further, it will help to keep this country on an even keel in the reconstruction period following the war.

Stop and consider briefly some of the effects of your curtailment of normal expenditures:

1. You deprive yourself needlessly of things of necessity, utility and comfort.
2. Your local merchant finds his business restricted, may have to lay employees off, and is unable to contribute his normal amount for government and other patriotic purposes.
3. The wholesaler and the manufacturer similarly are affected.
4. Government revenues decline, necessitating more borrowing, with an added interest burden on the taxpayers.
5. Contributes to suggestions of lack of confidence in our ability to win this war.

There is every reason to believe we can and will win this war — but it cannot be done with wishful thinking or deploring our lack of ability to do something about it. Even if it is only to

23 GERMAN RAIDERS SHOT DOWN IN AIR BATTLE

Greatest Air Battle in Present War Fought With Edge to R.A.F.

Bitterest Fighting in Massed Air Raid Occurs Over Wales — Few Casualties and Little Damage, Says Air Ministry

London, July 29.— (CP) — Hundreds of German planes attacked Britain today at a reported cost officially placed at 16 German planes and unofficially reported at 23.

The Admiralty announced the sinking of the Destroyer Wren—the 28th destroyer lost since the outbreak of war—by a Nazi air bomb while losses in fending off today's raids were placed at a lone plane shot down a number damaged. At the outbreak of the war Britain had 179 destroyers in commission and new construction is reported to have more than made up for any losses.

From before dawn to late afternoon the German planes came in waves, bombers escorted by swarming fighters, only to run into a storm of anti-aircraft fire and Royal Air Force defenders who accounted for 15 of the attackers in one battle over the southeast coast.

Hammering back against the Germans R.A.F. pilots during the night raided oil tanks at Cherbourg and a German base believed being prepared for the expected attempted invasion of Britain. The Cherbourg tanks were reported fired by repeated hits.

The Admiralty did not disclose the number of casualties aboard the Wren a 1,120-ton vessel. She was hit on an undisclosed date while on patrol duty. An accompanying destroyer, the Montrose, shot down two of the German attackers.

Why The Weather?

Forecasting! Formerly it was said that two bases of weather forecasting were (1) that weather travels, and (2) determination of the character of the weather by the atmospheric pressure distribution. Good weather forecasts were made in the past using these two maxims plus an enormous amount of experience. But now the empirical methods are being superseded gradually by the physical method, whereby the forecaster, with much more data than was formerly available, tries to picture in his mind the processes which are occurring at the moment, and which will occur in the near future. To forecast by this method entirely is the hope of all meteorologists.

No Passports Are Required For Travel in Canada

Washington, July 29—(CP)—No passports are required for travel in Canada, the fishing's good, highways excellent and Canadians hospitable. As for coming back to the United States, why, there's no trouble at all.

That's the information being given out these days by United States newspapers and travel agencies to Americans thinking of travelling in Canada late this summer and fall. It's prompted by the belief held by many Americans that the new United States immigration requirements make re-entry to the country difficult, if not impossible.

Under regulations effective last July 1, Canadians visiting the United States are required to have passports and other means of identification. Aliens resident in the United States who leave on visits to Canada and other countries also must present at the border ironclad bona fides.

But the regulations are not so stiff for Americans returning to the country after a sojourn abroad. Reiterating previous announcements immigration officials said today the only requirement is presentation of suitable identification.

Birth certificates are preferred, although they are not required if other suitable identification is provided. This may take the form of army discharge papers, hunting and fishing licences which show the holder to be an American citizen, naturalization papers or even automobile driver's licences if these clearly indicate the returning citizen was born in the United States or has become a citizen.

ECONOMIC FRONT IS PROPOSED FOR AMERICA, EMPIRE

James A. Farrell, Retired Steelmaster, Makes Suggestion to Match Totalitarian Bloc

TRADE OUTLOOK

San Francisco, July 29 (AP).—An "economic front" made up of the American nations and the countries of the British Empire was suggested today by James A. Farrell, retired steelmaster, to match Europe's prospective totalitarian economic bloc.

He said the United States should continue to look toward Europe, regardless of the outcome of the present war, as a potential market for its surplus agricultural and industrial goods, but that it probably would have to deal with a union of dictatorships.

Farrell, former head of the United States Steel Corporation, made the suggestion in a keynote address opening the 27th convention of the National Foreign Trade Council, of which he is chairman.

Security of Western World.

It is "essential to the economic security of the western hemisphere", Farrell contended, that future trade relations with the British Empire countries should establish an orderly and mutually profitable marketing system which would "eliminate injurious competition."

He said the uncertainty of America's trade outlook in the Orient in view of the Chinese-Japanese conflict and the prospective independence of the Philippines made it necessary to strengthen "our bargaining power with a European economic bloc comprising our former leading markets".

"With Europe under a dictatorship," he said, "we would have to match the power of a European economic union with the combined power of this western hemisphere in bargaining our way through to a reciprocal commercial understanding.

"Pan America and the British Empire combined would establish an economic front to the rest of the world with bargaining power adequate to secure equality of treatment and fair dealing in international commerce."

"It is evident," Farrell stated, "that the new world order conceived by totalitarian nations will be one in which their external trade will be under strict government control."

BEAVERS BUILD DAMS, THREATEN FLOODING OF RAILWAY LINES

North Bay, Ont., July 29 (CP) — The beaver, Canada's national animal, is becoming something of a fifth columnist in these parts, G. M. Parks, game and fisheries superintendent, said here today.

They have been building dams at a great rate recently and threatening several railway lines with flooding.

Mr. Parks said steps are being taken to destroy the more threatening of the dams. A dam has to be completely broken up before the beaver will move his construction projects to less disturbed portions of streams, he said.

No damage has been caused yet, the superintendent added.

Plans For Threatened Blitzkrieg Probable Motive Behind Nazi Decree

Observers Say All Rail Traffic Between German-Occupied and Unoccupied France Being Halted

VICHY DECREE

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Basel, Switzerland, July 29—(AP)—Preparation for Germany's threatened blitzkrieg against Britain was seen by some neutral observers today as the chief motive behind the Nazi decree halting rail traffic between German-occupied and unoccupied France and barring the return of millions of Frenchmen to their homes in the occupied area.

These sources said the order, published by the French government at Vichy yesterday, apparently had three military objectives:

1. To keep all available rolling stock in German hands, ready for attack on Britain;

2. To keep demobilized French soldiers and their families out of the areas where the offensive is being prepared, in order to prevent espionage, sabotage and fifth-column activity.

3. To keep all food supplies in those areas for the army.

(Authorized German sources in Berlin asserted they were "unaware" of the halting of rail traffic between the two French zones. An order placing all German railways under army command preceded by a day the invasion of Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

(Yesterday's decree, effective at 5 a.m. and issued in a brief communique from the Petain government at Vichy, announced without explanation the cessation of train service and provisional halting of all governmental services to Paris and return of refugees to homes in the German-occupied zone.

Petain Gov't. Sends Protest

(The French government at the same time sent Britain an "energetic" protest against the dropping of millions of propaganda leaflets said to be injurious to the Petain regime. Royal Air Force planes which dropped leaflets over France and Rabat, French Morocco, were subjected to anti-aircraft fire.)

At the same time there were indications the Nazi order might have purely civil motives, based on

What The Younger Pitt Said in 1804 Quoted by New York Times

New York, July 29 (CP)—As Nazi threats against an unyielding Great Britain become ever more menacing, the New York Times today put the British position before the American public simply. In a box on the editorial page, it said:

"'I need not remind the House that we are coming to a new era in the history of nations, that we are called to struggle for the destiny not of this country alone but of the civilized world. We must remember that it is not for ourselves alone that we submit to unexampled privations. We have for ourselves the great duty of self-preservation to perform; but the duty of the people of England now is of a nobler and higher order. We are, in the first place, to provide for our safety against a foe whose malignity to this country knows no bounds, but this is not to close our views or our effort in so sacred a cause. Amid the wreck and misery of nations it is our just boast that we have continued superior to all that ambition or despotism could effect, and our still higher boast ought to be that we provide not only for our own safety but hold out a prospect to nations now bending under the iron yoke of tyranny of what the exertions of a free people can effect, and that at least in this corner of the world the name of liberty is still cherished and sanctified.'

"Churchill? No. The younger Pitt, in the House of Commons, April 25, 1804, with England preparing for an invasion from the continent."

MOTHER OF CHILD AND HER HUSBAND ON MURDER COUNT

Mrs. Alice McFarlane, 18, and Robert McFarlane, Re-arrested Saturday and Arraigned on New Charge

CHILD'S BODY FOUND

Trenton, July 29 — (Special)—Charged with the murder of her son, Mrs. Alice Mcfarlane and her husband, Robert Mcfarlane, both of Frankford, were lodged in the County gaol at Belleville, on Saturday afternoon to await the preliminary hearing before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C.

In tears the young couple, who have only been married 16 days, were driven from Trenton to Belleville by Constable Lozo and Chief William Bain. The charges of murder were laid on Saturday afternoon by Constable F. Lozo, under instruction from Crown Attorney Gordon S. Robertson. The pair were arrested on Friday afternoon on charges of vagrancy pending the investigation by the police and medical advisors into the finding of the wirebound body of Gordon Archer, age 18 months, in the Trent River, Friday afternoon.

Crown Attorney Robertson requested Constable Lozo to rearrest the pair on the charge "that they did murder Gordon Archer on or about the 25th day of July, contrary to section 259 of the Criminal Code." Each was charged separately.

TWO SUSPECTS ARE SURROUNDED

Men Are Believed to be Bandits Who Robbed Hamilton Store

Hamilton, July 29 (CP)—Two men, believed to be bandits who robbed a Hamilton store and taxi driver, are surrounded by squads of police in a woods near Dunnville, it was announced here today. Police from all over the district have been concentrated in the Dunnville area in an effort to capture the armed robbers.

At 12.40 a.m., two men entered the Marcella Ice Cream parlour, held up the clerks and secured $50 from the till. Later the Mercury Taxi Company received a call to a beach road address and sent a car with Driver Lorne Cline.

Two men were picked up and ordered Cline to drive to the mountain top on the Caledonia Highway. They forced him at the point of a gun to empty his pockets and turn the taxi over to them. Cline later notified police and the alarm of the car theft was broadcast.

Chief Phillips of Dunnville, found the car had been abandoned in Dunnville and he reported that two men answering the description of the robbers had been seen in a bush between that town and Port Maitland.

Niagara district Provincial Police, Dunnville police, constables from Hamilton and Detective Howard Moreau of this city all hastened to the spot and threw a cordon around the woods.

EUROPEAN FOOD SUPPLY FORECAST BY U.S. DEP'T

Sees No Abnormal Shortage But Raises Question Whether Distribution Possible

REFUGEES AND FOOD

Washington, July 29—(AP)— If Europe's food supplies are "proportionately distributed" during the coming fall and winter, the United States Agricultural Department forecast today, there will be no abnormal shortage and "certainly no widespread starvation" among the war-torn peoples.

It raised the question, however, as to whether available supplies could be distributed so as to prevent hunger.

"Communications have been disrupted, distribution disorganized, and people in great numbers have left their homes," said a report issued by the department's foreign service.

"In the larger cities of the recently invaded countries and in other areas where refugees are gathered, food supplies soon may be inadequate. Even where food supplies are for sale, economic dislocation leaves many without the money to buy. The situation is further aggravated by the fact that the armies of occupation will subsist largely if not wholly on the supplies of the invaded countries."

The report said that continental European supplies of the bread grains—wheat and rye— [illegible] to be between five and 10 per cent below peacetime requirements. This year's crops apparently will be 15 per cent below normal. However, fairly large reserves in Germany and Italy, the department said, would tend to offset the smaller production.

The department said that in central and northern Europe a normal or better crop of potatoes would supplement bread grain supplies. In southeast Europe a better-than-normal corn crop was indicated. Normal or better crops of vegetables were forecast, but fruit production was described as not bright.

NEWSPAPERMAN FATALLY INJURED

Tokyo, July 29—(AP)—Domei (Japanese News Agency) reported today that Melville James Cox, British newspaperman, had committed suicide by leaping from the second floor of the Tokyo Gendarmerie headquarters where he was being questioned by Japanese authorities.

(Cox, correspondent for Reuters News Agency, was previously reported to have been arrested Saturday afternoon "for military reasons.")

Domei said that Cox received injuries in the leap which resulted in his death an hour and 45 minutes later.

His widow was reported to be staying at the British Embassy with Lady Craigie, wife of Ambassador Sir Robert Craigie.

London, July 29—(CP)—Reuters News Agency reported today from Tokyo that its Tokyo correspondent, Melville James Cox, had been fatally injured when he jumped from a second floor window of the Japanese Gendarmerie headquarters where he was being examined.

CHINA REJECTS JAP OVERTURES REPORT STATES

Foreign Circles Close to Chungking Gov't. Say Proposed Settlement Would be Largely at Expense of Third Powers' Interests

REPORTED PROPOSALS

Informants Say Japan Proposed Cession by China of 5 Provinces to Japan

Hong Kong, July 29 (AP)—Foreign quarters close to the Chungking government asserted today that China had rejected unconditionally recent Japanese overtures to halt hostilities and conclude an all-embracing settlement between the two nations—largely at the expense of third powers' interests in Eastern Asia.

These informants said the Japanese proposals included the following:

1. Outright cession by China to Japan of five provinces, Hopei, Charhar, Shantung, Shansi and Suiyuan.

2. Recognition of Wang Ching-Wei, Japanese sponsored puppet, as president of a Chinese republic made up of the remaning provinces and also British Burma, French Indo-China, and Thailand (Siam) in which China and Japan would share economic opportunities.

3. The status of Manchoukuo would be left in abeyance indefinitely. (Manchoukuo, carved out of China's former Manuchurian provinces, is nominally independent but actually is entirely dominated by the occupying Japanese army.)

COOPER AND GORT FLEW TO N. AFRICA

London Reports Mission to See Georges Mandel Left Without Meeting Him and Others

London, July 29—(CP)—Official circles disclosed today that Alfred Duff Cooper, Minister of Information and Gen. Viscount Gort had flown to North Africa in an unsuccessful effort to see Georges Mandel, former French Interior Minister and other French statesmen who had fled there.

These sources said that French local authorities in North Africa made it clear that the British mission was "unwelcome" and that the two officials left without communicating with the group.

An announcement from Rabat, French Morocco, said proceedings had been opened against Mandel on a charge of plotting against the security of the state.

NINE DROWNED, SIX ARE KILLED DURING WEEKEND

Another Died of Heat Prostration and One Was a Fire Victim in Biggest List of Year

HEAT TERRIFIC

By The Canadian Press

Oppressive heat that swept Ontario during the weekend sent thousands to watering places throughout the province and, as a result, at least nine persons were drowned. In addition, the Monday morning death list contains the names of six killed in traffic accidents, one heat prostration and a fire victim.

Police at Sarnia are investigating still another suspected drowning, that of Mrs. Margaret Henderson, 22. She is missing from her home and believed drowned while bathing in the St. Clair river. She was seen by a night watchman at about two o'clock Sunday morning cavorting in the shallow water and appeared to be with two others, a woman and a man. Police learned she could not swim and believe she stepped into deep water.

11 BRITISHERS HELD IN JAPAN

Strict Censorship Obscures Reasons for the Arrests of Prominent Businessmen in Japan

Tokyo, July 29 (AP).—The foreign office said today that arrests of Britons Saturday were made by military police "as the first step" against an alleged "British espionage network covering the entire country".

(Reports in Shanghai said eleven prominent British business men had been seized for undisclosed reasons in raids in nine Japanese cities. British circles charged they were partly the result of German pressure.)

The foreign office statement declared the arrests were made "in view of ever-increasing activities of foreign organs of espionage in this country."

Shanghai July 29.—(AP)—Eleven prominent British businessmen were reported under arrest today in Japan on undisclosed charges after a series of police raids which British circles ascribed partly to pressure exerted from Germany.

The reason for the arrests was obscured by strict Japanese censorship and there was no indication as to what action was planned against the 11.

Reuters News Agency said, however, the British Ambassador to Tokyo, Sir Robert Craigie was seeking release of the men through Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka.

(Authoritative quarters in London confirming reports of the arrests said it was expected the British Government would make diplomatic representations to Tokyo.)

The arrests were understood to have occurred Saturday in five cities.

U.S. Army Plans Huge Airplanes Three Times Size of Huge Bombers

New Machines May Not be Flying for 5 or 10 Years, But Engineers Say They Will be Practical

40 FOOT 'PROPS'

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

Washington, July 29—(AP)— The United States army corps disclosed today that it is planning for future airplanes three times as large as its present huge four-engine bombers.

Such planes, each big enough to fill a football field and as high as a two-storey building, may not be flying for another five or 10 years, but aeronautical engineers declared they would be practical.

"The bigger you build them the more efficient they are," one engineer declared.

The air corps is completing at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, a power plant laboratory designed to test engines up to 8,000 horsepower, using propellors 40 feet in diameter.

The largest present twin-row air-cooled engines develop a maximum of 2,000 horsepower, and the average automobile engine rates less than 100 horsepower. The largest propellor blades now in use on large bombers or transport airplaines are about 16 feet in diameter.

The largest planes flying today are land and sea ships weighing a maximum of 50 tons. They are capable of flying 2,000 miles at a cruising speed of 130 miles an hour.

Pan-American Airways recently asked for designs for 65-ton planes capable of flying across the Atlantic ocean and back without stopping. Three aircraft manufacturing companies immediately agreed to submit proposals.

Private aeronautical engineers said that the size of the airplane of Tomorrow is limited only by the strength of the materials in the cantilever wings, which are built like a steel bridge.

They visioned the 150-ton airplane as a "flying wing" without tail assembly or fuselage, guided by wing-tip rudders and elevator, with engines mounted inside and driving pusher propellors on the rear edge of the wing.

RUMANIAN GOV'T. WILLING TO CEDE SOME TERRITORY

Will Likely Give Small Strip of Transylvania to Hungary

MAY ARBITRATE

King Carol and Foreign Minister Hold Conference After Return of Minister

Bucharest, July 29—(AP)— The Rumanian government's willingness to cede quickly a narrow border strip of Transylvania to Hungary was indicated in official quarters today.

The government, it was said authoritatively, will propose that Hungary, which claims Transylvania as historic Magyar soil, content herself with the cities of Satu-Mare, Oradea and Arad and their environs and agree to an exchange of populations in other districts.

This report followed a meeting between King Carol and his Premier and Foreign Minister, Ion Gigurtu and Mihail Manoilescu, almost as soon as they returned this morning from visiting the axis leaders in Salzburg and Rome.

They later went before the council of ministers to report on the talks which officials described as "fully satisfactory" from the Rumanian point of view.

The supposed Rumanian offer is far less than Hungary was demanded on the 20-year-long territorial dispute and includes only a small part of the 1,900,000 Hungarians which the Budapest government asserts live in Transylvania.

It was said in informed quarters that Adolf Hitler had told the Rumanian statesmen at Salsburg that he would arbitrate if Hungary and Bulgaria failed to reach an agreement.

LUGGAGE OF DUKE REACHES U.S.

Is Brought by Cunard-White Star Liner — Some Pieces Bear Crest of Prince of Wales

New York, July 29—(AP)— The Cunard-White Star liner Britannic arrived today with 14 pieces of luggage marked with the name of the Duke of Windsor, some of it bearing his crest as Prince of Wales.

The ship, which left Liverpool eight days ago, carried 778 passengers, 272 of them British children, all accompanied by parents. Its capacity is 1,500 persons.

The immediate destination of the Duke of Windsor's luggage remained a mystery. Ship's officers merely disclosed that it was sent unaccompanied, in care of the Line.

The Duke's luggage bore such stickers and tags as "unaccompanied baggage" and "not wanted on voyage."

Among the passengers were playwright Noel Coward, on a mission for the British Ministry of Information, and Mme. Genevieve Tabouis, foreign editor of the French newspaper "L'Oeuvre," a fugitive from Nazi military authorities who asked for her arrest after the fall of France.

"Liberty is dead in France today," she said. She escaped from France on a Channel freighter.

CYCLIST COLLIDES WITH MOTOR CAR

Colliding with a motor car at the intersection of James and West Bridge Sts., and knocked off his bicycle, Leo Rushlow, Belleville, sustained a slight concussion and broken hand shortly after midnight last night. Rushlow was riding easterly down Murney Hill and it is apparent his bicycle collided with the side of a motor car driven by Frank High, Jr., also of Belleville. The force of the impact resulted in young Rushlow being hurled to the pavement in such a manner that he suffered a slight concussion. The injured lad was given treatment at the surgery of Dr. W. C. Morgan, and later taken to the Belleville General Hospital where he was treated by Dr. J. J. Robertson.

BANCROFT RESIDENT GIVEN 3 MONTHS

Frank Godfrey, Bancroft, was sentenced to serve three months in the common jail after being convicted of being found in the possession of illicit liquor. Godfrey was arrested by the R.C.M.P. at Bancroft last week and today arraigned before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in local police court, where he admitted being found in the possession of 64 ounces of illicit liquor. The jail term resulted in the default of the payment of a fine of $100. which is the minimum under the Excise Act.

BERRY PICKING IN FULL SWING

Pickers by the hundreds descended on the raspberry fields and patches of the district today as the first big picking of the current season got under way.

The crop is said to be one of the heaviest in a number of years with ideal weather conditions bringing the fruit to maturity. Thirty thousand boxes are expected to form the yield of the Baitley-Munday ten-acre patch. This morning one hundred men, women and children started work on the Wellington growers farm.

KNEE FRACTURED IN CAR ACCIDENT

Mrs. Gertrude Finkle of Foxboro, is a patient at the Belleville General Hospital, suffering from a broken knee sustained in a motor accident on Saturday evening. Dr. Demorest of Stirling, is in attendance.

HOT WEATHER HASTENS RIPENING OF GRAIN

The exceptional hot weather of the past week has hurried the ripening of early spring grains in the district with some farmers having started harvesting their early oats during the latter part of last week. The cutting of oats will have become general througnout the district before the present week has elapsed, it is thought.

With the heavy crop of straw this year, together with the increased cost of binder twine, the actual cost of cutting the grain will show a decided increase over that of other years. Binder twine is retailing at prices as much as two cents per pound over that of last year. The explanation of this is that practically all the raw material for twine used in Canada comes from India and that increased ocean cargo rates and increased insurance accounts for the increase in price of twine.

HAYING OPERATIONS STILL UNCOMPLETED

Haying operations are still in full swing on many farms throughout the Belleville district, despite the lateness of the season. Shortage of help in some cases is responsible for much of the hay still being in the fields, while the extra work of handling a bumper crop has made the haying season last longer than usual.

Backward weather throughout the early part of the season resulted in much of the first crop of alfalfa being spoiled with the blackened coils of the first crop still in some cases remaining in the fields as farmers were forced to work at the later crops. Second cut alfalfa will be ready for the mower within the next two weeks.

FOOT AMPUTATED AFTER ACCIDENT

Clifton Duby, Toronto, a Former Belleville Resident, Falls Under Train While Alighting in Belleville Yard

While attempting to get off a fast moving C.N.R. freight train near the Grier St. intersection here on Saturday night, 41-year-old Clifton Duby, Toronto, fell beneath the moving train and had his left leg mangled, as the result of being run over by the wheels of a box car, to such an extent, that it was necessary to amputate the foot at the Belleville General Hospital.

Duby, a former resident of Belleville and who was at one time employed in the local C.N.R. shops, was apparently riding the freight train into Belleville, but lost his balance as he attempted to get off the moving train at the Grier St. crossing. In some manner he slipped on the loose gravel and his left leg fell beneath the wheels of a box car. Neighbors saw the accident and notified police authorities.

Duby was removed to the hospital in Martin's ambulance and did not lose consciousness. Dr. R. A. Flynn amputated the left foot at the hospital late Saturday night. Duby is believed to have been riding on fast C.N.R. freight No. 490, that arrives in Belleville shortly before 9.20 p.m. daily. The head end of the train crew knew nothing of the accident.

500 Enjoy Picnic Held by K. of C. At 12 O'Clock Pt.

Belleville Council Knights of Columbus arranged one of the season's most outstanding events, when they entertained members of St. Michael's Parish and their friends frat a splendidly attended picnic at Twelve O'Clock Point yesterday afternoon. About five hundred adults and children were present. Transportation was provided for those who had no cars, and the large party left in cars, buses and trucks for the scene of the picnic.

The committee had worked zealously in planning the event and everything was in readiness for the picnickers upon their arrival. A full program of races and games took place, with prizes for the lucky winners and each event was keenly contested. There was a softball game between the married and the single men with the former emerging successful. The tug of war also between the married and the single men, was one of the most amusing items on the program as the rope could not bear up under the tremendous strain and the issue is still undecided.

The Knights distributed cold drinks, ice cream and popcorn to the kiddies, in fact nothing had been overlooked for the enjoyment of young and old. The ideal surroundings of the Point added greatly to the pleasure of the outing. The picnic supper, always a main feature of an outing of this kind, took place at long tables arranged by the management.

Under the leadership of Rt. Rev. J. P. Nicholson, V.G., Jack Boyle, chairman of the picnic committee Grand Knight George A. Lee, and Frank Domenico, lecturer, the committee was unsparing in its efforts to make the day the splendid success it was. The Knights are indebted to all who assisted in the arrangements, especially the Smith Transport Company for the use of trucks. So satisfactory was the picnic that the Knights are planning to make it an annual event.

Police Blotter

Local police were kept busy Saturday night and early Sunday morning when several minor arrests were necessary in the city. Three young men found themselves confronted with charges of intoxication in Magistrate Butler's Monday morning court today as the result of imbibing too freely of intoxicants on Saturday night. The conventional "ten and costs" was assessed in each case.

Three soldier boys were detained by the police Saturday night following disturbances at a West Bridge Street restaurant, where fisticuffs were engaged in prior to the arrival of the local law enforcing agents. The soldiers were later given into custody of the military police for further detention.

Under the direction of Inspector T. D. Ruston of the Children's Aid Society, P.C. Arnott and Inspector Ruston visited a local home early Saturday morning where it was alleged there was moral delinquency in the home. Charges were laid against the offenders, while Inspector Ruston placed two small children in the custody of the C.A.S. The cases will be heard in Friday's court, the alleged offenders being held in custody in the meantime. Captain Alan Sprague of the C.A.S.P., appeared on behalf of the woman in question.

In police court today held before Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., Edmond Cartmill, Cloyne, was convicted of permitting a person to drive his automobile, the said person not being in possession of a driver's or chauffeur's licence. The nominal fine of $10.00 and costs was imposed.

Tweed police sought the assistance of the Belleville authorities in the possible apprehension of a hit-and-run driver at Tweed late Saturday night. A description of the hit-and-run vehicle was forwarded to Belleville, but no such vehicle appeared entering the city from the north local police patrolling the entrance to the city for some time following the complaint.

Grant Suspension Will Not Affect Belleville's Fair

Suspension of federal grants will not affect the Belleville Fair which is being held here for three days on August 29th.-30th. and 31st., officials announced on Saturday.

The grant which is a substantial amount, was suspended a short time ago by Federal authorities due to the country being at war.

Principal attractions of the 1940 edition of the fair include the sale for one dollar each of an automobile and a tractor. The winners will have the option of selecting whichever vehicle they desire. A midway will be in action and all the color and glamor that goes to make the Belleville autumn exhibition one of the outstanding ones in the province, will be there.

Livestock entries are beginning to pour into the office of Secretary Arthur L. Burke, and present indications point to a large list. Horses, swine, sheep, and other entries are also showing up well.

There will be a gala evening and afternoon performance and a splendid program has been secured by the directors. Everything points to Belleville's war-time fair as being one of the best in a decade.

ALBERT RITCHIE, BANCROFT, HELD

Charged With Breaking, Entering and Theft from Parked Cars

Bancroft, July 29 (Special) — Albert Ritchie, Bancroft, was brought to the Belleville jail today charged with the breaking and entering of parked automobiles and stealing goods therefrom. Ritchie was apprehended on Saturday by Provincial Police Constables S. W. Palmateer, and A. V. Dymond, Madoc, after the officer had instituted a search of his premises. Fishing tackle, trout flies and cigars, said to be the property of Frank R. Jeffery, Toronto, were found on Ritchie's person.

Jeffery had driven to Long Lake on Saturday and parked his car near the property of Luke Woodcock, in the Bay Lake settlement. Upon his return he discovered, that his car had been entered and goods to the value of $54.00 taken. Included was a fishing tackle box, the property of Mrs. Jeffery, which was made out of sole leather by her father and brought to Canada sixty years ago.

Ritchie was apprehended on Saturday when returning from berry picking in company with Mrs. Luke Woodcock. His record, police stated, is a lengthy one. He was released from Burwash reformatory in April, prior to coming to Bancroft. He is alleged to have been in jail four times on charges of theft.

Police conducting the investigation for the allegedly stolen goods, found a bicycle allegedly stolen, at the home of David Woodcock. The machine was confiscated by police. Further search is being conducted today.

AMERICAS SET UP DEFENCE DOCTRINE

Conference of Foreign Ministers Expected to Adopt Doctrine Against Transfer of European-Held Possessions

Havana, July 29.—(AP)—The conference of American Foreign Ministers in plenary session was expected to adopt today without a dissenting vote the American Republics' doctrine of defence against the transfer by conquest or other means, of European-held possessions in the western hemisphere to any non-American power.

The session was scheduled for 3 p.m. E.D.T.

Final committee action on a project expected by observers here to take its place in history alongside the Monroe Doctrine was completed early this morning, when the Peace Commission of the Conference approved the draft of the convention covering the legal phase of the plan.

'Act of Havana'

The plan itself, embodied in a draft resolution called the "Act of Havana", provides that the American Republics may establish "regions of provisional administration" in any areas now held by the non-American republics which "are in danger of becoming the subject-matter of exchange of territories or sovereignty".

Such administration, which may be put into effect by any one or any group of the American nations of the emergency is too great to permit consultation along all 21 members, would be established only on the understanding that when the emergency passed, affected regions would be returned to their original status or organized into autonomous territories.

Triumph Seen For Cordell Hull

Successful drafting of the "Act of Havana" and the companion convention was regarded as a considerable personal triumph for State Secretary Cordell Hull of the United States.

Colombia allowed quick action about midnight when she withdrew an amendment she had submitted to the Commission Sunday afternoon on details of the administration of protectorates over European possessions in the Americas, Lopez De Mesa, chief of the Colombian delegation, said it was withdrawn to speed final action.

The "Act of Havana" noting that conquest of European-held possessions in the Americas may be attempted "as a result of the present European war" and thus may imperil "the essence and form of American institutions" and that inter-American solidarity "demands a policy of vigilance and defence," points to the "grade menace" of these colonies becoming "strategic centres of aggression against the American continent."

It then declares:

Provisional Administration

"When American islands or areas at present held by non-American nations are in danger of becoming the subject-matter of exchage of territories or sovereignty, the American republics may establish regions of provisional administration."

Such administration would be "exercised with the dual purpose of contributing to the safety and defence of the continent and for the economic, political and social benefit of the said areas."

The act provides for the formation of an emergency committee of 21 members constituted as soon as two-thirds of its members have been appointed by their governments.

THE PROBLEM of getting sufficient customer traffic into a store is recognized by every merchant. With few exceptions, the life and success of a business is in direct proportion to the number of possible buyers that daily pass through the doors. Similarly, every established merchant realizes that the customer who enters his place of business is in search of certain quality at a certain price. The successful business man stocks the items in the quantities and qualities desired by his customers.

But after a merchant stocks the right merchandise and recognizes the need for customer traffic, what shall he do then?

He can follow the lead of successful merchants still further! He can advertise! He tell 6,000 families living in Belleville and its environs about his business and his merchandise. He can make them special attractive offers to increase his store traffic.

How can he reach those necessary 6,000 families for the least amount of money and with the greatest amount of certainty?

He can advertise in the Daily Ontario Intelligencer, the newspaper that is read and accepted by over 6,000 Belleville and district families daily!

"Day in and Day Out" Advertising in the Ontario Intelligencer Brings Consistent Results!

Case histories of ads run by consistent advertisers show an even greater degree of success than those run by occasional advertisers Regular Ontario Intelligencer advertisers build up an acceptance in the minds of readers. Their ads have an identifying continuity that potential customers look for. Day in and day out advertisers secure consistently excellent results. If you are in business in Belleville and are not now an advertiser in the Ontario Intelligencer, we urge you to investigate the Ontario Intelligencer's possibilities for you!

MRS. MAUGHAM TO WRITE PARENTS ABOUT EVACUEES

Will Visit and Talk With Families Who Have Taken in English Children as Visitors

An Eastern Canadian Port, July 29—(CP)—Plans of Mrs. Somerset Maugham, wife of the English author, may relieve the anxiety of English parents who have sent their children to this country.

Mrs. Maugham, who arrived here today aboard an ocean liner, plans to travel throughout Canada and the United States talking with families who have taken in British children as visitors for the duration of the war. She will write their own families telling them about the health of their youngsters.

"One of the worst parts of the war is this breaking up of families," she said. "Parents may know that their children are well cared for but they like to hear about them."

Escapes by Plane

Mrs. Maugham escaped from Paris before the Germans entered the French capital. She said she left by plane "just in time." The plane which followed hers was turned back when it was learned enemy planes were in the vicinity. Her writer-husband escaped after the arrival of the enemy in the city. Mrs. Maugham saw him in England before she left. She will visit her daughter, Mrs. Paravicini in Oyster Bay, N.Y. Mrs. Paravicini, wife of a Swiss who is now in the British army, came to this country several days ago.

Mrs. Maugham brought out two children with her. She declined to give their names, speaking of them only by their first names, Wendy and Jeremy. The children were six and four years old.

Mrs. Maugham is hoping to find four or five English women to help her with her work.

"Canadian soldiers in England," she said, "are terrifically popular."

Gardener Unable To Add Questions On Farm Work

Had Been Requested to Do So, but Forms Were Already Being Distributed

Ottawa, July 29—(CP)—Hon. J G. Gardiner, Minister of National War Services, told the House of Commons today he had been requested to add supplementary questions on farm work experience to the questionnaire for the forthcoming national registration, but had been forced to refuse.

Forms were already distributed in British Columbia and were being distributed in Alberta today.

Mark Senn (Con. Haldimand) raised the question when he asked Mr. Gardiner if adequate information was being sought to ensure that farm laborers would not be taken away from an essential oc-

George Cruikshank, (Lib. Fraser Valley) asked the minister if any arrangements would be made to get loggers in from camps to register without expense and loss of time to themselves. Mr. Gardiner said arrangements were being made as far as possible to enable every one to register within a three-day period.

BADLY INJURED BY BULL

WORLD IS PROUD OF BRITAIN

Britain, crescent in her present as in her youth as a nation and empire, is the admiration of the free lands of the earth and the nightmare of the German and Italian dictators. Britain is showing something which every Briton and which every free nation expected her to disclose, her heroic womanhood and manhood.

Since the collapse of France as an ally, Britain has been seen in her true greatness by the nations, though before that she was fulfilling her obligations to civilization in no uncertain manner. If she stands alone it is in her greatness. She has been a true ally as the past has proven and as the future will prove to nations now subjected to the modern Huns, for they will be released from bondage.

It is truly in these latter days the world is privileged to have the opportunity of seeing this people of Britain led by the dauntless Winston Churchill, representative of the fine characteristics of the British spirit, steadfastly guarding herself against the reincarnation of barbarism with which Germany has associated herself.

The world has learned that the nation which loves its home life is the land that will defend its home. It is a common saying that "an Englishman's home is his castle." And England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland are that castle or fortress against the would-be invader that would pillage and destroy if he could. Hitler knows that the British people are a people who cannot be frightened. But he may not realize that what he may call their stubbornness is determination as well as the fighting spirit of an honest race that would sooner die than yield to the degraded civilization that Hitler and his myridons could give them in place of freedom if he only could dominate the world.

The Huns have given demonstrations enough of the slavery in which they put their trust and when the world sees these signs of the Germans, the world knows that Britain is right in defending and sacrificing so that the nazi Hun civilization may never become permanently established in even a portion of the earth.

This demonstration of British loyalty and faith and strength is not to be wondered at. There is not an Englishman, an Irishman, a Welshman or a Scotshman in the active force or in the home defence nor a woman of these great component sections of the British race who is not acting in the most chivalrous capacity and fighting as the knights did of old against the forces of evil. In the Dominions the same high spirit prevails. Britain wins admiration of the world in her steadfast faith.

THE BLOCKADE OF THE ENEMY AND OIL

News dispatches from Europe speak a great deal about oil and even Japan in the Far East does not look, it is said, with a friendly eye upon U.S. curbs on oil. References to oil in news out of Central Europe point the finger, no doubt, to one of the greatest weaknesses of the totalitarians.

Is the British blockade working? One has but to read news from various capitals to realize that the two enemies of Britain are not very comfortable over the Near East nor over the Balkan question nor the Mediterranean question. The British blockade is working effectively and if gaps develop as they did with the collapse of France, steps are taken at once to close them.

Before Italy became a belligerent it seemed apparent that the entry of Italy into the war, while it would have drawbacks, would make more complete the blockade question. It has been appearing more and more as if in carrying out the pact with Germany Italy not only did not ease the burden of the oil issue and the blockade but got herself blockaded as well as the German Reich.

The problems arising out of the Russian re-acquisition of former Russian territory held by Rumania, the Bulgarian and Hungarian interests in other lands in Rumania in that part of the world where Italy has always claimed she has a vital interest, must have worked hard upon both the central European dictatorlands.

HEAT WAVE

Last week gave the people of most of North America the weather to think about with temperatures running close to the nineties in the moderate portions and close to the century mark in others. This spell recalled to people hereabouts the two heat waves in one season which passed over Ontario some years ago both of them earlier in the year than this wave. One was late in the month of May and the other came early in July.

At that time as at this the people resorted to every means to keep cool, though the weather this season has not been nearly so warm as it was in the hot waves some years ago, for in Belleville the wave reached a height of over one hundred degrees one afternoon and on this occasion the highest was about ninety degrees.

The recent period of warm weather also recalls the intensely cold wave which swept over most of North America last winter, Ontario fortunately escaping the worst of it, the winter hereabouts being of only usual severity. In the cold wave which swept as far south as Louisiana and other southern states, untold hardships were suffered by the people who had no means of fighting off the cold for the method of living in the south had not prepared them for such adverse conditions. They were caught without stoves or any means of heating.

In heat wave or in cold season, this portion of Ontario preserves a moderate temperature and escapes the extremes of cold and heat in other parts.

MEDICINE AND DEFENCE: U. S. TO 'MAKE OUR MEN AS GOOD AS OUR MACHINES'

(New York Times)

In an address which he delivered recently before the New York State Conference of Health Officers and Public Health Nurses, Surgeon General Parran made it plain that national defense involves health as well as arms, workers as well as soldiers. An army of 1,000,000 men will require 7,500 doctors, not only to weed out the physically unfit but to keep those retained in good physical condition. A far larger medical force than the Army's must watch over factories and workers, see to it that hygienic conditions are maintained and that disability through sickness and injury is kept at its minimum. Nor must research be neglected. "It may be that the nation which first learns how to control influenza will, by this knowledge, tip the scales toward victory," the Surgeon General points out. Nutrition, too, is important. Studies made by the Department of Agriculture show that 40 per cent of the people are now inadequately nourished. In a word, the conservation and care of health is an essential in the national defense program.

What Surgeon General Parran has in mind is about the hugest diagnostic and therapeutic service ever conceived. How necessary that service is we learned in the last war. Twenty-one out of a hundred then drafted were rejected because of physical defects or disease, and twenty-six more out of a hundred accepted needed medical attention before they could begin their military duties.

Even before the Surgeon General spoke, national and State medical organizations expressed their willingness to work with the Government. "We cannot now afford controversies," says the Surgeon General, meaning bickerings over the type of medical practice that will best serve the nation in this emergency. Free choice of physician, fees for service rendered and other cherished principles seem to have been discarded. "We're in the army now" seems to be the sentiment among physicians, and with its acceptance there is a commendable desire to forget shibboleths and buckle to the work that must be done. There is little doubt that group practice, cooperatives, contract medicine, "company doctors" all the devices recommended to reduce taxation will meet with less opposition than in the past. As a highly disciplined organization the Army will accept medical dispensation from above, but the workers will demand and receive the kind of medical service that they want. Under the stress of military necessity the country is about to embark on the most ambitious health program in its history because, as the Surgeon General says, "we know it is necessary to put medical science to work now, fully, to make our men as good as our machines."

ETHIOPIA AWAITS RELEASE

If the British, operating from Rhodesia, Egypt and India, aided by natives, concentrate on warfare in Ethiopia, it is not likely Mussolini's sons will be writing home, as in the war of conquest four years ago, that it is great sport to bomb the natives, seeing them scatter under the rain of death, like the unfolding of a flower. Also, it would be something of a blow to the dignity, prestige and effectiveness of an Axis partner to be driven out of a country occupied a few years ago with much fanfare.—Port Arthur News Chronicle.

AIRCRAFT PHOTOGRAPHY AND THE R. C. A. F.; USE OF AERIAL CAMERA

The candid camera of wartime flies high over the battle lines, and there is none more skilled in this science of aerial photography than the men trained by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The Canadian government realized the possibilities of aerial photography, born in the first great war, shortly after that conflict ended. The result was that for the past quarter-century R. C. A. F. detachments have been developing the science and improving their technique by photographing from the air large areas of Canada for mapping purposes.

A fireproof vault out at Rockcliffe air station, on the capital's outskirts, holds more than 1,000,000 negatives of this dominion from a bird's eye view. More important than mere mass production, however, is the technical progress the R. C. A. F. Photographic Establishment has made in the science.

Lessons of Experience Come to Fruit

Now that there is a war on, all the experiments, the development of equipment, the lessons of experience, come to fruit. The pioneers, the veterans who cruised the clouds over Canadian lakes and forests in the interval between wars, are teaching scores of youngsters the mysteries of aerial photography. The costly equipment developed through the years is at the disposal of an air force suddenly placed on war footing.

An infant science in the first war, aircraft photography is a highly efficient source of military intelligence today. Aircraft flying at great heights can photograph large areas of hostile terrain with meticulous detail. Infra-red filters on the camera lenses pierce the war dust and the haze. Photographs provide mosaic maps vital to the planning of an offensive thrust, reveal gun emplacements, munitions dumps and troop concentrations, and show clearly the result of artillery fire or bombing raids. Trained officers studying an enlarged aerial photograph can often see through the sham of camouflaged military secrets.

A school of photography is an important branch of the photographic establishment here under the command of Squadron Leader J. R. Cairns. It is a cosmopolitan school with an enrolment of officers, non-commissioned officers and airmen studying the technique of taking pictures from the aid and the equally important science of developing maps from dozens of photographs.

The course, a thorough grounding in all related subjects, runs for 12 weeks, with an additional six weeks for the N. C. O. students destined to become instructors in the 10 training schools for air observers under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

Graduates of the school will not be photographers, but either instructors or technicians, developing, printing and mounting the pictures taken by air observers over the battle field. Many graduates, therefore, may be technicians attached to R. C. A. F. squadrons sent overseas. Others will go to the air training schools or to the regular photographic detachments of the force still engaged in aerial mapping of the Dominion.

Squadron Leader Cairns and his teaching staff have the latest equipment to work with. Scores of young men, many of them peacetime photography fans, sit daily at lectures or work happily in the dark rooms and photographic laboratories. They use apparatus the amateurs dream of possessing but never could afford.

Camera Gun in Training Gunners

Most interesting of the apparatus at the school is the camera gun used in training air gunners. It looks like a machine gun with two wooden hand grips at the butt. Then there is the conventional aldis ring sights with centring bars. but when the trigger is squeezed there is no answering spurt of bullets. Instead, each pressure on the trigger takes a picture on a 16 millimetre movie film. Back on the ground, the film is developed, enlarged, and projected with a magic lantern onto a screen so that student and instructor can look at pictorial proof of the accuracy of the shooting. If the target doesn't appear in the picture, the gunner wouldn't have hit his target had he been shooting bullets.

Photography students see the latest model of aerial camera automatically controlled from the pilot's cockpit. This is the type of camera used in aerial mapping to take strips of related photographs. Pointed downward through an opening in the floor of the aircraft, the camera is entirely operated by remote control. The pilot sets the camera to take a picture, say every 15 seconds. When he has set the aircraft on the desired course the camera does the rest. A light gives him five seconds warning before an exposure to keep the aircraft on true course and level with the horizon. A light flashes when the picture is snapped, then there is a 10-second interval before the next "shot".

Pictures on Long Rolls

The pictures are made on rolls sometimes 75 feet long in the case of larger cameras. The processing of aerial films is "mechanized" as far as possible, though dark room men on active service often have to revert to manual methods. Films of all types and sizes are carefully stored in a refrigerator. There is a plant for manufacturing the ice necessary to keep films and the dark room chemicals at proper temperature.

A sharp-smelling concrete room shut off by fireproof walls from the rest of the laboratories is used exclusively for the mixing of the chemicals, large stores of which occupy a warehouse room. Dark rooms with their privacy from damaging light rays ensured by devious black walled passages or "light locks" are equipped with ingenius devices. There are light-proof metal developing and "fixing" tanks into which the exposed films are placed on spools. When the chemical solution has been added, an electric motor winds the film from spool to spool through the mixture. Films are dried by air on large drums. Negatives next pass over a glass table lighted from beneath so that serial numbers and titles may be written down in india ink. Then comes a battery of photographic printers to make positive prints of the picture, with the serial numbers showing plainly in white.

Enlarging Cameras

Enlarging cameras of various size can enlarge the picture to any desired size, and in the same room are the cameras to make lantern slides or to photostat plans or maps. Once clear of the dark room and printing departments, photographs go to the room where they are mounted either singly or in series or go into the making of a mosaic map. Prints and negatives are carefully stored away in fire proof rooms for future reference.

The Ottawa establishment is the photographic headquarters of the air force. It not only supplies the trained personnel for the dark-rooms of squadrons sent overseas, the instructors and technicians of the training school and photographic detachments, but it is the fount of technical knowledge and development and the source of supply for films, chemicals and accessories.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

The Treatment of Dementia Precox —Schizophrenia

I often wonder what kind of world this would be if the people had no vision or visions (dreams). It would likely happen as we are told that the people would perish. Yet if you or I give ourselves over too much to visions or dreams, we would become "queer"; in fact, we would rightly be called mental cases afflicted with dementia precox or schizophrenia.

What are schizophrenics? Dr. E. C. Menzies, Saint John, N.B., in the Canadian Medical Association Journal says that schizophrenics are people who 'instinctively' seem to prefer the society of their own thoughts. They do not, for the most part, retreat from society because of shyness or self-consciousness, althought most of them are shy, but they retreat, because they seem to have a deep seated disinclination or inability to enter into the life of the world around them. Thus it is found that before there is any thought by the family or friends that any mental trouble is present, these individuals seem cold, unsociable, and queer.

"As the condition advances, we find them living more and more in their own world of imagination, even developing stranger and more absurb fantasies and delusions, until finally, but not in many cases until after the lapse of years, these patients build up for themselves an unreal world in which very often, they spend the rest of their natural lives".

While these schizophrenics may have varying symptoms, the one constant sign or symptom is the tendency to lose interest in the outside world and make up for this by building up an unreal world in which they are comfortable.

Physicians are not agreed as to the cause of schizophrenia—dementia precox. Something — infection, worry, fear, stress, seems to make these patients try to find a way out of their difficulties or responsibilities. What they have to endure from the fatigue due to infection or continuous tenseness, removes their natural willingness to fight, and so they are unable to do their regular or ordinary work in the world.

Some mental institutions by clearing away infection, restoring the patient and removing him from responsibilities for a time, get a large percentage of cures.

The use of insulin and metrazol in many cases seems to "shock" these patients out of their dreams and bring them back to normal.

Barbers And Song

(New York Times)

In this town of multitudinous meetings, one dear to the Muses, the second annual convention of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Singing in America, Inc., is now in session. Seventy-five members of barber shop quartets arrived on one train Monday. Monday night in the auditorium of the New York City Building at the World's Fair there was a singing match in which ten melodious Fours took a voice. The winner was the Flat Foot Four, composed of Oklahoma City policemen. On Friday night the final competitions will take place in the Court of Peace.

These great and jovial doings are promoted and judged by such men as Robert Moses, lover and warbler of old songs, and Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, not the least of whose good words and works is "Barber Shop Ballads." The musical policemen, the strong bringing forth sweetness, we are all fond of. Let us speak a good word for our old friend, the barber, still usefully prosperous in a world of safety razors. If the policeman is Hercules the barber is Apollo, at least an Apollinarian. Not only is he dedicated to music and poetry but, as his painted pole still shows, to the art of Apollo, the Healer.

Once barber shops were apt to be decorated with cages, where canaries gave concerts. Even within living memory some barbers strummed the guitar. Within a few years there was a barber shop on West Twenty-third Street that opened on a garden with flowers and a tree and shrubs and a fountain that sang to you pleasantly as you had a Summer haircut. You thought of the gardens of Baghdad and Fez, of the Arabian Nights, of Beaumarchais and Rossini. Let us praise the kindly race of barbers, grown all too silent and now dressed as internes and practicing their profession in spotless hospital rooms.

THE AMERICAS WAKING UP

(Montreal Gazette)

Theoretically, neutral America has no enemies. Actually, free and rich America is beset by foes on every side. This week came indications, at Washington and Havana, that America is forgetting theory and waking up to fact.

At Washington, export licensing was extended to scrap iron and oil, which means embargo on sales to the Axis through Spain, and to Japan; thus, belatedly, the United States stops arming her enemies. At Havana, the Inter-American Conference got down to brass tacks on Nazi penetration. Nominally the issues are three—protection of vanquished powers' colonies, frustration of fifth column activity, solution of war-aggravated economic problems. At last, however, the conference seems to have realized these three are not a trio but a trinity—in essence they are one, for since 1933 every German act has been a war measure.

It has always been Nazi tactics to use the customs of civilized life for the advantage of barbarism. Thus they destroyed the Weimar Republic; Wallace R. Deuel quotes a Nazi historian's own words: "Railway passes (for Nazi Reichstag members) made trips possible for agitation against the Republic at the cost of the Republic; immunity from arrest protected the enemy of the state against the power of self-defence of that same state." And he tells how Robert Ley and his cohorts used parliament's own rules to keep parliament in chaos.

Similar has been Nazi use of diplomatic immunities. In Brazil, Hans von Cossel directs a complete Gestapo and terrorizes the whole German community, while enjoying the embassy's protection as "cultural attache." In Uruguay, exposure of fifth column work prompted German Minister Otto Langman to "dissolve" Nazi clubs, hand their records and property to the Legation and hire Fuehrer Julius Dalldorf as a diplomatically immune "press attache." In Chile, where the shaky Leftist coalition of President Aguirre is under heavy fire from German-subsidized Fascists, Hitler's little stooge Franco staged last week an "insulted" tantrum that was dreadfully familiar. In Costa Rica German Minister Dr. Otto Reinbeck, with unprecedented impudence, warned five Central American nations against "anti-German action" at Havana.

Full use has been made of economic weapons, too. Not for nothing has the Third Reich offered goods at a loss in barter deals; result has been such economic canalization that war knocks 40 per cent. off Argentine exports, leaves Uruguay a 30,000-bale wool surplus, piles hopeless glut atop Brazil's already serious overstocks, and forces all South American currencies down by seven to ten per cent. Against this, Germany dangles tempting prospects to "friends". A Hitler-dominated Europe would buy 70 per cent. of all South American exports while supplying most South American needs, whereas the United States is competitive rather than complementary. German manufactured goods are offered in barter, with discounts up to 40 per cent. if not delivered "by October."

As for French and Dutch colonies, they are surely not forgotten. In Dutch Aruba, the world's largest oil refinery lies a stone's throw from the rich Venezuelan fields. Dutch Curacao and French Martinique have fine harbors for U-boats or surface raiders. All lie within striking distance of the Panama Canal, keystone of American defence.

Against this triple threat the Americas ponder a triple armor—unanimous crackdown on Nazi "diplomats", a pan-American cartel for exports, joint trusteeship of defeated powers' territory. Well and good, but there must also be firmness to frustrate irresponsible opposition

Humidity and Electricity

(Hamilton Spectator)

There is reason to believe that humidity is more than a source of general discomfort during heat waves; it sometimes is blamed for setting up conditions in the conduct of electricity which usually are dangerous and may even prove fatal, as is thought to have been the case in a sad event which occurred in Hamilton a few days ago. This hazard is due to no defects either in electrical appliances or wiring; experts say it is created by a natural law, a combination of heat and excessive moisture. Dampness under such conditions is always dangerous where electricity is concerned, and the question is therefore one which should receive the attention of every person who has a regard for safety.

When humidity is pronounced, it is then that even a low voltage may be sufficient to set up a hazardous condition in electrical outlets. The average voltage in domestic services is 110; in two recent fatalities the voltage was considerably lower than that, although in the case which occurred in this city there has as yet been on official confirmation of the theory that humidity and electricity were the cause.

Housewives should be aware of this possible hazard because of the conditions which humidity may create in basements where laundry work is usually done. Most basements to-day have concrete floors, which make for sanitation and are rodent-proof. But concrete floors also help to contribute to the very condition here referred to. Such floors sweat during humid weather, as do walls and overhead water pipes. These things in themselves make for much dampness, which it is almost impossible to prevent. In addition, it is equally difficult for a housewife to avoid splashing water on the cellar floor when she is engaged at her laundry tubs, changing the water, or wringing the clothes. She may actually be standing in water and her hands frequently touching electrical outlets. In such circumstances, the extreme humidity and the damp cellar floor tend greatly to create a real peril.

But there is a simple precaution which, if adopted, will go far to minimize the hazard, if not entirely remove it. This consists of a rubber mat, placed, say, in front of the laundry tubs or, better still, a pair of rubbers, which should be worn all the time work is being done in the basement during such weather. Many marvellous things have been done with electricity, but there are still aspects of it which are mysterious. As a force, it may sometimes be dangerous; and dampness is one acknowledged factor in the natural creation of a hazard to which many people may be unknowingly exposing themselves.

BAHAMAS FOLK MIGHT AS WELL EXPECT GUESTS

Coming of Duke and Duchess of Windsor Stimulates American Interest and Recalls Other Days

MANY MARRIED

By Mary Elizabeth Plummer
Associated Press Staff Writer

New York—(AP)—The fond hopes of Gotham hostesses once more are directed toward the Duke and the Duchess of Windsor. Aspirations to entertain the famous pair alternately blossom and wilt as the theme song shifts from "Now they're coming" to "Now they aren't."

The hardier hostesses, thwarted in 1937 when the Windsors cancelled their scheduled American tour, are playing a patient, waiting game. If the new governor-general of the Bahamas, and his American-born wife for whom he gave up Britain's throne, don't come to the United States pretty soon, the would-be hostesses will play Mahomet and go to the Bahamas.

Many however, are frankly discouraged, and have ceased figuratively scanning the eastern horizon with the expectation of seeing the star couple in the romance of the century swoop down soon in a clipper plane.

A number of invitations were dispatched to the couple at Lisbon, attempting to persuade them to pause here on their way to the Duke's new post. One was from a valiant patron of a benefit for refugee children. He wired inviting the Duke and Duchess to attend the show, and said, "Your presence may solve entirely the child refugee problem here."

Former Partners Married

Few of the invitations came from the Long Island gold coast families with whom the Duke dined when he was here in 1924 as a gay young bachelor and Prince of Wales.

The reason was that time and the tide of events — which changed David Windsor's prospects in those 16 years from King-Emperor over one-fourth of the earth's inhabitants to governor-general of a small chain of islands — also wrought many changes in the households he visited. The pretty girls who danced with the young prince in 1924 are married and some have children in high school.

Alice Winthrop, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rogers Winthrop, who were his official hosts during that three-week visit, is now Mrs. Robert G. Payne.

Diana Guest, to whom he gave his finest polo pony before he left for Canada, has been married twice since then. Her father, Frederick E. Guest, who was one of the Prince's hosts, has died. So has Will Rogers, whose wit delighted the Prince, and who turned out in a blue serge suit to occupy a place of honor at the Prince's request at an ultra-smart stag dinner at Long Island's Piping Rock Club.

Clarence H. MacKay, communications magnate who played squash racquets with the Prince, and gave a great ball in his honor at "Harbor Hill," his Long Island show place, has died. The great house, a copy of a French Chateau, surrounded by rose gardens — the house that glowed that night with flowers and lights, and with the MacKay gold dinner service — is now unoccupied and for sale.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., on whom the Prince called at her Sagamore Hill home, still is active. She's coming from Connecticut next week to celebrate her 79th birthday Aug. 6 at the same house.

But in general the scene has changed in that 16-year lapse of time in the course of which Edward Windsor ascended — and renounced — a great throne.

Messrs. Jack Shannon and Breen O'Connor spent a few days in Toronto this week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Carney and son Bob and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lemke left on Thursday for their home in Cleveland, Ohio, after spending two weeks' vacation at Crowe Lake.

A social gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Prentice on Thursday evening when presentations were made to Mr. and Mrs. Keith Armstrong who are returning to Peterborough. On behalf of St. Andrew's United Church, Mrs. Armstrong was presented with a travelling bag and Mr. Armstrong was the recipient of a pair of gloves with attendant good wishes. The members of Marmora Women's Institute made the presentation of a purse of money to Mrs. Armstrong. The serving of refreshments and the playing of bingo added to the pleasure of the evening which was arranged by the local Women's Institute.

HITLER BRANDED UNFIT TO TRUST BY FRED BIRCHALL

Canadian Correspondent of New York Times Says Britain Rapidly Gaining on Nazi Chief

TERMED 'GANGSTER'

Ottawa, July 29—(CP)—Declaring there can be no acceptance of peace with "gangster" Hitler, Fredrick Birchall, Canadian correspondent of The New York Times, said Sunday that the forces of the empire are gathering and are growing stronger every day.

Speaking over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Birchall, former European correspondent for The Times, said the empire needs more planes but "we will get them; we will lose men; there are others coming up to take their places."

He was the second speaker on the new series of Sunday night broadcasts entitled "let's face the facts" sponsored by the Director of Public Information. Dorothy Thompson, United States columnist, spoke last Sunday.

"From the four corners of the earth 'the gang' is streaming in," said Mr. Birchall. "They come from the far places of the earth to which Anglo-Saxons have carried their love of freedom, their spirit of tolerance, their devotion to peace—as long as an honorable peace is obtainable—and their hatred of tyranny.

"But the love of peace has not impaired their ability or their will to fight for it. We are on the defensive now and waiting attack. But we are not afraid of the outcome. Whenever you are ready Hitler, come on."

Addresses Speech to Hitler

Addressing his speech largely to Hitler, "believing that I carry to him the challenge and defiance of decent people everywhere," Mr. Birchall said "We will not accept your invitation to beg you to make peace with us because you are a liar and your word and your promises are no good."

The speaker then reviewed a long list of instances in which the German leader had broken his word.

He termed Hitler and the men around him "gangsters" and gave an emphatic opinion of his estimate of some of them.

"Look at them. There is the buccaneer Goering (I wonder if he had added to his decorations a legion of honor looted from Versailles) there is Goebbels poisonous as a scorpion and looking like it; there is the saturine Himmler, head of the gestapo, who invents the tortures under which men pray for death to relieve them from their suffering.

"Another is the daring drunkard Ley, who dupes labor into accepting long hours at starvation wages in the name of patriotism while he lives in luxury. There is Dr. Funk, who juggles economies he does not understand but Reichsbank keeps going on the loot stolen from invaded countries.

"Then you (Hitler) have Hess, your ventriloquist's dummy, who says for you the things you dare not say yourself. Gangsters to a man, all of them and the bond between them all is loot. Yet even they do not trust you."

SANG NATIONAL ANTHEM

London, July 29—(CP Cable) — The King and Queen and Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose cruised on a launch Sunday inspecting the upper Thames patrol. While the launch was waiting to pass Boulter's lock at Maidenhead a large crowd sang the National Anthem.

As the boat left a woman threw a handful of flowers toward the Queen but they fell into the water. Her Majesty acknowledged the gift, however, with a wave of her hand and a smile.

CAMP DUNDURN IS BUSY PLACE

Members of Various Units Provide Entertainment for Themselves

By A. B. GARRETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Camp Dundurn, Sask., July 29—(CP)—Members of the Canadian forces in training at Dundurn may be 25 miles from Saskatoon and five miles from the nearest settlement but they have plenty to do in their spare time.

When drill periods are over, the big parade area becomes a playground, and teams from various units battle each other in soccer, lacrosse, softball, baseball, volley ball and track sports. Other members for ma large and enthusiastic gallery. League schedules are drawn up and rivalry is keen.

In the huge recreation hall there is a boxing ring where expert leather pushers uphold the honor of their respective units. Equipment for all sports is provided by the Young Men's Christian Association.

Two nights a week moving pictures are shown in the hall by the Y.M.C.A., the Salvation Army and the Canadian Legion.

Talent is never lacking for the weekly amateur nights. Many of the men have musical instruments, a wide variety of costumes has been rounded up. A popular entertainer is a sleight-of-hand artist who is a member of one of the units.

A library and reading room is located at one side of the hall and supervised by a member of the Canadian Legion. Books are furnished by the Saskatoon Public Library.

At the other side of the hall is another reading room operated by the Y.M.C.A. A protestant chapel is located in one corner of the building. The Roman Catholic chapel is in the Knights of Columbus Hut.

R. A. F. Bombs Naval Stores in Mille, Eritrea

Cairo, Egypt, July 27—(AP)—Royal Air Force planes successfully bombed naval stores at Assab and machine-gunned Italian planes on the ground at Mille, Eritrea yesterday. A communique said three formations of Italian bombers attacked Malta yesterday, but they were driven away by fighter planes before any bombs could be dropped.

(The Italians claimed to have raided Malta during the night also).

The text of the communique:

"A reconnaissance flight carried out yesterday at Derna airdrome which was raided the day before, confirms that six enemy aircraft had been badly damaged. Blenheims again raided the airdrome, all bombs dropping among aircraft. Photographs were taken to confirm that four or five more suffered direct hits.

"All our aircraft returned safely. As on the previous raid, our fighters covered the bombers' return. Enemy fighters were not encountered.

"Raids were carried out at Assab on naval stores and on military objectives at Rahweita, nearby. Some enemy bombers—s79's—on the ground at Mille, also in Eritrea, were machine-gunned by our aircraft. Smoke was seen coming from them as the bombers left.

"Three formations of enemy aircraft flew over Malta yesterday, but our fighters immediately went up and drove the enemy away. No bombs were dropped."

Presentations

On July 22, about 35 friends of Gnr. Grant Blakely met at the home of his parents to spend a social evening with him. The evening was passed playing bingo and other games. Tap dancing by Miss Berniece Thomas was greatly enjoyed. During the evening an address was read by Miss Berniece Thomas.

A handsome signet ring was then presented by Miss Mae Dafoe on behalf of the young people and also a pen and pencil set by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mason which was much appreciated. After Grant thanked his friends for the lovely gifts a dainty lunch was served. The evening ended with songs and all wished Grant the best of luck.

VERSE

THRUSH WOODS

I know the place where there is always quiet,
The white-pine needles carpet all the ground,
A road winds on into a world-wide stillness,
And the thrushes sing the day around;
The thrushes do not wait for evening's coolness,
One blows his flute beneath the noon-day sun,
Tries his lowest tune, his middle, highest,
And other thrushes answer one by one.

The road has nowhere but a single dwelling
To go to, and a quiet man lives there,
His children are men grown and grown-up women,
And they have gone and left the pasture bare.
Time does not go that roadway any longer,
The thrushes' timeless chorals climb and climb,
They sing as if it were forever Summer,
And dew were always there and sunset time.

FASHION FLASHES

PRETTY SOFT dirndl frocks are just the thing for the country and for vacation wardrobes. Lanz does a beauty in soft cotton or silk in a colorful Hansel and Gretel print. The square-necked slim bodice buttons down the front. Skirt has heart-shaped pockets.

A GOOD BUY for informal evenings now and right through autumn days is a black crepe frock with a pleated ruffle edging, the bertha bodice and also the skirt hem, which is caught up at the side-front. Skirt side drapery is caught into a sash at the hip.

MAKE THE TRAIN to town wearing a neat jacket costume. Spun rayon sheer with colorful coin dots on a blue, beige, green or rose ground is used for a smart costume with fitted hiplength jacket that buttons snugly down the front, and a twelve-gore skirt.

SET OFF your beach costume with a beautiful off-the-face bonnet of pale pink or blue pique, fluted like a sea-shell.

FOR DRAMA top off your town blacks with one of the most dramatic hats seen in many a season. It is a small black velvet hat, with lacy veiling in back. Worn far back off the face, it is trimmed with a pair of shiny jet-black Mercury rings rising sharply from the centre side.

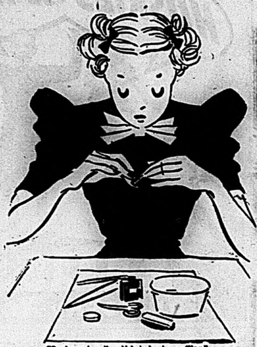
Pigtail Hairdo Dog Day Fashion



"Opalescent nail polish is having a fling."

By HELEN FOLLETT

Look who's here! Our old friend pigtail, sure as you're born. Some ambitious hair growers, avoiding the shears until the hair reached more than shoulder length, have been experimenting. It's fun to see what can be done with plaits. And, during the good old summer time it is a comfort to up the brain blanket off the nape line.

Braid the side strands, let the ends fold into the back ones. One braid on either side, maybe as many as four at the back. Or you can curl the ends and do away with the stubble that doesn't want to go any place or stay if it gets there.

There are spurious braids to be found at beauty shops. You put them in the dresser drawer at night. Look cute wrapped around the head like a filet to hold home grown ringlets back of the ears.

Grownup Pigtails

Reminiscent of the days of the lovely Lily Langtry is the low placing of braids at the back of the neck. Not flat, my child, but with a neatly shaped fullness. Demountable hair offers wonderful opportunities for the personality hairdress. False hair is only terrible when you need it, so you shouldn't have any objections to wearing it.

Opalescent nail polish is having a fling and now the pretty dollies are busying themselves with iridescent eyelid applications. Look mysterious and exotic. You have to have grand dry goods when you indulge in these cosmetic delights; they're only for the formal draperies and the social occasion.

Gilded lips look pretty with the sun-kissed complexion and cherry red lips. Silver-blue shadows are adorable on blondes and the brunettes also can get away with them. Purple shadows, with a touch of gold, are being used, but only the sweet young thing should indulge in them; purple is a bit trying to the facescape that lacks the freshness of youth.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Things Young Man is Wasting Daughter's Time

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going out with a man of 32 for the past two years. Lately my mother has been raising objections to my seeing him, as she says he's wasting my time. I don't go with him alone, but also go out with other boys.

This man has repeatedly told me that he cannot afford to marry and that he doesn't want to keep me from going out with eligible men. He never dates me for any particular evening, but calls up just before he wants to come; if I'm free he'll come over.

Although I deeply love this man, I'm afraid our love is hopeless and that we'll never marry. Do you think my mother is right in wanting me to break with him? I'm 25 years of age.

M. T.

I can't understand why a man in the prime of his life is so undesirable that your mother wants you to make a clean break with him. Perhaps you haven't told me everything. You say he's willing to come evenings when you're free That sounds as if he lacks the force all creatures must have to be even moderately successful.

Does he drink to excess? If so, that's a real handicap. Does he chase "skirts", which is even worse? If he's unemployed, does he make an effort to get work? Your mother evidently doesn't like his procrastination.

Absence Makes the Heart

Dear Miss Fairfax:

She is 18 and I'm 20. We've known each other for six years. They moved from this county four years ago but returned lately and it sure was a surprise for me to meet her on the street one day. I fell in love right there, and asked her to go "steady" which she did for a few months.

My problem is that she isn't in love with me, but with a boy who lives in the town she returned from. He says he doesn't love her. She wants to forget him and love me instead. I've asked her to marry me in a couple of years and she said she would if she loved me. I've tried to take out other girls, hoping to forget her, but you just can't forget someone you love so dearly.

We are both out of school and I am working steadily. She knows I am writing, and we both will try our best to follow your advice. Do you think we ought to keep on seeing each other?

Waiting

It seems to me the fates are playing right into your hands. You are on the spot. The boy she thinks she cares about is distant. Have you never heard a paraphrase of that worthy old platitude, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder". The paraphrase is, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder of the fellow near at hand".

Too Old to Be Whipped

Dear Miss Fairfax

I am a girl of 18 years, going "steady" with a young man for about six month. He is 24. We're very much in love with each other and he has asked me many times to marry him. He makes a pretty good salary, and he has almost enough furniture to fill a four-room apartment.

Here's my problem. My mother is terribly mean to me. She refuses to let me see any young men, but I do meet my boy friend on the sly. Last week, when she found out I was meeting him, she gave me a terrible whipping. Don't you think I'm too old for that? The young man found out about it, and is more determined that ever that I should go away with him and get married.

I've just about decided to slip off with him. Do you think I'd be doing the right thing?

Troubled.

Modern people do not think so well of Solomon's precept: "Spare the rod and spoil the child". It's unthinkable that a girl of 18 years should be subjected to this brutal form of chastisement. Why does your mother dislike this young man?

If there's no valid objection to this young man who seems to be thrifty, I think no one could blame you for leaving a home where whipping instead of peacefully talking things out, is part of the domestic program.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Popularity Must Be Earned
Try it on Your Vacation

"Betty always knows exactly what to do and what to say. I wish I could meet people the way she does".

"Tom is so popular with everybody. I wish I could be!"

Popularity. Charm of manner. Grace in meeting people. Glamorous words, these full of lure.

Do I hear you say that these qualities, so eagerly desired by everyone of us, are the gifts of the gods? I'll grant that in a few fortunate cases, they are. But, happily, it is true that popularity, charm of manner, the ability to say the gracious thing, may be acquired by clear-eyed vision, keen will-power, high-hearted persistence.

"The seeing eye and the hearing ear and the understanding heart" are what we need when we set out to earn popularity. For it must be earned, as most desirable things must be earned.

Your personality—the sum of all the qualities that make you either liked or disliked—is never more revealed than when you are on your vacation. Generally you leave behind you your usual fortifications: your home-background, your family, your close friends. There you are, in new surroundings, meeting new people, making new friends, having all sorts of new experiences. What impression will you make? You're given a grand chance to make a good impression.

Give yourself a Social Intelligence Test.

Do you, when you are introduced to people, say the brusque and incorrect "Pleased to meet you" when you should be saying a gracious and correct "How do you do", to establish in the other person's mind that you are a friendly and knowing person? Do you hug tightly to yourself that social devastating excuse "I am so self-conscious", instead of gallantly going forth to meet the spirit of the other person trying to find out and participate in his or her interests and enthusiasms?

Have you carefully checked up on your good points so you can make the most of them?

Have you learned to "be yourself", to be natural, or do you try to imitate some type which, for the moment, intrigues you?

Do you really try to please others, or have you never outgrown the "spoiled child" attitude?

Is it your inclination to say kind things, appreciative things, graceful things, or is your tongue an "unruly member", inclined to saying tactless, barbed things, eager to pass on malicious gossip, unkind more than a little snobbish?

Do you listen charmingly, or do you know all the answers, interested only in your own opinions?

Are you pleasant to everyone you meet, or do you turn on our charm only or members of the opposite sex?

In the things you do and say, in your manner and manners, in the YOU that shines through your eyes, are you generous or always on the "gimme" end?

On the credit side of these qualities and many, many others is the sum-total of popularity. On the debit side—you know what.

R.s.v.p.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

1.—Should the daughter's name appear on the mother's visiting-card when inviting guests for a tea to announce her daughter's engagement?

2.—Is it proper to write R.s.v.p. on cards sent out for a large engagement-announcement tea?

Mother

1.—No.

2.—It is permissible out it isn't customary to write R.s.v.p. on a visiting-card invitation. If the hostess considers it more convenient that she know the approximate number of guests to be expected, she may ask for a reply to this kind of invitation. Unless these letters do appear on a visiting-card invitation, it is not considered necessary to answer such an invitation. Some people though, have the pleasant habit of replying to any kind of invitation, whether or not there is a request for a reply.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Poison Ivy Can be Painful and Troublesome

One of the most common afflictions of summer camp among both children and adults is poison ivy. The plant that causes this skin disease is found all over North America. Although certain localities seem to be free from it, location of the plant doesn't follow any geographical rule, and so, where ever you may be this summer, be on the watch for it.

The poison ivy plant is small, short and green, with leaves growing in clusters of three, bright green and very shiny. This shiny surface is one of the best ways of identifying the plant; there are other plants with three leaves, but few have that typical shiny surface. The leaf is usually about two inches long, with a wide, rounded outline. Poison ivy has no flowers but in the fall the leaves become brightly colored.

I always think the plant's name "ivy" is misleading. I have known people to go looking for it on walls, fences and trees, searching for a climbing plant. It is not a climbing ivy, but a low-standing plant.

Sometimes, immediately after contact with the plant, the infected part becomes red and blisters appear. At other times these symptoms do not appear for a couple of days. These blisters enlarge and break, spreading a clear liquid over the skin. This spreads the infection. The rash is irritating and itching; scratching it serves only to spread the infection. Irritation breaks the blisters, and if some of the fluid gets under the fingernails, it may spread the infection to other parts of the body.

Like a good many of the complaints that are treated as jokes, poison ivy can be very painful and troublesome. I can recall that more than once I have found a child with his face so swollen that he couldn't see. More serious cases require a doctor's treatment. I don't know of any way of curing the rash so I always attempt to make the patient comfortable and keep the disease from spreading.

Bathing the part in a solution of soda and water is soothing. Druggists often put up their own prescriptions for the treatment of poison ivy. Personally, I have always found if you wash the affected part with alcohol, it tends to clean up the infecton and keep it from spreading. If the alcohol isn't handy, then plain soap and water is good.

People who are sensitive to poison ivy—poison oak and poison sumach have the same effect—should be careful not to go near the plant.

FASHION FLASHES

SOPHISTICATED LADY fashions are in for autumn evenings. We mean the slim black satin frock with a garnish of pearls and jewels. Slim as a column in an evening dress of black satin, the slim skirt made with side drapery drawn to one side. Wide shoulder straps and bodice buttoned at the side with brilliant-set buttons.

FOR THE FIRST black frock of the new season, choose something that will look good for months to come. Black silk crepe done on slim lines is a good choice. One model has a side-saddle draped skirt and a slim, collarless neckline with a low, curved line held at either side with handsome clips.

GARDEN DROUGHT

Burton-on-Trent, England (CP)—Fear of a water shortage has caused The Staffordshire Potteries Water Board to prohibit the use of water for watering gardens by hose or hand.

Merle Oberon co-starred with George Brent in "'Til We Meet Again," a picture that will live with you forever, now showing at the Capitol with a companion feature.

Woman, 30, Is Bridge Builder

Cleveland, July 29.—It's accepted in the best engineering circles that bridge building is a job for men but:

Sara Ruth Watson, 30, and pretty and a bridge expert with a Ph.D., is out to make some changes.

Cantilevers and trusses, suspensions and bacules—they all need more "oomph." She's confident she can give it to them.

Dr. Watson has taken her ideas on bridges and beauty before engineering groups the nation over and is a convention speaker much in demand. A petite figure, wide blue eyes and long Alice in Wonderland bob don't make her task any harder.

In between times she does historical research at Western Reserve University and writes poetry. Next fall she will teach the "History of Structural Engineering" at Fenn College, the first course of its kind.

Daughter of a prominent engineer, she wants to "bring aesthetic into bridge building and make it an integral factor; to make the big spans of the future as much a matter of beauty as of stress and strain." Her self-appointed task is to induce engineers to give up the "standard practice of calling in architects for adorning egg won't do the job for you, but it all drawn.

"And bridges ought to be beautiful from the water, too," she expounded recently. "I know of one job that was held up for several months until we figured out how to make the arches as attractive from below as from above."

She began visiting bridges with her father, the late Wilbur J. Watson, when she reached the ripe age of 7, roamed over Europe taking pictures and collecting etchings, and finally collaborated with him on a book, "Bridges in History and Legend."

She's "carrying on father's work in a way," by completing a volume he started and when that's done she'll begin work on the first history of structural engineering—"A book nobody's ever got around to writing but which is needed badly."

Patio Fashions

By ALICE ALDEN

FASHION, very often, is a matter of geography. Out in California they call 'em patio robes, but farther east, a patio robe is more than likely to be an informal dinner dress or a housecoat that is attractive and right enough to come down to dinner with distinction and grace.

At any rate, Priscilla Lane has donned one of these handsome robes to show our readers what is what in California fashions and what she wears when lounging in her patio. The fabric is cotton, a creamy white is the background for an exotic tropical flower print in such shades as milk chocolate brown, tangerine and gray.

The snug, shirred bodice is set off by a full swirling skirt. A necklace of beige and white seashells fills in the deep square neckline.

New Millinery Headlines

By ALICE ALDEN

THE FABRIC hat, usually relegated to between-season usage, is having a good time this summer. Many of the smartest girls are choosing hats of fabric in preference to a steady diet of straw or felt hats. Silks, braids and lace are used with a lavish and clever hand to fashion hats of charm and interest that offer something new for summer headlines.

Anne Nagel has chosen a fabric hat that is brimful of interest and novelty. Navy faille is used for the crown, which has the points of the peaked top turned down. White starched lace forms the graceful brim, which allows sunlight and shadows to play on the face. Navy faille binds the wired rim and inner circle and the silk finishes the back in a wide flat bow.

Sartorial Magic

By ALICE ALDEN

IT'S EASY to work magic with clothes and make a limited wardrobe give unlimited service. The secret is to be found in a judicious use of neckwear, dainty collars and cuffs that give a fresh and new look to dark dresses that have seen yeoman service.

If you are bored with that dark blue or black frock, don't relegate it to cupboard duty. Buy for it a collar like the one shown here and fare forth feeling fine. The fabric is white organdie all-over embroidered and finished with a crystal pleated ruffle.

An added touch is violet ribbon tied in a bow with long streamers. The bow is held with a cameo pin. The delightful hat is of fine black felt trimmed with roses.

U. S. Hat Designers Seek Paris Crown

Millinery in a bewildering variety of colors, styles and fabrics was displayed last night at the Fall fashion show sponsored by the Millinery Stabilization Commission Inc., New York City, as American designers presented their bids to wrest the crown of fashion supremacy from Paris. Twelve hundred retail and wholesale buyers, millinery producers and fashion writers attended the showing, which was held at the Hotel Astor.

Luxury furs, sheer felts and novelty fabrics shared honors in the display. Color interest was more pronounced than for many years. The pompadour hat, designed to reveal the rolled-back coiffure, "stole the show" as the most dramatic new development. Large, rakish profile hats in pirate effects were shown in all versions from sports types to evening models. Elaborately draped crowns appeared in fabrics of all types.

Striking color contrasts were utilized by a number of designers. Mme. Pauline presented a turban in gold lame combined with turquoise. Germaine Montabert used three shades of a single color in several hats made of a new chenille-type fabric.

Many interesting examples of the use of fur in millinery were shown, and although cuff turbans in combination with felt were displayed, the novelties were almost in the majority. A high-rise beret designed by Janet of Fifth Avenue, simulating a Spanish comb, had a back of Persian lamb and a front facing of shell-pink velvet shirred to match the convolutions of the fur.

Lilie Dache showed a brown felt, whose brim consisted of a single strip folded at the front to present a square effect. The left side of the brim was faced with mink, while the right was trimmed with a large gold star.

"I Spy"

By JANET GOFF

A NEW VERSION of town black is the thin black faille suit worn with a black lace blouse, a combination which would have looked odd for anything but dinner just about a year ago...... Fashion experts Betsy Blackwell and Bettina Bedwell are two of its exponents.

Dozens of well-dressed business girls who insist on black but want to keep cool are grabbing Fifth Avenue's black silk shantung dress...... Just as many are settling for Madison Avenue's tropical linen in colors, which is similarly styled: collarless, buttoned down the bodice, short-sleeved and briskly skirted. These two favorites have the familiar hot weather heat-waiver, black jersey, to compete with.

Foggy mimosa is THE table-top color in the Ritz-Carlton garden these days, beginning with hats. ......Mustardy gold, which Marlene Dietrich wears from head to foot in Hollywood, is another favorite. The actress uses cornflower blue contrast but a clear green is also effective. Look at a field daisy by the side of a road, not in the florist's window, for the idea.

The most inexpensive evening wrap seen in town is a short jacket of ordinary blue denim.

Vitamin E New Weapon in Paralysis War

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

A MOTHER rat who has been deprived of certain vitamins in her diet does not seem to have much connection with the cure of cases of paralysis, but such association has been made through recent research.

Vitamin E, which is found in most green vegetables, has been known as the "sterility vitamin." If removed from the diet of female animals, they are unable to produce litters.

Dr. Herbert Evans, of the University of California, thought it might be interesting to take a mother rat who had just been delivered of a litter, remove vitamin E from her diet, hence from her milk, and see what would happen to the progeny. He was expecting some change in the reproductive functions, but to his surprise he found that most of the little rats developed a peculiar form of paralysis before the tenth day of life. When he added vitamin E to their diet, the paralysis disappeared.

Tried It in Paralysis

A New York neurologist heard him read a paper on this subject and thought he would like to try out the effect of vitamin E on some cases of obscure paralysis. The particular cases of paralysis had to do with muscular atrophy. One such case was that of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis of the spinal cord. With the use of concentrated vitamin E, this case was cured, the first time on record for this disease.

London clinicians report that in children with muscular atrophy results of treatment with vitamin E were remarkable. Every patient, except one, which was treated for six weeks, improved.

The results have been comparable to the results obtained in pernicious anemia. Fifteen years ago this was considered an incurable malady, and nobody supposed that the changes that had occurred in the stomach and blood and bone marrow were capable of assistance by any form of medication. But the use of liver extract has shown that these grave anatomical defects can actually be overcome.

Outlook Changes

Up to the present time it has been supposed that any time a nerve cell was destroyed or a muscle was destroyed, the outlook for regeneration was hopeless. Whether the use of vitamin E in these cases proves highly successful or not, at any rate the demonstration so far has changed the pessimistic view of doctors concerning nerve regeneration, and paralysis is a combination of a change in a muscle and a nerve.

We are coming to believe that it is impossible to say which is more important. We do not know literally where the nerve leaves off and the muscle begins. It may be that in many forms of paralysis the muscle atrophy occurs first and involves the nerve secondarily.

The new vitamin E appears to affect the muscle more than the nerve cell, but it is unimportant except as a theoretical discussion. The happy and encouraging thing is that these cases which have heretofore seemed so hopeless may possibly be helped.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. T. G.: "Please give me the symptoms of colitis and a diet for it."

Answer—Colitis is an inflammation of the large intestine. However it has come to mean that anyone who has an irritable colon or is "colon conscious" is labelled with the diagnosis of "colitis". The diet should be mild and free from roughage. The principal treatment in most cases, however, unless it is a specific colitis such as amoebic, is to encourage the patient to forget his symptoms and eat rather widely. A diet recommended is as follows: cream vegetable soups—tomato, pea, celery, etc; oatmeal and rice—these thoroughly boiled for at least 2 hours in order to break up cellulose husks—served with cream and sugar; eggs—soft boiled, poached, coddled, scrambled; toast and toasted crackers; potatoes—mashed and baked; mashed peas; carrots; spinach; ice cream and ices; custards; tapioca; wine jelly; rice pudding; orange juice. Avoid fried foods, meat of all kinds, fruit, vegetables with a heavy residue, salads, highly-spiced foods and butter.

G. O.: "What is the difference between the staphylococcus germ and the streptococcus germ?"

Answer—The difference between the two germs, in the first place, is in their form; in the second place, in their effect on the tissues of the body. Both of them are small, round organisms, but the staphylococcus grows in bunches like grapes and the streptococcus grows in chains. The staphylococcus, after it invades the body, produces pus. The streptococcus usually produces an inflammation not of a pus-like character. Both produce fever and both produce what is known as "sepsis."

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

(Mme. Qui Vive)

MENTAL ATTITUDE TOWARDS THE JOB

Have you work to do each day? If so, be thankful. Activity is a law of life, brings rewards in physical well being and good appearance. If you don't believe it, observe some hotel dwellers who, having everything done for them and having no need of holding down a job, just kill time. They look bored and unhappy. They can't read or play bridge all the time.

When you're mad at your job, stop and think about how you'd feel if you didn't have one. One wonders what people do who have nothing to do. Into what channels do their thoughts flow? Many of them live in the past, shaking out old sorrows. That's a good way to get mothy and mildewed.

To women who take pride in their homes and who have a flair for domesticity, housework is no burden. They're never happier than when they're mixing up a cake or planning an elegant meal. They are the balance wheels of the family; they attend to all the family wants and needs; still find time for beautifying and social diversions.

Other women can't bear the sight of a carpet sweeper. They hate to cook. They won't face the job They're cowardy custards.

x x x

It may not be fun to thump a typewriter all day, stand behind a counter or answer telephone bells. If one has to do it one might as well do it cheerfully, get what one can out of it. Individuals of cheerful dispositions are not only stronger and healthier than whiners, but they're nicer to look at.

If a job does nothing else it kicks one out of the bed in the morning, and that's something. One never knows what pleasant experiences the day may bring forth. They're plenty of them for the girl who is looking for them, because she makes them herself. If she's jolly, affable and gracious she is like a freshening breeze, has a place in this daffy world. She looks sweet because she is sweet.

There are many delightful recreations for the worker and she must have them. Outdoor life is necessary for mental health. We must play and have fun if we are to stay young in spirit, keep the wrinkles away. Getting into a rut means that a woman is likely to be neglectful of her appearance. She lets her skin and hair go grey; sometimes her mental reflections, too. There is beauty in the air; let her arise and breath it in.

How we feel about things makes or unmakes us. If we can keep a tight rein on our emotions, indulging only in pleasant ones, the beauty overhead won't make much of a big dent in the cheque book.

Film Star Picks Canadian Holiday

Franchot Tone on Way To Fishing Trip in Ontario

When Franchot Tone wants a holiday he picks for real pleasure a fishing trip in Ontario. The screen and stage star knows what he likes, and knows it well, for he spent most of his early days in that part of the world.

Mr. Tone arrived at St. Hubert Airport yesterday afternoon, visited Montreal briefly and left by plane for Ottawa at 7 o'clock. In Ottawa he is to meet his father, Frank J. Tone, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., president of the Carborundum Company and the two of them will spend two weeks, maybe three, fishing and relaxing with perhaps a little golf on the side.

Mr. Tone snatches his ideal holiday between stage appearances. He distinguished himself last season on Broadway in Ernest Hemingway's "The Fifth Column," the play about the Spanish war that had one of the happiest titles any play ever struck getting free publicity every time anybody mentioned fifth columnist activities, which was often enough

It is this play that will occupy Mr. Tone for a few months more to come. Its Broadway run completed, it is scheduled for a tour to begin shortly. In the meantime its star has his time to himself, that is, except for a radio show in three weeks' time.

After "The Fifth Column" closes, there'll be more film work for Mr. Tone. He divides his time between stage and screen, and likes it that way. He has no particular plans for Hollywood, being a free-lance player who can pick and choose. Of his past films he still likes his role in "Mutiny on the Bounty" best of all, although, on the other hand, he expresses a preference for comedy. He enjoyed working on his last film, "Fast and Furious," which was made last summer, before he returned to Broadway for the Hemingway play. He liked playing with Ann Sothern in that film, admiring her very much.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD

says today—

Maiden Carrying Long Must List of Masculine Virtues Likely to Remain a Spinster

Here's a letter from a young miss who opens up by telling the world what a whiz of a wife she would make for a model husband and winds up by admitting that she will have her mad money in pocket when she marches to the altar. If she can locate and lasso a lad who has all the virtues on her must list (she can't if he sees the list) she will have occasion to use her mad money; for any girl that enters marriage with the selfish determination to get full measure and also with the reservation to run out if the measure is short, is headed for divorce.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

The letter of the "Young Grad" was of great interest to me and I am very glad to know that there is at least one young man with high ideals for a wife I have been looking for one of these men for a long time but have as yet to meet one that wanted the perfect wife and could offer her the same things. I am not conceited, but I can truthfully say that I can live up to his ten "essential points" of a wife, and then add a few. What I would really like to know is this—can he or any other man pass the ten point which I consider essential to the man I want for a husband and the father of my children?

1. He must neither drink nor curse. He may smoke cigarettes or pipes, but never cigars.
2. He must dress neatly and attractively and watch his waist line. He must always be closely shaved, with a few exceptions.
3. He must be sweet, considerate and loving, and yet masterful. He must be able to take care of himself.
4. He must like my family or pretend to do so.
5. He must have a cheerful disposition and must not be sullen.
6. He must be willing to take me "places" after we are married as he was before.
7. He must remain true to me and never flirt with other girls. If ever he should find someone he loves better, I want him to tell me. I will give him his freedom rather than live with the body of a man whose heart and soul are with another woman.
8. He must be healthy and protect his health.
9. He must love children.
10. He will have to work just as hard to "keep" me as he did to "get" me because those "campaign promises" soon wear off. Besides I am saving enough money to get a divorce before I get married.

Oh, no, I'm not old and cranky. I am 19 years of age, fairly pretty, blond and have a nice figure. I am not dumb either as I have been working for one of the leading doctors to our city since I was 17 years old. So, Mister, before you give "essential points," be sure you can live up to some "essential points."

Up-To-Par.

No, not old and cranky, but young and silly. Maybe not dumb, but definitely blind. No doubt pretty, blond and streamlined, but what about the unselfishness, the intestinal fortitude without which we cannot get along in this world, married or single?

Now, Miss UP-TO-PAR, in all kindness, look not to your laurels, but to your conceit, your self-righteousness, and remember that no man knowingly marries a policewoman. If he even suspects that a girl is possessive, demanding, dictatorial, that she's starting out with a long must-list, he sidesteps her as he would the plague.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Good Cooking on a Small Fire

By BETSY NEWMAN

THE ROLLADE is nice to cook in a Dutch oven, if you have one. If not, cook in heavy frying pan. You won't need much fire to cook this one-meal dish, so it won't heat your kitchen too much.

Today's Menu

Rollade Mixed Green Salad
Black and White Cake
Tea Biscuits Iced Tea

Rollade

Round steak
Bacon
Flour
Diced turnips
Onion (if liked)
Diced potatoes
Diced carrots
Salt and pepper

Cut thin round steak into pieces the size of your hand, avoiding fat and connective tissue. Roll each piece with a slice or two of bacon and tie firmly. Flour and brown quickly in drippings, and add onion. Simmer very slowly for 2 to 3 hours, adding water when necessary. Three-fourths of an hour before serving, add diced vegetables and continue cooking until vegetables are tender. Thin liquor in pan to make gravy.

Black and White Cake

3-4 cup shortening
1 1-2 cups sugar
1 tsp. salt if vegetable shortening is used
1 tsp. vanilla
3 eggs
3 cups cake flour
3 1-2 tsp. baking powder
1 cup milk

Chocolate mixture — Blend 1 square chocolate, 3 tablespoons boiling water, 1 tablespoon sugar, add 1-4 teaspoon soda. Cool.

Cream shortening, sugar, salt, vanilla and eggs and blend well. Grease three 9-inch layer pans with shortening and dust with flour. Pour generous 2-3 of batter in two pans. Combine chocolate mixture with remaining batter and pour into remaining pan, and bake all three in 350 degrees F. oven for 30 to 35 minutes. When cool, put layers together with chocolate layer in middle. Ice between layers and on top with bitter chocolate icing made as follows:

Bitter Chocolate Icing

3 squares bitter chocolate
1 1-2 cups brown sugar
1-2 tsp. salt
3-4 cup water
1-4 cup butter or other shortening
3 cups confectioner's sugar
1 tsp. vanilla

Cut chocolate into small pieces, combine with brown sugar, salt, water and butter. Bring to boil and boil for 5 minutes. Cool to lukewarm and beat in gradually confectioners' sugar, adding vanilla last.

New Homes on the Horizon

By PATRICIA MONTCLAIR

● MODERN trends in structural and decorative home designing are turning the attention of architects and builders to the use of the new materials to achieve the always-sought luxury-at-low-cost. Particular attention is being paid to glass as a material which is perfectly adapted for this purpose.

The floor plan of this house reveals a sensible arrangement of rooms, according to architects who have studied the house. The emphasis was put on light, air, and spaciousness, achieved both through the basic floor plan and through the extensive use of glass. Dark days or sunny find a dwelling built in this new manner a cheerful place to call home.

Buck Newsom Fails to Win Fourteenth Consecutive Game Being Beaten in 11th by A's

Hurls Great Ball for Seven Frames With Mended Broken Thumb

YANKEES SPLIT

Champions Stay Out of Second Division by Dividing With White Sox

BUCK NEWSOM .. .. SIX..

(By Judson Bailey, Associated Press Sports Writer)

"You can't win 'em all," they say in sports, but big Buck Newsom with the great heart isn't one to be philosophical about defeat.

Up until the 11th inning yesterday he still thought he could beat any team in baseball at any time.

It was a combination of circumstances that undermined him after 13 consecutive victories, the longest winning streak in the last couple of years in the majors, and gave Philadelphia Athletics a 9-5 decision over Detroit Tigers.

Newsom was making his first effort since suffering a broken thumb 11 days before. He was strong and wild at the start, fanning 10 and walking seven, but along the way Bobo simply melted down. Johnny Babich of the A's had to give up after six innings and Bill Beckman came in fresh with five innings of scoreless pitching.

But Louis the umpteenth stayed around too long. He had a 5-2 lead going into the sixth inning. This was shaved down to a tie score in two innings and finally the A's exploded four runs in the 11th, forcing Archie McKain to come in and quench the fire.

The defeat caused Detroit to lose half a game of its American League lead as Cleveland Indians divided a doubleheader with Washington Senators 6-3 and 9-1.

Yankees Split

New York Yankees staved off the spectre of the second division by splitting two games with Chicago White Sox. It took a spectacular home run barrage for the world champions to win the first game 10-9. Charley Keller hit three home runs, Joe DiMaggio two and Babe Dahlgren one. In the second game the Yankees made four errors and were stifled by the five-hit flinging of Lefty Thornton Lee as the Sox won 8-4.

Boston Red Sox swept two games from St. Louis Browns 3-1 and 13-10.

Cincinnati Reds gave up a game of their big lead in the National League by splitting a bargain bill at Philadelphia while Brooklyn Dodgers took two from St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds' 4-2 loss in the second game was charged against Bucky Walters. Old Jim Turner checked the Phillies on seven safeties in the first game to win 7-2.

The Dodgers' twin triumphs, 3-0 and 7-4, ended a six-game losing streak for Brooklyn and a four-game winning string for the Cards. Whitlow Wyatt pitched three-hit shutout ball in the first game and Fred Fitzsimmons celebrated his 39th birthday in the afterpiece by scattering nine hits for his 10th victory against one defeat.

The surging Pittsburgh Pirates swept two from Boston Bees 5-2 and 7-3 to pass the Cards and take fifth place while dropping Boston into the cellar.

New York Giants ended a three-day hitting famine by getting 10 safeties in beating Chicago Cubs 8-4.

ROGERS HORNSBY ON WAY BACK

The Rajah May be in Control of a Big League Club Next Season

New York, July 29—(AP)—The little birdie lit on the edge of the typewriter today, leaned over and whispered the pleasant report that Rogers Hornsby is on the way back to the Major Leagues.

Naturally, the Rajah "ain't talking" but the tip is around that there's a good chance the greatest right-hand hitter of his time will be boss man of a big league outfit by 1941. This much is certain—he has told friends he expects to be back.

The whisper doesn't include the spot where he'll land, although such places as St. Louis, Cleveland and Chicago are mentioned.

For the time being, Hornsby has been doing a fair job with the Oklahoma City outfit in the Texas League. Previously, he ran Baltimore in the International League, to which he "graduated" from the St. Louis Browns three years ago.

PICOBAC
The People's Choice!

Here's the best possible proof that Picobac is always a mild, cool, sweet smoke: more men smoke it, and keep on smoking it year after year, than any other pipe tobacco in Canada!

If the majority find Picobac exactly to their taste, isn't it highly probable that you, too, will find "the pick of Canada's Burley crop" exactly what you want for a completely satisfying smoke? From coast to coast you hear men say of Picobac:

"It DOES taste good in a pipe!"

"There's only one reason," says Mr. Picobac, "why Canadians buy more Picobac than any other brand of pipe tobacco—they like it better."

REID'S HOME RUN WITH TWO ABROAD DECISIVE BLOW

Corbys Defeat Oilers 5-4 and Puts Team Back in Running for the Series

SPLENDID FIELDING

Connie Harris Has Edge Over Johnnie Bawden on the Hilltop

Harold Reid's seventh inning home run, with two aboard, helped to put Corbys A.C. back into the local O.A.S.A. playdown picture as the Corbys downed the Shell "Oilers" 5 to 4 at Coleman Flats on Saturday night to make the series stand at two games to one in favour of the "Oilers" in a best-in-seven series. The teams resume activities on Wednesday evening.

Corbys played a sterling game and there were three outstanding features that resulted in their winning over the "Oilers". There was Reid's circuit blow with two aboard in the seventh to put the green and red clad squad in the lead and Jimmie Barriage's sensational running catch of Rowbotham's drive along the left field foul line in the ninth inning, both of which in no way over-shadowed the pitching effort of Connie Harris as the third feature of the pastime.

Harris Has Edge

Harris out-pitched his rival moundsman, Johnnie Bawden and well deserved to be the winning pitcher. Harris only whiffed two, but he only passed two via the four ball route as he had the Oilers popping up in the clutches. Bawden whiffed four, but walked as many. The Oilers went hitless in the first three and last frame, while Corbys touched Bawden for at least one hit per frame in all innings, except the fourth and ninth, as Corbys out-hit the Oilers eight to seven.

The Shell team scored single runs in the fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth, while Corbys scored one in the first, three in the seventh, when Reid hit for the circuit with the two Barriage boys aboard. John Bawden hit a round tripper for the Oilers' last tally in the eighth. J. Barriage's running catch of Amo's drive in the ninth saved the Corby cause.

CANADIANS BOW TO U. S. CREWS

Buffalo West Sides Win Majority of Points at Canadian Henley

Port Dalhousie, Ont., July 29.—(CP)—Canadian oarsmen, their ranks thinned by the demands of war, bowed to powerful United States crews at the 58th annual Royal Canadian Henley Regatta, but even so they gave a good account of themselves.

In the final reckoning after Saturday's events closed the three-day meet, Buffalo West Sides stood out as Club Champions while Joe Burk, perennial singles champion, had rowed with his fourth Canadian title. West sides won the senior eights as well as aggregate honors, compiling a total of 68 points against Toronto Argonauts' 49.

Argonauts, holders of the Club championship last year, and Hamilton Leanders put up most of the Opposition to the visitors, the Hamilton Club placing fourth, one point behind the Detroit Boat Club which finished third in the aggregate with 37 points.

Theo Dubois of Winnipeg was no match for the choppy-striking Burk who had beaten him here last year and then again a week before for the United States singles title. Burk won his fourth consecutive Canadian Crown by finishing an open length ahead of Dubois, while Harve Hutcheon of St. Catharines was third.

Buffalo clinched aggregate honors with victory in the senior eights although it was only through the good sportsmanship of Leanders and Argos that they were allowed to compete. The west sides arrived late at the starting point and were disqualified. On appeal of the Canadian crews this decision was rescinded.

They then went on to row away from the Canadians. At the finish Argos and Leanders were four lengths behind West Sides, finishing in a dead heat for second position.

Football Star's Life Saved by Emergent Operation

International Falls, Minn., July 29—(AP)—A chance meeting with a Minneapolis doctor on a vacation trip into the wilds of Canada north of here resulted in a 60-mile launch ride that ended in an emergency appendectomy yesterday for Bill Decorrevont Northwestern University football star.

Decorrevont has been spending the summer as counsellor at Camp Kooch-I-Ching, Boys' Camp north of here on Rainy Lake. He took a group of boys on a canoe trip and reached Trout Lake one of the northermost lakes of the chain.

For several days he ad complained of what he thought was a stomachache. Saturday night, he met Dr. Henry Lysne, Minneapolis.

Decorrevont told the physician of his ailment, and the doctor diagnosed the stomach ache as acute appendicitis. Dr. Lysne loaded the football player and the boys into his launch and started for International Falls.

On the way down the chain of lakes, Decorrevont's appendix ruptured. They arrived here during a violent wind and rain storm and Dr. Lyse immediately operated at a local hospital.

Hospital attaches later said Decorrevont was "as good as can be expected".

Bears Take Pair from Toronto With Hurler in Second Game Singling Home Winning Counter

By The Associated Press

If the complexion of the International League pennant chase is ever going to change, now's the time.

Rochester Red Wings, who have been merrily rolling along in first place, are face to face with what appears to be the first real challenge of the season.

Beginning tonight in Rochester, the Wings must entertain the onrushing Newark Bears—and first place is at stake in the crucial four-game series.

The Bears have won eight of their last nine games, including a pair Sunday from Toronto Leafs by 8-2 and 2-1, to move within three games of the Wings, who were losing to Baltimore 3-0.

George Barley kept the Bears alive in the first game with Toronto, winning his 12th of the season with a seven-hit job. The Bears supported his fine hurling with an 11-hit bombardment off three Toronto pitchers. Three homers were included in the melee. In the second game Stevo Peck, young Bear righthander, won his own game by singling home Hank Borowy with the winning marker.

Second Game Postponed

Meanwhile the Red Wings were succumbing to the heat and Floyd Stromme's three-hit, nine-strikeout hurling. The Orioles pounded out nine blows off Gornicki. The second game was postponed.

Buffalo Bisons coasted to a pair of victories over Syracuse Chiefs 13-4 and 3-0.

Lynn Nelson was credited with his first victory in the first game as his mates poled out 17 blows including Clyde McCullough's 18th homerun of the season. Rookie Hal White shut out the Chiefs with five hits in the abbreviated nightcap.

Jersey City's veteran Bill Harris stopped Montreal Royals with two hits for a 3-0 victory in the seven-inning nightcap for his fifth victory of the year and his third over the Royals, who won the first game 6-3 as Bob Porter continued his mastery over the Little Giants.

English Girl Defeated in Tennis Final

Sea Bright, N.J., July 29—(AP)—Mary Hardwick, the courageous English girl, has seldom played better tennis in her life than she did yesterday in the final of the women's singles of the Sea Bright invitation tournament. Yet she lost to Alice Marble 6-2, 6-0.

Miss Marble, queen of the world's tennis courts, was at the top of her game. Miss Hardwick forced seven of the games to deuced points and on several other occasions was not to be denied

Queen Alice's severe first service was a potent weapon and her forehand and backhand drives were as versatile, forceful and almost as powerful as those of many ranking men players.

The ease with which Miss Marble destroyed a game opponent was in marked contrast to the manner in which national champion Bobby Riggs won the men's singles.

Riggs, pitted against young Frank Kovacs had to call on every stroke his racquet could produce before retiring from the Sea Bright bowl by scores of 2-6, 0-6, 11-9, and 10-8.

Ken J. Colling

Gerald Barriage's Corbys A.C. nine climbed back into the city O.A.S.A. playdown picture with a well-earned 5 to 4 win over the Shell "Oilers" on Saturday night. And incidentally the Saturday night venture proved as prolific as a week night game in Belleville softball circles, insofar as the crowd was concerned. The features of the game were very marked, Connie Harris out-pitched Johnnie Bawden and Corbys played better ball in the field than they had in their previous two appearances. Atop of all this Harold Reid settled the diamond difficulty with a mammoth home run, with two aboard in the seventh, but it remained to have the diminutive Jimmie Barriage halt the Oilers in their final and desperate ninth inning drive. Barriage literally ran miles to shag Amo's drive along the left field line and this catch took all of the starch out of the Oilers. Now the series stands at two games to one for the Oilers as the teams resume hostilities on Wednesday next.

Last week Walter Gerow Jr., failed to turn up for a scheduled ball game with the Petes and mystery surrounded his failure to put in appearance. However, it was all cleared up over the week end when it was learned that Walter had joined the 3-47th Battery C.A.S.F. Cy Barriage wasn't quite as successful in his efforts to enlist, Cy having tried to enlist with the same unit. In looking over the 47th Battery one could muster a fairly good softball team. There would be 'Lum' Carson to pitch, Don Thomas catching, Gerow at first, Freddie McGuire at second, Harold Reid at third, Doug Sword at short, Lem Cook in the outfield, while we understand there are two highclass softball players with the local 47th troop from St. Catharines to fill in at other positions. Perhaps a benefit game between the Battery boys and a local nine could be arranged before the 3-47th leaves for camp, the proceeds to go to the purchase of sports equipment for the Battery lads.

Do you remember when Ken Black of Vancouver, the wielder of a magic putter, realized a life-long ambition at Mount Bruno a year ago today when he beat Henry Martell of Edmonton to capture the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship.

Apparently they are progresing quite nicely with their various golf titles at the Bay of Quinte Country Club. Last week Joyce Porritt and Dave Payne won the Jewellers' trophy, a mixed two-ball foursome tournament, that brought out a goodly number of the club mixed pairs. Out of this tourney 17 qualified for handicap series, these qualifying being C. L. Jewell, A. P. Allen, S. R. Burrows, O. H Scott, J. Hartwick, E. Hooker, G. H. Stoble, S. Gordon Robertson, J. S. McKeown, O. Alyea, W. W. Miller, R. J. Wray, D. Payne, W. J. Cook, W. N. Belair, J. A. McIntosh and R. G. Stafford. The club championship semi-finalists will be determined following the results of the Tip Top trophy tournament, which should be completed this week. Incidentally Bill Little, the Country Club pro., informs us that some exceedingly fine scores are being turned in by the Quinte Club golfers during this year's club tournaments.

Cleveland fans are saying "twenty" and sticking their tongues in their cheeks. That's because Cincinnati last season won its first pennant in 20 years and it's now 20 years since the Indians ran first in the American League Derby. Superstitious followers of the game also point out that Brooklyn is bobbing around the top in the National League, a spot not occupied since the Dodgers met the Indians in the World's Series of 1920. But they say nothing about the unassisted triple-play pulled by Bill Wambsganss 20 years ago. They wouldn't insist on a repetition of that!

Harry Rollins, local O.A.S.A. convener, returned from the provincial softball conclave in Hamilton to tell us that the Trenton softball loop has been elevated to the Intermediate "A" class, that is to say the team finishing second in the Trenton loop. The first placed Trenton nine will advance into the category "B" playdowns. The winner of the Shell-Corby series will meet the Trenton team. Picton will meet Point Anne in the first round "C" series play-offs, while in the "A" series Kingston drew a bye, as Peterborough and Oshawa meet at the same time as the Belleville-Trenton series. Regarding the matter of military training period, the question of training interferring with provincial playdowns will be left solely in the hands of the local conveners.

SPORT SPICE — Springbrook will meet Mount Pleasant in the Rawdon softball league finals, Springbrook having disposed of Glen Ross in the semi-finals, so reports Art Duncan of Stirling. Joe Burk, the Philadelphia sculler repeated to win the Canadian Henley singles on Saturday and thereby be crowned the No. 1 sculler in the business. . . . "Thanks, Shakespeare, for them thar birthday greetings." . . . Challedon crossed the continent to win the rich Hollywood stakes of $50,000 on Saturday, Kayak 2nd, another favourite, running seventh. . . . Oshawa continued their winning streak in the Inter-city loop on Saturday, beating the Derbys 3 to 2, as the Motor City nine outhit the Toronto team 13 to 8.

New York, July 29. — (AP) — Ramblings from the Resin route:—

Johnny Ray, manager of beauteous Billy Conn, better quit hollering for a shot at Joe Louis till he gets his boy past Pastor . . . New Orleans papers are dusting off their brightest adjectives for Harry Weekly, a lighweight comer . . . Pity the poor heavyweights. Red Burman, a ranking heavy, and Steve Dudas meet in a prelim to the Bantam title scrap between Georgia Pace and Lou Salica . . .

Here 'n' there: They'rh expecting 45,000 at Goshen for the Corn Tassel Derby (Hambletonian, to you) . . . because of the war, Great Britain's Greyhound breeding will be shifted to Bermuda . . . Babe Pratt, Alex Shibicky and Al Collings of New York Rangers hockey team have enlisted with the Royal Winnipeg Rifles . . . Anybody need a good first-baseman? Here's 20-year-old Buck Eichinson of Welch in the Mountain States League, whose .408 batting average is the real McCoy. . . .

Short takes: The Tulane stadium is being used as a barn these days for the horses coach Red Dawson absent-mindedly bought at that Baton Rouge auction . . . Johnny Cooney, the 39-year-old Boston Bees outfielder is having quite a time living up to the family reputation. His pappy was a star on Pop Anson's tam and his son is a star at Sarasota High School.

SPAIN BANS USE OF GAS IN LARGE CARS

Madrid, July 27 (AP).—The Spanish government restricted the use of gasoline today by banning operation of private automobiles of more than 25 horsepower after Aug. 1 and limiting smaller automobiles to six litres (about 1½ gallons) monthly per horsepower.

(British authorities have announced that preparations are being made to extend the blockade to Spain.)

The use of gasoline also was banned for pleasure boats. Buses will be withdrawn from service where electric street cars are available.

Blitzkrieg Set For Middle August Says Turkish Report

Ankara, July 29—(CP Reuters) — Rumors reaching diplomatic circles in Turkey from Germany said Sunday that after long debate Marshal Hermann Goering has agreed that the Nazi attack on Britain shall reach its full force about the middle of August.

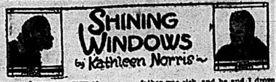
Between now and then there will be mass air attacks on British shipping and general preparations for the main attempt to invade the island, the rumors said.

Hitler is anticipating tremendous casualties in the course of this attack, these reports said. Hospitals are being prepared in western Germany to which nurses and doctors are being sent from Italy.

Germans are talking of tactical "surprises" which Hitler is planning and it seems certain the attack will begin with feints intended to distract attention from the main purpose and attempts to spread misinformation among civilians, the reports added.

Some commentators here believed Hitler may at the last moment change his mind and decide against attack. In that case, in order to avoid losing prestige among his own people, it is suggested he might try instead to stage a mass attack against Egypt.

IF IT'S ABOUT YOUR EYES . . . SEE McFEE



INSTALMENT 19.

"Yes, but, Dodo, this is inly for a while, with us," Joyce protested. "We'll not stay here! If Lisa marries in June, and Paul and I step off in September, we'll—we'll be in very different places. We'll both be in Burlingame, or in San Francisco anyway; this'll seem like a dream. But if you were wearing eighty-nine cent bungalow aprons, and driving a muddy car into town for bridge prizes and jelly glasses—"

"I don't see anything so wrong about bridge prizes and jelly glasses!" Dodo said with an unwonted touch of haughtiness, as her sister impressed on her own eloquence, stopped short. Joyce, stupefied, reflected upon the situation for a few days and then confided in her father.

"Dad, we couldn't have Dodo marry a yokel who talks about fog spavin and dances like a tractor!"

"Does he?" William Ballard asked, smiling absently, his eyes far away.

"He's terrible. That is, he's nice enough, and he talked to her about riding the range, and grapes, and the bureau his grandmother brought from Woburn, Massachusetts. I mean, there's nothing wrong about him, but he's—well, impossible. If Lisa was married, or I was married, and he turned up as a brother-in-law—I mean it simply wouldn't be funny!" Joyce persisted, distressed. "Mother would lose her mind!" she added, as a final argument.

"You can't tell, when it's a question of your children's marriages," William Ballard said slowly.

"But good heavens, dad, you can tell when it's just a matter of propinquity, and nobody else being around, and being lonely!"

"Marriage is almost always propinquity, Joyce. "We'll have to let Dodo manage herself."

"I think she ought to be sent away!" Joyce wanted to say impatiently. But it had recently been made obvious that nobody could go anywhere for a while anyway. For weeks Ben had been mad with impatience to be off, sometimes, talking of Alaska, sometimes of Tahiti or of New York, and a quite frank exposition of the family finances always constituted his answer. In the bank were a few hundreds only; each quarter would see three hundred more deposited that was all the Ballards had. Lissy's wedding would cost something even if the outlay were confided to the "one plain suit and decent hat" of which Sally spoke so confidently. "Next year, they tell me, things may clear up a bit," William Ballard said cheerfully to his daughters. To Ben, Joyce once heard him speak more definitely.

"I've put it to you before this, Ben. If you stay here I expect you to help me, and make yourself useful to your mother and the girls. I'm not trying to hold you here. It's beginning to be my profound conviction that no man has any right to ask anything or suggest anything to another man of twenty-one, even if he happens to be his son. While you do stay here I'm glad to feed you and clothe you, of course. When you want to make some change, go ahead!"

One day Joyce and Dodo went with the three men up to clear the source of the spring. It had become buried and choked in the silt and the fallen leaves of winter, and was running awry. Joyce had insisted on a "casual" lunch being carried. "You'd manage a picnic on the Statue of Liberty," Michael told her.

"Well, why not? I mean, if you went out there about noon, why shouldn't you bring a few sandwiches?" the girl demanded.

The job proved to be much longer and more complicated than they had anticipated, and it was with great satisfaction that she presently offered her luncheon to the group.

"That food hits the spot," Michael said.

"Well, what did I tell you?"

Dodo, leaning toward the little fire, showed her sister a brown small hand for a second, withdrew it. The blood receded from Joyce's heart. On the third finger had been a band of plain gold.

She stared at Dodo, her mouth agape, all the strength gone from arms and legs. But Dodo was looking another way, and presently jumped up busily and began to clear away the signs of the simple meal. Joyce followed her into the wood, caught her in a firm grip, faced her about.

"Theodora Ballard!"

"W'at?" Dodo murmured, in a little voice with a giggle in it.

"What on earth did you have on your hand? Dodo, you haven't—"

"Yes, we were! Yesterday!" Dodo breathed triumphantly.

"You and Ch—! You weren't!"

"Sh-h-h! We're going to keep it a secret for a year at least."

Joyce leaned against a tree.

"But Dodo, you hardly know him! You've seen him three or four times!"

Dodo's face reddened resentfully.

"I've seen him all winter long, and danced with him, and I sat with him all through 'She Stoops to Conquer'. I don't see how you can say that I hardly know him. All last week he was here in Merriwell when his father was sick, and he and I drove around in his car for whole afternoons. Why, they're people, the Sallocks, like other people!" Dodo, driven out of her usual timid inarticulateness, said roundly, "if you love a person I don't know why dairy cows aren't just as interesting as real estate or architecture!"

"Yes, but what are you going to do? Just live along here and not tell any one?"

"I don't know quite what I'm going to do," Dodo said, showing some first faint traces of nervousness, "but we're not going to tell any one for a long while anyway. There's no use your staring at me that way, Joyce. People have got married before, I hope! Come on, let's go back and finish up the spring. Charley won't be back until Sunday, and I'll see him then."

A sudden affectionate compunction shook Joyce's heart. Again she put her arms about her sister, whispered in her ear.

"Darling, I hope it's all going to be happy and right for you!"

Dodo weakened was weeping. When they went back to the spring both girls had reddened eyes. But if William Ballard or Michael noticed it neither made any comment. Presently lame, weary, wet, they were all swinging down the trail again in the early afternoon light. Joyce's thoughts moved back and forth between plans for a hot bath and a rest before dinner, and the breath-taking change that had come into the family now. Lissy engaged, herself engaged quiet little Dodo skipping the engagement and stepping straight into the real thing.

At the farmhouse other matters were brewing. Joyce could not imagine what they were, for Lissy and her mother said nothing, and the before-dinner period went on just as usual. But she saw trouble in their faces, and sensed calamity in their carefully held tones.

"William," said Sally Ballard when they were finishing a custard, "may I speak to you just a moment?"

It was a warm night, the first really warm night they had had; Ben and the girls and Michael sat on under the pear tree and saw the great disc of the moon rise over the shoulders of the mountains. Now and then Joyce looked at Dodo as if she never had seen her before, but Dodo was quite calm, and laughed as if nothing untoward had happened.

After a while Sally's voice was heard at the parlor window:

"Girls, will you come in here for a moment?"

Joyce, her heart thundering, arose. Did she know anything of Dodo's marriage, or didn't she? They would question them both, and what line should she take? Pure astonishment, that was best for herself and Dodo, too. "Married!" she would gasp. "Oh, Dodo, you're not! Who said so? I don't believe it!"

She was sick with trepidation; she went into the parlor. But Dodo seemed calm, and was humming lightly as they went in. Ben and Michael had already started to walk up to Michael's place; Lissy had gone to bed.

Their father and mother were both in the room. William Ballard was seated in his favorite chair under the lamp; he looked up thoughtfully as they came in. Sally was at one of the dark windows; she spoke over her shoulder.

"Ben go?"

"Yes," Joyce said, almost sick with expectation and fright, "he and Michael had just started when you called."

"What—" Sally asked without preamble, "what do you know of Ben and this Gertrude Florence?"

The relief weakened Joyce's knees and she sat down abruptly in a chair. It wasn't Dodo after all!

"Bootsy?" she asked, widening her eyes.

"I believe she calls herself that."

"She and Ben got pretty far in," William Ballard said mildly. "No harm done, but the boy's tired of it, and the girl isn't. She was here today, talking to your mother—"

"Bootsy was!" both girls exclaimed together.

"She and her mother," Sally contributed bitterly. "Of course I don't know anything about it. Obviously I'm not supposed to know, but evidently the girl had her wedding day picked out! She wanted to know what she'd done, and why Ben was so changed, and who had 'talked him out of it'!"

Joyce laughed cheerfully.

"Trust Bootsy!" she said. "Poor Ben!"

"Poor all of us!" Sally said fervently. "Coming to a place like this—Lissy's life ruined—now Ben's life ruined—"

"What we wanted to say to you girls is this," William Ballard said mildly, when after a long time there was a pause. "Ben is going away for a while, right away. Probably he'll go to Portland. I've an old friend on the newspaper there who may give him a job. And we don't want him teased—don't want too many questions asked—"

Awed, the sisters agreed. Joyce had enough to think about, as she lay awake that night.

"You have to come to the country to have things happen!" she said to herself.

And then suddenly all these things were made unimportant and unreal to Joyce by the reception of a letter from Paul's pretty young stepmother.

"My dear Joyce," Claire von Schwerin wrote, in a somewhat unformed hand, on beautiful writing paper, "Paul is coming home for six days at Easter, flying both ways, and will be with us here on Tuesday. Why don't you come up Monday night, and meet him with us on Tuesday morning at Mills Field? His father is taking us all to Pebble Beach for the golf tournaments, and we will see that you get back safely."

AT THE McCARTHY

"Danger on Wheels."

Richard Arlen is eternally glad that he did not live during the days of the old horse and buggy.

For, as all of his Hollywood friends know, Arlen is the outstanding motor enthusiast in the film colony.

The popular star's interest in motors began long before he dreamed of an acting career. But since Arlen is co-starred with Andy Devine in Universal's racing drama "Danger on Wheels," now at the McCarthy Theatre, the real story of the man himself is a timely one.

"I used to 'hop-up' old jallopies when I was a kid in school. Then I'd race them on dirt tracks Saturday afternoons. Sure, I liked racing, but even more I enjoyed working with any kind of gasoline engine," Arlen explained to his director, Christy Cabanne.

The garage at Arlen's home looks like an automobile salesroom. He has seven cars, ranging from big town cars down to stripped-down roadsters. The gardener keeps the machines washed and clean, but Arlen does all his own repairing and has every motor running as smoothly as a finely jeweled watch. More than a mere hobby, motors are a major interest with Arlen. Some of the machines are old models, but he persistently refuses to part with them.

"I can always think, and make my plans better," he declares, "while sprawled under an old car tinkering with the engine."

"Wolf of New York"

A lawyer against law, brings back to the screen one of the greatest of Hollywood stars in this type of role, Edmund Lowe, who appears as a criminal lawyer in "Wolf of New York," second feature presentation now at the McCarthy Theatre. Latest Fox News is also presented.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Till We Meet Again"

ing Merle Oberon and George Brent, is now playing at the Capitol theatre. Featured in the stellar cast are Pat O'Brien, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Binnie Barnes and Frank McHugh.

The poignant and tender love story begins in Hong Kong. At the Bar of All Nations, Dan and Joan, (the roles played by Brent and Miss Oberon), meet over a cocktail. It is a hail and farewell meeting, for she is sailing back to San Francisco immediately. They part, and Dan runs straight into the waiting hands of Steve Burke (Pat O'Brien), a detective who has trailed him all over the world since Dan sentenced to death for murder, had escaped on his way to San Quentin. So Dan and Joan meet again on the boat, but she doesn't know he's a prisoner, for Burke allows him the freedom of the ship. He, on his part, doesn't know that she has a heart ailment which may cut off her life at any moment. Both know, however, that every moment they have together is breathlessly important. The romantic, intriguing and tragic implications of this situation are fully realized in the brilliant production, under direction of Edmund Goulding.

Others in the cast besides those already named, include Eric Blore, Henry O'Neill, George Reeves, Frank Wilcox, Doris Lloyd, Marjorie Gateson and Regis Toomey. Warren Duff wrote the screen play, based on an original story by Robert Lord.

The companion feature deals with the daring exploits and loves of race track drivers. A suspense filled action picture featuring Charles Quigley and Dorothy Wilson in "Speed to Spare."

Richard Arlen who is featured with Andy Devine in the auto race story, "Danger on Wheels," co-feature with Edmund Lowe in "Wolf of New York," now at the McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE

"My Son, My Son!"

An unforgettable story, brilliant performances, outstanding direction and a beautiful production make Edward Small's film version of Howard Spring's "My Son, My Son!" one of the finest pictures of the year. This new film drama, which is being released by United Artists, was given a gala premiere at the Belle Theatre where it aroused the enthusiastic plaudits of a capacity audience.

"My Son, My Son!" now playing at the Belle, has a brilliant array of stars in Madeleine Carroll, Brian Aherene and Louis Hayward, a trio which enhances the picture by down-to-earth, unforgettable acting. Others who turn in excellent performances include Henry Hull, one of the best contemporary character actors, Josephine Hutchinson, Laraine Day, Sophie Stewart and Bruce Lester. With his usual skill for maintaining swift tempo and clear characterization, Charles Vidor has directed "My Son, My Son!" with a remarkable sureness of touch and with unsurpassed clarity of insight.

The story of "My Son, My Son!" is rich in emotional implications and everyday drama. It concerns a father and a son, and the high hopes that fail to materialize. William Essex's dream for his son fades into thin air when he realizes that Oliver is a vain and selfish young man, over-sophisticated, insincere and cynical. Oliver realizes almost too late that he has brought misery to the people who have surrounded him with love and understanding.

Golden-haired Madeleine Carroll, portraying the role of Livia Vaynol, has never turned in a screen characterization to equal her present one in this picture; Brian Aherne and Louis Hayward, as William and Oliver respectively, play their parts with understanding and humanity which points up the story brilliantly; and the other members of the cast in the supporting roles make many notable contributions.

"My Son, My Son!" definitely belongs among the great pictures that from time to time come out of Hollywood to surprise the millions of moviegoers all over the world. It is a memorable screen accomplishment because for sheer entertainment, it hasn't been—and is unlikely to be—surpassed in a long time to come.

The popular Belle News Reel and a funny Popeye cartoon, "My Feelins is Hurt" precede the exhibition of the feature attraction.

Germans Claim Surprise Over Story Of Peace Appeal

Berlin, July 26 (AP)—German officials claimed today that they were astonished that the Helversum radio in German-occupied Holland had broadcast yesterday the report of a peace mediation appeal to President Roosevelt on behalf of "The Netherlands committee for organisation of an international peace conference at The Hague."

They said the speech of Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, rejecting Hitler's Reichstag "peace offer" had closed all discussion of peace; therefore, any rumors of new German proposals are "too silly for an official rejoinder."

London, July 27 (CP)—It was stated officially today that the British government has received no German peace proposals through Stockholm. The statement was prompted by a report published in the United States that King Gustav had been the intermediary for such proposals.

BBC Tells Why—Hitler Needs Forged Document

New York, July 26.—(CP)—Why is it taking the Nazis so long to attempt their long-threatened invasion of Great Britain?

The British Broadcasting Corporation, in a broadcast picked up here, answered the question yesterday:—

"The reason Hitler has not yet tried to invade Britain is that his experts are having some difficulty forging a document to prove that we plan to invade Britain first".

130 Ambulances Provided by Donations

London, July 27 (CP)—Canadian Red Cross headquarters in London yesterday received a cable that 130 ambulances are being provided from contributions of villages, towns and voluntary organizations in the Dominion, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported. Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating breakfist and ma said to pop, Willyum I think we ought to change docters.

What's a matter with old Dock Rorer, he hasn't even sent a bill for 6 months, you cant ask more than that of a docter, pop said, and ma said, Blantche Hipple had the bridge game at her house yestidday, and her brother in law, Dr. Blower, is here on a visit from Austria, and really, I mean really, he looks like a docter that just stepped out of some famous painting.

Do you mean his face is all oily and gleeming? pop said, and ma said, Now dont be rediculiss, I mean he has the most distinguished little Vandyke beard I ever laid mortal eyes on. It's an inveterate principle of mine that a fine docter allways looks the part, just as who ever heard of a great musician that didn't have long hair and a kind of a wild expression? Now Dr. Rorer with his bald head and smooth face would never impress a stranger as being a born docter, but now this Dr. Blower, just from his very appearance I'd be willing to put my life in his hands, she said.

He might take it cheerfully, pop said, and ma said, I think we ought to try him if he's going to practice here.

Well, I never heard anything against changing docters while you're in good health, though I beleeve there is an old saying that it's dangerous to change docters while you're crossing a fever, pop said, and ma said, I'm having the bridge game this afternoon, I'll ask Blantche Hipple.

And tonight at supper ma said, What do you think, Willyum, it seems that over in Austria all you have to do is write a graduation essay or something when you get your diplomas from a university, and after that everybody calls you doctor, so it seems Blantche's brother in law is only an honorary docter, and pop said, If I get an honorary pane I'll call him in.

Being sourcastic.

Hong Kong Leaders Oppose Evacuation

Hong Kong, July 27.—(CP) — Leaders of the British Community here petitioned authorities of the Crown Colony today to abandon their scheme for compulsory evacuation of British women and children and urged the return at government expense of 4,000 women and children already removed. Most of these are in Manila.

HE GOT THERE— THE BALL DIDN'T

Joe Medwick, of the Dodgers, leaps toward first base in sixth inning of game between the Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds at Ebbet's field. The ball and Joe seem to be making a race for the sack. Joe got there, the ball didn't. Werber's wild throw getting way from Frank Frank McCormick, who is shown stretching for the ball. But the Reds won 6 to 3, further dimming the Dodgers' pennant hopes.

The Spirit Of England

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph. D.

In case you go with your tot or runabout to visit on the farm, he may face some special hazards. Within a short while he will begin exploring. If there is an open spring, cistern or well, he will soon find it, probably fall into it. Even the brook may be perilous to him, especially after a shower.

The city tot or runabout is inclined to run behind the farm horses which, when frightened by him, may kick him. In the barn are other special dangers such as the hayfork in operation, fanning (screening) machine, fodder chopper and the like; and the mowhole down which hay is dropped. The barn, very familiar to the farm boy as a place to romp, is dangerous to the city child ignorant of its perils.

Common Perils

The new city child on the farm may observe no caution about such farm machinery as the mower, reaper, or hay rake. While the farmer mows with the scythe about the buildings, the young child may toddle after him where he easily can be seriously injured. It is well to keep the tot and runabout under strict supervision when there is cutting of grass or hay near by. Hay riggings may be hazardous, especially if the upright posts are not held fast. Especially to a city child, sitting on a load of hay while the wagon moves is very dangerous.

In the average farm home is a gun. Know where it is and see that your child has no access to it. Whereas the farm child of 'teen age may have learned to handle a gun with care, this gun will doubtless be perilous to the city child of any age. Country children visiting in the city will be less trained than their city cousins against the hazards of the street.

Long-Suffering Farmer

I wish that city parents visiting with their children in the homes of their country relatives would be more considerate of their hosts and hostesses. Many country folk are shamefully imposed upon by their city friends, especially by ill-trained visiting children.

What can be a worse pest on the farm than a badly disciplined brat visiting there with his parents? I have fellow feeling for grandparents who have to tolerate such little treasures.

Water Hazards

It is fine for children to learn early to swim, but the learning should go on with safety. Visiting children will take risks to show off and will often pretend to have swimming skill they do not possess. There is often more danger from disease from polluted ponds, lakes and streams than from drowning. Boys from eight to fourteen are disposed to venture out in deep water on unsafe rafts and scows. They need to be checked.

In all these problems, safety presupposes adequate control and habits of obedience. Some children will lose their lives this summer simply because they had never learned the alphabet of obedience. And a few children will have to die because their parents have been led astray by the false prophets of no restraint.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you think a good rule with tantrums is to ignore them, work on yourself and manage your own emotions?

A. I do. To illustrate, an observer writes: "While visiting here the child (two years old) started a tantrum because she wanted orange slices and her mother was preparing her orange juice. I asked my sister to act as you advise with regard to tantrums and it took about 15 minutes of crying, kicking and complaining on the floor but at the end she sat in her chair of her own accord and drank every bit of her orange juice."

WALL STREET

New York, July 29—(AP)—Selective recovery gestures were made in today's stock market but, on the whole, they were too feeble to count for much.

The list jogged from the opening without getting anywhere in particular and, near the fourth hour, definite trends were lacking. It was another one of those 22-year lows for volume.

Attracting occasional support were Consolidated Edison, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, General Electric, and U.S. Rubber.

Inclined to lag were U.S. Steel, United Aircraft, Standard Oil of N.J., and Anaconda.

In the Canadian section Canadian Pacific and Dome gained fractions while International Nickel lost 3-8. In the bond market Canada 4s were inactive.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 29 (CP)—Gold stocks registered an index advance of .96 in early session today while base metals and industrials posted more moderate gains. Western oils held steady. Volume at 95,000 shares for the first three hours just about doubled last week's average for the same period.

Perron, Aunor, Preston, Pickle Crow, Teck Hughes, Central Patricia and East Malartic were gainers in golds. In base metals, better prices were posted for Nickel, smelters, Falconbridge and Steep Rock.

The bid was advanced to 14 7-8 for Ford A and senior oils, foods all were firm. Steels and liquors were higher. Fleet Aircraft gained 1-2 to 4 5-8. Shares of Levy Brothers Company, Ltd., manufacturing jewelers, were listed today and sold at 3. The listing covers the authorized and issued 50,000 common shares of $1 per value.

Western oils carried firm bids. Calgary and Edmonton sold 3 higher at 1.30 and Home Oil was unchanged at 1.65.

Midland, Ont., July 29 (CP) — Jesuit priests at the shrine of the Jesuit martyrs here said today the war has caused an increase in the number of pilgrims to the shrine this year.

The increase, one of the priests said, is due both to an increased fervor among Catholics praying for a victorious peace and to the German occupation of France preventing visits to the noted shrine in Lourdes.

2 DIVE BOMBERS

Eye-witnesses to the southeast coast air battle, in which 50 German dive-bombers and 30 escorting fighters participated, said that "German machines fell like autumn leaves".

The 16 planes officially reported downed brought to 318 the number shot down by British defences to date and 344 since the first mass air raid July 18.

77 Captured in Four Days

With the battle of Britain growing more intense in the air with each passing hour, it was announced officially that 77 German airmen had been captured in the last four days.

As the day wore on the Germans broadened their attacks to inland objectives.

In mid-afternoon anti-aircraft guns thundered in the southeast at attackers flying so high they could not be seen by ground observers.

A supplementary Air Ministry statement, vividly describing the action over the southeast coast, said 80 German planes were engaged in fights there.

"Within a half hour this morning the German air force lost 15 bombers and fighters in this area," the ministry announced.

"With 30 Junkers-87 dive bombers, protected by 50 Messerschmitts, the Nazis attempted a surprise attack on a harbour there.

Meet the Raiders

"Strong formations of Spitfires and Hurricanes of the R.A.F. fighter command swept up into the sky to meet the raiders. Within a few minutes the air was filled with battling aircraft.

"The British fighter pilots so harassed the Nazi airmen that their bombing aim was spoiled.

"Before they made off for home, eight of the Junkers bombers and seven Messerschmitts had been shot down into the sea. Only one British fighter is missing, although several of our aircraft were damaged.

"Spitfires of one squadron destroyed four Messerschmitts and one bomber. Their success was equalled pilots of a Hurrican squadron, who shot down four bombers and one fighter.

Blew-up in Mid-Air

"The Flight Lieutenant in this squadron reported after his attack that a Junkers blew up in mid-air and bellied to the sea in flames. He then attacked a second Junkers from astern and saw his machine-gun pellets enter the enemy's fuselage. But he had to break off the engagement when a Messerschmitt got on his tail.

"A Pilot Officer attacker a formation of 12 bombers flying in low over the sea. After a short burst, the Hurricane pilot saw the last machine dive into the water.

"While firing at two Junkers, a sergeant pilot was attacked by Nazi fighters.

"Swerving quickly to meet them, he fired a burst at one and saw the German pilot bail out.

"A Squadron Leader flying a Spitfire attacked a fighter and, after watching it go down out of control, engaged a bomber which dived into the water.

"From the same squadron a Pilot Officer attacked in turn three Junkers bombers. He saw one dive into the sea, a second go down on fire and a third was damaged."

An eye witness said the first two dive bombers literally were "blasted to bits" as they led the swooping attack.

Another observer said he counted 37 dive bombers in an attack on a single objective, one of a series of attacks involving hundreds of planes.

"Anti-aircraft shells were bursting among them," this witness said "and the sky was dotted with planes and exploding shells. The raiders came diving out of the sun but were spotted quickly.

"The bombs fell into the sea, sending up columns of spray and on the land, where clouds of black smoke arose."

Three persons including a woman were killed and several wounded in a northeast England town during a raid believed to have been carried out by a single plane. About a dozen high explosive bombs were dropped, killing two persons in a residential district. The woman was killed when a bomb struck a suburban school.

In the Midlands an incendiary bomb fell into a room where three children were sleeping and quickly was extinguished.

The bitterest fighting occurred over Wales and the southeast coast but sharp activity also accompanied Nazi raids aimed at southwestern and northeastern coastal areas.

Despite the wide scope of the pre-dawn attacks, the Air Ministry said that few casualties and little damage had been caused by bombs.

British fighter planes battled large numbers of German bombers for more than three and one-half hours over Wales before they finally drove the raiders off with the help of heavy anti-aircraft barrages.

In the southeast, at least 70 Nazi bombers protected by fighting craft crossed the coast with the rising sun at their backs and were engaged by British fighters in an hour-long battle which swept far out over the channel.

One German plane was seen to plunge into the sea in flames.

This battle had been over for only 15 minutes when another raid began during which another German plane was believed brought down on land.

The raids were marked by the appearance of a German innovation —bomb-carrying single-seater fighting planes which dived on their objectives from a great height and then cut for home, relying on their speed to outrun pursuit.

Heavy Toll Causes Innovation

British authorities said the experiment presumably was attempted by the Nazis because of the toll which has been levied on their big bombers and added it was not altogether successful.

The raid on Wales, to which thousands of British school children recently have been removed from more exposed east coast areas was the longest it has experienced.

The early morning attack followed a Sunday of extensive aerial activity in which the high point was an hour-long fight in which 60 planes participated over the southeast coast.

Dwelling Left Standing

Six high explosive and a number of incendiary bombs fell in a town in northwest England, but caused no casualties In one district a bomb dropped in front of a house and another in the rear, shattering windows but leaving the dwelling standing.

In the same neighborhood a number of home guards had a narrow escape when a bomb fell near their camp.

A dozen bombs were dropped on a northeastern town, causing a few minor casualties. Seven delayed-action whistling bombs dropped on another town in the southwest.

British bombers, meanwhile struck back at the Reich. An Air Ministry communique said formations Saturday night raided the Nord See canal in north Holland, eight airports in Holland and Germany, and oil depots and docks at Hamburg, Amsterdam, Wilhelmshaven and Bremen.

British planes also dropped bombs on large concentrations at Stavoren in Friesland and on two supply ships off the Norwegian and Dutch coasts.

Queen Wilhelmina Broadcasts

Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands, inaugurating a daily Dutch language broadcast from London, declared last night that her country "will carry on the war until the morrow of a free and happy future dawns for us."

Reports from Susak, Yugoslavia, indicated the British had been active also in the Adriatic. Susak, not far from the Italian town of Fiume, heard heavy cannonading which rattled windows and received reports British planes had bombed the important Italian ship-building port of Trieste as well as Pola and Udine.

In some circles the reports were linked with others that Britain intent of regulating the quantity of the whole of Europe, even to the extent of regulating the quantity of imports Spain and Portugal may take, to make sure supplies do not reach Germany or Italy through those two non-combattant countries.

Rumania in Bad Spot

There was widespread interest in London suggestions that Britain after seizing three Rumanian ships in Egyptian waters—a reprisal for Rumanian action in seizing British oil property and barges in the Danube — might block that country from access to sea-borne trade.

Rumania, which has adopted an increasingly pro-Nazi policy in the last few months, is dependent on Mediterranean Sea routes for most of its heavy industry imports. Its only alternative route of sea trade in the event the Mediterranean should be closed to its shipping would be the Black Sea.

Rumania already is an unhappy position, already partially divided by Russia and facing the prospect of having to surrender further territory to German-backed Hungarian demands.

Stories from the continent that a proclamation from the Petain Government at Vichy had halted civilian rail traffic and movement of refugees in unoccupied French territory were viewed with keen interest.

Took Similar Steps

Berlin expressed ignorance of the reports but it was recalled the German Government took similar steps before the Nazi blitzkrieg against the Lowlands, conserving all rolling stock for swift movement of troops and supplies.

Other stories suggested Hitler was not yet ready to go, but that the attemp might be made in August under a modified plan to which Marshal Goering was reported to have agreed.

Britons were disinclined to become alarmed over such stories. They have come to believe it will be only a matter of time until some invasion attempt is made, unless the Germans decide it is too dangerous.

There was a further suggestion that at this time Hitler might prefer to see a less agitated situation in the Balkans, making sure that his back door will not be blown open while he is trying a sortie through the front.

CANADIAN INDUSTRIES CARRY ON

"LAKESHELL" DELIVERED TEN DAYS AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Montreal, July 29—The new Shell Oil Co. tanker, the Lakeshell, capacity 22,180 barrels of crude oil, Captain F. F. Foote, docked Thursday, the 25th, at 6.30, at the Shell Oil Co. wharf, Montreal East, upon completion of her trial runs. The Lakeshell is a product of the Marine Industries Ltd. or Sorel, Quebec. She is a twin screw Diesel operated and the largest all-welded ship ever built in Canada, 259 feet long with a beam of 43 feet, she has a crew of 21 men. This is the latest addition to the Shell Oil Co. fleet which "under war conditions in Canada continues to plan expansion of transport and to increase terminal facilities.

Mr. Ludger Simard, Secretary of Marine Industries Ltd. was proud to announce that the Lakeshell had been delivered ten days ahead of scheduled time and this without hindrance to war productions now being rushed in the yards. The naval architects Messrs. Lambert, German & Milne, have been complimented for this fine ship and have thus added another milestone to the ship building industry of Canada.

NINE DROWNED

Mrs. Henderson's supposed companions were seen by the watchman to drive away and later he found the clothing of Mrs. Henderson on the dock. There was no sign of the woman and Sarnia firemen dragged for hours without locating the body. The names of the others believed involved were not disclosed, but police said there was no indication of foul play.

The terrific heat wave was held directly responsible for the death of Ronald Sinclair, 56, Alvinston district farmer who stooked grain in his fields while the temperature hovered around 90 and later collapsed and died.

PLANS

the fact that, except for Paris and the region around it, most of Nazi-held France is deemed not ready at present to handle any increase in population.

The new German decree does not restrict officially the return of refugees to their homes in Paris and a small central region, but actually even this is made virtually impossible by the suspension of train service.

Paris and its suburbs, according to travellers and letters reaching Switzerland, are well organized and supplies. From these same sources, however, come reports conditions are desperate in many parts of the occupied area.

Desperate Need of Water

Pieced together from letters and the stories of eyewitnesses, here is the picture of some of those areas:

Many cities and towns are in desperate need of water. Not only cities in the main battle area, such as Lille, Amiens, Reims and Beauvais, but others further south such as Orleans had their water systems smashed beyond hope of quick repair by bombs and shells.

Relief agencies and local authorities in some of these cities simply ordered the people to leave their homes unless they were prepared to bring their own water from the country.

After the armistice hundreds of thousands of German soldiers in the occupied area received back pay or a chance to spend pay they accumulated during their days in the trenches and the drive through the low countries. Stores everywhere were stripped of shoes, clothing and tinned foodstuffs—practically everything the soldiers could send home through the army mail service.

MOTHER OF CHILD

Employed at Frankford

Gordon Archer, aged 18 months, is the son of Mrs. Mcfarlane but is not the son of Robert Mcfarlane. Mrs. Mcfarlane is 17 years of age and will not be 18 until September. Her husband is 21 years of age. Both are employed at the shoe factory at Frankford.

On Friday afternoon sectionmen working on the Canadian National Railway, noticed the body of a child floating in the Trent River, near the bridge. The police were summoned and Constable Lozo rushed to the scene.

Wire had been twisted about the body of the child in such a way as to leave a loop in the wire, where it is thought a stone or heavy object had been place. Coroner Dr. J. W. Farley who also went to the scene stated that the body had only been in the water about 15 hours. It was not revealed whether the boy had been drowned or had been dead before being thrown into the water.

The body was identified late Friday afternoon by Mrs. E. Mountenay of Baptiste Street, Trenton, as that of Gordon Archer, son of Mrs. Robert Mcfarlane.

Mrs. Mountenay had boarded the child for two weeks prior to its death. As she had not received pay for the child's board, the lady complained to the police and Mrs. Mcfarlane was requested by Chief Bain to attend to the child.

Took Boy from Home

Agreeing to pay the $7.00 owing for the child's board tonight, (Monday), the Mcfarlanes had taken the boy from the Mountenay home about seven o'clock in the evening. From there it is believed that they went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Mcfarlane, where they had their supper.

The pair left the Johnson home about nine o'clock, taking the child with them. Mr. Johnson was of the opinion that the pair seemed to be quite normal and did not mind having the child with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Mcfarlane returned to the home of Mr. Mcfarlane's mother, where they were living but the child was not with them. The next day the body of the boy was found floating in the river.

Police arrested the young couple while they were working in a factory at Frankford. Both seemed to be bewildered throughout the whole proceedings and for a time they stood up under the pressure.

Statements were taken from the accused pair but the contents of the statements were not revealed to the Press.

Body Released

Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson released the body for burial but up to last evening, it was not known who would take care of the funeral. Coroner Robertson stated that no inquest would be necessary as capital charges had been laid. All the evidence in the case will be brought out at the trial.

Free French Sailors To Serve With Britain

London, July 29—(CP) — The Press Association said today that several hundred French sailors who were en route home aboard the Meknes, the French merchant ship torpedoed last Wednesday, had changed their minds and decided to serve under Vice Admiral Muselier in the free French navy.

Previously they turned down a chance to enrol under Vice Admiral Muselier because they wanted to learn what became of their families in France.

The Meknes was sunk by a German torpedo boat while carrying 1,200 French soldiers and sailors to France. About 300 were lost and the remainder rescued by British naval forces.

6 ITALIAN PLANES ARE DESTROYED

Others Are Damaged — Planes Cooperate With British Aircraft

Cairo, Egypt, July 29 — (AP)— Three Italian planes were shot down, three destroyed on the ground and others damaged in extensive air operations over Italian African possessions, the Royal Air Force reported today. Its communique said that French planes cooperating with British aircraft had carried out valuable reconnaissance flights.

Report on Action in Libya

London, July 29—(CP)—Authoritative sources reported today that some British patrolling troops were missing in a fight on the Libyan-Egyptian frontier.

The action was reported to have taken place in the Cyrenacia portion of Italian Libya bordering the Mediterranean. It presumably was an engagement referred to in today's Italian high command communique which said two British Blenheims were shot down and two Italian craft were missing.

Britain Fortified Like Hornet's Nest Says Returned Man

"Is Britain ready?" Private Ernest Parliament, of Wellington, member of a regiment of infantry of the First Canadian Division somewhere in England, and who recently returned from the Mother Country, threw back his head and laughed.

"Is Britain ready?" he echoed the question. "I can best explain it in these words. Britain is fortified like a hornet's nest."

"The tight little isle," he said, "bristles with armaments. From the Cornish shores along the south coast, up Norfolk way to Scarboro, to the northern tip of Scotland, Britishers are ready for anything."

In the smallest hamlet and the largest city "parashooters" especially trained for their job await the coming of German troops by plane. Hedges, trees and roadsides are occupied with troops and special guards throughout the day and night. London is ringed with a balloon barrage.

Strict vigilance is maintained especially after nightfall," Private Parliament said. People are not allowed to be abroad after ten o'clock at night, and on one occasion when he had a special pass that took him to a neighboring village a quarter-mile from camp, he was halted no less than 45 times by armed men, who stepped suddenly out of the night to halt him.

"England is taking no chances on the Germans coming over in darkness," he said, "and any troops foolhardy enough to attempt a nocturnal invasion would receive a warm reception," he added.

Private Parliament returned from England a couple of weeks ago with other members of his regiment who have been returned to Canada after being found medically unfit.

REGISTRATION MACHINERY BEGINS TO WHIR

As the machinery for national registration was thrown into high gear, a steady stream of trucks rode towards the Union station in Ottawa. Mail bags, each containing 75 to 80 pounds of material, were loaded into waiting express cars to be taken first to British Columbia and to all provinces in order thereafter. Two huskies are shown here loading a truck.

HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Mrs. Alice Archer McFarlane, 17, and her 20-year-old husband, Robert McFarlane, held by police at Trenton, Ont., on a nominal charge of vagrancy, were charged with the murder of Gordon, son of Mrs. Alice Archer McFarlane and are now lodged in the county jail at Belleville. They will appear at Trenton on Friday for preliminary hearing. The body of Mrs. McFarlane's 16-month-old son was found floating in the Trent river late Friday afternoon. The child's body was reported to have been bound with wire. The young couple are pictured here with police officers pointing to the bridge under which the body was discovered.

Word from London discloses the sinking of the luxury liner, S. S. Lancastria, once a popular trans-atlantic vessel of the Cunard-White Star line, with a death toll of more than 2,000 crew members and refugees. The ship was sunk by German bombs off St. Nazaire, France.

United States-Canadian Border Difficulty Solved

Congregation of the Rev. Joseph C. Heslin of St. Bridget's Roman Catholic church at Trout River, N. So the priest solved the matter by moving his church to this building, once a saloon, which straddles the border and now he holds mass there. The broad white line is the international boundary. On the left is the U. S., and right, Canada.

London, July 30—(CP)—The Far Eastern and Balkan situations occupied parliament's attention today as German bombers killed several persons in a southeastern town and news was read that Royal Air Force bombers struck at 17 German held airports as well as oil depots, docks and freight yards in northern and western Germany.

Intensification of German air raids led many to think an attempted German invasion may not be far away, but, on the other hand, the great disproportion of German losses to British in the raids, 20-1 in an onslaught yesterday on Dover, persuaded some to believe the initial experiments might prove discouraging to Hitler.

The Balkans, Hitler's back door, showed no signs of quieting. Hungarian and Bulgarian territorial demands against Rumania were re-echoed, and both claimants and dependant appeared stalling for German help.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Climate of the English Channel! On this famous body of water, commonly called "The Channel" the winds are prevailingly westerly, but those of gale intensity are mostly from the southwest. These gales occur mostly from October to January attaining greatest intensity in November. May to July are the mildest months. Fogs and thick weather may occur any month but are most frequent from September to February, and vary from 15 days a year in the western end of the Channel to about 50 in the eastern end. The temperature ranges from an average of 41 degrees in winter to 62 in summer, but the extremes are 83 degrees in summer and 17 in winter. There is about 40 per cent sunshine. Rainfall varies from 24 to 28 inches a year.

War Highlights

Ottawa, July 30.—(CP)—Highlights of war statement given the Commons today by War Services Minister Gardiner:

All unmarried males in Canada between 21 and 45 years and physically fit may have to take 30 days' military training within one year.

Canada can train 1,000,000 men under this system and not dislocate industry and primary production.

Defence Department requirements may be met by calling up during first year only those single men from 21 to 35 years.

Department will make eight calls for men within a year, spacing them equally.

National Registration Boards for each military district and one for Prince Edward Island to be created with jurisdiction over calling of men.

Employers must furnish lists of single male employees between 21 and 45 years and may submit plans for calling up employees in manner best suited to conducting business.

All employers must under penalty, put employees back in jobs or equivalent positions on completion of training period.

PETAIN PROTESTS INTERNMENT OF FRENCH ADMIRALS

Vichy Gov't. Also Demands Unsuccessfully Release of Two French Tankers at Alexandria

RELAX RESTRICTIONS

Vichy, France, July 30—(AP) — The Petain government of France said today it had protested "energetically" to the British government over internment of Admirals Cayol and Villaine, commanders of French ships which were in British ports when the French-German armistice was signed last month.

The government also declared that it had demanded without success the release of two French oil tankers which, it said, were being detained at Alexandria.

The protest against the internment of the French Admirals was conveyed to the British government in a formal note, a communique said. It asserted the officers had been taken into custody after their ships were taken over by British naval authorities.

Both men were said to be in an internment camp at Oxford and two have been denied permission to communicate with French authorities.

Restrictions Relaxed

German authorities, meanwhile, were reported to have relaxed restrictions on railway passenger traffic between the occupied and unoccupied zones in France to permit the passage of one train daily. This train, however, will be allowed to carry only members of government services and their families returning to Paris, it was said.

Refugees were allowed to travel by highway between the two zones, however, with the stipulation the gasoline tanks of their automobiles must be fullw hen they cross the line of demarkation.

2. MAIN ASPECTS IN DEFENCE POLICY SAYS J. L. RALSTON

Must Have Maximum Development of All Our Resources in Man Power, in Weapons, in Equipment and Training Facilities

DEFEND SEABOARDS

Eastern Seaboard and Approaches to St. Lawrence Most Vulnerable Area Says Defence Minister

Ottawa, July 30 — Col. J. L. Ralston said:—

I think it would help toward clearer thinking, greater confidence and more effective action if we understand and agree on the broad principles of our defence policy. I conceive that there are two main aspects.

First, a short-term policy which is to combine, in maximum degree and in minimum time, with other countries to defeat the common enemy in the present war, and this country along with the United Kingdom and the other Dominions is turning night into day and leisure into ceaseless activity to bring about that result.

Secondly, there is the long term aspect. We must realise and prepare to meet the absolute necessity for a comprehenhive organization of Canada's armed forces so that whatever befall we shall in future be a country which shall be as adequately prepared as it can possibly be to take care of its own responsibilities in respect to defence.

CANADA TO CALL 30,000 A MONTH UNDER NEW ACT

Defence Minister Says Gov't. Does Not Intend to Send More Troops Overseas at Present

NEW RIFLE FACTORY

Ottawa, July 30 —(CP)— Defence Minister Ralston told the House of Commons Mon. that "the front line is the island fortress of the British Isles" and Canada "will shortly have a corps of two complete divisions and auxiliary troops in that front line."

Outlining Canada's military program, Col. Ralston said "my advisers are definitely of the opinion that it would not serve the common cause at this time to have additional Canadian forces added to such a corps. It must be remembered that there is at the moment no shortage of manpower in England. The real demand is for equipment."

(Lt. Gen. A G L McNaughton is commander of the Canadian corps overseas. The corps will consist of the 1st and 2nd Canadian divisions. The 1st division has been in England since December. The Canadian corps in the first Great War started with two divisions and consisted of four divisions when the war finished).

What Will Duce Send to Fuehrer, Bullet-Proof Screen or Galoshes?

New York, July 30—(CP)— The New York Herald Tribune mused editorially today upon "little courtesies among dictators."

The gifts of silks and spices, the sacrifices of slaves by the tens of thousands, as practised by the Kings and Potentates of ancient days, were recalled by the paper as it dealt with Hitler's gift of an armored train to Mussolini upon the occasion of Il Duce's 57th birthday.

The train's batteries of anti-aircraft guns, its solid armor plating —"beneath which Mussolini may travel and dictate with all the imperial dignity of a box turtle"— were advanced by the Herald Tribune to show "that the language of sentiment is not unknown among the totalitarians."

Hitler's "touching thought" should be repaid, said the newspaper as it closed the editorial:

"One wonders what Benito's return will be—a bullet-proof glass screen through which Adolf may deliver his reichstag speeches or, perhaps, a pair of galoshes to keep him from wetting his feet in the English Channel?"

Stern Attitude Taken By British Over Arrests In Japan

British Embassy Presses for Full Investigation of Death of English Newspaperman Whom Japanese Say Committed Suicide

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Wirter

Tokyo, July 30—(AP)—Arrest of a group of Britons in an alleged espionage drive emphasizes that Japan is moving rapidly along two courses toward economic command of eastern Asia—elimination of foreign influence and of economic inroads in key territories, reliable sources declared today.

These apparently are twin paths by which Japan hopes to reach eventual control of the raw materials and trade of the bulk of China, French Indo-China, Thailand (Siam), the Dutch East Indies and possibly British Burma.

(Hong Kong reports say China has rejected Japanese overtures for a peace settlement which would give Japan five Chinese Provinces and recognize Wang Ching-Wei, Japan-backed ruler in Nanking, as President of a Chinese republic designed to include Burma, Indo-China and Thailand.)

The fact all the arrested are British was interpreted as indicating the arrests were timed for a period when it was hoped Britain would be unwilling to risk a test of strength in the Near East.

Nevertheless, Britain is taking a stern attitude toward the arrests, demanding substantiation of charges of existence of a British "espionage network."

The British Embassy is pressing for a full investigation into the death of one of those arrested, Melville James Cox, veteran English newspaperman, who the Japanese claimed, committed suicide by leaping from a window while being questioned.

The Embassy is said to consider it strange that a purported farewell note from Cox to his wife and unsigned, whereas all his previous notes to her had been signed. Mrs. Cox declared she would remain in Japan as long as necessary to clear her husband's name, asserting: "My husband never was a war spy. I will protest this as long as I live."

Ambassador Joseph Grew of the United States conferred today with the British Ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie concerning the arrests and Cox's death.

2 More Britons Arrested

(In Shanghai, reports from Tokyo today said two additional Britons were arrested, bringing the total to 13, including Cox. The new prisoners were identified as E. G. Price of Kobe and J. De Stafford of Nagasaki. All are businessmen except Cox.)

The War and Justice Ministries both declared the arrests were the first step in a campaign to eliminate a British "espionage system."

Million Men Can Be Trained In Canada With 30-Day Plan Without Dislocating Industry

Hon. J. G. Gardiner States in Commons All Unmarried Men in Canada 21 to 45 Years of Age Who Are Physically Fit May Have to Take Thirty Days Military Training Within One Year—Any Industry May Submit Plan for Calling-up of Employees for Training — Dominion to be Divided in 12 Districts

Ottawa, July 30 (CP).—Every unmarried man in Canada medically fit and between the ages of 21 and 45 years, may be compelled to take 30 days' military training within one year, War Services Minister Gardiner told the House of Commons today.

"There is no reason why Canada should not train an army of 1,000,000 men under this system and still operate her industry and primary production to meet demands upon it," said Mr. Gardiner.

His statement was the fifth on progress of the war effort and he dealt in detail with national registration to be conducted Aug. 19, 20, and 21 and the calling up of men for training.

Previously the House heard Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Defence Minister Ralston, Air Minister Power and Munitions Minister Howe.

"It is possible," said Mr. Gardiner, "that requirements of the Department of National Defence will be satisfied by the calling up of single men from 21 to 35 and it may not have to go beyond this in the first year.

"This factor depends on the result of the national registration and the number of men the Department of National Defence can train within one year."

Compulsory training of each class must be completed within a year of the time the class is called and it is the intention of the department to make eight calls within the year, spacing them as equally as possible, he said.

As soon as possible after it has been ascertained what year classes must be called to meet the first demand of the defence department, a proclamation, starting with the 21-year old class, that they will be called for service within a certain designated time.

"This," said the minister, "will be done to give them a chance of arranging their own affairs."

Mr. Gardiner quoted figures showing 4,700,000 people between the ages of 18 and 44 in Canada, of whom 2,400,000 are males including about 1,000,000 single men.

Between the ages of 44 and 59 the total male population is 950,000 and "in those over 60 years there is substantial productive and directive capacity and I must not leave out of the national effort youths from 10 to 18—it is for the future of these that his conflict is being waged.

Highlights of War Statement: By Munitions Minister Howe

Ottawa, July 30 (CP).—Highlights of war statement given the Commons today by Munitions Minister Howe:

Canadian factories expected to produce airplanes at 360 a month early next year.

Mark III tanks to be produced at rate of 30 a month as soon as plant equipment is cmopleted.

Artillery plant at a cost of $10,000,000 to be largest and most modern in British Empire.

Six months will see a large increase of Canada's production of manufactured goods, now at an all-time high.

Machine tools have been purchased in volume that "challenges the imagination" to create new manufacturing capacity for Canadian industry.

Plants now under construction at a cost of some $120,000,000 will have productive capacity of $500,000,000 worth of goods a year.

Shipbuilding program costing $50,000,000 is progressing satisfactorily.

Air training program increased to some 120 separate projects with addition of eight service flying training schools; 90 per cent of the projects originally planned to be finished by November.

Canada probably is producing greater volume of automotive equipment than any country in the world at 600 mechanized units a day.

HALIFAX DENIES ALLEGATION OF SPY NETWORK

No Foundation Whatsoever for Allegation by Japan Foreign Secretary Tells House of Lords

REPRESENTATIONS MADE

Britain 'Entirely Unable to Accept Totally Unwarranted Assumption of Guilt' on Part of Correspondent as Published by Japanese Government

London, July 30 (CP). — Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax declared in the House of Lords today that "it is hardly necessary to state that there is no foundation whatsoever for the allegation by Japan of a spy network in Japan.

Britain is "entirely unable to accept the totally unwarranted assumption of guilt" on the part of Melville J. Cox, Reuters News Agency Tokyo correspondent, as published by the Japanese government, he said.

(The Japanese claimed that Cox, despite efforts to restrain him, leaped from an office window while he was being questioned after arrest by gendarmes. They claimed he leaped when it became apparent that he could not escape conviction.)

"Strong representations already have been made by His Majesty's Ambassador at Tokyo," Lord Halifax added.

LIGHT WARCRAFT NEARLY READY TO JOIN THE FLEET

Four Boats Need Only Engines and Fittings Before Taking Places

CHAMBLY LAUNCHED

(By Jack Mitchell)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, July 30.—(CP)— Four light warcraft lay at their dock today, needing only installation of engines and completion of fittings before joining the fight against Hitler—three with the Royal Navy and another with the Canadian.

Latest to join the group was the Chambly, launched last night with Hon. Angus L. Macdonald making his first public appearance as Minister for Naval Affairs during the ceremony. Of the Corvette Class as are the other three, it was built for service with the Canadian sea forces.

Mr. Macdonald, former Premier of Nova Scotia, paid tribute both to the ship and to the men of the navy in an address before the grey hull sped down the runway, christened Chambly by Madame Ernest Lapointe, wife of the Minister of Justice.

"I welcome the occasion for the launching of this new vessel, built in Canada by Canadian workmen and to be manned by Canadians, is symbolic of the rapid but sound expansion of the Royal Canadian navy", said Mr. Macdonald.

Similar to the other three, which were launched recently, the Chambly is an all-purpose vessel. When completed, it will be used for minesweeping as well as patrol and pursuit duties both off the Canadian coast and overseas.

"Officers and men of the navy are winning renown for themselves and for Canada, not only on our own shores but across the seas as well", said Mr. Macdonald of the brand of men who will man her.

"For reasons of war policy, many of the navy's deeds will have to remain secret until after the war. But I can say that already in my capacity as Minister I have seen the record of the past nine months and I am proud to declare that it is honorable and impressive".

The whole launching ceremony was run off smoothly. Champagne spurted as Madame Lapointe broke the bottle across the bow and the ship took the water with scarcely a tremor after slipping down the runway to the strains of "Rule Britannia".

30 Mark III Tanks Produced Monthly In Canada Soon

Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions, Tells Commons Staggering Figures of Expansion of Canadian Industry

CANNON, NAVAL GUNS

Giant Plants Are Being Constructed in Canada for Manufacture of Chemicals and Explosives—90 Per Cent of Projects of Air Plan Completed by Next November

Ottawa, July 30—(CP)—Canadian factories are expected to turn out airplanes at the rate of 360 a month early in 1941, and "Mark III" tanks at the rate of 30 a month as soon as plant equipment is complete, Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, told the House of Commons today.

In a resume of the war work of his department Mr. Howe gave staggering figures of industrial expansion. Production of manufactured goods is at an all-time peak but this will look small, he said, compared with what it will be six months hence.

The Minister outlined plans for rifle and artillery plants to make weapons up to 25 pounder cannon and naval artillery, the latter plant to cost $10,000,000 and to be largest and most modern in the British Empire.

Imagination Challenged

Purchase of machine tools in Canada and the United States during recent months "challenges the imagination," Mr. Howe said.

His account followed statements last night by Defence Minister Ralston and Air Minister Power. Major Power also spoke for the new Department of Defence for Naval Affairs.

Mr. Howe described the work and expenditure involved in providing facilities for the air training plan, expansion of naval defence, equipment of the armed forces and filling orders for munitions and supplies from Great Britain and other parts of the Empire. Canada was probably leading all countries in production of motor equipment, the Minister said, and was building great plants for the manufacture of chemicals and explosives.

Navy Self Contained

So far as the navy was concerned it had become apparent Canada must be self-contained in that respect and the Dominion was rapidly achieving that objective with 14,000 men engaged in shipyards and associated industries.

Experiments were going forward in manufacture of airplane instruments and metal propellers, now imported, but it had been decided not to attempt manufacture of airplane engines.

When war purchasing started the only primary product difficult to obtain was wool, Mr. Howe said, "but we now have serious problems in obtaining steel, lumber, copper, aluminum and various other minerals to fill requirements for Canada and Great Britain."

While Great Britain originally hoped to provide herself with a complete munition industry, in recent weeks she has been asking Canada "for practically anything that can be supplied in the way of munitions and war material."

"During the past few months we have been buying machine tools in the United States and Canada in a volume that challenges the imagination, all for the purpose of creating new manufacturing capacity for our industry," said Mr. Howe.

Plants to Produce Half Billion Yearly

"Plants now under construction involving capital cost of some $120,000,000, will have a productive capacity of $500,000,000 of goods per annum."

Progress of the $50,000,000 shipbuilding program was "very satisfactory," the Minister said, and operations were ahead of schedule. The program engages 16 shipyards.

Before the end of the year Mr. Howe said he expected 28 "corvettes"—anti-submarine vessels—and five modern minesweepers would be completed. The total program calls for 54 corvettes for the Canadian navy and 10 for the Royal Navy, and 28 minesweepers for the Canadian Navy.

England 'Magnificent Fortress'

New York, July 30 (CP)—Genevieve Habouis, noted French newspaperwoman who fled the Republic after its armistice with Germany, said yesterday on her arrival here that "England now is a magnificent fortress." Diplomatic commentator for the French newspaper L'Oeuvre up to the time of her departure into exile, she said that an order for her arrest had been sent out by the Vichy government under German pressure, since her anti-Nazi articles had repeatedly angered German leaders.

U. K. TO CONFER ON OIL PROBLEM

Britain is Sending Agent to Spain, British House is Told

London, July 30 (CP). — Great Britain is sending an agent to Spain this week-end to confer with Spanish authorities and British Ambassador Sir Samuel Hoare on the oil situation, High Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare, informed the House of Commons today.

Britain, anxious to prevent transhipment of oil supplies from Spain to Germany, wants to assure the Spanish adequate supplies for their own use but no surplus for re-export, Mr. Dalton said.

He said United States oil shipments to Spain during the first six months of 1940 were substantially greater than in the first half of 1939.

Before the collapse of France, he said, oil from Spain could reach Germany only through the Mediterranean, where French naval patrols could be relied on to stop.

Situation Obscure At Present.

Now, however, the situation is obscure, Mr. Dalton continued, and the agent would seek clarification of Spain's international needs. No navicerts—pre-certification of cargoes' destinations—are being issued for further oil imports to Spain, he disclosed.

Britain, he said, has intimated to the United States government her "great interest in the general question of world surpluses" and her readiness to cooperate "in the study of any possible solution of these problems."

His statement was in reply to a question asking whether he would consider steps to assist the United States in finding markets for American surpluses.

Result of Seizure of Coastline

The Minister said Germany's seizure of "the western European coastline has greatly changed the conditions of economic warfare" and Britain, therefore, "must now control not only shipping approaching the Mediterranean or the North Sea but all shipping crossing the Atlantic Ocean."

"The British government have decided to extend the Navicert system to all ship-borne goods consigned to any European port, as well as to certain Atlantic islands and to certain neutral ports in North Africa," he disclosed.

Blockade Not to be Extended to Certain Neutrals

He added the government does not intend to extend the blockade to certain neutral countries as has been suggested.

Where "supplies can reach such neutrals without risk of falling into enemy hands," he said, Britain will permit "imports adequate for domestic consumption, but not for re-export."

This was believed to be a reference to Spain.

"Our friends will be further encouraged and our enemies discomfited by some ingenious provisions which the Ministry of Shipping will immediately announce," he added.

CHARGE OF CUTTING SAW-LOG BOOM RELEASING LOGS

Last May a saw-log boom, the property of Fred Nickle, Bancroft lumberman, was released resulting in the loss of some 400 hardwood saw-logs. At the time Mr. Nickle was suspicious as to who the responsible person was, but it was not until yesterday that Provincial Constable Stan Palmateer, Bancroft, arrested David Woodcock, also of Bancroft, on a charge of cutting the boom of Mr. Nickle's log-drive, which resulted in the loss of the 400 saw-logs. Woodcock was today remanded to the custody of the county jail here, following which Constable Palmateer revealed that subsequent charges of being found in possession of stolen goods, namely a bicycle taken from Trenton, which is said by the officer to have been found in Woodcock's possession.

The letter of communication was addressed to from Cpl. R. G. Anderson, who was from Cpl. G. Anderson, who was in in the 139th Battalion under Lieut. Thompson in 1916-17. Cpl. Anderson, who was a native of Fort William, stated in the letter to his old soldier buddy that he would be willing to assist Canada again in any effort now employed by Canadian war veterans. Cpl. Anderson ascertained the whereabouts of his former officer through a "tracer" published in the "Legionnaire," a veterans' publication.

FOXBORO STORE ENTERED BY NIGHT

Robbers entered the general store of J. W. Daniels Foxboro, sometime last night and stole general merchandise to the value of $50.00, Provincial Police were informed this morning.

The break-in was discovered by Mr. Daniels when he arrived at his place of business this morning to open his store. Entrance had been gained by breaking the lock on the front door. The majority of the loot taken consisted of cigarettes, although overalls, flashlights and other general goods were reported missing. Provincial Constables W. E. Smith and D. Adair investigated the robbery today, after Mr. Daniels discovered that his store had been entered.

SUPPLY REDUCED TO A MINIMUM

The serious shortage of skilled labor still persists in this district according to Employment Office officials. Census of all registered artisans in the many fields of skilled labor are forwarded to Toronto daily. However, the files of the Belleville office contain but few names, as local and district demand has reduced the supply to a minimum.

TICKETS FOR DRAW SELLING WELL

Complimentary tickets entitling the holders to participate in the draw for the automobile and tractor to be given away at the Belleville Fair next month, are "going" like hot cakes, it was reported by several merchants. An additional supply is now on the presses and these will be available within a day or so.

The tickets are given away to customers at the rate of one for every twenty-five cents spent in the places of business authorized to dispose of the tickets.

CHARGES ARE LAID AFTER ACCIDENT

Pedestrians passing the Radio Cafe on Front St. had to jump with alarcity to avoid injury early last evening when a motor car hurtled the curb and rolled across the sidewalk. Subsequent investigations by P. C. Evans as to the peculiar progress of a driverless automobile proved most interesting.

The motor car had been parked by its owner, Eldon McEachern, of Port Credit. Later a truck owned by George K. Graham, Sidney Township, and driven by Edward Morrison of this city, was proceeding south on Front St., when it collided with the rear of Mr. McEachern's parked automobile, the force of the impact knocking the lighter vehicle over the curb onto the sidewalk.

Today Morrison was charged with driving a motor vehicle without first having procured a license, while Mr. Graham, his employer, was charged with permitting the same.

BAY WATER SHOWS VARYING TEMPERATURES

If you need a cooling swim you will have to go down fairly deep for it, especially if you are bathing in the bay, according to Ex-Mayor Jamieson Bone. Just by way of diversion, Mr. Bone took a thermometer in the water near his cottage and tested the temperatures at varying depths.

The surface, he said, was 84 degrees the same as the atmosphere. Two feet below the surface the mercury registered 80 degrees while two feet lower the thermometer dipped another 4 points.

SIDNEY FARMER MINUS $140 AFTER GYPSIES LEAVE

Gypsies, plying their old trade of "cross my palm with money for luck," were reported active in Sidney Township yesterday when a farmer is said to have been relieved of $140.00, he told Provincial Police last evening.

An elderly 9th concession of Sidney farmer complained to the O.P.P. last evening that two gypsy women had entered his home and insisted upon telling his fortune. The farmer added he was in possession of $160 when the gypsies arrived, but after their departure he was poorer one hundred and forty dollars, but richer in experience. The alleged pilfering is said to have occurred about 5.00 p.m. but the victim did not notify the police until after 9.30 p.m., the authorities stated today.

Provincial Constables Smith and Adair hastened to the scene for investigation, but the gypsies had taken their loot and disappeared.

R.C.A.F. REQUIREMENTS LOWERED BY DEP'T.

Educational requirements for air gunners and wireless operators (air-crew) have been dropped to two years of High School, according to an announcement received by the Royal Canadian Air Force recruiting office in Kingston, from Ottawa. Formerly air gunners and wireless operators (air-crew) had to have junior matriculation or its equivalent.

Many applicants who had tried to enlist before will now have the opportunity of becoming air gunners or wireless operators (air-crew).

KINGSTON FAIR CANCELLED THIS YEAR

Cancellation of the Kingston Fair for the year 1940 was announced on Saturday by President R. B. Ness, and his board of directors.

The directors and president felt that due to the uncertainty of the buildings at the Fair Grounds, which are owned by the city, being required for military purposes, it was thought wise to call off the fair for one year.

Members of the board are anxious, President Ness added, to do everything in their power to aid Canada's war effort and they thought if the ground were needed for military purpose, they would not stand in the way of the authorities.

LOCAL LAW FIRM TO LOSE PARTNER

Capt. Alan B. Sprague Joins C.A.S.F. and Will Serve With 3-47th Battery

The firm of Cameron & Sprague, one of the leading law firms of Belleville and surrounding district will loose one of its partners, Alan B. Sprague, who will give up the practice of law to serve in the Canadian Active Service Force with the 3-47 Battery.

Upon the appointment of His Honour C. A. Cameron as Judge of the County Court of the County of Hastings, Alan and Mr. A. R. Cameron, B.A., formed the firm of Cameron & Sprague with which Alan had been associated for several years.

Descended from a family well known in Hastings & Prince Edward counties and born in Belleville, this city can claim Alan as one of its native sons. After receiving his early education in the schools of this city he obtained his Bachelor of Arts from Queen's University and after an extensive tour of Europe he obtained his degree as Bachelor of Law from Dalhousie University, Halifax, and won a coveted scholarship from that University. Not satisfied with this he continued his studies at the University of London, England, where he took post graduate work in law, was associated with one of the leading English Law Firms and as a qualified Major in the Infantry Canadian Militia, took an advanced military course. He then returned to Belleville to be associated with the firm of Cameron & Cameron during the time Judge C. A. Cameron was member of the Canadian House of Commons. He is a member of the Ontario Bar and the Bar of Nova Scotia.

During his short legal career in Belleville, Alan has won the friendship and respect of his profession. His kindly manner and his brilliant success at the Bar have won for him a host of friends in this city and surrounding district. His experience and ability should be a real contribution to the Canadian Active Service Force and should serve as a fine example of leadership to this community.

During his absence, the firm of Cameron & Sprague will be continued by Mr. A. R. Cameron, B.A., and by Mr. Ted Follwell who is now associated with the firm.

IZAAK WALTONS OF ROTARY CLUB GIVEN A THRILL

William Lang, Toronto, Shows Film "King Fishes of Canada" to Enthusiastic Audience

VIEW OF FALLS

The colorful copy of a new motion picture to be entitled "King Fishes of Canada" as drawn from the explorers' trail of the Dominion was shown in part to the Belleville Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon in the Quinte Hotel yesterday by Mr. William (Bill) Lang of Toronto. Mr. Lang who has made a life study of Canada's fighting game fish accompanied the showing of the film with a highly educational and entertaining address.

In connection with the film, Mr. Lang showed the clubmen a motion picture story of a trip through the glamorous fishing spots of Quebec. Champlain, he said best described the Canadian maskinonge as being "as big as a paddle." His new film, he said, would illustrate the evolution of this famous fighting fish, and the jumping off place would be Belleville.

Reviewing the history of Champlain, the speaker pointed out that the famous explorer had never seen such fish before. There are no "muskies" in France but plenty of pike and perch. Nor are they plentiful west of Ontario and Michigan, or east of Quebec, The maskinonge is one of the fastest growing fish in the world he said, fingerlings growing as much as 4 1-2 and 5 inches in seven weeks. By the end of 12 weeks they attain a length of 12-15 inches.

All muskies over eight pounds in weight are females, while those below this poundage are generally "stags" as the speaker termed.

He showed at this point the colored motion pictures of experts despawning the big fellows, and how they are caught in nets for the purpose. Ten seconds time is all that is necessary for this important work.

View of Falls Shown

The whirling spray of the beautiful Montmorency Falls was shown in all its colorful beauty as was the church parade of a tribe of Indians who live in the Quebec hinterland. Bass, pike, sunfish and other finny beauties were depicted in their natural habitats, while the striking fury of land-locked salmon was seen as the game fish battled for its life.

Picturizing a beaver laboriously building one of their famous dams, Mr. Lang told the clubmen, that he lay in wait for three days in order to get the picture. A deer, that grazed in the vicinity of the Lang camp also came in for plenty of photographs.

Mr. Lang expects to have his picture completed soon and hopes to make a colorful addition to it with photographs of the maskinonge for which Hastings County and the Bay of Quinte are justly famous. He is "praying" for a 30-pound musky to take his ";bait."

President Percy McGuire was in the chair. The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Jack Deacon with Rotarian Lloyd Hicks expressing club appreciation. Guests at the luncheon included Mayor Wm. Hetherington of Malartic who briefly addressed the club, and Charles Sulman of Belleville.

He commanded the second corps of the B.E.F. in France and organized the Dunkirk evacuation.

TOMATO GROWTH IS QUITE HEAVY

If Black Rot Does Not Set in Crop Will be Largest in Years

It's an ill wind that doesn't blow somebod ysome good and the wave of humidity that has enveloped the district for the past six days has resulted in phenominal growth of tomatoes, corn and other plant crops in various parts of the district.

In some parts of Prince Edward County, green tomatoes are as big as a man's fist, it is reported. These plants were planted at the normal time of the year and not early in the season for market purposes. Ripe tomatoes have already appeared on the city market, but these were planted for the purpose.

As one Sidney farmer stated today, the tomatoes are growing practically "overnight." In some parts cultivation will cease this week due to heavy leafage of the plants. If black rot does not set in, present indications point to a good yield.

Sale of Farm Machinery Almost Double of Year Ago

Sales of new harvesting machinery such as mowers and grain binders during the 1940 season have overshadowed those of 1939 by approximately fifty per cent was the general opinion of farm machinery dealers in the city when canvassed this morning.

Sales of new mowers and binders were most predominant, it was stated, but all machinery had shown an increase over those of last year.

The prospects of having an extra heavy crop of grain and hay to harvest had been the predominating factor in prompting farmers to purchase new machinery this season. "In many cases the old machinery had become so worn that it would not last another season, particularly when the crop was as heavy as this season's appears to be," was the opinion of one dealer, while a second thought that the scarcity of farm labour throughout the district was in some measure responsible.

Combines still have to gain the favour of farmers throughout this district with only a few sales being reported by local buyers although there had been four or five sold in the district. Farmers are skeptical of these machines, report dealers, and are quite satisfied to see how their neighbour makes out with his before purchasing one for themselves.

MISS JANET A. DEACON

Miss Janet A. Deacon passed away early this Tuesday morning at her residence, 214 George Street, after an illness of six months' duration.

The late Miss Deacon, who had reached an advanced age, was born in Belleville, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Deacon. All her life was passed in this city and in the regard of many friends she held a high place. She was endowed with a pleasing personality and friendly disposition and possessed many fine traits of character which endeared her to those near to her. In religion Miss Deacon was one of the oldest members of Bridge Street United Church and when able took an interest in the work of the congregation.

Surviving her are two sisters, Miss Harriett Deacon, and Mrs. Charlotte Finkle, both of Belleville; two brothers, Mr. William B. Deacon, and Mr. Fred S. Deacon, of this city.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this paper.

Cairn Terriers Arrive in City From England

An Eastern Canadian Port, July 30—(CP)—A group of refugee dogs, part of the cargo of two passenger liners arriving from the United Kingdom, commanded major attention at the dockside here yesterday.

Coppa and Branny were two cairn terriers addressed to Quinteside Kennels, owned by Roger Parks, 20 Charlotte Street, Belleville, Ont. According to an inscription on Coppa's cage, the dog is "fond of ladies." The inscription instructed the new masters to feed each terrier "one nice meal, meat and vegetable, and a few biscuits at night extra." The instructions were signed "Mrs. Drummond, 'Blencathra Carnforth.'"

Local Composition Played Over Air

A stirring march, "Our Country's Finest," composed by Reg. Hinchey former leader of the Belleville band and a member of that organization, was played over a Canadian chain of stations last evening. The announcer stated that the march was in honor of Canada's fighting forces and dedicated to the Toronto Symphony Band. Mr. Hinchey in the past few months has written a number of marches and songs that have been broadcast and every one of the numbers has an instant appeal and some of them will probably become hits before the end of hostilities. "Reg" as he is familiarly known, takes a very active interest in music despite his arduous duties at his place of employment.

2. MAIN ASPECTS

Maximum Development

Speaking generally, the method to be continued is the maximum development of all our resources in man power, in weapons, in equipment and in training facilities.

We are fully agreed regarding the general order of priority which should be considered in connection with our military preparations.

In the "immediate" category, I place the following:

First, the re-strengthening and the adequate organization of our fixed and mobile defences and our armed forces in the area of our eastern seaboard and of the approaches of the St. Lawrence. As will be immediately recognized, this is our most vulnerable area.

A command headquarters is being set up immediately in the Maritimes, to organize, control and coordinate for operational purposes the forces in this area.

These will include the Canadian Active Service Force and the non-permanent militia forces which are or will be located there. Included in this command will be the Canadian forces in Newfoundland.

Train in Divisions

In concentrating increased energies on the requirements of our east coast, it is not to be assumed for an instant that the continued strengthening of our west coast defences is being in any way overlooked.

Secondly, but of equal importance, is the continued concentration of our resources on the training and equipping of the Canadian active service force now organized in this country.

Our policy is to continue the training and equipping of these units eventually as divisions, so that they may be ready for operations in whatever theatre they may be required, either in Canada or overseas. The front line is the island fortress of the British Isles and we will shortly have a corps of two complete divisions and auxiliary troops in that front line.

The House may be interested to know that my advisers are definitely of the opinion that it would not serve the common cause at this time to have additional Canadian forces added to such a corps. It must be remembered that there is at the moment no shortage of manpower in England. The real demand is for equipment.

Consequently, quite apart from any question of Canadian security, we can make our best contribution at the present by training and equipping our 3rd and 4th divisions in this country.

Must Provide Maximum Training

Thirdly, we must provide the maximum preliminary training for the available manpower of Canada. It is obvious that this is a primary and essential step in the preparation of the citizens of this country for the ultimate duty they may be called upon to perform—that of defending heir hearths and their homes against the possible attack of a ruthless enemy.

Fourthly, there is the necessity in certain instances of military protection to vulnerable points and the relation of the military forces to internal security. The matter of internal security is principally a police problem but we are so arranging our organization that there shall be no gap between the responsibility of the police and the responsibility of the military forces to assist them where necessary.

My colleague, the Minister of National Defence for Naval Services, (Hon. Angus Macdonald) is, in addition to his other duties, giving particular attention to this matter and has accepted the post of chairman of the sub-committee which deals with the protection of vulnerable points.

Must Never Lapse Again

I need not today go into the matter of long-term requirements, but I assure you that this phase of Canada's defence is having most earnest attention as well. We must never again lapse into the inadequate position which the armed forces of Canada—and Canada was not unique in this respect—were in for many years prior to the outbreak of war. . .

Let me outline some of the possible duties of Canada's military forces. . . .

Firstly, we must provide guards for the protection of certain vulnerable points regarded . . and we must be ready to deal with civil disturbances. Secondly, we must maintain guards for guarding internees and prisoners of war in interment camps. Thirdly, we must provide personnel for the land defenders on our east and west coasts.

Fourthly, our military forces have the duty of providing the tactical defence of Canada against whatever force may be contemplated as having a reasonable chance of reaching our shores.

A fifth type of duty is called for in what might be called the outposts of the North American continent. Canada is already substantially represented on Active Service at strategic points in Iceland, in Newfoundland and in the Carribbean.

Don't Realize Fine Service

Sometimes I think that we do not fully realize the fine service which is rendered by the men on guard duty and in coast defence positions and these troops of ours who "stand to" at home and in these isolated out-posts.

They are exactly the same situation as if they were in the trenches. To maintain eternal vigilance under conditions of inactivity is one of the stiffest tests of character and discipline which either soldiers or civilians can undergo.

And finally there is the large and rapidly growing C.A.S.F. now in the United Kingdom, which, under the inspiring command of Lt.-Gen. McNaughton and our other distinguished commanders, face the enemy with determination and confidence. They are the spearhead of Canadian army. We know that they will prove in every way worthy of the highest traditions of the old Canadian corps.

What I want to impress on the House is that Canadian soldiers have plenty of jobs to do and these jobs are so varied that they make a stirring call on the adaptability and resourcefulness of Canadian young men. . . .

Foundation is Discipline

The foundation of a soldier's military training is discipline, a readiness to obey orders. Initiative and ability to work on their own, if the emergency arises, is a characteristic of Canadians, and our system of training, while insisting on discipline, is being so worked out as to use to the full these native resources of our people.

Let me refer to the organizations in which the Canadian soldier is trained.

First, there is the Canadian Active Service Force. This is a force in which men of the age of from 19 to 45 years, both inclusive, may enlist for full-time service and receive pay and allowances at C.A.S.F. rates. They serve in Canada or outside of Canada, as required. The enlistment is for the duration of the war and the demobilization period.

This force includes four divisions: Ancillary Divisional Units, Corps Ancillary Units, Coast Defence Troops, Reinforcements and Depots, Veterans' Home Guards and a number of unattached infantry battalions. There are over 133,000 men in all. The members of this force serve overseas; they are serving in the outposts of the continent; they man our coast defences, guard prisoners of war, protect the most vital vulnerable points in Canada.

Outlines Duties

Secondly, we have the non-permanent active militia. We want to extend its usefulness by having it take in and make part of it the men who will in probably a little more than two months be in training under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

Consequently, the N.P.A.M. will consist of:

Firstly, men between the ages of 18 to 45, both inclusive, who have enlisted for a three-year period. These men may in time of war be required to serve continuously in the field for a period of not more than 18 months. These enlisted men could under the Militia Act be sent on service outside of Canada, but declarations by the Government have made it clear that men will not be required to serve outside of Canada unless they re-attest voluntarily for such service.

Secondly, men between the ages of from 21 to 45 who may be called for training from time to time under the National Resources Mobilization Act. These men may be required to serve during the continuation of the war, but by the terms of the National Resources Mobilization Act they cannot be required to serve outside of Canada.

Do Part-Time Training

The N.P.A.M. will do part-time training at local headquarters, or in camp, or in both. Men will be paid at N.P.A.M. rates for the training period—30 days in each year. For men who are not in camps, two nights or afternoon periods of two hours each, are regarded as constituting a day.

Registration under the National Registration Act commences Aug. 19, 1940, and to make room for those who will be called for training, it has been decided that recruiting for the non-permanent active militia will be suspended on Aug. 15. It will be understood, however, that even though recruiting is suspended on that day, men who have enlisted previously will be allowed to finish their training for the year by attending camp or drills at local headquarters.

As I have indicated, the plan is that after Aug. 15 additional personnel for the non-permanent active militia will be made up from those called for training and this training will, probably commence about Oct. 1.

Those called for training will be just as much a part of the militia, so far as service in Canada is concerned, as those who had enlisted before Aug. 15 They will be taken on the strength of a non-permanent active militia unit, will do exactly the same amount of training. They will be paid the non-permanent active militia rates for the period of training and will receive free transportation from their residence to the training centre and return.

Receive Pay For Extra Training

I should like the House to note this. We are anxious to encourage men to keep on with training, even though the 30 days may have been completed. We have, therefore, decided that all members of the non-permanent active militia units (whether they have enlisted or been called for training) may elect to take training as may be authorized at local headquarters, in addition to the regular 30 days. They will receive pay for this extra training.

The registration to be conducted by the Department of National War Services begins Aug. 19. My colleague, the Hon. Mr. Gardiner, the Minister of National War Service will, of course, be dealing fully with the procedure which will be followed to have these men ready. I only need to give the broadest outline.

The Department of National Defence will advise the Department of National War Services of the number of men required for training. The Department of National War services will notify sufficient men in the lower age groups (probably 21 to 22 years of age) to report at some specified date and place. They will be called in groups of probably 30,000 each month.

Thirty Training Centres.

The Department of National War Services will, under its regulations, deal with any postponements which may be proposed on account of trade qualifications, but it is understood that postponements must be arranged so that every physically fit man in the class will have had his training within the year.

The Department of National War Services will have the men who are called medically examined at convenient points, as close to their homes as possible. Then it will see that those found fit report from time to time, as directed, at the training centres. There will probably be thirty or more training centres across Canada.

I should like to stress again that all these members of the non-permanent active militia, whether they have enlisted or been called for training, are to be regarded on exactly the same basis. And there will be no distinction whatever between them.

Now, I should mention two other military organizations which we have and by which we set great store.

Service Full-time.

First, there are the Veterans Home Guard Companies. These are composed of veterans of the Great War both Canadians and Imperials, 50 years of age and under. The members of these companies volunteer for the duration of the war and for such time as the government sees fit to retain their services. Their service is full time and they are paid Canadian Active Service rates.

Twenty-two of these companies with 250 men each have already been authorized and as has been indicated on a number of occasions, the department is disposed to increase the number of these companies as veterans who are fit and qualified offer their services.

The veterans in these units are already performing valuable work in supplying guards for vulnerable points, for internment camps and for other duties.

Recruiting Satisfactory.

Then we have the infantry reserve companies of the Veterans Home Guard. This is composed of veterans of the Great War, Canadians and Imperials, fifty years of age and under. They are men who are in a position to take on full time service, but who volunteer for part-time training.

Mr. Ralston then detailed the steps taken in mobilizing the C.A.S.F. units and he said that recruiting for the fourth division was so satisfactory it was well on the way to full strength by July 21.

Continuing Mr. Ralston said:

Since the beginning of the present session, a number of additional units have been authorized. The most important of these are: Nine infantry battalions, five motorcycle regiments, a forestry corps, additional coast defence units.

These are not completely up to strength, but we are informed by commanding officers all over Canada that recruiting has been extremely successful.

Total of 133,572 Troops

On July 21 there were 31,607 troops outside of Canada and 101,965 in Canada or a total of 133,572. In five weeks we have recruited over 42,000 men for Active Service, or the equivalent of over 2 1-2 divisions. . .

I know there are many who feel that we should go on—and on—continuously mobilizing new units and enlisting personnel. It is said that if this is not done we will dampen the recruiting ardor of the young manhood of this country. Nothing could be easier than to give way to these representations, but I want the House and the country to feel that this matter has not been given haphazard consideration.

Nearly 100,000 in C.A.S.F.

We have at the present minute nearly 100,000 men in the C.A.S.F. in Canada. A large part of these will probably be here all winter. We will be training probably 50,000 or more of the N.P.A.M., and in addition, we will have in training during this winter, those members of the militia who will be called for training, as I have described, at the rate of something like 30,000 per month.

Inactivity and monotonous training routine are bound to affect morale. There is a limit to the number of men which can be adequately and properly trained and employed, my advisers are strongly of the opinion that on the best forecast which can be made at the present time, it would be unwise to increase the number of men on the strength of the C.A.S.F. by further extended mobilization at this time. They think that it is much more important to complete the equipping and training of our 3rd and 4th divisions and develop them into first-class fighting formations, than by calling out additional military units until such time as they can be usefully employed. My colleagues and I, after the most serious thought, concur in that conclusion, and I sincerely hope that the House and the country will accept our judgment. . . .

Further Calls For Men

This does not mean at all that there will not be further recruiting. Indeed there are at the moment places for some 15,000 in the authorized C.A.S.F. and there will be further calls as men can be utilized.

Now I wish to speak of the N.P.A.M. itself. Some N.P.A.M. units of course had not been mobilized for active service, others had been but whether so mobilized or not, all the N.P.A.M. Infantry units are now authorized to recruit up to full strength. This is not C.A.S.F. recruiting.

It works in this way: There are 91 N.P.A.M. infantry units in Canada. Some of these have been mobilized and have become part of the C.A.S.F., and some of those mobilized units have gone overseas.

We have said to those which have been mobilized, "you are authorised to recruit a second battalion; this will not be a C.A.S.F. battalion but you can take men right up to the war strength on for training on a militia basis that is, in the evening or other spare time plus camp, and pay the militia rates of pay".

N.P.A.M. Infantry Units

To the N.P.A.M. Infantry Units which had not been mobilised for the C.A.S.F., we have said "You can take on more men up to war strength, on the same militia basis for training and pay." There are also some artillery units in the N.P.A.M. which have received the same instructions.

The total war strength of the N.P.A.M. Infantry Unit is approximately 88,000 officers and men and according to the latest available returns this N.P.A.M. force has a total strength of 47,373 actually enrolled. While there is plenty of room for more enlistments in the N.P.A.M. units, there are cases where the lack of available qualified officers, especially for some of the technical units, has made it necessary to forego active recruiting until the staff of officers has been built up. These are the units which will suspend recruiting after Aug. 15 and will after that be augmented by those who will be called for training.

Housing of C.A.S.F.

The troops of the C.A.S.F. have been housed in various ways. We have used buildings which have been rented or taken over; we have used huts, and in the summer we are using tents.

Our larger C.A.S.F. camps are at Valcartier, Petawawa, Barriefield, Camp Borden, Shilo and Dundurn, but in addition to these there are troop concentrations of of quite considerable size at Aldershot, Nova Scotia, Barriefield, Ottawa, Winnipeg and Calgary. These centres house what are known as C.A.S.F. training centres. Each centre takes in and trains officers and other ranks reinforcements for C.A.S.F. Units of one or another arm of the service.

Will Open Canvas Camps

At the present time, preparations are being made for the opening of canvas camps for normal N.P.A.M. training to commence early in August at 14 or 15 points across Canada. Some of these camps will be in the five large training camp areas already mentioned, but will be separate from the hutted C.A.S.F. portions of these camps. The remainder are either in small N.P.A.M. training camps which were used before the war, or are on new areas which have been acquired for the purpose. The locations of these camps are as follows: London, Ont., Niagara on the Lake, Ont., Kingston, Ont.; Peterborough, Ont.; St. Bruno, Que.; Farnham, Que.; Aldershot, N.S.; Sussex, N.B.; Vernon, B.C.; Sarcee, Alta. . . .

Questions of Equipment

Regarding the equipment, I do not think that the House will expect me to go into too much detail. I would be wanting in candour if I did not say at once what I think everybody knows, that there is a serious shortage in some items of equipment. We have to face that fact.

As I have said before, Canada, by the break-through on May 10, has suddenly been put very much on her own. Sources of supply which we considered could be depended on have suddenly been cut off, or very much restricted on account of their own needs. . . .

Speaking of what we might call the more staple items of personal equipment such as clothing we have authorized and there is on order supplies for a year ahead.

Items of Clothing

The following represent some of the more important items of clothing already delivered by contractors and issued to the troops since the outbreak of war: Serge battle dress, 210,927 suits; boots, 264,840 pairs; socks 694,475 pairs; shirts, 240,284; web equipment 104,674.

A complete issue of summer clothing has also been made available to the 2nd division and the issue of khaki drill clothing has been extended to units of the 3rd and 4th divisions an all other C.A.S.F. units located in Canada.

Regarding mechanical vehicles, our 1st and 2nd division requirements, as well as those for ancillary troops in the United Kingdom, together with full maintenance requirements, have been fully met. We have progressed so satisfactorily with the supply for the 3rd and 4th divisions and for coast defence troops, ancillary troops and training centres in Canada, that we have considered it possible to agree to give United Kingdom requirements certain priorities in two types in later months. In the meantime, the supply for our own requirements is flowing in rapidly.

Anti-Gas Respirators Issued

All troops proceeding overseas have been equipped with anti-gas respirators and all coast defence garrisons have been similarly equipped. Respirators are being delivered in sufficient quantities to ensure an adequate supply for all our requirements, and a substantial number is also being furnished from our products for Allied troops.

Canadian troops went overseas fully equipped with Lewis machine guns in lieu of Bren guns which at that time were not available. These Lewis guns have since been replaced in England by the issue of Bren guns, and are now in the hands of local defence troops. Bren gun production in Canada is a complete success. Production of Bren guns is ahead of contract. Substantial numbers have already been issued and a steadily increasing flow of guns is issued weekly from ordnance.

Rifles Replaced

Regarding rifles it is pretty well known, I think, that at the request of our Allies in the emergency, we supplied them with a very large number of rifles. I am glad to say that we have been successful in replacing these rifles with another pattern. With this replacement my officers are satisfied that we are in a position to meet the situation adequately.

But in additio nto this, 80 per and tenders hace already been called

But in addition to this, 80 per for the erection of a rifle factory for the Dominion's need alone.

Small arms ammunition is being manufactured at the Dominion arsenal. Production has already been vastly increased; a further increase of 50 per cent I expected within the next month, and we have assurance that that capacity will in turn be doubled before the year ends.

Due to inability to procure in the United Kingdom adequate expected supplies of the desired British pattern, arrangements have had to be made for production of the British pattern here.

I can assure the House that the most vigorous and effective steps have been, and are being taken, both by this department and by the Department of Munitions and Supply to make Canada, to the maximum extent possible, self-supporting, and self-sustaining.

Engaged in Second Phase

We are now engaged in the second phase of the war. A phase that has been called the battle of Britain.

The nature of the next phase is dependent on the results of the present phase. If the independence of Great Britain can be maintained, and I am confident that it can be maintained, then the final phase will and must be of an offensive nature. Then the active service components of our defence forces will be operating in overseas theatres in co-operation with other Empire forces. This war must be won, and no war can be won by defensive measures alone.

Our final task is to see to it that with the support and the resolute determination of the people of this Dominion, the fighting forces of Canada are trained and equipped, able and ready to put the full strength of this young country into those decisive blows, and help to make forever sure that in the words of the Right Honorable Mr. Shurchill, "the dark course of Hitler is lifted from our age." To that task we shall give our best.

BODY RECOVERED IN PICTON BAY

George Markland's Body Found Late Sunday Afternoon After Being in Water a Week

Picton, July 29.—(Special)—The body of George Markland, Picton trucker who lost his life when he fell overboard in the Bay of Quinte near Glenora on Sunday, July 21st was recovered early today by a boatload of searchers who have been dragging the vicinity of the tragedy since it occurred.

The deceased man's body was found still clutching iron standards of the Frank McManus boat, which he carried overboard with him in a frantic effort to save himself. Markland sank instantly and never came to the surface.

Dragging operations have been carried on since the tragedy occurred with no success until today when the body was recovered in deep water at the identical spot where the fatality took place. It was taken to the Glenora side of the bay by the searchers. The Coroner, Dr. Lighthall stated that no inquest will be held.

PELLET-RIDDLED BODIES DISCOVERED

Leamington, Ont. July 29.—(CP)—Bodies of Pete Checkman, Point Pelee farmer, and Joseph Chesuk, his helper with whom he worked the farm on shares, were found today by Mary Macko, their housekeeper. Both bodies were riddled by shotgun pellets.

Quarrel over a share contract is believed to have caused murder and suicide. Chesuk was found in his bed shot through the chest. By his side was a shotgun with string tied from trigger to a toe. Body of Checkman was found in the yard with a wound in his right side.

Both men were about 55 years old and had lived many years in the district. The housekeeper said the men quarrelled frequently over crop proceeds.

CANADA TO CALL

Suspend Recruiting Aug 15

Col. Ralston also announced there would be no further immediate mobilization of units for the Canadian Active Service Force, that recruiting for the non-permanent Active Militia would be suspended from Aug. 15 and that thereafter men would enter the militia on call under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

Training of men called would start Oct. 1, and thereafter 30,000 a month would be called and trained.

Adjustments have been made in the Departmental staff in order to utilize to the best advantage the abilities of the men available, said the Minister. The organization of Canada's military defences was perhaps the most responsible job in the country and the principle of using the capabilities, experience and training of personnel to the best advantage would continue.

Col. Ralston said the 3rd and 4th divisions, now practically completed, would be trained and equipped in Canada.

The Minister announced an eastern military command would be established in the Maritime Provinces with jurisdiction over all Canadian troops in that area and an outpost duty in Newfoundland, Iceland, the West Indies or elsewhere. The command would provide for defence against possible attack.

Announces New Rifle Factory

He also announced a large, modern rifle factory would be started in Canada and that 80 per cent of the machinery required for it had been obtained. This was only one of many measures being taken to make Canada self-contained in the matter of war supplies.

Bren machine gun production in Canada was a complete success, Col. Ralston said. The 1st overseas division, originally equipped with Lewis guns in place of Bren guns had now been issued the more up-to-date weapon.

Recruiting for the non-permanent active militia, now underway will be suspended on Aug. 15, the Minister announced. Thereafter men will enter the militia as they are called under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

Have Same Status.

Men called for training under the act will have exactly the same status as men who enlist voluntarily prior to Aug. 15. They will receive the same pay at militia rates, (basis $1.20 a day for a private soldier), will receive the same training and belong to the same units of the militia.

The call, he said, would probably go first to men of the ages of 21 and 22. Training for these classes will start Oct. 1 and thereafter 30,000 men would be called up each month.

They will be trained in 30 training centres accommodating about 1,000 men each and the training period will be 30 days. While the time of the call for individuals may be arranged to suit their occupations it is the intention to see that every able-bodied man receives the 30-day training course.

There was no serious shortage of manpower in Great Britain, said Col. Ralston. The great need was equipment. Consequently it had been decided to complete the organization of a Canadian Corps of two divisions and ancillary troops there but not to send further troops at the moment.

Total Strength 133,000.

The total strength of the Candian Active Service Force at home and overseas now stands at 133,000 men.

The decision not to mobilie further C.A.S.F. units had been reached after serious consideration. There were now some 100,000 men in the active service in Canada.

The problem of accommodation and training was sich that further enlargement of the the C.A.S. was considered undesirable, as the employment of soldiers on routine drill for long periods of time was not good for morale.

The trend of events, said Col. Ralston, would determine the ultimate employment of Canadian troops. Eventually, he was confident, the forces of the empire would take the offensive and then Canadians could demonstrate again the fighting qualities they displayed in the famed battles of the first Great War.

Boy is Rewarded For Returning Wallet

Honesty is the best policy, so Allan Asselstine, of 66 Benjamin St., is firmly convinced today. Allan found a wallet on Front St. adjacent to the City Hall this afternoon. The lad picked the wallet up and went directly to the police station to report his finding. As the boy was making his report, a Mr. Hamilton, Montreal commercial traveller, arrived at the police station to report the loss of his wallet, containing $43.00 and some valuable papers. The wallet found by young Asselstine was Mr. Hamilton's property, Sergeant Arthur Harman ascertained. Mr. Hamilton rewarded the lad with a two dollar bill for his honesty and young Asseltine left the police station firmly gripping his reward and doubtless the happiest lad in Belleville.

SUFFERED HEART ATTACK

Kingston, Ont, July 29.—(CP)—Vincent Dunphy, 23, of Kingston, suffered a heart attack when swimming in Grippen Rake, three miles south of Lyndhurst Sunday and died. His body was recovered soon after in three feet of water. Over-exertion was believed the cause of the attack.

The War Today

By GUY RHOADES

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Aerial warfare over Britain increased today to its greatest fury while observers pondered a contradictory story that might indicate preparations were advancing for the much advertised Nazi blitzkrieg against the United Kingdom.

The Petain government at Vichy, France, published a German order halting rail traffic between German-occupied and unoccupied France and stranding millions of refugees seeking their way home into the conquered territory.

Nevertheless German authorities in Berlin said first that traffic had not been halted and then that it had been opened at four points.

It was recalled that civilian traffic on German railways was stopped immediately before the march into the lowlands and some wondered if the move reported today might indicate assembly of rolling stock to rush troops to northern ports for an assault on Britain.

The Air Ministry in London reported eight German bombers and seven escorting fighters were shot down by Royal Air Force fighters in a battle over a southeastern port. However, watchers said they had counted 23 downed Germans. The Air Ministry figures did not immediately mention casualties inflicted on the enemy by anti-aircraft fire.

At least 100 German aircraft of various types were counted in the armada which swept in over the coast and the sky almost immediately was alive with bursting shells, diving and falling machines.

Alleged Diamond Robber Escapes By Simple Ruse

Hamilton, Ont., July 29.—(CP)—John R. Ross 38, alleged diamond robber arrested Saturday, escaped today by the ruse of answering to the name of a Sarnia man charged with being drunk, paying a $10 fine and walking out of the police station scot free.

A Sarnia man was later found asleep in one of the cells, and a check-up revealed Ross' escape.

A Montreal policeman arrived here this morning to take Ross in charge.

Thomas A. Brown, Chief Constable, had ordered his arrest on instructions from Montreal that he was suspected of particpating in the robbery of a Montreal firm. Three men armed with pistols obtained a large quantity of jewellery and diamonds. The theft occurred two months ago.

English League To Play Fall Series If Situation Allows

London, July 29.—(CP Cable)—Football authorities are determined to operate competitions this fall in England if the military situation permits. Scottish League officials had previously decided to close down but they may reverse their decision in view of the English League's action.

The English League proposes to draw up competitive schedules in northern and southern areas to provide matches for 60 clubs. Opening games would be played in the last week of August or the beginning of September, schedules winding up December 28. A suggestion that players be asked to give their services free has been rejected by the clubs.

ROBOTS FOR WEATHER

Robots have been heard of a great deal in recent years, though latterly less has been heard of them than is usual. The first idea of a robot was of something that was more sensational than it really is to the casual observer. As robots are mechanical, they lose much of the glamor they first possessed when they were made to look something like man.

Yet there are wonderful robots which are not grotesque imitations of man. They do not have hands, they have no feet, they have no lips, they have no brains. They are pieces of metal only.

The other day the world heard of robots which can tell weather in far away desert isles. They are automatic weather reporters. Man leaves them and they do their work, recording wind, rain, heat and cold, fine weather and disagreeable humidity.

These little machines that never had a soul do the work that man sets them to do. Little pieces of metal fitted together by the expert make the record and send it out across a world.

Robinson Crusoe on his desert island had nothing like this. He had to trust to himself and learned all about it by experience. When he left the island he had only the memories of the weather conditions of the place. Today if he were a scientist and visited that island he could, on leaving, deposit one of the little robots and he or some data-collecting agency would receive the report day by day how the weather changes on that island.

These robots are scientific contributions to the increasing knowledge of atmospheric conditions, so necessary in a world of airplane travel. These little developments of science lead to new developments and an endless sequence of scientific progress.

NAZISM IS NEGATION OF BROTHERHOOD

Hitler has achieved only by suppression and this principle of suppression will continue until Hitler and nazism are suppressed and conquered. History will repeat in his case.

In nazism there is nothing that comes like a breath of spring to earth. Nazism brings only the blight and poison. It narrows and pinches and stunts life and the first to suffer were the life of the Reich and lives of the Germans.

By their fruits the nazis are now known and their fruits will poison the nazis themselves. Nazism is death, destruction, slaughter, hate, treachery, treason, it murders the spirit of brotherhood, it looks upon all the rest of the world as Abel, whom it would smite and itself it bears the curse of Cain.

There is no redeeming quality in nazism which can bring something like a balm to the world, for nazism is disintegration.

Strange it is that men would try to rise on such a refuse or garbage dump of perverted human ideals.

In the nature of things Hitler cannot rise. He has taught the world lessons as to how far in degradation a man and a group about him will plunge his own nation and then try to drag down the world.

Conquerors have come on the scene but all have passed. They have made their way for a short or a longer time over nations, but the nations always bring them down. Napoleon was one and so was Alexander, supposed to have been the greatest military genius of all history but he disappeared as a young man and then his empire immediately divided and broke up.

Hitler is not a man of the genius of Alexander or Napoleon. Twenty-three centuries or even a century after his defeat and crushing Hitler will be seen, not as one of the forces that had one good point about it but was made up of malevolence and every principle that is anti-social. Hitler rose on the weakness of the Germans whom he had made more weak by making them nazis' slaves. He has not elevated them. Germans are trained under nazism to be used as an agency to destroy the life of other nations which has a greater right to exist than nazism. Hitler is the antithesis of greatness, he is the spirit of nazism, which in the material and spirit worlds disappears in the healing influences of nature and of the spirit of mankind.

One of the best proofs of Hitler's weakness and ignorance is that he has destroyed what modern distinction Germany had in order to make Germany a modern Sparta to dominate the world. German literature and art are smothered in the foul breath and the rankness of the nazi world. Nothing dare show any sign of life for the gestapo waits to crush the roots of every thing that has life. And Germany if it could triumph over the nations would die of nazism. But there is an easier way than that, Hitler will be defeated by Britain and the world will begin its revival after the ravaging of civilized Europe by the madness of the nazis.

The Wolf In Denmark

(New York Times)

The Danes are killing one million of their pigs—a third of the total—because there is no feed for them. This news, appropriately relayed through Berlin, sets one thinking. Before the present war Denmark had worked out a neat system of national housekeeping. Even then world conditions made it hard to meet outgo with income, but she did pretty well. With industry and agriculture about balancing each other, she imported a good many raw materials, including fertilizers and feed for cattle. About two-thirds of her exports consisted of foodstuffs, about one-third of eggs and dairy products.

On this thrifty basis she had made a country in which there was little poverty and not much conspicuous wealth; in which nine-tenths of the arable land was in small or medium-sized farms; in which cooperatives had mellowed the capitalistic system without abolishing it; in which there was little class feeling and no native drive worth mentioning toward either communism or fascism. Politically the Danes asked nothing better than to be let alone. Economically they asked no more than the chance to buy what they wanted and sell what they wanted in free world markets.

Of course they were not let alone, and of course there is no longer a free world market. Germany used the economic weapon to bully Danish exporters and terrorize Danish newspapers long before the war began. She used the war as an excuse for destroying Danish liberty and hamstringing a civilization which, tiny as it was, made the Nazi state look like something the cat had dragged in. Not only did Denmark possess assets of position useful in a military way. Its very existence as an independent state was an insult to the third-rate synthetic Kultur on the other side of the border.

Denmark just happens to be an apt illustration of the Nazis' way with people who are wiser and in every way, except the use of violence, better than themselves. The little pigs of Denmark are symbolic. The wolf is in the house.

The Spirit of Britain

(Montreal Gazette)

The people of Great Britain assert that they are united now as never before for the defence of their country and in the determination to combat and defeat every attempt to take away man's liberty. Every day come reports of individual acts which prove that the British people are courageous and resourceful to a degree. In Wednesday's Gazette, for example, there were several items which show that the old spirit of independence and patriotism still prevails. In Hampshire a hard-bitten but misguided farmer fought to the death an official attempt to compel him to comply with wartime emergency food production orders. When police tried to take over his fields because they were not in maximum production, he resisted with arms, shooting officers in the arms and legs and being killed by a police bullet. He was wrong, perhaps he was demented, nevertheless he was actuated by the spirit of freedom which generations ago prompted John Hampden to refuse to contribute to a forced loan and pay ship tax money. Hampden was imprisoned but won his case in the end. He was a lawyer and a member of Parliament, was a soldier in the Civil War and died of wounds received in the battle of Chalgrove Field

The misguided farmer of Hampshire would have been a tower of strength in resisting any German parachute attack that came to his fields. There are millions of other Britons equally determined. In Wednesday's Gazette also was the story of a farmer's daughter, aged 14, who helped a milkman capture two Germans whose plane was shot down by Royal Air Force fighters. A Nazi officer and a sergent were taken in tow by the man and the girl. On the same day three fishing trawlers armed with machine guns stood off a German bomber until British fighter planes drove the enemy away. Each of the incidents mentioned testified to the preparedness of the Kingdom's everyday citizens for any challenge that may come, in whatever form.

Just Sour Grapes to Nazis

(Windsor Star)

Germany, desperately short of gold, consoles herself with the grotesque statement of Walter Funk, her Minister of Economics, that the yellow metal is actually valueless. Herr Funk says that, if all the United States supply of some $20,000,000,000 were to disappear suddenly, it would have no serious effect on world economics.

Perhaps never has the fable of the fox and the grapes been so notably demonstrated. The wonder is that such a sound financier as Funk, even at the orders of Hitler, would lend himself to such a weird economic statement. He, of course knows very well how valuable gold is in international commerce, and how tragic it would be if the world's visible balance were even greatly disturbed.

True, Germany holds to no gold standard, but that is simply because she has not the gold necessary. With the vast bulk of the world supply in the hands of two or three other nations, she has been forced to find another basis for her currency. Even in peace times, this has had serious effects on her commerce. And, her minister of economics passes off the situation with a repetition of the third-rate vaudeville joke about the United States digging gold out of the ground and then burying it in the ground again.

We would just like to put one propostion to Herr Funk. What if the United States should suddenly offer to release a large percentage of her gold to Germany? Would he still say that it was of no value, and proceed to turn down the proposition?

THAT BODY OF YOURS

Getting Shoes That fit your Feet

Just as there are no two fingerprints exactly alike, our orthopedic physicians tells us that there are no two feet exactly alike even of the same individual.

Does this mean then that everybody should have a shoe made to exactly fit his feet, each foot, in fact?

This would be ideal but Dr. Frank R. Ober, Boston, in the Journal of the American Medical Association, points out that since 400,000,000 (four hundred million) pairs of shoes are manufactured in the United States alone, yearly, manufacturers at the present time and under present conditions would be ruined and the price of shoes would be beyond the reach of the majority of people if these changes were made. However, "there is no doubt that something can be done to improve materially conditions as they now exist without extra cost to the manufacturer or to the consumer."

A shoe for a foot that is normal in shape and free from pain should not be difficult to manufacture. The shoe must be of sufficient length so that the end of the great toe is not against the to end of the shoe. Variations in length must provide for the increase in the length of the foot of those who carry heavy loads. The shoe must not be so long that the foot slides forward from the heel upper of the shoe. The front of the shoe should be wide enough so as not to compress unduly the toes at the sides or the top yet it must be snug so that the leather will not wrinkle.

A common fault in shoes today is that the heel inside the shoe is too wide and the shoe doesn't hold the heel snugly.

Another point suggested by Dr. Ober is that the height of heels must be made to suit each individual foot (not all 1 inch, 1 1-4 inch, or 1 1-2 inches). The height of the heel should be governed by the foot to bend. A heel that is too low may cause pain and cramps in the calf of the leg, and calluses under the ball of the foot.

Still another suggestion is to insert an arch that will carry the weight over the entire length of the foot rather than over centre of the arch.

A little more care in the selection of shoes, as at present manufactured, would mean more foot comfort for everybody.

Oxen Of Vermont

(New York Times)

They tell you in Vermont that she has more cows than people. That is a desirable distribution of population until people become anywhere near as beautiful as cows. And yesterday a new garland was woven. A dispatch from Montpelier said that there are still 500 yoke of oxen in use in Vermont. The State is modern enough where modernity is needed, but cherishes graciously the survival of earlier wont. Oxen are old settlers and workers. Where can be found tougher plowing and more rocks to pull out than in Vermont? They broke the stubborn ground. They carried on sleds the millstones of the eighteenth-century grist-mills.

They were common carriers, the trucking and transportation service of their time. They pulled across the continent the covered wagons that carried the emigrants who in the West became rivals and supplanters of Vermont's markets of grain and wheat and wool. They took not only freight but passengers from the scattered farms to the nearest shipping point or market town. In the long Winters, even within living memory, they broke out the roads, dragging the mighty plow through enormous snowdrifts. Whatever there was to haul, they hauled it. They yanked the stumps out of the field. They carried the lumber from which the house was built.

If a building had to be moved, they were the movers. Strong, patient, tranquil, beautiful, their eyes were the eyes of Juno, whose chariot at Argos was drawn by white oxen. They are stately creatures, with the slowness befitting dignity. They recall the service of the ancient world. They move processionally, a frieze of majestic motion. They are consonant with rural Vermont, with the covered bridges, the fine old churches, the county court houses and their Greek pillars, the spacious houses of the eighteenth and early nineteenth century.

It is good to think that the mystic cries of "haw" and "gee" are still vibrating; and unless the race of ox drivers has degenerated, a little plain and ornamental profanity may still be required as a ritual expected by any ox worthy of the name. And few of us would perhaps be so austere as to forbid those drivers the solace of cider at their nooning or even the perilous "stone fence" at nightfall, when the cattle "plow with lowing up the meadowy ways."

CONSCIENCE TAX

London, July 30—(CP)—Uneasy consciences are helping swell Britain's war fund. It is estimated that various government and public departments benefit by about 3,000,000 pounds ($13,350,000) a year from conscience money. Ninety per cent of it comes from conscience-stricken taxpayers and the chancellor of the exchequer always politely acknowledges receipt in the "agony" columns of the newspapers.

Why Meknes Was Sunk

(Ottawa Journal)

Something more than just fiendish disregard for all law, something more than the insane desire for destruction for the sake of destruction, is likely behind the sinking of the French ship Meknes with French soldiers and sailors on board. The German High Command perhaps considered it undesirable that 1,200 persons who had lived in Britain and knew at first hand conditions there should land in France and be free to tell their story.

The Germans might have allowed the ship to go through, then might have made the crew and repatriated men prisoners of war or sent them to concentration camps on trumped-up charges. But that would have meant men for guards and food, and great numbers of French people speculating on the why and wherefore. The Germans must be having enough trouble in France without looking for more. It was easier just to give a young Nazi torpedo-boat commander an order and send him out in the night on a mission of murder and destruction. An order for deliberate murder is nothing new for the Nazis.

Twelve hundred officers and men who had enjoyed the hospitality of Britain for several weeks, who had been treated and fed decently and then given every facility to return to their homeland, could have done great damage among the French people. They would soon have spread to every part of France, each telling and retelling his story, and soon great numbers of French citizens would have wondered if all the tall tales they had been told about Britain were really true. France by now must be saturated with anti-British propaganda, and the first-hand stories of 1,200 Frenchmen who had seen Britain with their own eyes could undo the best work of the German lie factories. The German High Command most certainly did not want those Frenchmen free on French soil.

Knitting For Soldiers

(Brandon Sun)

The member of the Canadian parliament who said it was folly for women to knit socks for soldiers and to spend hours on the things that a factory could do in a fraction of the time did not know socks, soldiers, women or the military quidnuncs. Women who knit for soldiers are doing their bit much more faithfully and usefully than members of parliament. The socks supplied to the army are few and far between and they are not lasting as are the home-knitted socks. The socks patient women knit are of better material than those "army contracts." And there are not enough plants in Canada to supply the needs of the forces here and overseas. Parliament should thank the women who knit for overcoming a few of the shortcomings of the government in its war effort.

The knitting women deserve more than thanks for the task for they doing and they are serving for the great cause about which so many other Canadians are careless, indifferent or apathetic—for the time being. Mothers, wives, friends and sweethearts can try to forget their worries in knitting useful things that are warmly welcomed by their boys overseas, if not in the Dominion parliament. Every pair of socks or any item a woman makes, or any work she does to aid the individual soldier abroad aids the morale of the troops. The knitting women are doing their duty to themselves, their people and their country. They are pleasing the men and boys overseas much more than members of parliament here or the lax government in military supplies. Indeed there is good reason to honor the knitters of comforts for the Canadian army facing perils on behalf of those who stay at home.

Jumpy Enemies

(Windsor Star)

Citizens of Rome, painfully picking fragments of anti-aircraft shells out of their anatomies, must be thinking dark thoughts of their military forces. A rain of shrapnel from the skies may be overlooked if the guns are banging to drive off actual enemies in the air. When the guns go off in a panicky roar while the enemy planes are at least 75 miles away, the people have a right to be a little annoyed.

Incidentally, this reaction to an "air raid" over the Eternal City should give the British some good ideas. All they have to do is send planes cruising peacefully at a safe distance from Rome, and it will not be long until the Italians have used up all their ammunition and worn out all their anti-aircraft guns.

Canada's Front Line is Island Fortress of Britain Says Ralston

Country Doing Everything Possible to Bolster That Line and at Same Time Giving Every Attention to Home Defence

ASST. MINISTER HEARD

By CARL REINKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 30—(CP)—Canada's rapid adaptation to the growing demands of war was a matter of record today as parliament studied comprehensive statements by the War Ministers on achievements and future plans of the army, navy and air force.

It took more than two hours for Defence Minister Ralston and Air Minister Power to review their part of what Prime Minister Mackenzie King termed the transition of a peace-loving nation into "a people unitedly and effectively organized to fight for preservation of democracy."

Both Ministers were agreed that Canada's front line is the island fortress of Great Britain, that Canada should do and is doing everything possible to bolster that front line and at the same time gave every possible attention to home defences.

In brief, Col. Ralston gave the House this information.

That Canada soon will have a corps of two complete divisions and ancillary troops in the United Kingdom; that in the opinion of his advisers it would not serve the common cause to send additional Canadian forces to Britain immediately because there is no shortage of manpower there;

That voluntary enlistment in the non-permanent active militia will end Aug. 15 after which men will be called up for training at the rate of 30,000 a month beginning Oct. 11; that no further units will be immediately mobilized for the Canadian Active Service Force;

Form Eastern Military Command

That an eastern military command with jurisdiction over troops in the Maritime area and Newfoundland and coastal defence will be established; that the 3rd and 4th divisions will be trained and equipped in Canada.

Air Minister Power spoke for himself and Navy Minister Macdonald and said:

Britain is prepared "almost at once" to resume shipments of training planes most urgently required in Canada; that the situation regarding supplies of training planes is "relatively satisfactory"; that training planes ordered in the United States by France had been taken over by Canada;

That expenditure for the Air Service in the current fiscal year would be $64,000,000 more than estimated a month ago; that original plans of producing pilots, gunners and observers in Canada had been accelerated;

To Replace Destroyer

That a replacement for the Destroyer, H.M.C.S. Fraser had been obtained and would be commissioned shortly; that the Royal Canadian Navy has 113 vessels with nearly 9,000 officers and men in operation; that 100 new vessels soon will be added; that two new destroyers are being built for Canada in Britain; and three merchants vessels are being converted into armed cruisers.

Statements from Munitions Minister Howe and War Services Minister Gardiner today are calculated to round out the review parliament received last night after passage of the Unemployment Insurance Bill.

The War statements had been anticipated all day but British Columbia members prolonged the Unemployment debate with fruitless demands for inclusions of loggers in the Bill. The Measure went to the Senate and received first reading.

Will Consider Request

It passed the Commons shortly after the evening sitting started and then the Prime Minister introduced the war statements. He said the government would consider requests for a secret session if members, after listening to the review, felt some matters had not been sufficiently covered. Mr. King was not in favor of a secret session.

The Defence Minister emphasized that classes called up under the general mobilization for training would be treated on exactly the same basis as those enlisting earlier.

"They are all Canadian soldiers," Col. Ralston said. "They go to the same kind of camps and belong to the same regiments and there will be no distinction whatever between them.

Three Services Co-operated

"I can assure you that the joint staffs committee have a plan prepared, submitted and approved for the proper defence of Canada, involving complete co-operation of the three services," Col. Ralston said at another point.

"We are continuing to improve our organization for home defence but at the same time we are taking the most active steps to prepare for the next phase of the war.

"The nature of the next phase is dependent on the results of the present phase. If the independence of Great Britain can be maintained, and I am confident that it can be maintained, then the final phase will and must be of an offensive nature.

"Then the active service components of our defence forces will be operating in overseas theatres in co-operation with other Empire forces. This war must be won, and no war can be won by defensive measures alone. Canadians have made history in offensive warfare."

Prime Concern is to Win

Canada's prime concern at the moment of course was winning this war, Col. Ralston, said, but long-term steps had also to be taken to see that this country in the future was as well prepared as could be to look after its own defences.

"We must never again lapse into the inadequate position which the armed forces of Canada—and Canada was not unique in this respect—were in for many years prior to the outbreak of war," he said.

The Defence Minister sketched various duties of the military forces in Canada and at the outposts of North America. Forces able to move quickly and effectively were "very much in our minds just now," he said.

The C.A.S.F. numbered 132,000 of whom nearly 100,000 were in Canada. There was room for another 15,000 men. Another 50,000 of the non-permanent Active Militia would be trained, in addition to 30,000 a month under the mobilization scheme.

Plans for 150,000 men in the C.A.S.F. had been authorised. The N.P.A.M. had a potential strength of 88,000, of which 47,323 were enrolled

Training Scheme Progresses

Col. Ralston described the swift construction of huts for the troops, the "substantial numbers" of Bren guns being issued regularly, the production of mechanical equipment exceeding Canada's own demands, and current ability to meet rifle needs "adequately." Tenders had been called on a new rifle factory to be erected to fill Canada's own needs.

As Air Minister, Major Power said the Commonwealth Air Training scheme would prove Canada's most important contribution to the common victory.

It was proceeding as originally planned, except on a much speeded up basis. Fliers from New Zealand and Australia would arrive in due course. Expenditure on the plan this year would be $182,417,000. Canada's home air service expenditure would be $37,325,000 and for overseas $13,382,000.

There were 22 schools in operation, instead of 15 as first planned. All airdromes and buildings would be completed this year, although much of it had been planned for completion next year. Personnel in the air force had increased almost 60 per cent in the last two months, now totalling 19,453.

WORKING MEN'S DWELLINGS HIT BY NAZI AIRMEN

Germans Apparenty Trying to Demoralize the British Isles as Was Tried in Madrid

RUMANIA ON SPOT

(By Guy Rhodes Canadian Press Staff Writer).

Tension spread through Europe and Asia today as Germany and Britain continued to pound each other by air, the Germans apparently trying to demoralize the British by bombing working men's dwellings.

An undetermined number of persons were killed and injured when a German bomber pilot dumped his load along narrow streets of workers' quarters in an English town. Some where buried in collapsing buildings.

Whether this civilian bombing was intentional or not it recalled similar action against civilians in the Spanish civil war notably at Madrid, Barcelona and Valencia on the Republican side where it failed to demoralize the citizens but made them angrier and more resolute.

Japanese sources at Shanghai said two more Britons had been arrested in a Japanese "spy" hunt, bringing the total number of arrests within a few days to 13, including the Reuters Tokyo correspondent who fatally injured, according to the Japanese, when he jumped from a window during police questioning. British authorities protested those arrested were not spies.

Rumania Given Till Sept. 15

Germany was reported to have given Rumania until Sept. 15 to settle her territorial disputes with her neighbors, Hungary and Bulgaria. If Rumania has not settled outstanding questions by that time, the Germans were reported to have warned, the Reich would step in and do the settling.

In Germany, Italy and Japan there was talk about new world orders, new economic blocs and the like, all based on supposition that the major part of the world might pass under totalitarian rule.

Japan was said to have offered China peace terms, demanding five provinces, French Indo-China and British Burma, all of which would pass under the "Yen Bloc' trade influence. China rejected them.

Germany and Italy were reported trying to harness the Balkan countries to the "new order" in trade as well as politics, although there appeared to be little distinction between the two concepts.

Totalitarian trade is conducted mainly by barter. For instance Trieste shipyards before the war were able to sell Norway new ships in exchange for sardines from Stavanger. Germany offers Rumania heavy machinery in exchange for much needed oil to run Nazi blitzkreigs. Rumania may not want machinery, but in her rather embarrassing position, she had better take it—or else.

Such trade is for nations without money and one of the anxieties of those who still have real money is that they may get stuck with it.

Totalitarian economy uses the kind of money that New York's picturesque Al Smith used to call the 'baloney dollar".

Gas, Scrap Metal Export Ban May Prove Strong Factor

Washington, July 30—(AP)—The new United States export licencing system for aviation gasoline and scrap metal was viewed in authoritative circles today as giving the government a potential means of dissuading Japan from pushing anti-American policies in the Orient.

Under President Roosevelt's recent proclamation, government licences will be required after tomorrow midnight for exports of aviation motor fuel, aviation lubricating oil, tetraethyl lead and No. 1 heavy melting iron and steel scrap.

Well-informed sources predicted that licences will be issued for the export of "considerable quantities" of these commodities. Although these licences will be for one year, they may be revoked whenever the government decides that national defence needs reqdire it.

Thhs continued shipments may be licensed to Japan, but it was pointed out that they could be cut off at any time—for instance if that country intensified efforts to slam shut the "open door" of equal commercial opportunity in China.

Any such action would have to be based on defence grounds, and probably would require an official finding that defence requirements had reached the point where the supplies in question should be kept at home.

AIR TRAINING SCHEME AIDED

When a new Cub "65" training plane, the fastest of its type yet produced in Canada, was donated by the Ontario Paper Co., of Thorold, to the St. Catharines Flying club, it boosted the ability of that club to train student pilots for the Royal Canadian Air Force. The plane was accepted by M. A. Seymour, K.C., president of the Canadian Flying Clubs' association, and holder of the McKee trophy for the most distinguished contribution to Canadian aviation in 1939, and Lloyd Snell, president of the St. Catharines club, LEFT and RIGHT above. The plane was presented by A. A. Schmon, president and manager of the company, CENTRE ABOVE, and the presentation was watched by young air force student pilots.

British Devise Antidote For Swift Motor Torpedo Boats Used by Germany

London, July 30—(CP)—An effective antidote to the swift motor torpedo boats which Germany is using against British shipping will be found and "we may already have found it," a naval officer declared today.

The boats constitute a "menace" with a high nuisance value, the officer said, but asserted that the German boats ranged from 90 to 130 feet in length and weighed from 50 to 90 tons. They have a speed of 30 to 40 knots, he said, and a "healthy" endurance, which he estimated averaged about 600 miles.

In addition to torpedoes they carry heavy automatic guns probably thing a 1 1-2-inch shell, the officer reported.

Effective use of the craft, which Britain has dubbed "E-boats" ("E" standing for enemy) to distinguish them from U-boats, probably will be limited by the weather to the period between April and October, the officer said, although under favorable circumstances they might operate usefully even in winter.

Use French Channel Coast

Although the boats could be based anywhere from Bordeaux to Narvik, Norway, the officer said, Germany probably would use bases on the French channel coast because they are nearer objectives.

The officer listed these main tasks on which the "E-boats" have been used to date:

1. Mine laying last spring.
2. Anti-submarine work in the Skagerrak and off the Netherlands and Norwegian coasts.
3. General duties, including dispatch and escort work in the Norwegian campaign.
5. Attacks on small British naval craft and the numerous auxiliaries used to remove British troops from Dunkerque.
6. More recently attacks on British convoys, especially at night The latter attacks have earned the boats the nickname of "nighthawks."

Agreement Reached In Suit for Quarter Of 'Sweeps' Winning

Cork, Eire, July 30.—(CP Cable)—An agreement has been reached in the suit in which Guerba Foster claimed a quarter share of the £30,000 ($133,500) won by Dora B. Smith of Strathroy, Ont., in the 1938 Irish Sweepstakes on the Cesarewitch, it was announced today in court.

Counsel explained that Miss Foster had been employed in Miss Smith's beauty parlor. An agreement was reached out of court.

The winning ticket was drawn on Contravent.

Family in Launch Believed Caught In Severe Storm

Meaford, Ont., July 30.—(CP)—Believed caught in one of the worst storms of the season Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scheel, Detroit, and their three daughters were reported last night to be en route from this Georgian Bay port to Detroit in their 24-foot launch "Charles Lee". They left late today and no further report has been received but local mariners believed the Lee might well weather the storm.

Another launch William Wooley's "Spirit of St. Louis" arrived safely with 25 passengers after bucking high wind and tossing water.

NORTH AMERICAN GRANARIES FULL IN SHORT TIME

Trade Experts Draw Picture of Huge Surpluses of Bread Grain and Feed

EUROPEAN CONTRAST

(By Franklin Mullin, Associated Press Staff Writer)

Chicago, July 30—(AP) — The North American granary promises to be overflowing soon, with merchandisers facing the task of finding sufficient storage space for huge surpluses of bread grain and feed.

In sharp contrast, Europe's grain crops are sub-normal, the war-torn continent faces an acute shortage in animal feed and some localities may feel the pinch of inadequate food supplies unless available supplies are proportionately distributed.

This, grain trade experts said, offers a striking illustration of world economic maladjustment due to the war — a maladjustment likely to continue as long as hostilities or even longer if normal international trade cannot be restored.

In North America an estimated exportable surplus of wheat alone exceeding 600,000,000 bushels largest on record, is expected to be piled up when harvesters finish. This is enough grain to satisfy Europe's normal import requirements for more than a year.

Meanwhile, Europe, exclusive of Russia, is harvesting its first seriously deficient crop since 1930—estimated to be more than 20 per cent smaller than last year's. The total North American supply is expected to exceed 1,600,000,000 bushels, second largest in history.

The United States and Canada have a grain storage capacity at principal terminal points of close to 900,000,000 bushels, exclusive of farm and country storage. Much of this space now is filled and the combined wheat harvest of the two nations is less than half in the bin.

Canada's Record Carry Over

Canada has a record breaking carryover of wheat and the largest growing acreage on record. With more than 250,000,000 bushels on hand and a 400,000,000 bushel crop in prospect Dominion officials have been forced to place a partial embargo on shipments from country to terminals already crowded with supplies. More than 30,000,000 bushels have been stored in bond in the United States.

The United States will carry over 280,000,000 bushels of old wheat and have more than 700,000,000 bushels of the new drops. In addition, its carryover of corn will be the largest on record, with more than 400,000,000 bushels involved in the government loan program alone. Much new wheat and corn is expected to be sealed up as collateral for new government loans.

Finance Highlights

Ottawa, July 30—(CP)—Following are highlights from Finance Minister Ilsley's statement on War Financing to the House of Commons today:

Unemployment insurance contributions of $4,000,000 a month will play a substantial part in Canada's war financing, through their investment in Government securities.

Employment exchanges, under insurance scheme, will prove vital line in mobilizing nation's labor forces.

Increased British purchases in Canada's own deficit will require use of "really enormous" savings of the Canadian people, accumulated by doing without luxuries and even comforts.

War Saving Certificate sales totalled $16,690,435 on July 27, approximately 1,000,000 workers buying them regularly.

Restriction on exchange for pleasure travel does not indicate Canada is trying to save money at expense of United States but use as much as possible for buying war needs in the United States.

COMMITTEE VOTES TO THROW OUT ALBERTA BANK BILL

Ottawa, July 30—(C)—The Commons Committee on Banking and Commerce today recommended to the House that the bill to incorporate the Alberta Provincial Bank be thrown out. The action followed two weeks' study by the committee concluding with an opinion by the Justice Department that the bill was ultra vires.

In its report the committee declared "It was of the opinion that the subject matter of the bill was such that it ought not to be enacted."

Interned Aliens Owe Their Lives To Restigouche Crew

Ottawa, July 30.— (CP)—More than half the survivors of the British liner "Arandora Star", recently torpedoed and sunk while carrying interned aliens, owe their lives to the Canadian destroyer Restigouche, Air Minister Power told the House of Commons last night in a review of the naval war effort.

Major Powell also referred to the loss of the Canadian Destroyer Fraser while assisting in the evacuation of Bordeaux. He said the Canadian vessel sank after collision with a British ship, with a loss of 45 of the destroyer's crew.

The Restigouche was at Bordeaux and because of the gallantry of her officers and crew the loss on the Fraser was not greater.

"I am able to announce and I think it is the first time, the announcement has been made, that the same Canadian ship Restigouche again distinguished herself in rescuing survivors from the Arandora Star", Major Power continued.

"The Restigouche saved several members of the cew and about 700 of the internees. More than half of the number rescued from the Arandora Star owe their lives to the coolness and gallantry of the officers and men of the Restigouche".

Nazis Use Screech Bombs to Terrify English Residents

London, July 30 (CP)—German warplanes struck new blows on Britain's coast today, taking an undisclosed toll of civilian life.

Heaviest hit were towns on the east coast, north and south of the mouth of the Thames.

A lone Nazi raider, dumping his heavy bombs in several salvos on a congested working class district, killed several persons, one of them an infant, in a southeast town. Several others were injured, some buried under the debris of shattered buildings.

The bombs burst on houses along a narrow street, destroying four on one side and three on the other.

A new tally on the wholesale sky fights yesterday over the English channel harbor of Dover—closest to the Nazi-held French coast—increased the unofficial toll of downed German warplanes to 25.

Two Nazi Planes Shot Down

Two Nazi bombers were shot down today.

One was officially reported bagged in the early morning forays and the Air Ministry later announced that "an enemy bomber was shot down off the northeast coast of Scotland shortly after noon today by fighters of the R.A.F."

Screaming bombs—supposed to make air raids even more terrifying—apparently defeated their own purpose in a northeastern town.

"I was leaving my house by a side door to go to a shelter when I heard the screaming of the first bomb," a 65-year-old laborer related.

"Instinctively, I jumped back and closed the door behind me. There was a terrific explosion in the street a few yards away and the door was blown out of my hands.

"If I had not heard the screaming noise I would have walked right into the bomb track."

U.S. Liner Bearing Duke and Duchess To Have An Escort

London, July 30—(CP)—Regardless of United States law that American ships shall avoid armed convoys, the American export liner Excalibur may travel under the protection of British guns on its next westward crossing because the Duke and Duchess of Windsor are expected to be on board.

(The British Embassy at Lisbon, Portugal, announced last night the Windsors are sailing Thursday).

Three United States diplomats as well as the Duke and Duchess may have British naval units hovering over them as they return home—John Cudahy, Ambassador to Belgium; William Phillips, Ambassador to Italy and George Gordon, Minister to The Netherlands.

The British authorities are going to take no chances that the Duke, recently appointed Governor of the Bahamas, might be removed from the Excalibur by German or Italian patrols, and the navy therefore, informed sources said, will keep a "sort of long distance watch" on the ship.

"Obviously we have to see that he doesn't get taken off," these sources said.

Co-operation of Citizens Urged By Major Mowat at Rotary Club Thanked for Donation of Softball Equipment Given to Regiment

WOOLER IN FINALS

Trenton, July 30 (Special)—Full co-operation of every citizen was requested by Major Angus Mowat, speaking to the Trenton Rotary here last night. Major Mowat is the Officer Commanding Headquarters Company of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Second Battalion.

"We have had a fine turnout of recruits," said the Major, "but these recruits need your support and your aid. This club has already shown its willingness to help the boys by presenting the company with softball equipment, which is very much appreciated."

"The Second Battalion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is being recruited for Home Defence. As you know the First Battalion of this famous regiment is now serving overseas and some of the Trenton boys with the regiment have distinguished themselves."

"The First Battalion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is commanded by a Trenton boy, Lt. Col. H. D. Graham with another Trenton boy, Major Norrington, as second in command."

Wooler continued its march towards the Cobley Cup here last night by defeating the Canadian Doughnuts 15 to 9, in the third and final game in the Trenton District playdowns. The winners will meet the R.C.A.F. Flyers in a three-out-of-five series for the championship.

The heavy hitting Woolerites have moved from fourth place in the league into the finals by eliminating Glen Miller and then the Doughnuts.

Wooler started in the first frame to collect runs and scored practically every frame. McCall really started Wooler on the road to win, when he clipped out a homer with three on bases in the sixth frame. Five more runs were added in the seventh before the winners could be stopped.

The Doughnuts were unable to solve the curves and speed of Stacey as he mowed them down in fine style. During the first seven frames he allowed only five hits but relinquished a little in the eighth to give up another five hits. Ellis started on the mound for the Doughnuts but was replaced by Burtt in the sixth. Neither hurler seemed to be able to tame the slugging Wooler team.

The lineups:

Doughnuts: Morin ss; Heaney 1b; LaMorre c; Burtt cf; Stain 2b; Bowden 3b; Townsend rf; Bell lf; Ellis.

Wooler: Austin 1b; Ruttan 3b; McCall cf; Stacey p; L. Radcliffe ss; May rf; Adams lf; G. Reid 2b; Callahan c.

Showers Bring Temporary Relief In Illinois Area

Chicago, July 30.—(AP)—Thundershowers brought a measure of relief to some parts of the parched United States today but for most of the country the day was just another lap in the heat marathon.

As the mercury again climbed toward the 90's, the number of deaths from the season's most prolonged heat wave increased to 765. Heat deaths numbered 382, drownings 383.

Illinois reported 74 deaths attributed to heat prostration, most of them in Chicago. Ohio's total was 36 Michigan's 35, Pennsylvania's 34, and Wisconsin's 29.

Showers bought temporary respite in the Lake region and at scattered points in the Atlantic and Gulf States, the Appalachian district and the Upper Ohio Valley. Torrential rains in the foothills west of Fountain, Colo., caused extensive damage to crops, washed out railroad tracks and delayed automobile traffic between Colorado Springs and Pueblo.

Trenton, Ont., July 30—(CP)—Crown Attorney Gordon Robertson said today that Robert Mcfarlane, 21 and his wife, Alice, 18, will appear Friday on murder charges relating to the death of Mrs. Mcfarlane's two-year-old son, Gordon Archer, but they likely will be remanded another week.

The youthful bride and groom of a fortnight were arrested last Friday soon after the baby's body, bound with heavy wire, was found near the Canadian National Railways bridge across Trent River here.

The Girl Who isn't Dated At College

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

A mother writes of her daughter, 21, who graduated from a girl's 2-year college. "Last year she worked as secretary in an office near home. This year she entered —— college, co-educational.

"She has always been an excellent student . . . valedictorian of her high school class. She won several awards at the 2-year college, including piano and tennis championship.

"She does not like it at —— at all and does not wish to complete her college work. She is majoring in Business Administration. She wants to enter a good business school next year and finish her work there.

"I'm opposed to it. Since she has had 3 years of college, do you not think it would be to her interest if she finished and received her degree instead of jumping into business? She has a B-plus average.

Has Become a Cynic

"She's home on vacation now. Saturday she had a spell — cried and said she never hated any place as she does this school.

"She says she has never had a date and is tired of watching so many other girls dating and having a good time. There, I feel is the whole trouble.

"She is so genuine, kind and sincere—but of late has taken on a sort of cynical, sarcastic attitude.

"I do want to know whether you think we would do more harm than good by insisting that she return to college next year to complete the work and receive her degree. A self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed."

How I answered her:

"It is hard for you and me to see that it would not be wise for your daughter to return to college and earn her college degree. But you and I don't have that daughter's head and heart. Her ambition is to be well prepared for business.

Let Her Decide

"Back of that it is to meet and win some boy friends. Nothing else means so much to her. She feels the door is closed to her at that college and it probably is.

"I certainly think you might do a thousand times more harm than good in urging her to go back to college. Anyway, this girl is pretty well grown up. Why should you choose to dictate her procedure in such matters? Let me entreat you to tell her you are sorry you have made her so unhappy and ask her forgiveness. From now on encourage her in her business college plan. Do more. Find ways to bring her in touch with more young men. Conspire with her to make home dates. If you have already prevailed upon her to return to that college, then contrive with some of the faculty members there to conspire in turn with some of the student leaders to help this daughter have dates at college.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Urges Her to Marry Without Parental Consent

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm in love with a boy who has a good job with a fair income, and comes from an excellent family. He has asked me to marry him, but I hesitate for fear I am not old enough to do it without my parents consent. Please tell me how old a girl must be before she is allowed to marry without parents' consent. Do you think it advisable?

Waiting.

In the province from which you write, age limits for males is 21, females 18, without consent of parents or guardian. With consent of parents or guardians, males 16, females 14. License must be obtained from county clerk. A three-day wait for license is required.

The above are the legal requirements for which you ask. But if you will take a word from me, it is extremely unwise for a young girl to fly in the face of parental opposition and marry. There is probably some valid reason why your parents object to this particular young man.

Widower's Problem

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 42 years old, and think a great deal of a widow who is about my age. My wife died five years ago and I have no children. I'd marry this lady immediately if I had any money or a job. She has one son of 23 who disapproves of my affair with his mother, and as he supports her, she doesn't want to displease him. So she asks me to come over only when he is out. His chief concern seems to be what the neighbors might say about his mother and me.

T.

It seems more likely that the boy is concerned about your unemployment than the question of neighborhood gossip. Naturally, as she is supported by him, his sense of obligation stop there. Since you are not employed, he does not wish to include a stepfather in this obligation. Better make sure you are earning a salary before you consider marrying.

Broken Engagement a Past Chapter

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A young man and I fell desperately in love three years ago. His family forbid him to see me, and it's almost two years since I saw him.

Recently he married a 17-year-old girl although he says he still loves me. I went to see him at his office one day and he's a shadow of his former self, having lost about fifty pounds. I've also lost weight. They nagged him so much at home, that he married this girl to get away.

If I had known of his bank account at the time of our separation two years ago I would have insisted he give all of the money to his family, as I believe that was the cause of all the trouble. We could manage nicely on his salary.

What would you do?

Heartbroken L.

I'd try to forget all about this past chapter in my life, if I were you. Pick up the pieces and go on. The young man must have had a certain intrinsic weakness of character or he would have been more independent and not have allowed his family to interfere so drastically in his love affairs.

It's not quite clear to me why, if they objected to you, as his wife, on the score of his bank account, they did not raise these same objections in regard to the 17-year-old. He is bound and you are free, with all of life before you. In the homely words of the old adage, Why cry over spilled milk?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I want to celebrate our wedding anniversary by inviting to dine with us at a restaurant a man and wife who are very dear friends of ours.

1.—The question of ordering always puzzles me. Should my husband order for all of us or should each person give his or her individual order to the waiter?

Also when a man and his wife are dining alone, is it correct for the wife to make her selection known to her husband, and he do the ordering for both?

2.—If a toast is proposed to us on the evening of our anniversary, should we merely say "Thank you", and sip our wine when our guests do, or isn't it correct to drink when the toast is proposed?

M. N.

1.—One of my pet enthusiasms is the woman who, when she is dining with a man in a restaurant, acknowledges her escort's position by telling him her order so that he can relay both orders to the waiter. You, the wife of the host, should do this when you and your husband are dining together, and, at your foursome anniversary dinner, this is what your husband's two guests should do.

As I say, this gracious rule is based on logic. The host is powerless to carry out the details of his position if his guests unknowingly or unthinkingly disregard him and give their own orders to the waiter. The host can do nothing about this discourtesy, and the waiter, no matter how well he knows that this procedure is out of order, can do nothing but take the orders as they are given to him.

The proper procedure is this: the host and the guests, menu cards in hand, may talk over the foods, the host may make suggestions as to what he knows are specialties of the restaurant, all choose their preferences, tell these to the host, and the host relays these to the waiter at his side. The especially polite host takes care to give first the orders of the ladies in the party, and then of the gentlemen, his own last. Then the waiter, even one with a minimum of training, will come to him for all further orders and suggestions.

You may make the point that some hosts do not realize that this is the proper procedure. I'll grant this. But if the guest courteously gives her or his order directly to the host, he will quickly sense the appropriate procedure and will act accordingly. As a matter of fact, there will then be no alternative for him but to give the orders to the waiter.

2.—Since you are dining in a restaurant your guests will probably not rise for the toast. Whether or not they do, you and your husband remain in your seats, and while your guests are drinking the toast to you, you do not even lift your glasses. After your husband has thanked for the toast, you and your husband join your guests in drinking the wine.

A gracious "Thank you" is enough of an acknowledgment of a toast, but, of course, a longer reply, especially in the circumstance of an anniversary, is proper.

Visiting Courtesy Tip

While you are visiting, don't expect to be entertained every minute of your visit. Naturally your hostess will want some time to herself, and the thoughtful guest "disappears", to rest, to read, to write letters.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, July 31

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

CONFLICTING testimonies are to be noted in this day's planetary set-up, and while there are not flagrantly adverse aspects, yet there is need for much forethought and discretion in the management of business affairs.

Those whose birthday it is may find the emphasis placed on the social, domestic, artistic or affectional expressions of life during the year. In these there will be found much activity, gratification and emotional happiness.

A child born on this day should have much versatility and unusual talents, perhaps inventive, original and scientific. It may be calculating and shrewd, with peculiar insight or "hunches." Its social and affectional life will be happy and gracious.

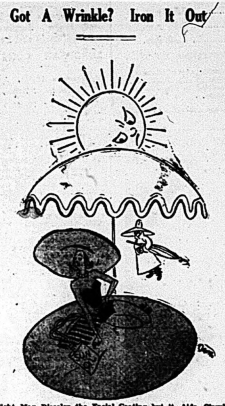
Got A Wrinkle? Iron It Out



"Sunlight May Discolor the Facial Coating but it Aids Circulation."

By HELEN FOLLETT

Much can be done to stave off wrinkles. In later life they are due to the natural loss of subcutaneous fat and because the underlying fibers have become relaxed. Circulation slows up in the aged.

The best insurance against accordion pleats in the human portrait is found in mental and physical health. Good nutrition, regular exercise, refreshing sleep keep the musculature sound and tissues firm. Cheerfulness and laughter are strong influences that help one to retain youthful appearance and a satin-smooth skin. Twinkle wrinkles around the eyes are bearable, but lines formed by worry or self pity are pretty dreadful.

Use Oil Lavishly

The skin thrives on oil, so creams should be used freely especially after the thirtieth milestone has been passed. Use a light cream or oil for removing make up. After the face has been washed at night with soap and water do some brisk tip-tapping with the finger tips. This treatment hardens the muscles, gives them exercise. Cold water has a favorable reaction, but should not be used before cream is applied. The time for the cold rinsing is in the morning.

Sunlight may discolor the facial coating, but it aids circulation and the moisture it brings to the surface acts as a cleansing agent to the pores.

In adult life bow legs cannot be corrected, so it's no good worrying about them. The wise girl will not wear extremely short skirts if she is afflicted.

In children much can be done to straighten bowed legs. Special shoes are prescribed and there are other corrective measures.

Fatted calves can be trimmed down by jumping a rope. Thin ones will respond to vitalizing massage if it is continued long enough. Cocoanut oil is used. A bracelet is formed with the thumb and fingers, the legs massaged crosswise, working from ankle to knee with heavy pressure.

Women Knows Florida's Flora; Authority on 800 Varieties

Mrs. Bessie B. Stones, Daytona Beach, is known throughout the Peninsula State as "Florida's Wild Flower Lady". She is an authority on the 800 varieties of flowers native to her vicinity, says a story from there in the Christian Science Monitor.

As a tiny girl in Ohio and Indiana, Bessie learned to identify hundreds of botanical names from her parents, both teachers who studied flowers as a hobby. When Bessie came to Florida with her elder sister 35 years ago, it was only natural for her to continue this interesting study. Now her entire family joins her in excursions throughout the state searching for new blooms.

"Florida's interesting collection of wild flowers is probably the largest in the nation, equalling if not surpassing the abundance of the Carolinas," Mrs. Stones told the writer. "North Florida has plants similar to those in other states, while South Florida has tropical blooms. A wide variety of hybrids can be found in the mid-section."

Orchids Are Her Favorites

Orchids, of which she claims 100 species native to Florida, are her favorites. She prefers tree orchids, but has many other varieties in her gardens. Several years ago she found an orchid that no one has yet identified. She sent samples to outstanding orchid specialists, but no one was familiar with it. The leaves of this unknown orchid are broad and shiny, growing radical, she explained. The flowers, glistening white, grow on a spike and look as if they were sprinkled with pearl dust.

"Everyone is always interested in Florida holly, mistletoe and Christmas poinsettias," Mrs. Stones continued. "And tourists never forget the delightful aroma of the night-blooming jessamine. Swamp honeysuckles with their lovely scents are also popular. They really are a type of azalea, of which we have three wild varieties in Florida."

Mrs. Stones is interested in the plants which devour insects. She has collected four varieties of pitcher plants that lure insects into their big pitcher-like flowers. Sundews and butterworts are another insectivorous species prevalent in Florida. Sticky rosettes of leaves having bristles of hair close on the insect when he alights.

Their Million-Dollar Weed

"Northerners generally rave over the beauty of our water hyacinth, when it is arranged attractively in huge bowls at flower shows," she laughed. "But Floridians call it the 'million-dollar weed.' Rivers must constantly be dredged of this beautiful flower in order to keep the channels open for navigation. Rock gardens and lily pools in the north find it a lovely addition."

Mrs. Stones gives many lectures to clubwomen on wild flowers, and she has a set of large hand-painted pictures with which to illustrate them. For several years she was associate editor of "Beautiful Florida," and she is a member of the National League of American Pen-women.

She has thousands of friends throughout the United States who have been attracted by her work at the Daytona Beach summer and winter shows, where Mrs. Stones supervises all wild flower exhibits,

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Time is Vital Element in Treatment of Insect Bites

This is the season of the year when children and adults alike suffer from insect bites. It has been a bad year in this section of the country for both black flies and mosquitoes and I wish you could have seen the Dionne Quintuplets a week or so ago. They were covered with bites in spite of the fact that the nursery is carefully screened and we keep them covered with fly dope.

Small babies suffer a lot from the bites of these insects. Not long ago I saw a baby that was seriously ill from black fly bites. These black flies are tiny insects and screens don't keep them out very well. They had gotten into the baby's room, and had bitten the poor child about the face until her eyes were almost swollen shut. The baby had absorbed so much poison from these bites that she had quite a temperature, and she was really ill.

City dwellers don't know much about black flies and what they mean. But I've seen men who had been lost in the bush come out covered with blood and almost insane from the bites of these little flies. Mosquitoes are friendly little fellows compared to them.

When a mosquito bites you, he shoves his little built-in hypodermic syringe—his proboscis— under your skin and sucks out some blood. When he has taken his toll, he withdraws the proboscis, leaving behind some of his saliva. This is what causes all the irritation and makes you keep on scratching. The bites of fleas, bugs and flies are of this same type.

Ants and spiders bite a little differently. When they puncture the skin, they inject venom for that is their method of killing their prey. Fortunately, this plan fails with humans, but they can kill almost any other insect in this way. In fact, tropical spiders of the scorpion type can even seriously affect humans.

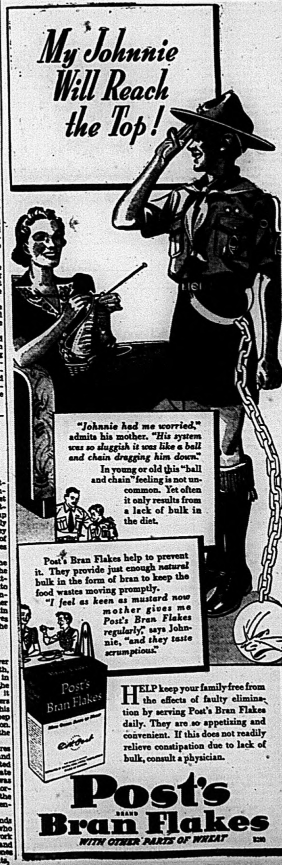
The sting of the bee or wasp is somewhat similar to the bite of spider or ant. Their venom, however is especially manufactured for their protection, and when it lets go at us, it does a good deal more effective job of irritation than the mosquito.

When any of these venom-injecting insects bites us, the treatment is aimed at either diluting the venom or neutralizing it. The most important factor is time. If we wait even a few minutes, the poison causes a swelling of the area so the hole left by the stinger is closed up and we cannot reach the venom.

Putting the area in water is helpful in diluting the venom, and lessening the effect of the sting. The best measure, however, is to bathe the area with a solution of ammonia or soda. Remember that time is vital—these things should be used without delay.

WAR AS APPETIZER

Arcadia, Calif. — (CP) — An enterprising lunch-counter man here prints the latest war news on the back of his menus and declares his customers eat more as a result.



My Johnnie Will Reach the Top!

"Johnnie had me worried," admits his mother. "His system was so sluggish it was like a ball and chain dragging him down."

In young or old this "ball and chain" feeling is not uncommon. Yet often it only results from a lack of bulk in the diet.

Post's Bran Flakes help to prevent it. They provide just enough natural bulk in the form of bran to keep the food wastes moving promptly.

"I feel as keen as mustard now mother gives me Post's Bran Flakes regularly," says Johnnie, "and they taste scrumptious."

HELP keep your family free from the effects of faulty elimination by serving Post's Bran Flakes daily. They are so appetizing and convenient. If this does not readily relieve constipation due to lack of bulk, consult a physician.

Swimming Hailed As Best Exercise

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

FOR OLD and young, swimming is a joyous and splendid form of exercise. It can be used by the lame and the halt, by those whose feet are too sore or whose legs are too weak or crippled to use for walking, golf, or tennis.

Natural water is best—the ocean, the lake, the river. But modern hygiene and the work of sanitary engineers have made pools safe and comfortable. The bacterial content and clearness of the water, personal cleanliness of bathers, laundering of suits, maintenance of sanitary conditions on the premises have led to great reduction in infectious diseases from bathing in pools. Filtration of the water and the reduction of bacteria by ultraviolet ray or passage of the water through ozonating machines, or the chemical treatment of the water by chlorine are themselves harmless and have practically eliminated contamination of the water as a source of infection of the sinuses and ears.

Other health hazards from swimming can be prevented by the application of common sense.

Chilling of the body surface is one of these.

No Warning

The specific heat of water is high. If you had every substance on earth collected together and experimented to find how much heat it would take to get them hot, and how long it would take to cool them off, water would just about head the list. It takes heat from the body ravenously.

That is one danger of swimming exercises. Nature's warnings—getting hot and perspiration and general discomfort—which slow us up in other sports do not appear while swimming. Then the cool environment tends to ward off fatigue until finally, suddenly collapse occurs.

Even water of the temperature of 70 degrees F. causes a chilling shock, as can be seen from blue lips and chattering teeth. And this chilling of the body surfaces causes general changes which, as Dr. H. Marshall Taylor, of Jacksonville, Florida, who has added so much to our knowledge of the hygiene of swimming, shows, reduces resistance to infection. These general body changes include a reduction in the number of white blood corpuscles in the circulating blood, constriction of the blood vessels on the surface of the body, including the mucous membrane of the nose.

Not After Meals

Swimming after meals—there has been no change in the hygienist's ideas that this is a bad thing. The blood goes to the interior after a meal and if there is any tendency to cramps there is proportionately more danger. The blood is only partially diverted to the muscles after a meal, and exercise in cold water imposes a demand that results in cramped muscles and obvious attendant dangers.

Canada Will Take Vanilla

By ELEANOR ROSS

BRING ON your crepes suzettes, your meringues chantilly and your dame blanche aux fruit. I'll make mine ice cream, as do most of us. It is the great Canadian dessert, the saver of the situation when unexpected company drops in, the impromptu celebration when nice things happen. We don't have to make it ourselves if we don't want to, for there it is in all sorts of flavors and combinations, awaiting our pleasure at the corner store. But what we can do is to have at hand containers of sauces or toppings to give plain ice cream extra oomph. Here are some sauces that may be made in advance and stored against use.

Vanilla Base

A coffee sauce will do things for ice cream and it is easily prepared. Boil together a cup of strong coffee and 1 1-2 cups of sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt for 5 minutes. Add tablespoon butter and 2 tablespoons of cream. Grand on other desserts too.

Peanut Butter Fudge Sauce will turn ice cream into a confection. Cut a square of unsweetened chocolate in pieces and place with 2 tablespoons honey, 3 tablespoons sugar, 2-3 cup of water and 1-4 teaspoon salt in saucepan. Bring to a boil quickly, stirring until sugar is dissolved; cook 2 minutes longer. Cool. Place 1-3 cup of peanut butter in a bowl, add syrup gradually, whipping with a rotary beater until smooth. Add quarter teaspoon vanilla. Store in covered jar in refrigerator until ready for use.

Sundae School

Marshmallow Cream Sauce is made by combining 1-4 cup water, 1-3 cup light corn syrup and 2-3 cup sugar and boiled together until mixture spins a thread. Remove from heat and fold in sixteen marshmallows which have been quartered with wet scissors. When smooth, turn hot mixture into a bowl containing 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Beat only until well mixed. Store in glass container in refrigerator.

Back we come to the ever-popular coffee flavor, this time with a swell caramel sauce. Melt slowly a cup of sugar in a heavy pan over a low flame. Add 1 1-2 cups strong, hot coffee and cook again until sugar is dissolved. Add 5 tablespoons cornstarch, blended with a small amount of water. Cook until mixture thickens—about 5 minutes. Add a pinch of salt and 2 tablespoons butter.

Air-Conditioned Bed Is Latest

Seattle, Wash., July 30.—Invention of an air-conditioned bed has been announced at the University of Washington.

The bed warms a person in winter and cools him in summer. You dial your own weather for the night with a knob at the head of the bed.

An air-cushion under you and a new form of air-blanket over you makes this possible. The air-cushion affords, furthermore, another easily installed possibility.

If Father won't get up when called, Mother downstairs may press a button, and plop goes Father's air-cushion.

The inventor, Dr. K. F. Kirsten, famous aeronautical engineer, estimates that the new bed can be manufactured for less cost than present high class beds.

The bed is a sheet metal box, minus a top. Over this open space is stretched a fabric sufficiently air-tight to form a good cushion when the box is filled with compressed air.

But the fabric is also porous enough to permit slow seepage of this compressed air, whether warmed or cooled, up and around the sleeper.

Asbestos lines the steel interior and an electric heating tube in the box warms the air. If cooling is wanted, it is only necessary to turn down the heater, for the air always comes into the box cooled automatically by expansion.

The compressed air comes from a basement tank, at 150 pounds per square inch. In the bed this pressure reduces to only one-quarter pound a square inch. The expansion automatically reduces the temperature to 52 Fahrenheit.

A single special cover goes over the sleeper. It is a hollow blanket. Air from the bed below passes through the fine tubes into the foot of this blanket and rolls forward inside the fabric to exit around the sleeper's shoulders. But by the time the air reaches there, Dr. Kirsten says, it has lost its speed and temperature so that there is no draft blowing on the sleeper's neck.

The bed was designed especially for use in hotels and large establishments.

Bonnets Originally Worn by Men

IT IS typical of the whimsy of fashion and of words—that a term bonnet which today is the epitome of feminine vanity, once referred solely to an article of masculine dress.

This is the word "bonnet" which before 1700 in England was applied to that male head-covering which we now call a cap. When the word "cap" came into common use only the Scots held to the old meaning of the word bonnet, and today the "Scots cap" is still called a bonnet.

The feminine bonnet was first introduced into England during the latter 18th Century and was made of straw. It followed the flat Gypsy hat, in the endless cycle of fashion and was evidently the poke shape affair with strings which has come to be considered the most characteristic bonnet. It was to vary widely in shape and trim during the century, however, and to attain preposterous proportions.

The Wellington

During the decade 1810 to 1820, when military enthusiasm ran high, it became the "Wellington bonnet," with front cut out to show a lace cap underneath. In 1870 young girls wore bonnets of velvet with flower trimming, and a bridle of velvet under the chin instead of the strings worn by elder women.

When the "chignon" or "waterfall" coiffure came into style, bonnets were cut out in back to fit above the chignon. Set well to the front of the head, they have been compared at this period to the leaning tower of Pisa. "Juglers" of feathers or fur were substituted for strings by elegant dressers.

The most famous historic "bonnet" was the "Bonnet Rouge" which became an emblem of the Republic during the French Revolution, and versions of which have been adopted by certain of the Latin-American Republics.

Changes With Fashion

Just what a bonnet is today is a matter of speculation. Webster finds it is usually distinguished from a hat "for reasons changing with the fashion." In a discreet, straddle-the-fence definition, he says it "may be brimless or may shade the face (as a poke bonnet); it may be hood-shaped and drawn over the head and ears, or may be small, covering only the top of the head; it may be designed for formal occasions or merely for informal outdoor use (as a sunbonnet) ……It is usually kept in place by ribbons or strings tied under the chin."

Gauged by 1940 fashion pronouncements, Webster was right. For the term bonnet is applied to many different versions of that basic silhouette which means an arched brim framing the face and attached to a fitted crown-cap section. There are bonnet-toques revived from the late Victorian period, set well back on the head and tied under the chin. Simple wide brims that reveal the face but suggest bonnet lines are a youthful classic. Little caps posed back of the pompadour and squared like a baby bonnet, were launched by Schiaparelli in the midseason openings and while brimless, retain bonnet characteristics and promise to carry through to fall. The sugar scoop bonnet of the Directoire period, as well as the small, neat head enveloping bonnets identified with Shakers and Quakers have been worn during recent years but are not in the mode for the summer of 1940.

Elegance for Fall Dress-Up

Fashion Spotlight Turns on Smart Apparel for Evenings

SOMETIMES, it's a good idea to go out for an evening dress without a single idea about what you want. For one reason, you may search in vain for your dream dress. For another, you may discover an enchanting dress you'd never in the world have dreamed up. All this is particularly true of mid-season when it's not improbable your need is most desperate.

It's perfectly possible that you might be looking for a simple black chiffon but completely change your mind on seeing yourself in white net and azure blue silk jersey sketched today. Its effect is totally flattering to the tall figure, whether the wearer is ultra-thin or not-so-thin.

x x x

Such gowns as these are practical for roof dancing into the wee hours of the morning. More and more of them are to be seen, despite the onward and upward course of the thermometer, as time rushes on into the dogdays. Any trend which can survive the hot months after a mid-winter beginning is good for a second winter season……so take this idea for evening seriously.

x x x

Side-saddle drapery brings up an old point about looking smartly dressed. It's still true that it's not the clothes a woman wears but the way she wears them that often makes for chic. A model who recently appeared on the runway in one of the new side-wrapped skirts put it across because she knew how to walk and behave in a thoroughly easy manner.

Whether you yourself do, is your privilege to decide. If the answer is yes, you can't do better on line and price than a two-piece jersey dress. Should you be assembling a vacation wardrobe remember that jersey packs prettily and is not affected by sea and salt air.

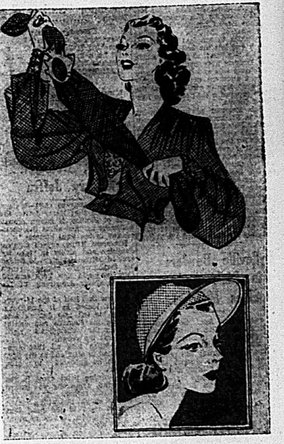
Decorative Fishnet



By PRUNELLA WOOD

BY NOW most of us are familiar with that Paris innovation for late Summer, the choir boy jacket of starched linen and lace which those who can afford it are wearing over slim evening gowns. Something of the same decorative effect can be achieved with an American accessory which is much less costly and more practical—the fishnet lumberjacket. It makes the lightest of Summer evening wraps, but is also pretty as a sports jacket with your blouses and white linen skirts……it's the perfect hot weather bedjacket….it goes with a long skirt to complete an ensemble for dining on the terrace……it adds color and interest to a swim suit.

The cardigan as sketched is faultlessly woven and hand sewn. It comes in white and practically all colors, including a delphinium blue, dark purple and brown.

The inexpensive fishnet belt or headband, sketched in hand, ties in a knot at any length the wearer requires. Instead of a buckle it has a hammered aluminum fish.

Two Menus Easy on the Budget

By BETSY NEWMAN

I AM giving you two recipes that are a little out of the ordinary and good for summer menus. Both are easy on the budget, too.

Today's Menu

Novel Salmon Loaf
Corn on Cob
Tomato Salad
Peppermint Ice Cream
Coffee

Novel Salmon Loaf

1 can salmon
2 thsp. melted butter
2 eggs well beaten
2 soda crackers rolled fine
1-4 cup cornmeal
1 cup buttermilk
1-2 tsp. baking soda
Salt and black pepper

Shred salmon, discard bones and skin, and combine with other ingredients. Stir soda into buttermilk before adding. Put in buttered baking dish and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serve with parsley sauce, which is made as follows:

Parsley Sauce

1 tbsp. butter
1 tbsp. flour
1 cup boiling water
Salt, pepper
1-2 bunch of parsley

Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and mix smooth, then gradually add boiling water, stirring constantly. Season with 1-2 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper, and take from fire. Add parsley cut with kitchen scissors. You can add 1 or 2 tablespoons of vinegar or lemon juice if you prefer a tart sauce.

Peppermint Ice Cream

16 marshmallows
1-2 lb. peppermint stick candy
1 cup boiling water
1 cup milk
1 pt. whipping cream

Put marshmallows and candy, which has been crushed, into top of double boiler, add boiling water and heat until dissolved; stir in milk and chill thoroughly. Whip cream stiff and fold candy mixture into it. Freeze either in mechanical refrigerator or in hand-turned freezer. This will serve 6 to 8 persons.

Phelps of Dodgers and Vaughan of Pirates Tangle in Brooklyn With Dodgers Winning Contest

Dodgers Have Now Had a Fight Will All but Three Clubs in Loop

TIGERS DEFEATED

A's Shave Lead of Detroit to One Game by Winning by 9-7 Verdict

(By Judson Bailey Associated Press Sports Writer).

Baseball still is a bruising battle in Brooklyn and the Dodgers have only three clubs to go to accumulate a perfect record of at least one fist fight with every other team in the National League.

The latest flare-up involved catcher Babe Phelps of the dauntless Dodgers and shortstop Arky Vaughan of once phlegmatic Pirates and came in the final breathless moments of one of the whackiest ball games seasonal spectators at Ebbets Field have ever seen.

For eight innings Curt Davis held the Pirates helpless with four scattered hits and the only excitement, aside from the steady tattoo of his teammates in thumping up a six-run lead, was the banishment of Manager Frank Frisch of the Pirates for protesting a play at second base in the sixth stanza. It was the sixth time this season he had been chased by an umpire.

But in the ninth the Pirates set off a dynamite display under Davis, scoring six runs. Then when the Dodgers came to bat Phelps was thrown out at first and Vaughan hustled over to the bag apparently to ask Elbie Fletcher if Phelps had tried to spike him. Whatever the answer, Vaughan and Phelps waded into each other and were hard at it before teammates could intervene.

Brown Issues Two Walks

Thus the Pirates lined up behind St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds as fistic foes of the Dodgers this season.

Mace Brown nullified the fine comeback of the Pirates by issuing two walks in the last half of the ninth and lost the ball game.

This was the first game in which the Dodgers have had a fight that they have won and it enabled them to cut anotherp notch of Cincinnati's apparently ample lead as the Reds dropped a 4-3 decision to New York Giants.

Bob Bowman pitched seven-hit ball as St. Louis Cards whipped Boston Bees 8-3 and climbed to fifth place. It was the 15th loss in 17 games for the Bees.

Another seven-hit pitching performance was the one Claude Passeau of Chicago Cubs turned in in beating the Phillies 7-3.

In the only game in the American League Philadelphia Athletics again exercized their jinx over the pace-setting Detroit Tigers getting a 9-7 verdict that shaved Detroit's lead over Cleveland to one game.

It was the 10th time in 17 contests the A's have tamed the Tigers.

Belleville Bowlers Win Rink And Doubles Matches

Lawn bowlers from the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club will advance to the bowling finals in District No. 16 in both the doubles and rinks' groups, while Stirling will represent group "A" in the district singles finals. With only Stirling and Belleville entered in the zone play-offs at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club yesterday, the home club won the doubles and rinks events, while Stirling won the singles.

Inclement weather saw a minimized entry into the District Lawn Bowling group semi-finals here yesterday, as only Belleville and Stirling competed, no teams being entered from the other communities in the group, which also includes, Kingston, Deseronto, Tweed, Madoc and Brighton. Following yesterday's heavy downpour of rain the Stirling and Belleville selected teams competed, however, for the group honours and the right to advance into the district finals, on greens yet to be selected, on Aug. 19th next.

The results of yesterday's tournament were as follows:

Singles

Spider Armstrong, Toronto, Defeated By Harry Jeffra

Baltimore, July 30 (AP)—It's not for nothing that Harry Jeffra, the pride of Pimlico, is known around Baltimore as "just about the cleanest guy in the fight business."

His clean living, superb physical condition and ability to "take it," enabled Jeffra last night to defend his featherweight boxing crown (Maryland and New York version) against Spider Armstrong of Toronto.

For the first half of the 15-round fight it looked as if Armstrong, poking his left into Jeffra's face, stabbing his stomach and driving in under the champion's right, might lift the crown.

But Jeffra took all that Armstrong had to offer and as the fight wore on he appeared to grow stronger.

The turning point came in the 11th round. Armstrong was backed into Jeffra's corner. There the champion caught him with a wicked overhand right to the head that floored the Spider. He took no count but that blow slowed up his attack.

From there on it was Jeffra's fight. In the 12th he made Armstrong's knees buckle with another right and in the final round he had Armstrong groggy, blood spouting from an eye cut opened in the 10th.

Armstrong weighed 126; Jeffra, 124 1-2.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By the Associated Press)

Chicago—Buddy Knox, 186, Dayton, O., outpointed Chuck Crowell, 215, Los Angeles (10).

Charlotte, N.C.—Jack Dempsey, 205, New York, knocked out Ellis Bashara, 209 (2).

Baltimore—Harry Jeffra, 124 1-2, Baltimore, featherweight champion, outpointed Spider Armstrong, 125, Toronto (15).

Washington — Holman Williams, 146 1-4, Detroit, outpointed Wild Bill McDowell, 150, Dallas (10).

ORIOLES IMPROVE THEIR POSITION FOR THIRD PLACE

Defeat Buffalo Bisons in Double Bill and Are Coming Fast

WINGS CHECK BEARS

Drive for First Place by Newark Cut Short by 10-3 Loss

(By the Associated Press)

The pace-setting Rochester Red Wings apparently have no thoughts of being ousted from the International League leadership.

Facing the amazing Newark Bears, who brought to town a record of eight victories in their last nine games, the Wings capitalized last night on the 11-hit pitching of Charley Brumbeloe to snap the Newark challenge 10-3.

While Brumbeloe was holding the Bears in almost complete submission, his mates were walloping an even dozen blows off the combined slants of Norman Branch and Tommy Byrne.

Baltimore Orioles, meanwhile, improved their position in the hot battle for third place by drubbing Buffalo Bisons 8-3 and 7-3. Bill Nagel's 28th homer of the season helped Italo Chelini rack up an easy victory in the opener, as he limited the Bisons to seven blows. Jack Redmond slammed a homer with two on in the second game to clinch the victory.

Jersey City Giants dropped into fourth place and Montreal Royals skidded to fifth as they split a doubleheader. The Royals won the opener 10-2 bringing Kemp Wicker his 14th victory of the season, and the Jerseys took the second game 7-3 behind Roy Henshaw's 10-hit pitching.

Toronto Maple Leafs lost their seventh straight game when they dropped an 8-3 decision to Syracuse Chiefs, who have a record of seven victories and one tie and one loss in nine games played in Toronto this year.

SCOUTS RETURN SAFE AND SOUND

Parents Anxious When Boat and Scouts Were Hours Overdue from Sailing Trip

Port Dalhousie, Ont., July 30—(CP)—Hours overdue after a sailing jaunt on Lake Ontario, 15 Boy Scouts under Scoutmaster Frank Churchill were towed into port here early today, allaying fears of anxious parents who gathered on the pier.

The large open boat with its crew of youngsters set sail in a freshening breeze early last night and was to have returned before dark. When the boat failed to return on time anxious parents hurried to the pier.

Shortly after midnight, however, a gasoline launch owned by Fraser Klager drew up to the pier with the scout boat and a small craft owned by Douglas Naismith of St. Catharines in tow.

Klager said he was returning to Port Dalhousie when he heard shouts and after a search came across the Scouts with a sailboat in tow. An offshore breeze was giving the Scouts trouble.

It was believed the Scouts came across Naismith in difficulty and took him aboard and started to tow the small sail boat.

Merchant Marine Losses For Week Of July 21, 37,577 Tons

London, July 30—(CP)— British merchant marine losses for the week ending July 21 were 37,577 tons, the Admiralty announced today.

Allied losses of 2,088 tons and neutral losses of 10,192 tons were reported for the same period, bringing the aggregate losses to 49,857 tons.

The Admiralty said the total was slightly below the weekly average for the 46 weeks of the war and less than a fourth of the highest weekly figure.

Eleven British ships, one Allied vessel and six neutrals were included among the losses listed for the week ending July 21.

The Admiralty announced that German losses up to July 28 amounted to approximately 908,000 tons and Italian losses to 254,000 tons, or a grand total of about 1,162,000 tons of enemy shipping sunk since the start of the war.

In addition some 22,000 tons for formerly neutral vessels now under axis control have been destroyed, the Admiralty said.

Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, world's light heavyweight champion, watching while Dr. George Edson takes a blood pressure reading from Bob Pastor. Pastor and Conn, who meet in a non-title bout on Aug. 13, appeared at the offices of the boxing commission to receive medical approval of their condition.

SORDS

(By Central Press Canadian)

Patterson, N.J., July 30—With a record of 27 knockouts in 30 fights, Patrick Edward Comisky, one of the outstanding "white hopes" in the heavyweight division, now seeks a match with Max Baer this September.

Considered by eastern boxing writers to be the one man who stands a chance of licking Joe Louis, Comiskey recently hurdled with ease what was considered to be his biggest test to date. Fighting in a preliminary bout to the Tony Galento-Max Baer bout, Comiskey hit Bob Sikes of Pine Bluff, Ark., three times. After the third sock landed, Sikes was counted out in 2.12 of the first round.

Sikes wasn't a soft touch, either. Until he met up with Pat, he had been undefeated in 32 bouts and was rated as the heavyweight champion of the south.

Comiskey may be tested further soon if Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey and Mickey Walker, succeeds in matching him with either Buddy Baer or Lou Nova, the bout to be held in Jersey City or in Paterson's Hinchcliffe stadium.

Comiskey is anxious to meet either one, but prefers a bout with Max Baer.

Wins State Title

Of course Comiskey wants a crack at Louis, but that fight is a year away at least, his manager, Bill Daly, believes. Comiskey will not be 20 until Oct. 22, and New York rules, where the bout would be held, prevent a fighter under 21 from fighting more than eight rounds. NeNw Jersey does not have such a rule.

Standing six feet, four inches and weighing 209 pounds, Comiskey started his boxing career a little more than two years ago. He received his first ring resin in a local amateur tournament. After kayoing his first two opponents, others who had ualified for the semi-finals and finals stepped aside. They wanted no part of the wild kid who used only a punch or two to floor his opponent.

Shortly after he won the state heavyweight championship and then turned professional. Jack Glover of Newark was his first pro. opponent. Glover was his first pro knockout victim—he got into the way of a first-round punch.

With nearly 25 knockout victories to his credit, Daly matched him with Maynard Daniels, a Washington, D.C., marine and winner of 34 straight bouts. They fought in Baltimore and Comisky kayoed him in the sixth round.

Comiskey's only defeat was at the hands of Steve Dudas in Madison Square Garden. Dudas' victory was the turning point in the Hammering Harp's career. Comiskey emerged from the fight with a pair of broken hands and eight rounds of experience given him by a veteran campaigner.

The hands mended — stronger than ever — and Comiskey came back into the ring with Dudas. He outboxed and outfought Dudas by such a great margin that the fans knew who the victor was before the official announcement was made. Previously he had been held to a draw by Gene Bonin of New England. Pat knocked out Bonin in a return fight.

Now Comiskey is ready for bigger game. Buddy Baer, Lou Nova, Max Baer and then Joe Louis.

Sports Roundup

(By Bill White Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, July 30 (AP)—Pearls from the press coop: The scribes who cover the Giants say when and if smilin' Bill Terry goes into the front office, Billy Jurges will be the new manager.... Willard Herschberger, the Reds' fine young catcher would be even better if the heat didn't bother him. In this recent spell he's lost 15 pounds.... When Ducky Medwick batted sixth Sunday against the Cards, it was the lowest spot in the batting order he's occupied since he became a star... Why did those three big league scouts go to Buffalo Sunday to watch rookie Hal White of the Bisons pitching that three-hitter? They could have saved all that carfare by reading the rave notices in all the eastern sheets.

Cincinnati Reds are so durned good that Mike (Demon) DeJan, the Southern Association Slugger, can't break into the lineup. And all he has in his favor is a .404 batting average, a mark of .449 in his first 43 games with Chattanooga and a 480-foot home run poke!

Arlington Park bettors have the esteem of all us losin' hoss players. The other day an oat burner named Arcadian, the favorite, came home a lagging last—and the crowd swarmed down to the rail and gave the nag a razzberry he'll never forget!

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press)

Babe Young, Giants—His double in the ninth inning punched home winning run against Reds.

Bob Bowman, Cardinals — Held Bees to seven scattered hits for easy victory.

Pete Coscarart, Dodgers—Singled with two on and score tied in last of ninth for 7-6 decision over Pirates.

Wally Moses, Athletics—Led successful assault on Tigers with a double and single, batting in three runs.

SAFE!—Another case of a man being safe. George Selkirk, of the Yanks, does it easily in game with the Tigers in New York.

It's not down in the Lehigh Valley where the breezes waft and blow
But, at the east end playgrounds

Here the cooling evening breezes are enjoyed by one and all,
Who come to see the lassies playing at a game of ball.

Credit General Chairman Ted Schwab with that ditty as Ted says that the coolest place in town is the old Ontario field when the girls are playing softball each Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evening. Of course we know full well Ted wouldn't be getting in a little free publicity for his girls' play-offs tonight, or would he? Incidentally during last Friday's K-Nine versus Viking game there wasn't a put out registered by the Viking first-base player until the last out in the sixth inning. To add further to the coincidence, Miss Fleming only had three put outs at first base in 30 outs by the Vikings in a ten-inning contest, for just one of softball's oddities. Tonight it's Zellers versus Corbins, when the "lockmakers" must win to stay in the play-off picture.

About fifteen months ago a junior baseball league was organized in Kingston, four teams of teen-aged boys were headed by former Kingston Ponies as coaches. The league operated very successfully last season and continued in its prolific function again this year with their crowning achievement coming last Friday night when a picked team from the Kingston kids played the Smiths Falls "railroaders" an exhibition game in Kingston. The "railroaders" downed the Kingston kids 4 to 1, but it must be remembered that the Smiths Falls nine is a senior team playing in the St. Lawrence League and the stand of the Kingston juniors is most commendable. In commenting on the game Sports Editor Bill Walshe of Kingston, says the Limestone City kids "are capable of holding their own with experienced senior players." One of the largest crowds ever to witness a ball game at the Kingston Cricket Field cheered the homesters in their fine diamond effort. Unfortunately for Belleville there isn't a central park in which to play ball, as Kingston is blessed with, however.

Although President Ford Frick and National League club owners expressed approval of helmets as a means of protecting batters from head injuries from pitched balls, a number of managers and players, interviewed by the St. Louis Star-Times, voiced different sentiments last week.

Some of the managers' comments expressed at St. Louis during the All-Star game last week, were:

Bill McKechnie of the Reds: "I'm non- committal, but no player of mine will have to wear one against his will."

Casey Stengel of the Bees: "Not such a good idea."

Doc Protho of the Phillies: "It would be hard to force players to wear a helmet."

Leo Durocher of the Dodgers: "That thing would be nothing but a target for pitchers to throw at."

Frankie Frisch of the Pirates: "No player on my team will ever be seen in one."

Billy Southworth of the Cardinals: "Helmets were tried in the International League and proved unsuccessful. I'm afraid the same thing would hold true in the majors."

Outfielder Terry Moore of the Cardinals was the only player who would consent to pose for a picture, wearing a helmet. However he said, "They might be all right if they get a good one, but I'll never wear one."

DID YOU KNOW THAT veteran baseball writers say that the art of base stealing died out with the retirement of Tyrus Raymond Cobb? . . . That Francis Albertini, Detroit sports writer of four decades, says that Ruth, Cobb and Speaker were the best trio of outfielders ever in the major leagues? . . . and that strangely enough Albertini's choice finds three American leaguers, couldn't be that he is a confirmed American League fan? . . . That Speedy St. Louis had one hit for two official times at bat last Saturday, instead of one for three as carried in our box score? . . . Speedy had a sacrifice hit, which should not have counted in the box score, he points out. . . . That it is estimated Bob Feller, that Cleveland fireball "feller" has banked $80,000, since coming to the majors? Knotty Lee, former Peterboro' baseball manager and now in the Can.American loop, has two sons in the Royal Canadian Air Force?

The greatest right-hand batter of his time, Rogers Hornsby, is slated to return to the major leagues and at the helm of possibly the Browns, Indians or White Sox in 1941, so 'tis rumored. At present the 'Rajah is doing a fairly good job at the head of the Oklahoma City outfit of the Texas League. Hornsby was named as the greatest right-hand batter of modern times when he was with Cardinals nearly two decades ago. The later played with the Giants, Braves and Cubs, having managed the latter two teams after piloting the Cardinals to their first world series pennant back in 1926. Hornsby is a hard taskmaster having been a fighter on the field himself.

SPORT SPICE—It was rather unfortunate, only Belleville and Stirling bowlers were represented at the district bowling tournament here yesterday....Oldtimers missed Billie Whitty, Stirling's veteran skip, however.... Earl Fox of Stirling beat Harvey Stewart in the singles, while Belleville took the doubles, with Fred Harper and "Mac" McLean and also the rinks tourney with Ab Wonnacott as skip....Both the major league leaders, the Reds and Tigers, lost ground yesterday when they were beaten by the Giants and A's respectively....The members of the Corby softball team, who are now with the 3-47th Battery, may have to motor from Kingston to play in tomorrow night's Shell-Corby game at the Flats....We hear the entire Barry's Bay hockey team is with the 3-47th Battery....That great pacer Greyhound, had little competition in the feature race at Pawtucket, R.I. yesterday.

SHINING WINDOWS

by Kathleen Norris

INSTALMENT 20.

This letter threw Joyce into such raptures as only youth can know. The glory of spring was enhanced a hundredfold Joyce felt that her heart could scarcely bear its burden of joy.

It was not only the prospect of the exciting and luxurious visit, the polo and golf, the big cars and the big houses; it was not even the thought of seeing Paul again — handsome, big, carelessly sure of himself, carelessly loving — that brought her pulses to fever height. It was more than that. Paul's people had accepted her she was Paul's girl.

Claire von Schwerin met Joyce herself at Burlingame station on a languid spring afternoon, and whirled her through green leafy lanes and past imposing iron gates to Joyland, the place they had rented for a summer only, but in which they had been established for almost a year.

The guest room which she and Alice Goldthwaite had shared during last year's wonderful visit, was as dainty and inviting as ever. Oh, beauty was restful, and to do exactly as you liked and have an army of pleasant and contented folk to do the cleaning was very restful! Joyce got into her third best frock and went downstairs to find an idle group having cocktails on the terrace. Forgotten touches like canapes and tiny pink napkins with roosters embroidered on them and finely groomed hands and fine scents and materials were in her life again.

After dinner she went to a movie with the King girls, their boy cousin, their brother and their German Fraulein, and another girl named Margaret Something, and a boy to whom Joyce was introduced but whose name she instantly forgot. Joyce was faithfully deposited at the von Schwerin home at eleven, and saw the grownups playing bridge passionately in a library some arcades away, and went upstairs without goodnights.

"You look adorable!" Claire said when she went downstairs in trim blue linen at eight.

She could hardly eat her breakfast and she was silent with sheer emotion as they drove to the field. At last the big eastern plane came in, and circled, and descended, and there was Paul in his brown coat, running toward them, wildly delighted to be home again and to see Joyce, natural and eager with his father and stepmother.

Joyce was exquisitely happy driving home in the back seat with him, her hand in his, their eyes finding what was new in each other and what was dear and familiar. Paul asked for each and every member of the family, and Joyce made their histories so amusing and dramatic as she could, and they laughed at everything in the old way.

They went around from one house to another that day, and to the club, and met a great many other girls and young men.

That night after dinner Paul asked her suddenly, "Want to go up to the Mark Hopkins and dance?" and after her rapturous assent went for his car.

So Tuesday ended, one of the perfect days of girlhood, a happy, flattering, perfumed, thrilling day, with the current of her love for him and his for her carrying it too swiftly into the past.

It was the last quite perfect time. For at some point in the next day Joyce began to feel the first wretched fingertip of misgiving on her heart.

They were all going to Pebble Beach at eleven. There were to be three cars and eight persons in the party; the three von Schwerins, Joyce, Mrs. Rogers and Consuelo Waite, Mrs. Termini and King Harrington. Joyce did not like Consuelo. It was not mere fear and jealousy, for she had not felt anything of the sort for lovely Alice Goldthwaite last summer, and Alice had been openly affectionate with Paul.

Mrs. Rogers was Consuelo's mother and Mrs. Termini was King's mother. They were second wives, as Claire was, resolutely successful and assertive, sure that their changes of mates had been wise jeweled and overdressed. Claire became quite a different woman in their company; she became noisy and affected too.

As for the younger members of the group, Joyce thought King Harrington a rude unattractive man, and Consuelo, who was called "Pidgie", with her dyed hair and affected manners, and her chatter of Antibes and Palm Beach, a decidedly disagreeable girl. She hoped that they would not be all together when they got to Pebble Beach, and seized an opportunity to murmur to Paul, "Can't we go alone in your car?"

"Oh, Pidgie's swell," he said enthusiastically. "You'll like her; she's a sport. She was with these people I knew in New York—he uncle's Senator Waite."

Paul had changed; but then why shouldn't he have changed? Paul had discovered the world now, and the world had found Paul women liked him, and of course he knew it; he was always laughing, he was in wild spirits.

"Here's where I sit!" Pidgie Waite said definitely, with a little triumphant smile, when the low-slung red and yellow car had come around to the drive. She sprang as she spoke, into the front seat, established herself comfortably. Paul saw her of course, knew that she would be his companion, but made no comment except a grin, and continued to pack suitcases into the box at the back. King and Joyce got into the back seat; the girl determined to make the best of a bad situation. No use surrendering to Pidgie at the first attack.

King was, conversationally, hard going. Nothing interested him. Joyce put out all sorts of feelers aviation, tennis, politics; it was no use. Presently the chattering couple on the front seat spoke of some prize fight, and then King leaned forward and for some miles he travelled sitting sidewise on the very edge of his seat.

During this time Joyce sat back studying the scenery.

At last they turned in at the Pebble Beach gates, and wound their way among pines and cypresses toward the lodge.

A few golfers were going the rounds; a few nurses and children were grouped idly in the shade of the oaks, but the lodge seemed deserted. There was polo today, and all the guests had gone to see it. White-clad boys carried Joyce's and Pidgie's bags upstairs through airy halls to a magnificent big room finished in oriental dull gold and lacquer red, with thin tan curtains at the tall windows. The girls had a high balcony over the sea, but at this hot hour it was awash with sunlight, and their bedroom jalousies had been closed, giving a touch of European beauty to the big shaded apartment.

While they unpacked Joyce tried to be friendly and informal with Pidgie. But Pidgie, while not disagreeable, was one of those girls whose minds dwell only upon contact with the male. She was thinking of men as she changed her frock and brushed her dyed golden hair. Even while Joyce was talking, Pidgie swept suddenly to the telephone and rang up some one called Budge.

Joyce turned the pages of her magazine and tried not to think of Paul. If he was a little less young and fresh and eager, a little surer of himself—yes, and of her too—that was only because they had been separated for months. He would come back to her, all the way back. Why, surely it had been in response to some suggestion from Paul that his stepmother had written her asking her to meet him!

"I've got to go and see my aunt," Pidgie presently volunteered. "I wonder if Paul is doing anything?" Instantly she was at the telephone again. Paul was just going out to play golf; it was only three o'clock, he could get in nine holes anyway. What course was he playing? Cypress Point? Oh, then would he be an angel and take Pidgie over to see her aunt, right near the clubhouse there?

Then there was a halt, and a slight change in Pidgie's tone.

"She's lying down," she said. Joyce's heart rose with a leap. Pidgie extended the telephone. "He wants to talk to you."

"Want to come over to Cypress Point? I'll be playing only about an hour. How long would it take you to jump into something?"

"Two minutes!" Everything was right again for the moment. But life was on a receding tide just the same, and no one special big wave could save it. Dinner was distractingly gay and noisy and broken by dancing. She grew tired; her head felt very tired in the unaccustomed whirl of it all, and when she got to bed that night she felt restless and dissatisfied.

All the next day there was golf. Joyce had never played it, but she knew enough about it to trail the players intelligently, and make an occasional apt comment. Luncheon was at the clubhouse, confused and crowded. Paul was of course among the fringe of men about Elisa Blandwood. Even bold and noisy Pidgie could make no headway against Elisa; she was just one of those girls who had everything and won every one and did everything.

Elisa was naturally fair; there was no artifice by which those pale taffy curls, that magnolia petal skin, those sleepy long eyes could be acquired. She was lazy and slow in movement and rather silent. Elisa did not have to talk. She was rich, she played magnificent golf; she knew the eastern and the English champions and their records; she had a young English lord in attendance.

"Well, all right, suppose she has and does and did and is?" Joyce reasoned fiercely in her jealous heart. "There has to be more than one sort of girl, doesn't there? Girls like that don't always have the happy and successful lives. What I have to do is just forget her.

The men were trying to persuade Elisa to come to the dog races tonight, and afterward go to Parker's and dance. Elisa had never been to a dog race. She adored dogs but she never had been to dog races. She had been to jai-alai games in Shanghai and adored them; wasn't there any jai-alai in California? But not dogs; they were so sweet, and it was so mean to race them.

In the end she said of course she would go. Joyce had known she would go, and it was Paul who leaped off to secure two good boxes for the dog races that night.

Well, so here Joyce was back in her magnificent room at the lodge again, and it was only five o'clock. Now what to do? Joyce felt so hot, tired, confused that she would have been delighted to escape from them all for that time, but it would not do to have Pidgie presently dash in and find her sedately settled with a book; it would mean that she was to be pitied, that an effort must be made to amuse her.

AT THE BELLE

"My Son, My Son!"

Lavishly produced by Edward Small and brilliantly acted by a superlative cast, Howard Spring's best seller, "My Son, My Son!" closes a highly successful engagement at the Belle Theatre, where it was received as one of the finest pictures of the year, starring Madeleine Carroll, Brian Aherne and Louis Hayward.

Unforgettable acting is contributed by Miss Carroll as Livia Vaynol, Brian Aherne as William Essex and Louis Hayward as Oliver Essex respectively. Featured roles are handled extremely well by Henry Hull, Laraine Day, Josephine Hutchinson and Sophie Stewart.

"My Son, My Son!" deserves to be called one of the finest pictures Hollywood has delivered to its world-wide public because it has supreme elements of romance, youth, love and reality.

The Belle News of the hour and a funny Popeye cartoon precede the feature.

"My Love Came Back"

Olivia deHavilland, excellent young actress that she is, has momentarily forsaken such heavy drama as her memorable Melanie of "Gone With the Wind," for the role of Amelia Cullen, the gay young heroine of "My Love Came Back," the laugh-provoking romantic Warner Bros. musical comedy next at the Belle Theatre.

In the early sequences you'll find the lovely Olivia portraying a needy violin student in love with her work. Later she falls in love with handsome Jeffrey Lynn, while practically every other male in the picture is smitten with the beautiful damsel!

Belle audiences will cheer the new comedy since it combines all the elements that make for perfect entertainment. The cast, in addition to Olivia deHavilland and Jeffrey Lynn, includes such likeable celebrities as befuddled Eddie Albert, pert Jane Wyman, Charles Winninger, Spring Byington, Ann Gillis and William T. Orr.

"Gambling on the High Seas"

The companion feature film will be Warner Bros.. "Gambling on the High Seas," starring Wayne Morris and Jane Wyman. The action drama tells of the efforts of a gambling czar, played by Gilbert Roland, to thwart the police in their attempts to send him to prison.

Jane Wyman, playing the part of Roland's secretary, and young reporter, form a unique plan whereby they collect enough evidence against Roland to send him to prison for life.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Danger on Wheels"

Topping their previous pictures for continuous action, drama and excitement, Richard Arlen and Andy (Hi-Ya Buck) Devine's new costarring film "Danger on Wheels" now showing at the McCarthy theatre, is a grand movie treat, for all lovers of good clean laugh crammed entertainment.

Played against the background of the auto race-tracks, the film is chock-full of breath-taking spills and crashes. Speedway contests provide spectacular highlights of the production.

Arlen gives an outstanding portrayal as a test driver whose search for more dangerous thrills turns him to race driving. Andy Devine, as his mechanic who is always getting into trouble, also gives a splendid performance.

Appearing opposite Arlen in the romantic lead, is Peggy Moran, screen newcomer whose beauty and acting talent indicate a promising future. Other roles are ably handled by Herbert Corthell, Harry Bradley, Sandra King, Landers Stevens and Jack Arnold.

"Danger on Wheels" is a show we can recommend and the companion feature also now playing with it, Edmund Lowe in "Wolf of New York" offers a blend of screen drama few pictures made each year can surpass. Dealing with a sinister figure known as "The Wolf of New York"—respected financier by day and a ruthless underworld character by night, it moves dramatically to a high-geared climax and conclusion that is satisfying in every way, an ideal summertime hit.

Edmund Lowe again demonstrates his ability as a powerful dramatic actor. His portrayal is forceable, yet restrained, and he succeeds in extracting the utmost from his role.

Rose Hobart, more beautiful than ever in her current role, combines genuine charm with sterling ability and proves herself capable of even bigger and better things in the future.

Bill Demarest wins many laughs in the role of the big-hearted but slightly dumb 'Man Friday' for the District Attorney, and James Stephenson invests his villain's role with just the proper touch of menace.

A special word should be said for a very charming young lady named Ann Baldwin who makes her personality felt in a small but exceptionally well handled bit role.

Other members of the staff who acquit themselves well are Jerome Cowan, Charles D. Brown and Maurice Murphy.

Latest "Fox News" of very interesting world-wide events is presented in addition to the above features and completes a program everyone will call 'Swell'!

AT THE CAPITOL

"'Til We Meet Again."

One of the most beautiful and tender love stories that has come out of Hollywood in the past decade is now playing at the Capitol, Warner Bros' film, "'Til We Meet Again." The picture, starring Merle Oberon and George Brent, tells of two lovers who are doomed to crowd an eternity of devotion into a few borrowed hours of love.

Dan met Joan in a Hong Kong bar where both had come to escape an impending doom from which there was no escape. He was wanted by the police to serve a death sentence in San Quentin. She too had a death sentence passed on her in the form of a heart ailment which gave her perhaps a few more hours, or minutes, or weeks to live. That intuitive knowledge of each others' fate, even though they didn't know the form of that fate, made their love more deep, more sincere. Steve Burke, a detective from the United States, finally catches up with Dan and they sail for San Francisco on the same boat that Joan is travelling on in her wild attempt to see as much of the world as possible in the little time left her. Steve, realizing that Dan is really not a hardened criminal, allows him the freedom of the ship. Both Joan and Dan try to make every moment as glorious as they can because they know that there is nothing to live for—but love. The climax of their poignant love affair is reached when the ship puts up at Honolulu for a twenty-four hour stay. Joan looks forward to it as the most beautiful day of her life; a day in which she, Dan and the tropical heaven of Hawaii are the only things in existence. Dan looks forward to it as his last chance to escape the police of three continents. The charm of Honolulu makes a perfect setting for this scene. The luxurious trans-Pacific liner is the background against which most of the other scenes are played and it makes a most effective setting for this story of a star-crossed love.

There's action a-plenty, too, in the thrilling under-water battle between Brent and O'Brien, in which Brent attempts (and succeeds) in freeing himself from the handcuffs which link him to his captor and a generous measure of suspense as to the outcome of his other attempts to escape.

In the supporting roles, Binnie Barnes and Frank McHugh are great as Dan's friends who do everything in their power to help him escape. Edmund Goulding, known for "Dark Victory" and "The Old Maid," directed.

Sailing Yachts Pass Duck Island

South Bay, July 30—One hundred sailing yachts entered in the Rochester annual sailing regatta, passed the Main Duck Island the latter part of the week, presenting a very picturesque setting. U.S. coast guard vessels stationed in the vicinity of the Ducks, remained during the race to give succor, if necessary, and to see that all entrants rounded the island before proceeding westward across the lake.

News Briefs

Mr. C. H. J. Snider, associate editor, author and traveller of the Toronto Evening Telegram, visited Mr. Willis Metcalfe at Point Traverse last week. Mr. Philip Dodds of the Picton Gazette accompanied Mr. Snider.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Calvin, Pleasant Hill, Mo., were guests at the "White House," Point Traverse, over the week end.

Commercial fishing at the Main Duck Island has improved slightly and most trout and herring catches are being brought into the colony.

Myriads of shad are infesting Point Traverse fishermen's nets and, according to the fishermen they are unable to leave their fishing gear in the water for a much shorter duration.

Intense Humidity Likely to Continue For Several Days

With advent of the sixth day of intense humidity, Belleville rolled up its shirtsleeves, unbuttoned shirt collars, inhaled gasps of steamy air, and resigned itself to thoughts of long cooling drinks, the sub-zero temperatures of a few months ago, and prepared to swelter for an indefinite period.

For the weather man brought the news today that a terrific heat wave has struck the middle west states in the vicinity of Chicago, which means anything but respite for the heat in this section of the continent.

For the past week householders and apartment dwellers have sought the cool atmosphere of the great outdoors. Soft-drink purveyors are doing a land-office business and refrigerators are working overtime. Camps and cottages, no matter how lowly, have full quotas of overnight occupancy while a hundred and one tents have sprung up on grassy plots by the shores of rivers and bay.

Convention has been thrown by the wayside and staid business men and executives have divested coats and vests, collars and ties in an effort to maintain maximum of coolness. Laborers, farmers in many cases have "striped themselves to the hide" as one puts it, to get some degree of respite from the close atmosphere.

However, to-date the population of the city has suffered no harm. Belleville General Hospital officials stated today that no cases of heat prostration have been admitted as yet.

PART OF U.S. FLEET RETURNS

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along thinking about different things such as what it would taste like to have a meal with nothing but a different dizzert for every course, and something dropped sounding like a cent.

Being just what it was, being mine out of a unexpected hole in my pants pocket, and I started to look all around on the payment for it, and 2 kids stopped going passed, one saying, What did you lose? and the other one saying, What's you hunting for?

Being a couple of sispicious looking kids that you might not be able to trust with a cent if they thought they could pick one up without being noticed, and I said, A button dropped off my coat.

Where from, I dont see any space without a button, one kid said.

Proving he had good eyes and might be just the one that would find the cent, and I said, O, it wasn't an outside button, it was a inside button, it was just a spare exter button held on with a pin, and the other kid said, Okay, we'll help you look, but if we find anything elts that's not a button, findings is keepings.

And they started to look as fast as they could, and I quick said, Well hay, if it's a cent it's mine too, because one time I dropped a cent in this same spot.

How long ago was that? the first kid said, and I said, O, about a week, about 2 weeks, and the 2nd kid said, Then it dont count any more according to law, because according to law 2 days is the limit.

Him proberly just making that up, and just then I found the cent half in a crack and half out, being one of the luckiest sensations I ever had.

The Herald quotes Harold Nicolson of the Ministry of Information as saying "the work is absolutely essential....we find it most helpful and fascinating."

The newspapers, however, bitterly assails the practice which they picture as "Cooper snoopers on a pub crawl" and claim that "they (the snoopers) are going to listen in on your conversation in public houses and cross-examine you on your doorstep."

Other papers previously have pictured the work as comparable to that of the gestapo.

He was one of the Canadian delegates to the Imperial Press Conferences in London and in South Africa in 1935. He was a former president of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association.

British Bombers Litter Ijsel River With Barge Wrecks

London, July 30 (CP)—Informed Netherlands sources were quoted in London last night as saying British bombers have littered the Ijsel River, important waterway link with the Rhine, with the wreckage of barges. Germans were said to have warned navigators that the east channel is cluttered with sunken river craft.

HITLER MAY THINK

Rapid developments in the international situation led many members of parliament at Westminster as well as some sections of the press to clamor for an open session, instead of the secret one scheduled for today, to discuss foreign affairs, and there were some indications they might get their way.

It was said Prime Minister Churchill might make a statement in the House of Commons on the Japanese affair—possibly concerning representations to Tokyo.

Parliament was interested keenly too in the Balkan situation where Rumania has been taking new action against British oil interests.

The Lower House also expected to hear a delayed statement from Hugh Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare, on the government's decision to extend and intensify the British blockade of Germany to cover all ships bound for European and certain North African ports.

One of the chief leaks in the blockade which the new measures are aimed to plug is the shipment of oil to Germany by way of Spain.

Nazi Planes Come Back

German planes came back to Britain today, beginning early with isolated raids after yesterday's mass attack of 80 planes on the southeastern port of Dover, only 22 miles across the strait from German-occupied France and a possible key landing place for an attempted invasion.

The full number of persons killed in the southeastern raid was not made known at once, but first reports said two motor buses were "wrecked" and several others were damaged by bombs from a lone raider. Most of the missiles landed in the heart of the town.

Other raiders struck over points in southeast England as well as southwest and northwest England and Wales.

Morning raids over southwest England and Wales failed to cause any damage.

The government announced one German bomber was destroyed this morning.

Later a lone raider circled low around another southeastern town before dropping several salvos of heavy bombs on a congested working class district. A number of houses were destroyed and some residents were buried in the debris.

Communique

A communique of the Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security said:

"During last night enemy aircraft dropped bombs in a town in northeast England, causing some damage to private property. One woman was slightly injured.

"Bombs also fell in a few southwestern districts where little damage was done and there were no casualties.

"Our anti-aircraft defences were in action.

"Early this morning an enemy bomber was brought down in southeast England."

The Admiralty last night acknowledged the loss of the 283-ton trawler Staunton, victim of a mine.

In an attempt to find a plan for the "elasticity which wartime conditions demand," War Secretary Anthony Eden appointed a six-man permanent committee to consider revamping the organization of both the War Office and military command. The group consists of leading industrialists and army representatives.

Exchange Aerial Blows

Meanwhile Britain exchanged aerial blows with Italy in the Mediterranean. Italy, presumably spurred by Nazi urgings to show some action, has been making repeated attacks on the British Island fortress of Malta. Week-end casualties were one civilian hurt in five raids, slight material damage and four Italian raiders downed.

Since the Malta attacks began the Italians have lost 25 planes, the Royal Air Force one.

A British statement from Nairobi, Kenya, said the R.A.F. had inflicted heavy casualties on the Italians at Moyale, taken recently from British ground forces who withdrew when officers decided it was of doubtful value and not worth further trouble after a long siege it had withstood.

Take Serious View

Diplomatic quarters said the government was taking a serious view of recent incidents in Japan, including the alleged suicide of Melville James Cox, British newspaperman who had been arrested for "military reasons," and arrest of 12 other Britons in a drive on an alleged "espionage network."

Authoritative sources said they understood that Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, British ambassador to Japan, in protesting against the arrests had touched "on the fact that a strong German Nazi party organization exists in Japan, "well instructed" in propaganda and political activities.

These sources said the ambassador gave "formal assurance" to the Japanese Foreign Minister that the British colony in Japan had no political organization and that some Englishmen had been striving earnestly for an improvement in British-Japanese relations.

R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for foreign affairs, was slated to make a statement on the question in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Demand a Review

The Press demanded a review of British policy in the Far East, with retaliatory action against Japan for the arrests.

It generally expressed indignation at the Japanese action and refused to accept the Japanese version of the death of Cox, who was correspondent for Reuters, the big British News Agency.

"The most effective, reprisals," suggested the Daily Express, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, Minister for Aircraft Production, "would be the arrest of 11 Japanese citizens in Britain. A ban on trade with Japan would be even more effective, and the Japanese deserve it." This editorial was written before Shanghai reports disclosed two additional arrests.

MILLION MEN

ficient man and woman power to manage it, while at the same time greatly increasing the production of primary products and industry.

"There are 1,198,000 single men between 18 and 44 and we could withdraw 500,000 of these for training and leave 698,000 single men under the age of 44 in employment, or we could place 1,000,000 men in training by all methods and have 198,000 single men yet untrained."

The Minister reviewed his previous announcements as to how the National War Services Department will conduct national registration, segregating duplicate cards of single men between 19 and 45, into the various year classes to facilitate calling up of men.

He explained that all duties in connection with the call-up fall to his department. The Defence Department will merely say how many men they can handle.

12 Groups of Electoral Districts

Canada's 243 electoral districts—basis on which registration will be made—will be divided into 12 groups conforming as nearly as possible to the 11 military districts in Canada with a separate group for Prince Edward Island.

Twelve boards with jurisdiction over calling up of men will be constituted, each board to be headed by a Judge of a Superior Court or a lesser court and nominated by the Chief Justice of the Province. This Judge will be chairman of the District Board which will embrace two other members, both representative citizens.

Only exemptions to the call-up will be: Judges of Superior, District or County Courts; members of the clergy or religious orders; members of the naval, military or air forces on Active Service;

Those who in the opinion of the Defence Minister have already received military training within the previous 12 months at least equivalent to that to be given men being called up; members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Provincial, and City Police; members of City Fire Brigades, officers of all penitentiaries, prisoners, asylums or mental hospitals.

To Recognize Order-in-Council of 1873

The government, said Mr. Gardiner, intends to recognize an Order-in-Council of 1873 which granted certain privileges in regard to military service to Mennonites and an Order-in-Counril of 1898, which gave certain privileges to Doukhobors.

Every employer of labor will be required to furnish the National Registration Board for his district with a list of all single male employees between the age of 21 and 45, the Minister said.

"Any industry shall be entitled to submit a plan to the District Registrar for the calling up for military training, within the period of one year, of its single male employees from the ages of 21 to 45," Mr. Gardiner added.

Any plan submitted, however, must provide for the training of all employees within the year but can be adjusted by the industries in such a way as to enable all to be trained within the year in a manner which will interfere in the least possible way with the conduct of business.

Men subject to call from any industry will be divided into equal groups so the same number of men will come up for training on each call.

Call-Up Plan From Industry.

Mr. Gardiner said the district registrar, on receiving a call-up plan from any industry, would submit it to the board and the board would fix a date for hearing a representative of the industry and either approve, reject or vary the plan.

A list of the main seasonal industries within the jurisdiction of each board will be submitted by the department, giving also the periods "during which it is inadvisable to call men for training from such industries."

"It shall be the duty of the board to so adjust the call of men within its jurisdiction to interfere as little as possible with the conduct of seasonal industry," said Mr. Gardiner.

The board also will have the right, in the case of a college or university student, to postpone his call until the end of the scholastic year, provided the college or university has a system of compulsory military training.

Type of Examination.

"All men called up will have to pass the same type of examination as they would have to pass if volunteering for service in the non-permanent militia," Mr. Gardiner said. "Medical examiners will place all persons examined in their proper medical categories in accordance with the practice of the defence department and it is intended to call up all men in the category of C-1 and above that."

Each man called will receive a notice in writing saying where to submit to medical examination and where to go for training.

"Severe penalties will be provided for failure of any person called up to submit to medical examination and to take his period of training if medically fit," added the minister. "Severe penalties will be provided for the medical man who fails to make a proper examination or fails to report the true facts of the state of health of the individual."

All employers will be required, under penalty, to put the employee back in his job at the conclusion of his period of training, or into a job the equivalent of the one he had.

buildings and facilities are concerned, Mr. Howe said the original plan contemplated 2 1-2 years for construction. Now it had been speeded up to the point where 90 per cent of the projects would be finished by next November.

"Extension of the original plan is now under consideration," he said. "Eight additional service flying training schools each requiring three airdromes are now required as well as several airdromes for active service operations of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

"This will increase the program to some 120 separate projects. Of these 77 are already in hand calling for 47 entirely new airdromes and the extension of 30 existing airports."

Anticipated cost of airdrome construction on the 77 projects now approved was $15,500,000. It involved purchase of 30,000 acres of land at an approximate cost of $2,000,000.

Aircraft production had expanded quickly and last week Canadian factories turned out 25 finished craft. This was expected to increase rapidly.

Orders For Planes

"Eight Canadian aircraft companies have in hand orders totalling some 3,200 planes of which 257 have been delivered," the Minister said. "These contracts involve approximately $110,000,000.

"Early in 1941 we expect to have a production of 360 planes per month, about 12 planes per day, Sundays and holidays included.

"Perhaps no country in the world is producing automotive equipment in the volume that now obtains in Canada. At present about 600 mechanized units per day are being produced and in another month or two this figure will be substantially increased.

"Canadian orders now placed for mechanical transport alone amount to $54,500,000, and Great Britain, South Africa, India and other parts of the Empire are also large buyers in this market.

Building of British Tanks

"The Canadian Pacific Railway Angus shops (Montreal) have undertaken production of British mark III tanks and have associated a number of other firms with them in that project. Production is planned at the rate of 30 tanks per month. British and Canadian orders are in hand to a total of $63,000,000.

"Canada's munition program involves the manufacture of Lee-Enfield rifles, Bren machine guns, Colt-Browning aircraft machine guns, sub-machine guns, two-pounder anti-aircraft guns and carriages, 25 pounder, quick-firing guns and carriages, 40 millemetre Bofors anti-tank guns, 3.7 anti-aircraft guns and mountings, anti-tank rifles, and 20 millemetre Hispano-Suiza aircraft cannon.

"This program of gun manufacture has every case involved the building of a new plant. Our largest gun plant is for the manufacture of 25-pounder, quick-firing, guns and carriages and heavy naval guns, and represents a capital investment of $10,000,000. This plant will be in production before the end of the current year.

Shells And Ammunition

"In the matter of shells and ammunition, our program is a large one. We now have 14 plants producing shells, which include four millemetre shells, 18-pounder, 25-pounder, and 3.7 inch, 4.5 inch, 6 inch, and 9.2 inch shells.

"Total orders placed for ammunition of all types, including component parts such as fuses, primers, and cartridge cases, amount to $69,000,000 of which $9,000,000 represents capital expenditures to increase plant capacities. In the immediate future, these orders will be increased by some $33,000,000 involving the production, amongst other items, of several million shells.

"Production of small arms ammunition is being expanded rapidly. Capacity of the Quebec arsenal for the production of this material is being multiplied by four. Privately owned plants are being enlarged and two new plants are being designed. Definite orders for small arms ammunition placed to date total some $19,000,000 and the ceiling will be our productive capacity.

2 Large Explosive Plants

"Canada is building two large new explosive plants—one of which will be in production in September next. These plants produce TNT, nitro-cellulose powder and rifle cordite. Existing explosive plants are being expanded largely. The total capital investment in explosive plants presently in hand will amount to some $30,000,000.

"A new shell filling plant is under construction, at an estimated cost of $8,000,000. On its completion, all shells, fuses, components and the required explosives will be routed into this plant, and finished shells will be shipped abroad or delivered for use in Canada.

"The operation of this program has been placed in the hands of a wholly government-owned company, Allied War Supplies Corporation which will, in addition, operate the secondary chemical and other industries incidental to the program. This company will be responsible for the administration of new capital investment totalling some $110,000,000.

"Additional munitions production includes anti-submarine nets, gas masks, depth charges, mines, pyro-technics, smoke screen chemicals, and various types of bombs.

Manufacture Optical Glass

"An interesting development is the construction, now in progress, of a plant which will manufacture optical glass, gun sights, fire control apparatus and predicators, and sound detecting apparatus, none of which has previously been made in Canada.

"Processes to be incorporated in this factory have all been developed by the National Research Laboratories, to whose inventive genius Canada is indebted for a type of production that can only be the result of extensive scientific research.

"Since the outbreak of war, this department and its predecessor boards have purchased more than 18,000,000 yards of woollen and cotton cloth.

400,000 Battle Dress Uniforms

"This has been, or is being, manufactured into 400,000 service battle dress uniforms, 225,000 summer battle dress uniforms, 283,000 overcoats, winter and summer underwear and other items of clothing. Orders have been placed for 850,000 pairs of boots and shoes and production has been stepped up to 30,000 pairs per week. Production of battle dress is reaching 20,000 suits per week.

"Blankets are being produced at the rate of 30,000 per week; braces 18,000 per week; caps 18,000 per week; service shirts 12,500 per week; and greatcoats 7,000 per week."

General buying, including purchase of clothing, food and all personal equipment for the troops, totalled to date $245,000,000, of which 44 per cent had been delivered and paid for, said the Minister. Of these purchases, $217,000,000 was spent in Canada, $22,000,000 in the United Kingdom and $6,700,000 in the United States.

New Chemical Plants

"New plants have been built, or are under construction, for the manufacture of hexachloranthane, ammonia, ammonium nitrate, magnesia and magnesium powder, totuol, and a new chemical not previously manufactured in the British Empire.

"These new chemical plants involve a capital investment of some $35,000,000.

"A new plant for the manufacture of brass is being built, and the existing brass plant is being largely extended, this program involving a capital expenditure of some $12,000,000. Production of aluminum in Canada is in process of being doubled, and plants are under construction for manufacturing this metal into sheets, shape, extrusions and forgings, this program involving some $20,000,000. Aluminum is the present bottle-neck of the aircraft industry, and steps must be taken to restrict its use for domestic purposes.

Machine Shop Capacity.

"The machine shop capacity of Canada is rapidly being taken over by war work. Canada's production of machine tools is being expanded through plant additions, and many million dollars worth of machine tools are being imported.

"The Citadel Merchandising Company, a wholly government-owned company, is in charge of the importation of machine tools, both for government and private account, and has, since its formation six weeks ago, purchased on its own account machine tools and equipment valued at $1,300,000 and for government contractors, some $15,000,000.

"The manufacture of munitions involves large and intricate gauge production. Some thirty Canadian firms are now manufacturing gauges, involving precision workmanship to 1-10,000 of an inch.

Canadian Steel Production.

"Lumber and timber, particularly airplane spruce, have become difficult to obtain in sufficient quantity. Production of Canadian steel is being extended to the limit. While not yet a problem of production, petroleum products have assumed importance as a strain upon Canada's supply of foreign exchange."

The minister said industry had cooperated to the fullest degree and "there has been no evidence of an attempt to obtain undue manufacturing profits. At a time of emergency, Labor was called on to work on holidays, on Sundays, and for all possible overtime work, and the response was nothing short of magnificent."

COMMONS HOLDS SECRET DEBATE

Foreign Affairs Discussed After Vote of 200 to 109 on Motion

London, July 30.—(CP)—The House of Commons voted 200 to 109 today for a secret debate on foreign affairs, upholding Prime Minister Churchill who favored a closed session.

The galleries were cleared immediately and the House began its sixth secret session of the war.

Mr. Churchill in moving the secret session indicated that Richard Butler, under-secretary for Foreign Affairs, would speak for the government.

Mr. Churchill said Mr. Butler had prepared two speeches, one "somewhat longer than the other". The former, he indicated, would be given only if the debate were secret.

Earl Winterton, Conservative, opposed the secret session, saying that only seven such sessions were held in the first great war whereas in this war parliament already had had five.

He referred to "fantastic and wicked lies" of enemy propaganda that the House was going to discuss peace terms, and added "there is nothing in our relationship with foreign powers that we need be afraid of saying in public".

3 SOLDIERS KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Gibraltar, July 30—(CP)—Military headquarters announced today that three soldiers were killed yesterday in an explosion "in the vicinity of the naval wireless station at the north front" of this Mediterranean stronghold. It said the cause was "as yet unknown."

INSURANCE PLAN HAS MANY VALUES

Will Provide War Finances Through Contributions and Also Furnish Employment Service

Ottawa, July 30 (CP).—The Unemployment Insurance Scheme will not only play a vital part in providing war finances—through contributions of about $4,000,000 a month—but will also provide an employment service which will prove of major national value as labor becomes increasingly hard to find, Finance Minister Ilsley told the House of Commons today.

For those reasons, the war made it more desirable than ever that unemployment insurance and an efficient system of employment exchanges be established as soon as possible.

Financial and Economic Aspects.

The finance minister briefly reviewed the financial and economic aspects of the nation's war activity in a statement supplementing those of other war ministers.

"The task of finance," he said, "is to provide the funds which are used to pay for the war services. But in a deeper sense, the task of finance is, by taxation and borrowing, to restrict the civilian demand for economic resources in order that they will be free when the defence or supply departments require them."

It was important that this function had to be kept in step with the defence and supply program, for if civilian demand was curtailed before defence demands made use of the resources set free, there would be unemployment and waste.

Mr. Ilsley sketched the various financial measures taken since the war began, based on the basic policy of pay-as-you-go as far as possible, cheap borrowing and scientific monetary management — "avoiding inflation on one hand and monetary stringency on the other."

There had been "a moderate and carefully controlled expansion of money and credit during the first three months of the year."

Value of Unemployment Insurance.

The minister said he did not believe members of parliament or the public generally realized how useful the unemployment insurance might prove from the standpoint of war finance. Once it got into operation, contributions of employers and employees would run about $4,000,000 a month and for the duration of the war little would likely be paid out, since employment would remain high.

The national employment exchanges would prove of great usefulness as it became more and more important to transfer unemployed labor to places where it was most needed.

"In fact, I should not be surprised if the employment service set up under this insurance scheme proves to be just as important from the point of view of mobilizing our labor force as national registration itself," he added.

Greatly increased British purchases in Canada in the next year would require considerable increased financial assistance for Britain through repatriation of Canadian securities to provide Canadian dollars for purchases in this country, which would involve a "substantial addition" to the financing to be done to meet Canada's own deficit.

"It will be a great deal more than the figure of $200,000,000 a year suggested in the budget," said Mr. Ilsley. "While the increased income resulting from the British purchases will help us to make the savings necessary to finance them, the additional borrowing cannot be done without considerable effort."

Savings

The volume of savings required to meet Canada's own deficit and assist Britain in purchasing in Canada would be "really enormous," the Minister said.

"We shall have the income from which we can, if we will, provide the savings. What is necessary is the voluntary effort to make the savings."

War loans would have to come from voluntary savings, "from real efforts to do without luxuries and even comforts in order to help win the war. Never before in our history have we faced a saving problem, an investment problem, of such magnitude. It will require sustained and determined effort but the kind of effort of which the aroused Canadian people are now fully capable."

$16,690,435 War Saving Certificates On July 27

Mr. Ilsley said the sale of War Savings certificates totalled $16,690,435 on July 27, held by 336,602 persons, which did not include stamps unconverted into savings certificates. There were 9,010 employers co-operating in the plan through which approximately 1,000,000 workers were contributing regularly.

The restriction of foreign exchange for pleasure travel was necessary to buy munitions and equipment in the United States.

"We are confident that our American friends will understand that we are just as anxious to see them and to visit them as ever," he said. "We are not trying to save money at their expense but rather we are determined that as much as possible of our receipts of American dollars shall be used for the purchase of those things we need for the war. This is a war not only to defend Britain but to defend this continent as well.

"We want very much to have Americans visit us during the war and we are eager to see that they enjoy their stay in Canada and that they are treated as honored guests and good friends."

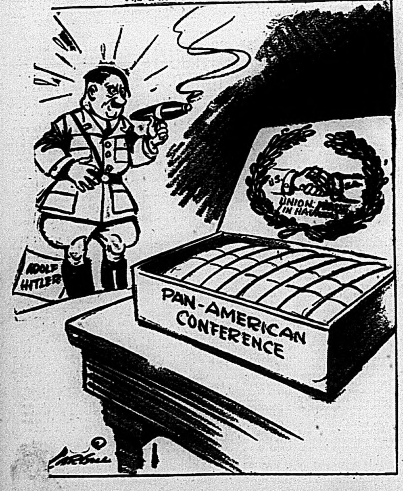
MAKING HIM SICK!



200 VOLUNTEER WORKERS IN CITY WILL BE NEEDED

Chief Registrar, W. R. Rierden, Says There Are 10,000 to Register in This City

START AUGUST 19

An estimated 20 volunteer workers for the city of Belleville alone will be needed to assist official registrars and deputies if the job of registering approximately 10,000 residents of ages 16 years and over was the opinion of Chief Registrar, W. R. Rierdon, and Chief Assistant Fred Wiggins, official registrars for South Hastings, as they went about their mammoth task of setting up the necessary machinery for the taking of the national registration in this constituency next month.

From their offices at Shire Hall, the official registrars stated that many volunteer workers were offering their services, but if the work was to be completed in the three days set for registration, many more would be needed.

Under present regulations, persons registering must go to the registration booth in their particular ward where the official registrar, or his volunteer assistant, will fill out the form required, and when completed must be signed by the person being registered. It will take at least 15 minutes for each person to register and to receive his registration card it is estimated.

And to add to the difficulty of the task confronting the registrars will be the trouble involved, when the person being registered is of alien birth, or parentage, and who possibly will not be able to speak the English language. Here is where volunteer interpreters will be needed, it was pointed out, as three districts in the local constituency were mentioned in which there is considerable foreign speaking element.

Public Buildings to be Used

In very few cases will the polling booths as used during civic elections be used for registration booths as it was thought unfair that private homes be kept open for the three days, while registration was taking place. Schools and church halls will be used almost exclusively in Belleville, with the city hall, the Y.M.C.A. and other public buildings having been offered for this purpose.

There will be one registration booth for each polling division in the city, however, with two paid deputies in each booth. Volunteer workers may be sworn in to assist these paid deputies. The regulations provide that in each polling subdivision "two competent persons whose handwriting is legible" shall be appointed deputy-registrars to handle the registration.

In addition to the registration booths in Belleville, in Trenton and Deseronto there will be eight booths in Sidney Township, 10 in Thurlow, 7 in Tyendinaga, 9 in Hungerford, 3 in Tweed and one in Frankford. Booths will be open from 8.00 until 10.00 p.m. on the days set aside for registration and volunteer workers, after being duly sworn in, will be permitted to visit aged or infirm persons with the necessary forms, fill them out and bring them back to the official registrar.

All Must Register

All persons, male and female, sixteen years of age and over must register, males answering 18 questions and females 19. Single males, and widowers without dependents, between the ages of 16 and 45 years must fill out forms in duplicate. The penalty for failure to register is a fine not exceeding $200 or a jail sentence not more than three months, or both, while the same penalty in regard to fine and imprisonment are provided for making false statements.

A very enthusiastic reaction toward the forthcoming registration has been noted in the people by the registrars as they hove gone about the constituency arranging for their big task, and everywhere, they state, they have been assured of every co-operation possible. As proof of the interest that the population of the city of Belleville are taking in the registration, and their willingness to co-operate, yesterday Mr. Rierdon, official registrar for this district, received a list of names of persons of the Jewish faith who would be willing to act as volunteer workers, and also others, who were willing to act as interpreters if the necessity should arise.

Miss Agnes Macphail Accepts Nomination In Saskatoon City

Saskatoon, July 30—(CP)—The United Reform Movement banner will be carried in the Aug. 19 federal by-election in Saskatoon by the veteran parliamentarian Miss Agnes Macphail.

She was the unanimous choice of a United Reform convention last night as the candidate to contest the by-election necessitated by the death shortly after the March 26 general elections of Rev. W. G. Brown. Founder of the United Reform Movement, Mr. Brown first won the seat in a by-election Dec. 18, 1939.

In accepting the nomination, Miss Macphail stressed the need for the preservation of democracy and its continued expansion. She briefly reviewed the problems of unemployment, monetary reform, farm prices in relation to cost of production and distribution.

She expressed regret that war could not be prevented but declared that now was the time for every effort to be made in assisting the fight for the preservation of democratic institutions and the democratic way of life.

First woman to be elected to the House of Commons, Miss Macphail formerly was the U.F.O.-Labor member for Grey-Bruce in Ontario. She sat in the Commons from 1921 until defeated March 26 by the Liberal standard bearer in Grey-Bruce.

Liberals will meet tonight to choose a candidate for the by-election and Conservatives hold their convention Wednesday night. Other parties, including Social Crediters, have made no decision yet regarding the contest.

COOKING BACON

In cooking bacon the main thing to remember is not letting it reach a temperature which is too high. When panbroiling bacon it should be put in a cold pan and placed over a low heat. Turn frequently and drain the excess fat from the pan so that the bottom of the pan is only well greased. When bacon is light golden brown and evenly crisped it should be removed from the pan, drained on absorbent paper.

London, July 31 (CP).—The British merchant cruiser Alcantara fought a battle with a German raider, a fast converted merchant ship, in the South Atlantic but was unable to prevent the raider escaping, the Admiralty announced today.

The Admiralty said the German ship, mounting four guns on each broadside, turned away immediately after she was hit, using a smoke screen to escape.

The Alcantara, however, chased her until a German shot reduced her speed.

The British casualties were two killed and seven wounded.

The 22,209-ton Royal Mail liner Alcantara was converted into an armed merchant vessel with ten guns mounted on her decks. She joined the South Atlantic squadron last March.

Why The Weather?

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

The possible rainfall! If all the moisture in the air above were wrung out, how much rain would there be? That depends upon the location and time of the year. But assuming it is summer, when there is more moisture in the air than at any other time, the amounts would vary from 0.78 inch in the Arctic Sea to 2.87 inches at Victoria Nyanza, Africa. At Ottawa, Canada, there would be 1.81 inches, and in the Atlantic, at the 30th parallel of latitude, 2.56. But the atmosphere never rains itself dry. Clouds are always evaporating as they form, and rain often evaporates before it reaches the ground.

JAPAN WILL NOT PAY ATTENTION TO ANY PROTEST

Claim Made Japan Has Sufficient Evidence Against Prisoners

NEWSMAN BURIED

Tokyo, July 31 (AP)—Yakichiro Suma, Foreign Office spokesman, told newspapermen today that "it would be entirely unreasonable for Britain to make any sort of protest in connection with the arrests of British subjects in an alleged espionage round-up.

He said that if a protest is made the Japanese government "will give no consideration" to it. He claimed the authorities have "sufficient evidence" against the prisoners.

London, July 31 (CP)—Authoritative quarters indicated today that the next move is up to Japan following the British protest yesterday against Japanese arrest of British subjects.

"The position is not likely to remain static," these sources added.

They said two of the Britons arrested had been released and one more taken in for questioning, leaving 11 still in custody.

Funeral services for Melville James Cox, British newspaperman who, the Japanese claim, committed suicide while being questioned in connection with alleged espionage activities, were held today attended by Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador, Joseph Grew, United States Ambassador, and other diplomats and representatives of the Foreign Office. Domei, Japanese News Agency, also was represented. Cox was correspondent for Reuters, British News Agency.

ENGLISH CHANNEL, NORTH SEA BASES HIVE OF ACTIVITY

Italian Participation in Attack Limited to 'Token' Land and Parachute Troops, Berne Dispatch Says

TO SUPPLY PLANES

Reported Many Italian Troops Taken Through Brenner Pass to North Channel Ports

Berne, Switzerland, July 31 — (AP)—Italian troops and planes are standing ready in North Sea and English Channel bases to aid German legions in the long-promised frontal attack against England, it was rumored today.

Italians in Switzerland said Hitler had granted Mussolini a specific request that his Fascist troops be permitted to share in the attempt to invade Britain.

The Fuehrer agreed, the reports said, after a conference with his military staff, although he limited Italian participation to "token" land and parachute troops.

In the matter of planes, however, the reports alleged, Hitler asked for many squadrons, and these have been flown to bases in the German-occupied sections of France along the Bay of Biscay and in Brittany, loaded with Italian parachute troops trained by the Germans.

Other land units, composed of troops who have seen service in Ethiopia and Spain and drawn from eastern Italian garrisons, have been sent through the Brenner Pass to North Sea channel ports farther north, said informants.

Italian sources, like the German, reported the long-planned big offensive against England was "imminent." Nevertheless many foreign observers believed the axis partners might only be turning on their familiar "nerve" machine full blast and that the attempted invasion, if it comes, still may be several weeks away.

Weather Improving

Those who believed the reports that the apparent last-minute preparations were the real thing pointed out to improving weather all over Western Europe, presaging ideal August conditions for an air offensive.

There were indications that Spain might join in the "all out" offensive.

German and Italian travellers from Spain and General Francisco Franco's government appeared to be preparing to try to capture Gibraltar, famed fortress rock guarding the western entrance to the Mediterranean, long coveted by Spain. Spain and Britain are not yet at war, however.

Troops in small boats carrying artillery were reported concentrated near La Linea, Spanish port just

Residents of British Isles In Good Health and Good Heart

Not a Reckless Statement to Whip Up Flagging Courage, It is the Truth

PREPARED FOR WAR

By SAM ROBERTSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 31—(CP)—In the midst of the greatest danger the United Kingdom has ever faced the Prime Minister is able to say to the world, "here in our island we are in good health and in good heart."

It is no reckless statement aimed to whip up flagging courage. It is the truth.

It might have been expected the people of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales would have cringed from the German and Italian war might when subjugation of France followed so rapidly on exploding of the myth of the Maginot. One might have thought the out-numbered and out-gunned populace would have reasoned: "How can we do it alone?"

The reverse was the case.

Left to stand alone, the full danger of their position struck home and brought out the quality of the bulldog that is a definite part of their character It awakened them and today they are more ready and better prepared for war than at any time since it broke on a world in which only Hitler's Germany was fully ready.

Today, back of the navy, air force and army is a determined fourth line of defence—a people's army anxious to do what it can to aid the armed services.

Volunteers by Millions

They have enrolled in voluntary services by the millions. There are 1,314,000 air raid precautions workers, upwards of 1,100,000 local defence volunteers forming the "home guards" or "parashot" army." Approximately 650,000 women spend their spare hours doing every manner of war work as members of the Women's Voluntary Service. There are 186,000 in the Auxiliary Fire Service.

Italian Newsman Crashes Duke's Party

Lisbon, July 31 AP)—A representative of the Italian news and propaganda agency, Stefani "crashed" the Duke of Windsor's farewell reception for the press last night.

He claimed to represent an obscure Portuguese paper, but was detected and discreetly, usherd out by the British Embassy press attache just before the party broke up.

The Duke plans to leave with the Duchess Thursday on the United States liner Excalibur to take up his duties as Governor of the Bahamas.

The Duke said he was looking forward to the "novel experience" of governing a British colony.

N. Y. Daily News Says U. S. Plans Naval Force to Impose Trusteeship On French, Dutch Lands in Caribbean

Declares Action Will be Taken When Pan-American Nations Give Ratification of Move — Claims Six Ships to be Used in Expedition

New York, July 31—(CP)— The New York Daily News says in a copyright story that the United States is preparing to send a naval expeditionary force into the Caribbean Sea to impose a "trusteeship" over the possessions of France and The Netherlands.

The News says actions will be taken when the Pan-American nations give ratification of the move. The paper adds that four old destroyers and two 15,000-ton former liners, the Santa Maria and Santa Barbara, which the United States navy bought last week, are to be employed in the expedition.

"Great Britain has urged the move," says The News. "So have residents of the French island of Martinique, who have confidentially notified the State Department that they would welcome American intervention."

The News continues:

"This manoeuvre would virtually hand over to England the rich booth of a great military victory. ....It would impound for the duration of the war $250,000,000 in French gold reposing at Martinique for more than a month. It would appropriate and demilitarize a squadron of French naval vessels in Martinique, including the aircraft carrier Bearn, on which there are 100 American military airplanes once destined for France. The airplanes, it is believed, could be brought back by the United States and resold to England."

The News adds that "for appearances' sake," the United States naval force would be bolstered by Cuban, Brazilian and Argentinian warships.

IMPOSING RECORD ESTABLISHED BY FLEET AIR ARM

In 20 Weeks Planes Have Operated Over 8,000,000 Square Miles Without Loss of One Machine or Any Casualties

SPOT ENEMY

London, July 31—(CP)—Britain's fleet air arm has established an impressive record of achievement in operations covering a 20-week period. During that time its planes have operated over an area of 8,000,000 square miles without losing a single machine or suffering one casualty.

Entry of Italy into the war and the consequent operations in the Mediterranean have served to em-

Direct Attack Will Be Necessary To Defeat Germany Says Sir L. Beale

San Francisco, July 31 (AP)—Sir Louis Beale, member of the British Purchasing Commission, told the Foreign Trade Conference "the mistake should not be made of assuming that the war can be won merely by withholding supplies from Germany.

"Now, even more than six months ago, it is uncertain that direct attack upon Germany will be necessary to bring about her defeat."

Nevertheless Sir Louis said, the blockade is still "our essential weapon, necessary to reduce Germany's striking power." . . . Poland and France were not beaten by a greater bravery but by tanks and aircraft, and the present war will be won in the mines and factories of a thousand towns and cities. . . .

He gave an insight into the tremendous purchases of war equipment by Britain in the United States. He said these purchases, including French contracts taken out by the British amounted to $1,800,000,000. Sixty per cent went for aircraft.

American manufacturers have delivered 2,800 planes and 11,000 more are on order, and steel purchasing is running between 400,000 and 500,-[illegible] a month.

300 Killed in Turkey-in-Asia Earthquakes

12 Villages Reported Destroyed in Central Anatolian Peninsula

Ankara, Turkey, July 31—(AP)—Government agencies speeded relief today to earthquake-stricken areas in the central Anatolian plateau, where 300 persons were reported killed and hundreds injured yesterday by heavy temblors which destroyed 12 villages.

The affected region centred around Yosgad, 200 miles east of Ankara.

Tremors were felt in Ankara, Istanbul, Erzincan, Tokat, Kayseri, Amasyi and Sinop.

Last fall earthquakes took approximately 40,000 lives in Anatolia and in the region further east. Thousands, left homeless, died in bitter cold weather.

RAPID TRAINING WILL PROVIDE MILLION WORKERS

At Least Additional Million Can be Trained Under Gov't. Plan Says Bevin, Labor Minister

INEFFICIENCY GONE

Bevin Predicts Greatest Change in Britain of Future Will be in Widespread State Ownership

London, July 31 (CP) — Ernest Bevin, Minister of Labor, said today that the process of supplying wartime labor has revealed that Britain's unemployment problems were due not to a shortage of jobs but to the need of giving new skill to semi-skilled labor.

He said that unemployment now has practically gone and that the process of rapid training under the government's plan is providing enough skilled workers to provide for the employment of at least an additional 1,000,000 in a short period.

The minister predicted that industrial Britain's face will not be the same after the war.

Labor Better Disciplines.

He said labor will be better disciplined, trained and governed. He added that it had been necessary for the government departments to throw out many inefficient managements in order to speed up factory production and that it was unlikely that shareholders, made aware of inefficiencies, would ever restore those managements.

He predicted that the greatest change of all would be in widespread state ownership. "The state is bound to become the biggest employer and that will affect many labor troubles, since it is difficult to strike when it involves the state," he said.

Mr. Bevin predicted state ownership also will be inevitable in the United States, particularly in connection with railroads.

M. P. May Suggest Black Forest Be Set Afire By Incendiary Bombs

It is Thought Unlikely Mr. Churchill Will Give Definite Reply to Question Whether Nazi Forests Are Considered Military Objectives

London, July 31 (CP).—A suggestion that Britain set fire to Germany's historic Black Forest will be made in the House of Commons tomorrow, but the government is not likely to discuss it.

In a question submitted for answer tomorrow, J. P. Morris, Conservative, asks whether Prime Minister Churchill considers the Black Forest, 1,800 square miles, and the Thuringian Forest, which is 95 miles long, military objectives.

Reports have been published here that the Germans have big ammunition dumps in the Black Forest and Mr. Morris will suggest that incendiary bombs be used against it.

Authoritative quarters said it is unlikely that Mr. Churchill will give a definite reply.

BLINDING HEAT PREVENTS SEARCH FOR MISSING DEAD

$1,800,000 Factory and 67 Houses Destroyed by Fire Following Explosion at Camden, N.J.

TWO KNOWN DEAD

Army of Volunteers Undertakes Task of Caring for Scores Made Temporarily Homeless

Camden, N.J., July 31.—(AP)—Blinding heat blocked today an immediate search for bodies of the missing dead after fire and explosions that destroyed a $1,000,000 factory and at least 67 homes in a four-block area at Midtown Camden.

Mrs. Mary W. Kobus, director of Public Safety, expressed fear the death toll might exceed the number indicated in still incomplete checks. She said insurance underwriters, thought "probably seven persons" were dead.

"But I am not so hopeful", said Mrs. Kobus, who remained at the scene all night.

With the picture still far from clear, unoffical reports on the $2,000,000 disaster—worst in Camden's history—showed:—

Two known dead.

Four women and a man missing.

Possibly four or five more unaccounted for —subjects of inquiries at hospitals and relief stations, but not given up.

Upwards of 200 injured or affected by heat or smoke, many treated at the scene.

Of those in the hospitals, attendants said four were in critical condition.

An army of volunteers undertook the task of caring for scores of families made temporarily homeless. Most of these—about 200 — were sheltered in dormitories of Camden's naval militia armory. The Salvation Army, nearby hotels and the Red Cross housed others. A soup company supplied food.

Four hours after the first explosion at the R. M. Hollingshead Paint Company plant, which set off the fires that quickly grew and spread, a state of emergency was declared in the stricken surrounding area.

Householders the city over were urged to use as little water as possible, with the supply feared running low at the roaring blaze. It was near dusk before the fire was brought under control.

F. T. BIRCHALL'S ILLNESS

Ottawa, July 31 (CP).—In serious condition in hospital since undergoing an emergency appendectomy Monday night, Frederick T. Birchall, Ottawa correspondent of the New York Times, was reported today by hospital officials as "still holding his own". He is 69 and former European correspondent for the Times.

Writer in N.Y. News Purports To Give 'Inside Information'

Donald MacKenzie Says Siege, Field and Anti-Aircraft Artillery Massed by British Along Entire Coastline Against Any German Attempt at Invasion

BRITISH PREPARATIONS

New York, July 31—(CP)—Birtain's all-embracing preparations to beat back any German attempt at invasion were outlined yesterday by the New York Daily News in an article which gave "inside information from London" as its source.

Written by Donald Mackenzie, former London newspaperman who has been with The News for some months, the article says:

A general order has been issued to the army, navy and air force saying: "No prisoners, no quarter, no mercy."

British authorities believe three-quarters of any force sent against Britain will be slaughtered before contact is made with the coast.

Siege, field and anti-aircraft artillery has been massed along the entire British coastline.

Hundreds of motor launches patrol the English Channel each night to prevent any surprise attack.

Secret Airdromes Established

Upward of 200 new secret airdromes have been completed. Planes allotted to these dromes will not take the air until the mass attack comes, "just as the thousands of secret anti-aircraft batteries the Germans are so eager to trace will remain 'under blankets' till the big day comes."

Aviation gasoline supplies are safely underground in great reservoirs throughout Britain. Big oil tanks at the Thames estuary, near Bristol and other towns are "empty shells, mostly cloaking anti-aircraft batteries."

Mackenzie adds that a new form of concrete, invented by a Hollander, has been found to be as resistant to shell penetration as steel armor so the decks of auxiliary cruisers, destroyers, minesweepers, light gunboats and motorboat torpedo carriers have been reinforced with it.

Navicert System Used to Enforce British Blockade

Form of Passport for Non-British Companies' Vessels Will be Required to Deter Neutral Shipping From Attempt to Run Blockade

NO CONTROL BASES

Order Effective at Midnight Wednesday Names Italy and Germany as Enemies —Navicert is Necessary to Enjoy Services of Coaling Drydock and Insurance Facilities at Britain's Worldwide Ports

London, July 31 (CP). — Britain today ordered a blockade extending from the Arctic to Northern Africa, effective at midnight tonight, an order in council giving effect to the policy announced in the House of Commons yesterday by Hugh Dalton, Minister of Economic Warfare.

In future non-British shipping companies will have to agree always to employ navicerts—a form of passport for ship cargoes—in order to enjoy services such as coaling, drydock and insurance facilities at Britain's world-wide ports.

Ships of offending lines entering British ports may find difficulty even in getting water. The object of this system is to deter neutral shipping from attempted blockade running.

The ministry of economic warfare said the new system would eliminate control basis such as were established for examination of suspected contraband at the start of the war.

The order names Italy and Germany as enemies and states that any vessel to or from a port through which they might exchange goods with the world may be deemed carrying contraband and liable to seizure as a prize unless provided with a navicert. Navicerts are issued by British consuls prior to sailing.

Exemption is provided for ships which sailed from ports where navicerts are not obtainable, unless the ships coul deasily have called at an ships could easily have called at an

BRITAIN ENLISTS SCIENTISTS' AID TO DEVISE DIETS

Loss of European Sources of Food Supply and Extension of Rationing Cause for Change

MAXIMS FOR MEALS

London, July 31—(CP) —Britain has enlisted the aid of scientists to devise new wartime diets. Loss of European sources of food supply and extension of rationing has wrought drastic changes in the eating habits of the people of the United Kingdom.

Old favorites like roast beef and steak and kidney pudding are disappearing from the dinner table. The traditional breakfast of bacon and eggs may vanish soon too. Bacon already is rationed and continental supplies of eggs no longer are available.

Diet experts have stepped into the breach. They believe Britons will eat more sensible meals and enjoy better health as a result of wartime restrictions. Many are devoting their time to devising balanced fare designed to supply adequate calories and vitamins.

The United Kingdom has never been self-sufficient in food stuffs but under war conditions she is making great strides to overcome that handicap. Two well-known scientists have worked out almost entirely home-produced diets.

One of them, Prof. J. C. Drummond, scientific adviser to the Food Ministry, suggests a basic meal without eggs or meat. Here it is:

Salad (one ounce each of lettuce, tomato and cucumber, one chopped carrot), 3-4 ounces of butter, 1 1-2 ounces of cheese, three ounces of wholemeal bread, 2-3 pint of milk, 2 1-2 ounces of herring, five ounces of baked potato.

Sir John Boyd Orr, who directs the Rowlett Research Institute at Aberdeen, suggests a diet which also avoids eggs and meat. His proposed ration:

Two-thirds of a pint of milk, six ounces of vegetables, 14-18 ounces of potatoes, two ounces oatmeal, 11 3-4 ounces of bread, 1 1-4 ounces of fat, 2 1-4 ounces of sugar.

Sir John, who once said that more than half the population of Britain was undernourished, lays down these maxims for sensible war-time meals:

"Porridge and milk are better for you than ham and eggs."

"We should all be much healthier if we ate more home-produced potatoes."

"Milk is by far the most important of our protective foods."

Milk, cheese and fish are recommended as substitutes for meat by Prof. V. H. Mottram, diet expert and one-time lecturer in physiology at McGill and Toronto Universities.

David Lloyd George, Britain's Prime Minister in the latter half of the first Great War, also has given some tips on food from his native Wales. One dish he mentioned in the House of Commons — "micwf-mali"—was commended by the Ministry of Food as a useful wartime item in diet. "Micwf-mali" consists of hot oatcakes dipped in buttermilk.

Advisers on the food situation sound a note of hope for this country. Food research has advanced rapidly since the last war and Professor Drummond claims the United Kingdom has "the finest research machinery any country in the world has ever possessed."

TRAVELS 140,472 MILES AS CARRIER IN 29 YEARS

Since his superannuation by the Postal Department as a letter carrier in the city of Peterboro recently, Mr. James Charter Harrison has estimated that in his twenty-nine years as a letter-carrier his pedestrian mileage amounts to 140,472 miles. This is the result of a bit of multiplication, an average of 40 miles per day, every day except Sunday, for twenty-nine years. This is the equivalent of twenty-five round trips from Montreal to Vancouver. Or, if you wish it in another way, Mr. Harrison walked a distance equal to traveling around the world between five and six times.

ALL HIGHWAY SIGNS PLACED ON POLES

A g IlhawayhihrNNSN N.Nhplc..

All highway signs in the city now affixed to light standards, etc., will be taken down and placed on standards and poles erected for the purpose it was learned yesterday as Department of Highway employees began erection of the poles in the necessary places.

New steel standards were erected at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets and also at the Upper Bridge. Fingerboards and highway number signs will be erected it is said. Local motorists travel by signs showing the number of the highways it is claimed, while American tourists and motorists strange to the district travel by destination fingerboard signs.

TOURIST SEASON GOOD IN P. E.

According to a survey made by the Prince Edward publicity committee, a good tourist season is being enjoyed by hotels and farm homes throughout the county. Many of these places are now filled to capacity and will be for several weeks yet, says a news item from Picton.

The early part of the season saw a falling off in the United States traffic but it is now noted that this is on the increase and it is believed that this is due in part to the people there being informed that wartime restrictions in Canada are not severe as believed by many there.

Trade has benefited by the fact that more Canadians are spending their holidays in Canada as the result of passports being required for travel across the lines, and the publicity committee is seeking visitors from Canadian cities as well as from the United States.

Cottages are in demand, especially for the week-ends by tourists who come for the fishing. Bass and pickerel fishing have been particularly good this season and there is a growing number of the followers of Izaak Walton seeking members of the finny tribe in county waters. On the whole, what promised to be a poor tourist season has now become a very good one.

He was assisting in the unloading of a truck-load of sand when he stepped from behind the motionless vehicle and was knocked down when brushed by a motor car, travelling at a moderate rate of speed; Provincial Police revealed today. The injuries are not considered serious and no fracture was reported.

WATCH PRESENTED TO CECIL HOLWAY

Troop Sergeant - Major of 3-47th Battery Given Banquet Before Departure for Training Centre

Tangible expression of years of happy associations and deeply founded friendships was shown at the Bay of Quinte Country Club last night, when fifteen business associates, friends and relatives of Troop Sergeant-Major Cecil Holway of the 3-47th Field Battery Royal Canadian Artillery presented him with a handome "Rotary" watch prior to his departure for an eastern training point.

Mr. Roy Stafford, manager of the British American Oil Company's local branch, with whom Sergeant-Major Holway has been connected for some years as yard foreman, made the presentation and in a brief address expressed the regret of himself and associates at losing the valuable services of the sergeant-major, and also voiced his and their pride in the fact, that once more he had volunteered his services for the defence of the Empire.

Sergeant-Major Holway or "Cec" as he is familiarly known to a host of friends in this district, expressed his appreciation in a brief response.

Tendered Banquet

The presentation took place during a banquet tendered the guest of honor. There was gaiety and laughter notwithstanding an undercurrent of regret at the severing of relations that have characterized the personnel of the B.A. Company's branch here for some time. Excellent entertainment was given by George Cornish in his own inimitable manner.

Sergeant-Major Holway is an exemplification of the typical Canadian soldier. Standing well over six feet in height and of splendid physique, he developed a military bearing that has never left him. He brings to his battery a wealth of military experience, having fought with the famous 4th Canadian Mounted Rifles for three and one-half years in France during the last Great War. He participated in the many battles in which his unit gained undying fame and received an experience under fire and in camp, that will stand him in good stead in Canada's new army.

Those present included—Messrs. Roy Stafford, James Clarke, Kenneth Smith, D. Armstrong, Wesley Gray, Sr.; Frank "Duke" Smith; George Smith, George Cornish, Jack Alexander, Earl Morgan, Ken Vivian, Ernie Holway, A. R. "Toots" Holway, Harry Smith.

Donations Received By Red Shield Auxiliary For Month of July

Miss Huff, 4 little dresses; Holloway St. Church, 13 hospital gowns, 12 sling bandages, 4 sweaters, 22 pairs socks, 16 triangle bandages, 1 abdominal bandage, 1 scarf, 1 shawl, 1 pneumonia jacket, 1 Hampton pad, 2 abdominal binders; the Gordon St. Girls—$2; Mrs. Barlow, blanket; Shannonville Church, 2 quilts.

SITE IS SELECTED NEAR OSHAWA

Ottawa, July 31—(CP)—Selection of a site near Oshawa, Ont., for one of the 26 elementary flying training schools to be established under the British Commonwealth Air Training plan was announced today by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The site is two miles northwest of the city on lots 13, 14, 15 and 16 in Concession No. 3, Township of Whitby.

Out-of-School Girls and Boys Occupy Time in Entertainment

South Charles Street Community, Parents and Children Attend Home Garage Concert

During the summer vacation period many youngsters not favored as yet with a respite out-of-town from school and studies, are at a loss to know how else or in a different manner to occupy their time. Frequently it is observed that little groups about the city absorb themselves over novel and worthwhile undertakings for displaying their initiative and capacity to perform creditably.

One such affair was conducted an evening just past by children in the South Charles St. area. Under the gifted leadership of wee Miss Emily McCullough, invitations were extended to playmates, their parents and friends for participating in a home garage concert. The admission fee was one cent and more could be spent in purchasing such dainties as candy, cakes, pop corn and lemonade. Seats were provided from the nearby houses and sufficed for a fair turn-out.

After much secret rehearsing and practice an amusing program was put on, which might be termed in modern language as a "scream" performance. It consisted of vocal solos, duets, trios and quartettes, choruses by all those present, plays or sketches, impromptu and improvised for the occasion entitled, "House in a Mess," "Burglars," "I Am Nobody," etc., under the little lady directress, Miss Emily, who by the way is a coming personage for public entertainment. To her selected audience she portrayed her art at tap dancing also just as cleverly as when appearing before some of our service club functions. Others assisting her in the exercises were her brother, Larry McCullogh, Miss Lois Irish, a visitor friend from Rednersville way in Prince Edward County and Miss Shirley Henry of close vicinity.

A nice sum of money was gathered for the exchequer and will eventually find its channel towards patriotic war purposes.

Possibly the finest feature of the whole affair was the community spirit developed in that, those dwelling in the immediate environs became better acquainted by rubbing shoulders together.

'Norm' Brown Honored By Fellow Employees

By a little brown tent on the sun-drenched bank of Jones' Creek where he wil spent the remainder of the summer in an effort to recuperate his health, members of the staff of The Ontario Intelligencer paid a temporary farewell tribute to Norman Brown, valued employee of the newspaper for the past ten years, when they presented him with two handsome deck chairs, a table, flashlight and other articles, yesterday afternoon.

The presentation and address was made by Job-room foreman James Cordes, with whom "Brownie" as he was familiarly known to his business associates, was directly associated with during a decade of service. Taken completely by surprise, the element of which was aided and abetted by "Brownie's" natural modesty, he managed to "put over" a brief address of appreciation. He thanked his former colleagues and expressed the hope that he would soon be back with them again.

In ill-health for some time Norman's physician ordered a complete change of environment and rest. He secured a lengthy leave of absence from his employer and under doctor's orders will absorb plenty of fresh air and sunshine. Members of the staff expressed their collective and individual wishes for a complete recovery after posing for several photographs with their former colleague.

Norman is a son of Mr. and Mrs. David Brown, 258 Foster avenue.

70th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY TO BE CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Fralick Enjoying Good Health on Eve of Notable Event

TO HOLD PARTY

Picton, July 31.—Enjoying good health are Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Fralick who on Friday will mark the seventieth anniversary of their wedding at their home on the East Lake road. Mr. Fralick is 94 and Mrs. Fralick is 91.

They were married in Herkimer County N.Y., where the bride was born and came to reside in Prince Edward County a year after their marriage. Mr. Fralick was born in Athol township.

Until the past winter Mr. and Mrs. Fralick resided alone and did all their own work. Mr. Fralick looked after a large garden, split his own wood and with his wife cared for chickens and bees. This year their daughter Mrs. Luther Leavitt is staying with them and Mr. Fralick says he is taking things easier and had a neighbor plant the garden but he insists on caring for it himself.

Mr. Fralick recalls many interesting stories of early days in Prince Edward County. At one time, huge catches of whitefish were hauled in on the shores of the county from Lake Ontario.

They have a family of four children, Mrs. Eldon Scott, Mrs. George Woodward, Mrs. L. Leavitt of East Lake and Mrs. Frank Howell of Demorestville.

Mr. Fralick believes people today live at too fast a pace. He follows the news of the day closely. Both wear glasses and do considerable reading.

Plans for the celebration have not been completed but it is expected that there will be a family gathering to mark the suspicious occasion.

KIWANIS CLUB GIVEN A THRILL

Bill Laing, Toronto, Gave History of Fighting Maskinonge in Ontario

As a general rule Kiwanians are fretful if they are kept more than the usual time for luncheons but on Tuesday at the Country Club they were loath to leave when Bill Laing, angler, photographer, and conservationist talked to the members on the "big ones" that did not get away. Some excellent pictures of the fighting maskinonge were shown and also shots of fishing in a lake rarily fished by the white man. It was an education to all and the anglers of the club were simply thrilled with the account of his adventures in distant places. Bill Laing is preparing a series of pictures of angling in Canada, which will be shown the length and breadth of the American continent and will surely result in more virile and enthusiastic tourist trade to this great Dominion. He is to be complimented in his efforts. The speaker was introduced by George Lee and Kiwanian appreciation was expressed by Cliff Baragar.

The luncheon at the club was a real sociable affair although the attendance was down from the week previous but many of the members are away on holidays and will likely get their attendance in at another club. Bill Anderson presided with Ormonde Butler as sergeant-at-arms and he lost the box as usual and Harold Carruthers as song leader. Leo B. Riggs as accompanist has the boys singing the patriotic airs at present and they really can sing "There'll Always be an England." The club was privileged in having a number of guests, who were royally welcomed by Eddie Logan. Frank Domenico as chairman of games for the Carnival gave a resume of the work so far accomplished and requested that all the members turn in and make the affair a success. Frank and Jack Trudeau in charge of the Carnival this year were given hands for their fine work in arranging so many details.

The address of Mr. Laing was covered at the Rotary luncheon of the day previous but it is sufficient to say the address was most instructive, intensely interesting and he left with the wishes of the members that he would soon return again.

'Minnehaha' Mourns Her Chief, Mascot is Prisoner of War

There will be tears in the eyes of "Laughing Water," wooden Indian squaw, who was recently squaw-knapped and returned to her home at the tourist camp of Harry Ketcheson, two miles west of the city, when she reads the latest news reports.

For according to information received yesterday in Picton from a member of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, stationed somewhere in England, "Little Chief" proud eight-foot wooden Indian mascot of the crack infantry unit of the First Canadian Division, is now a prisoner of war somewhere in France and under Nazi domination.

The huge mascot was taken with the Canadians when they made their famous sortie into French territory and were forced to turn back when the Nazi hordes swept through that country. "Little Chief" was left behind, and is believed today to adorn a wayside position on one of the shell-torn roads of France.

The statue which exemplifies in its proud mien and haughty bearing, the unquenchable spirit of the people it represents, will give its Nazi captors some idea of the gallant Canadian aborigines that roamed the forests of Quinte hundreds of years ago.

For fifty years, he braved the elements atop a Picton canning factory and was adopted as official mascot of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment a few days prior to the leaving of that unit for overseas.

A few days ago, members of a sister unit endeavoured to procure "Laughing Water," as a fitting mate for the overseas mascot. Their efforts failed and now the handsome squaw who suffered severe casualties during her sojourn in a western Ontario training centre will bemoan the temporary loss of her chosen mate.

But it will take more than official Nazidom to break "Little Chief's proud spirit. The stern features that gazed with pride upon his beloved "boys of the H. & P. E." for several months, will look scornfully on scuttle-helmeted Hun troops. Their look of derision, perhaps, will be lost on the immobile face. His staff will still be held proudly at the Indian "present." The bronzed features topped by the colorful head-dress of the proud Mohawk, will reflect the invincible, unconquerable spirit of the British Commonwealth of Nations. His very being will personify the defiance to Hitler and all he represents, now being hurled by the embattled British Lion and its fighting cubs.

There is one consolation at least, the "Chief" won't answer any questions or give away any vital information to the enemy.

OVER 2,000 LAND IN DOMINION FROM WAR ZONE

(By Jack Tracy Sanadian Press Staff Writer).

An Eastern Canadian Port, July 30 (CP)—Hundreds of travellers from troubled Europe, most of them British children, sped to havens in a peaceful land today, after two ocean liners landed them at this port. Of the more than 2,000 passengers, about 1,500 were children.

To the children, the arrival in a new country was an adventure, and they wanted to talk about it. Adults who travelled in the same ships—Baron Robert De Rothschild, one of the heads of the French banking house was one—asked only for "peace and silence."

Although most of the children came across the ocean with their parents, a number came in groups under the private arrangements and in charge of matrons.

"Home School" Planned

One group of 14 girls was led by Lady Eden, wife of Sir Timothy Eden, who is a brother of Anthony Eden, British Secretary for War. Lady Eden intends to bring to fruition in Pernie, B.C., her ideal of a "home school" which was cut short by the war. Her plan is for a school which provides "luxury but discipline" with the accent on manners and deportment.

Five of the children are her own. One is one month old, the youngest aboard the two ships. The group had been attending the "Home School" of Lady Eden, Fritham House, near Southampton, which is now in the "defence area."

"I couldn't find the ideal school for my own children," she said, "so really I had to start one myself."

"The Future is in Canada."

"I thing certainly we might stay in Canada after the war," Lady Eden said. "I think really the future is in Canada."

Most of Lady Eden's little group called her "Aunt Patricia." Nine of her school children have already arrived in Canada on previous ships.

Another group was led by Mrs. Ainsworth Taylor. There were 37 children of members of the Cambridge University faculty in it. Later Mrs. Taylor expects to take a smaller group of children to New Zealand.

Rothschilds Come

Baron de Rothschild travelled on one ship, his cousin Maurice de Rothschild on another. With the Baron were his wife and daughter, Miss C. de Rothschild.

The Baron refused to say what his purpose in this country was, or where he was going. "I want only peace and silence," he told reporters, "and if you haunt me I hope that won't be a nightmare."

His cousin, who was described by passengers as shaken and nervous after his escape from France, is going to Nassau, Bahamas.

Many of the children were being sent out to this country not because of the fear of actual bombings, but because of the effect the continual noise of warfare might have on them, Mrs. Somerset Maugham said.

The wife of the English author cuddled a French orphan as she talked to reporters aboard ship. He was one of the two children she brought out with her.

Breaking Up of Family

"One of the worst parts of the war is that families are being broken up," she said. Even when British parents knew their children were well cared for on this side of the Atlantic, there was some anxiety.

Mrs. Maugham hopes to find four or five other English-women who will help her provide a liaison between parents and their children.

She hopes to visit the children in the American and Canadian homes they have found for duration of the war. Then she will write back to their parents, telling them of the little things they will want to know about their children.

Little Cockney Girl

One of the most enthusiastic of the young passengers was the little Cockney girl who greeted reporters with, "Coo, 'ow about an autograph".

The accents that are heard within earshot of London's Bow Bells were prevalent throughout one of the ships. They came from children of Ford Motor Company employees living at Dagenham and Hornchurch. The group of 80 are going to Windsor, Ont. to become the guests of the Canadian Ford Company employees there.

This new home will be an old story to little Richard Cox. He is going to stay in Whitby, Ont., for the duration. He comes from Whitby, Yorkshire.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was sewing on her electric sewing machine, and I was looking out her window at the sky, not being much to look at on account of being invisible behind the clouds, thinking, Heck if ma hadn't of told me I couldn't go out I might kind of slide out and she might not notice.

And I said, Hay ma, why cant I go out just long enough for a little fresh air? and ma said, Because there's no fresh air out there for land sakes, with a solid gray sky low enough to touch with the fingers of one hand going to break out in a downpour without warning. We'll be having dinner as soon as your father gets home, and there's not a single reason why you should go out, she said.

Well jimminy, ma, if I give you 3 good reasons will you leave me go out till pop gets here? I said, and ma said, Dont take my mind off my straight seam, how can you give me what doesnt exist?

Because it does, ma, I mean they do, and one good reason is, it will give me a perfect chance to put on my rubbers and see if they leek in case it actually does rain, and that will prove whether or not I need new rubbers, like you claim I do, I said.

You need new rubbers by the simple power of the naked eye, so that's reason number one exploded, ma said, and I said, Well, the 2nd reason is, it will give me a good lesson in prompness by seeing if I can be back in the house before Nora rings the dinner bell for supper.

For land sakes dont overwork your mind for the 3rd reason, any boys that wants anything badly enough to strain their imagination to that extent proberly ought to have it, ma said.

Meaning I could go out and proving you never know what you miss if you're never willing to take a chance on wasting your time.

13 Soldiers May Have Made History

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

Thirteen French soldiers have arrived in Switzerland still bearing arms after fighting for a month to get through the German lines as now established in French territory.

Those thirteen men are the real representatives of the spirit of France.

It is because there are probably many others in the country who, when the time is opportune and expedient, may show comparable spirit and determination, that France will rise again, new and dedicated once more to the cause of freedom and liberty.

Their story may be an inspiration to all who hear it and their conduct may be the signal for other movements which could well proceed to grow in number and strength until the invaders and the slave masters are finally driven out of a land that must eventually be free.

The experiences of the thirteen men who fought on and on for a month, no doubt with much suffering and many discomforts, when conditions must have seemed hopeless, will become, if properly recorded, an epic of the era.

CANADA'S WAR EFFORT

Statements of Ministers in the House of Commons on Monday and Tuesday revealed in clear terms the course Canada is pursuing in her war effort.

How Canada is growing in her industry as applied to the successful prosecution of the war was shown by the Munitions Minister, C.D. Howe. Early in next year, Canadian factories will be producing no fewer than 360 military airplanes a month, which is at the rate of twelve machines per day. As soon as equipment is complete Canadian plants will be manufacturing one Mark III tank every day.

His address was full of encouraging details of the mammoth character of the war-construction industry, the plants having a capacity of half a billion dollars yearly.

One of the interesting facts brought to light is that ninety per cent of the projects originally planned for the Commonwealth Air Plan will have been finished by November of this year, instead of in a much longer time.

Ship-building, artillery plants, chemical plants, these are some of the great factors in Canada's wartime effort.

Canada's grainfields and her forests and mines are producing resources which will add to the steady economic power of the British Empire in crushing Hitlerism.

The Minister of War Services, the Hon. James G. Gardiner, said that one million men can be given military training in Canada without interference with productivity in industry. Mr. Gardiner pointed out to the members of Commons the productive capacity which is possessed by the Canadian people.

Colonel the Hon. J. L. Ralston, Defence Minister, has made clear to Canadian people the two phases of national defence, the short term policy of winning the war which requires a maximum of effort in a minimum of time with the ceaseless activity of every Canadian, and the second, the long term aspect—that of the absolute necessity for a comprehensive organization of Canada's armed forces so that in the future whatever comes the Dominion may be as adequately prepared as possible to take care of its responsibilities in regard to defence. This preparation is linked with and is part of the war effort.

Behind these two efforts the Canadian people are to perform their utmost. They spell the whole future of Canada, the successful prosecution of the war which is to end the menace to civilization by the Huns and to prepare for adequate defence of the Dominion in the war years which lie ahead.

MUSSOLINI RIDES A HORSE

Benito Mussolini demonstrated to nazi writers the other day his fitness for these trying days upon which he has thrown Italy. He rode his horse strenuously for fifteen minutes and then reined up his mount before the group of newspapermen.

He asked, "Am I sick? Am I tired?"

That was on Duce's fifty-seventh birthday. He is the sturdy dictator who plays a strenuous game of tennis and defies the elements as he skis in wintertime.

But this strong man has now an armed train to go to in which to protect his precious head and that perfection of agility and health which he demonstrated to the correspondents.

New York World Tribune says "Infinitely consoling to the mothers of Italy who see the steady approach of winter and disease of their children must be the knowledge that Il Duce is strong and well."

Windsor Star remarks, "why should it be necessary for Mussolini to play broncho-buster for the edification of agents of his Axis partner? Was it an inferiority complex, an admission of his military and economic impotence, that drove him to say, in effect, "See, I'm not the miserable thing you think I am. I still can ride a horse."

"It wasn't like that in the old days, when Mussolini generally took his foreign policy from London and didn't have to give command performances to prove he had hair on his chest. There was a photographer around to record every pose in those days, and British and American papers, taking his virility for granted, were full of Mussolini art.

"His desperate esquestrianism makes one wonder if he doesn't yearn for those happier times, realizing that the nations he double-crossed were the ones which treated him best."

This riding seemed so pompous an exhibition, staged for Mussolini's glory in the nation when fitness is so much the requirement.

To quote the New York Herald Tribune again. "Some day the dictator will shout: 'Am I sick? Am I tired?' and from millions of his erstwhile dupes will come the answer; 'No, but we are'!"

EVEN HANDICAP MAY BE ADVANTAGE

Even a man's handicap may be of greater use under special conditions than perfection. This was shown in an article of news the other day in which it was stated that the accidental discovery that color-blind men can see through camouflage better than men with normal vision has led the U. S. Army Air Corps to search its files for the names of one-time candidates with that ailment. Now these men are being re-indexed for possible use.

An air corps observer was able to pick out only ten of forty guns which had been camouflaged but a color-blind observer picked out all the hidden guns. That was how the discovery was made.

Now a totally different type of camouflage will have to be developed to hide guns, hangars or other strategic materials from the color-blind.

On Watering Gardens

(Brandon Sun)

While the reputation of the dust mulch as a means of conserving soil moisture has been rather heavily discounted by scientific investigation at some points, the hoe and the scuffler are still indirect means of watering the garden, because for one thing they kill the moisture-pumping weeds. Even during a prolonged dry spell a hill of corn may continue to thrive if assured all the moisture in a square yard of ground. If obliged to compete with a mat of weeds, the corn in stunted.

The average gardener's blind faith in the sprinkling can is pathetic. Beyond a little momentary refreshment of the leaves, the sprinkled contribution to wasted or worse. The moisture that helps a crop materially is the moisture that gets down to the seeds or the roots. It takes quite a wetting to do this. When the seed bed is excessively dry, a judicious soaking of the opened seed furrow to promote germination might not be a bad idea, but after that, if instead of toting pails of water from creek or pond, people would use the rake, hoe and scuffler assiduously to keep down intruders, they would be surprised to find how well their gardens grew with the moisture provided by nature.

Forced Freedom

(Windsor Star)

Because they do not want to feed them, the Nazis have released French prisoners of war and forced them to leave German-occupied France and go into the part of French territory that was not taken over by the Fuehrer. The hungry former soldiers have been drifting into the different towns and villages seeking food.

It does not speak well for the German supply of food, when there is such a shortage the prisoners of war have been freed and sent to the unoccupied area. It indicates that already the Nazis are hard pressed to feed the people of the countries they have taken over. Any extra mouths mean that much more strain on the cupboard of Germany.

Although news of that sort means that the people of France are suffering, it also intimates that the Germans are not enjoying the fine time they thought they would have when they conquered the French. There were stories of rich foodstuffs to be received from the farms of the peasants. But, France has to import huge quantities of food in normal times, so the Germans were disappointed.

The British blockade keeps growing tighter and tighter. It is a relentless pressure that is exerting itself on the stomachs of the people.

IMPOSING RECORD

phasize the value of the work of this youngest branch of the senior fighting service.

Considering that the air arm's machines, built to carry heavy bomb and torpedo loads, have to sacrifice speed, their performance in raids upon Trondheim and the French coast, when they came up against much faster fighters, has been most satisfactory.

The Spitfires, Hurricanes or Wellingtons of the R.A.F. may be better known to the public, but the Fairey Swordfish and Alvacor, the Blackburn Skua and the Amphibian "Walrus" machines which are catapulted from British battleships and cruisers, deserve equal fame.

Used to Spot Enemy

Under existing conditions against the Italian fleet, the first function of the carrier's machine is to fly out—perhaps 200 or 300 miles—to spot the enemy. This done, they wireless the enemy's position back to their ship or fly back to it themselves. Perfect navigation is required for the fleet airplanes have to find the tiny spot of their carrier's deck in hundreds of miles of ocean, and this spot may have moved many miles in any direction since they left it.

Planes are then sent out to attack and, if possible, damage the enemy fleet sufficiently to lessen its speed and make it easier for the British fleet to catch it. After delivering their attack the planes fly back to their carriers. When the fleets ultimately join battle, the planes take off again and act as spotters for artillery fire.

Prostigmin—Ovary Extract —Helps Some Cases of Hard of Hearing

Most physicans dislike recommending new remedies or forms of treatment to those who are hard of hearing because they do not wish to raise false hopes in these patients. The hard of hearing patient, because he misses so much of what is going on around him, gradually grows moody keeps looking inward instead of outward, and to have his hopes raised only to be dashed down, increases his mental depression.

When, however, physicians in different parts of the world are having success with a new method of treatment, there is no reason why this treatment should not at least be tried, even if it helps but a small number of cases and results in disappointment in a large number.

I have spoken before of the use of prostigmin—an ovary extract—in cases of hard of hearing due to catarrh. In the majority of cases, the prostigmin gave some help.

From the Ear, Eye, Nose and Throat Monthly, comes the report of another series of cases of "partial" deafness in which prostigmin was used.

Twenty-eight (28) patients with head noises and acute or recent blockage of the eustachian tube (tube carrying air from back of throat to inner side of ear drum), most of whom had marked deafness, were given injections of 1 cubic centimetres of prostigmin methylsulphate, 1 to 2,000 solution, at intervals of from 3 to 5 days, together with the opening up of the eustachian tube by the use of an instrument and massage. There was rapid relief from the annoying symptoms and few patients required more than 5 injections even where there had been loss of hearing for as long as one month.

What about chronic or old cases of deafness? Thirty-three (33) chronic cases of deafness were treated by similar injections two to three times weekly, with resulting gradual improvement or very slow improvement.

Remember, prostigmin is a gland product and should be given by, or only under the direction of a physician.

Prostigmin should not be given to a goitre patient as prostration and extreme nervousness follows.

87 Crops Up Again

(New York Times)

Back in 1871 the Russian chemist Mendelyeev published his now famous table of the elements. He grouped them according to their properties. His was a purely arbitrary arrangement, yet one which has withstood the test of time and which has proved enormously useful. Later the elements in his table were numbered according to their weight. At the top stood hydrogen, lightest of all, with the heaviest, uranium, at the bottom. All told, there were ninety-two elements, the raw stuff of the universe. In Mendelyeev's time there were twenty gaps in the table. Eighteen, possibly nineteen, have since been filled, proving that Mendelyeev was right. One of the gaps called for an element in place 87, which Mendelyeev called "Ekacaesium," an alkaline metal closely related to sodium and potassium.

Now comes young Dr. Walter Minder of the Radium Institute of Berne, back from the Swiss front, and announces that he has discovered element 87. He is not the first. In 1931 Drs. Jacob Papish and Eugene Wainer of Cornell told the world that they had discovered 87 in the rare earth samarskite, a curious hodgepodge of uranium, tantalum, cerium, columbium and other stuff. Simultaneously Dr. Fred Allison of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute claimed like honors. Not far behind was Professor Gustave Aartobaara of Helsinki. Three years ago Dr. Horia Hulubei, Rumanian physician living in Paris was so sure that he had nailed down element 87 that he ventured to appear before the French Academy of Sciences with a short paper on his triumph and to call his discovery moldavium, after his native province. Can physicists be blamed if they raise a skeptical eye at this latest pronouncement? They would like to believe Dr. Minder, but before they believe, they will repeat his experiments, with only a faint hope that at last elusive element 87 has been cornered.

To business men all this must seem like a tremendous hullabaloo over little. They should look at these attempts at completing Mendelyeev's table more imaginatively. In filling out the table the rare earths were discovered. These consist of about twenty elements so mixed up and so much alike that they were long the despair of chemists. After decades of quarrelling over them, Dr. Carl Auer von Welsbach put them to use. One of his results was the Welsbach mantle, a stocking which was dipped in a solution of rare earth and which saved the gas-lighting industry from ruin just when the electric light was crowding it to the wall. It is widly surmised that element 87 or Ekacaesium has so fleeting an existence that it cannot be put to any similar practical use. For all we know, it may turn out to be the basis of a new industry.

Canada Holds Open House

(The New York Times)

In normal times the largest single credit item Canada has on her books consists of money spent by tourists. Most of this money comes from the United States. Last year it amounted to nearly one-third of the Dominion's total exports, or about two-fifths of her total imports. This year it has shrunk dangerously because of misleading reports as to what happens to American tourists at the border.

The truth is that if the tourist is an American citizen not carrying arms, he is welcomed in Canada as warmly and informally as he ever was. Canada wants him to come, and with the exception of a few areas where military secrets are guarded, the whole Dominion from coast to coast, is at his disposal. He profits by a premium of 10 per cent which his American dollars command in Canada. He needs no passport to get in. When he is ready to go home the American customs and immigration officers will want to be sure, as has been the case in the past, that he is not avoiding payment of duties and that he really is an American citizen. An American who cannot meet these simple requirements probably ought not to travel, anyhow.

If he goes to Canada he will find a vast country whose marvels and beauties match those of the United States. He will find a good many picturesque and charming things he can't find at home. If he happens not to like Adolf Hitler, he can feel pleased to know that the dollars he spends in Canada will go back to the United States to buy airplanes and other facilities that may put Hitler out of business.

Mr. Churchill As Author

(New York Times)

At a Red Cross sale in London, an autographed copy of Winston Churchill's "My Early Life" brought thirteen guineas (about $56). So says a London dispatch, employing the second title of "My Roving Commission" (1930). In this autobiography Mr. Churchill recalls his salad days, his schooling at Harrow and Sandhurst, his military experiences in Egypt, India and South Africa and his initiation in the House of Commons. Always a vivid reporter and a literary artist, he puts into this book, written in middle age, the freshness and gusto of youth. He also paints the manners, the society, the values of an age far more remote from us than its distance in years would indicate.

"My African Journey," published years earlier, has the compelling charm of adventure and escape. It has always been a wonder how Mr. Churchill, who has held even more offices than he has written books, found time for the latter and the laborious research evident in some of them, such as "The World Crisis" and the monumental series of volumes on his ancestor, the first Duke of Marlborough. Whatever may be thought of some parts of his apologia for John Churchill, the work is a masterpiece of detail and description and analysis of character. Destined himself to be a historical figure, he has composed history in the grand manner.

We have heard him lately speaking, in the desperate hour of his country, words worthy of it. His is a rich and multiple personality. Here is a personage who is not dwarfed by the great tragic world-stage whereon he plays his part.

Rumor

(Ottawa Journal)

Rumor might be described as a wild river of words with triple sources of mendacity, misunderstanding, and imagination. As it rushes along, grooving a channel for itself through all manner of mental strata, it gains in speed and force by reason of the added impetus given it by countless contaminated tributaries. Throughout its course it throws off a far-reaching poison which taints the air and affects more or less dangerously all within its reach. The venom has a paralyzing effect on the common sense of the victim. To establish complete immunity is practically impossible, for to be successful one must needs be sightless, as well as deaf and dumb, quite unable to read, or listen, and powerless to repeat. A few may escape contagion. The sum of those who do not seems to exceed the combined numbers of all who have fallen prey to Spanish influenza or black plague epidemics.

In a Victorian game the first player whispered to a neighbor a tale which in turn was quietly told to all in the line until the last repeated the garbled version that had reached him. It usually had little resemblance to the original. That is an example of the way in which innocent remarks may be distorted by those lacking any intention to work mischief.

Pope in his "Temple of Fame" puts the thing briefly and well. He says:

"The flying rumors gathered as they rolled,
Scarce any tale was sooner heard
than told;
And all who heard it added something new,
And all who heard it made enlargements too;
In every ear it spread, on every tongue it grew.
Thus flying east and west and north and south,
News travelled with increase from mouth to mouth."

SEARCH FOR 3-TOED HORSE FOSSILS IN BADLANDS

Expeditions to collect fossils and to make archaeological excavations in the Big Badlands of South Dakota, to study and collect specimens of Indian arts and crafts in Mexico and to collect mammals in Alaska and the Middle West, were announced by the American Museum of Natural History.

In quest of fossils of prehistoric animals, especially the small three-toed horse, a rhinocerous smaller than any living today in Africa and Asia, and the saber-toothed tiger, Dr. Walter Granger, curator of palaeontology of the museum, has left New York for Rapid City, S. D., where he will join Albert Thomson, preparator in palaeontology, and Junius Bird, assistant in anthropology.

Mr. Bird will carry on extensive excavations in an effort to learn about the culture of ancient Indians that once occupied the Badlands region. Chalcedony tools, such as scrapers and knives, have already been found, as well as pieces of black pottery. The expedition will be in the field until Nov. 1.

Dr. Grace Fisher Ramsey, associate curator of the Department of Education, will leave New York on Thursday, Aug. 8, to conduct a study of the lives and work of Indian artist craftsmen in Mexico. She will make color motion pictures of life in Mexican villages and will collect materials which can be circulated from the museum's Department of Education among schools and other institutions.

These collections will include types of weaving in wool, cotton and various plant fibres, embroidery, drawnwork and beading, pottery showing regional designs, metal crafts in silver, copper and tin, leather and lacquer work, and masks, musical instruments and toys.

Dr. Ramsey will be accompanied by Herman Sievers, staff assistant in education; Mrs. Sievers and Miss Ethel Fisher. The 10,000-mile journey will be made almost entirely by automobile. The party will return to New York the latter part of September.

Theodore A. McGraw of Grosse Pointe, Mich., will lead an expedition to the Wrangel Mountains of Alaska to collect mammals ranging from mice to grizzly bears. T. Donald Carter, assistant curator of mammals, will join Mr. McGraw next month. Work will continue until the first snow fall.

Dr. John E. Hill, assistant curator of mammology, will collect small mammals in South Kansas and survey animals in the dust bowl to determine what species have been exterminated or driven out by drought and changing vegetation and those that have survived. Mrs. Hill and Peter Crow of Cornell are assisting Mr. Hill. The expedition will be in the field until the middle of September.

The Divine Hand Intervenes

(Port Arthur News Chronicle)

Reports about unfavorable weather attending the aerial operations over Britain and Germany during the past few days are reminders of the important factor weather has been in crises of the past.

Most notable was the case of the Spanish Armada, that great concourse of ships which was gathered by Philip for the purpose of carrying out a seventeenth century blitzkrieg. Engaged by Drake and the valiant seamen whose veins carried the same blood that is still coursing in the hearts of Britain's sea dogs, the Armada was scattered by winds and destroyed on the rocks.

Napoleon recognized the importance of the weather factor and it is common knowledge that Hitler has hoped to use fog as a cover for his proposed excursion across the channel in thousands of small flat bottomed boats.

Less has been said about the good fortune attending the evacuation of Dunkirk, that retreat which in late May saved ten times the number of British soldiers it had been expected would get out of Flanders after the surrender by King Leopold of the Belgians had made the position untenable.

That evacuation was carried out during the week of May 26. Britain that Sunday was a nation of prayer, asking divine intervention on behalf of the army that had been virtually trapped across the channel. While the people prayed the man in whose hands the operation rested calculated that the number who might probably be saved from death or capture was 30,000. On Tuesday, May 28, when the retreat to Dunkirk was proceeding, a great storm broke over Flanders. The storm impeded the operations of the Germans pressing on with their tanks and airplanes in their effort to destroy the British who, leaving their equipment, were able to make much better progress.

But that was not all. When the British troops had reached the coast and were ready for movement by ship there was such a calmness over the whole of the waters of the English Channel as has rarely been experienced. It enabled thousands of large and small craft, even rowboats to be brought into service and so used that upwards of 300,000 men were saved when the expectation had been 30,000. Those accustomed to the conditions on the channel testify to the strangeness of this calm which permitted the use of tiny craft, by which so many were transported, to go back and forth in safety.

May it be regarded as strange if people who have read and believed that the Almighty, answering prayer, continued the light of day so that Joshua might complete the overthrow of his enemies, that the Red Sea was divided to permit the passage of the Children of Israel, that clouds proved darkness to Pharaoh and his followers and that the fire gave light once more to the Israelites on their way to the Promised Land were to be again found in prayer on the Sunday that is at hand?

ANOTHER FAMOUS WARNING

(New York Times)

Time does not greatly change the minds and hearts of despots. Toward the end of the sixteenth century, Spain, under Philip II., was the greatest military power in the world. But to conquer the world it was necessary for Philip first to subdue his rebellious subjects in the Netherlands and then to conquer England. Some years before the Invincible Armada was launched against England the gloomy monarch sent the Duke of Alva into the Low Countries to bring the stubborn Dutch to order.

The Duke of Alva was the most successful and the cruelest commander of his time. At Utrecht on July 15, 1573, he issued a manifesto to the people which contained the following passage:

"But if ye disregard these offers of mercy, receiving them with closed ears as hitherto, then we warn you that there is no rigor, no cruelty, however great, which you are not to expect by laying waste, starvation and the sword, in such manner that nowhere shall remain a relic of that which at present exists, but His Majesty will strip bare and utterly depopulate the land, and cause it to be inhabited again by strangers; since otherwise His Majesty could not believe that the will of God and His Majesty had been accomplished."

The will of God proved not to be that of His Majesty Philip II. That very year the Duke of Alva returned to Spain a broken man. He had waded remorselessly through a sea of blood, executing 18,000 victims and killing countless thousands, only to assure the ultimate independence of Holland. But Philip was still too busy with his plans for world conquest to realize what had happened — that cruelty and terror raise up an equal power to resist. He was not to learn this until the destruction of his Invincible Armada in the English Channel fifteen years later. That was a lesson which Spain has been studying ever since.

COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN ZONES ARE SUSPENDED

Postal, Telephone and Telegraph Communication in German-Occupied France Suspended

TRAFFIC CLOSED

Vichy, France, July 31 (AP). — Postal, telephone and telegraph communication in the German-occupied portions of France was reported suspended today.

The report said the Germans also had ordered telegraph, telephone and mail communication cut off between the occupied and unoccupied zones.

Passenger traffic between the two zones was suspended yesterday, but it was announced today that the return of refugees to their homes in certain parts of the occupied area will be resumed on a reduced scale.

The announcement said repatriation certificates would be limited to agricultural workers and their families and to members of governmental services returning to Paris with their families. The press announced an official telegram had been received by authorities at Montlucon stating repatriation of Jewish residents of Alsace and Lorraine should be halted at once.

The official journal published a decree ordering the formation of departmental commissions to control the sale of milk, butter and cheese.

Prefect Petitjean of Corsica has been relieved of his duties for an undisclosed reason, an official communique said. He was replaced by M. Ballay, sub-prefect of Toulon.

850,000 Pounds Of Supplies Sent Daily by Red Cross

Washington, July 31—(AP)—The American Red Cross is rushing an average of 850,000 pounds of supplies daily to millions of suffering Europeans.

And—despite submarines, air bombers, blockades and mines — it has not lost a cargo.

In the 11 months since the war began, its war relief machine has utilized 145 ships—41 of them American—to transport nearly $8,000,000 in food, clothing, medical supplies, ambulances, and emergency "field hospitals" to Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Norway, Finland, Poland and Luxembourg.

Every foreign ship leaving New York is being pressed into service. Supplies are taken from the Red Cross warehouse in Jersey City and transported free to various "open" ports in Europe.

Twenty ships have left New York this month with relief cargoes. Most of these were British.

European Ports Closed

Inasmuch as all European ports except those on the narrow strip of Portugal and Northern Spain are closed to American ships, only one United States vessel, the McKeesport, has taken a relief cargo to Europe in recent weeks.

Chartered by the Red Cross from the Maritime Commission, she sailed with a $1,000,000 cargo of medicines, surgical supplies, and auxiliary hospital trucks which are now being distributed in the unoccupied regions of France under direct Red Cross supervision.

Relief in German-occupied Belgium and Holland and the occupied portion of France is virtually impossible at present, officials say, because of "difficulties of transportation, blockade and the lack of protective controls."

To date, only $30 has been earmarked by donors for use in Germany. But it has not been sent to Germany because the German Red Cross has not sought any help in the United States.

Children to be Sent As Soon As Naval Resources Available

London, July 31—(CP Cable) — An indication that the transfer of British child evacuees to the Dominions will be made immediately "naval resources" are available was given today by Ronald Cross, Minister of Shipping, in a radio address.

"We have been deeply moved by the generous offers made by the Dominions......and as soon as we can spare naval resources the children will be sent to accept your hospitality."

Says Norse Pilots Will Man 96 Planes For R. A. F.

Toronto, July 31.—(CP) — The Toronto Daily Star said today it had learned that Norwegian fighting pilots will man 96 up-to-date fighting and bombing planes for the Royal Air Force. Bernt Balchen, famed Norwegian pilot, and other members of a Norwegian Air Mission are conferring with authorities at Ottawa and Washington regarding the training and equipping of the Norse squadron.

The planes will be obtained from the United States and the pilots will be trained at Toronto's Island Airport. The machines originally had been ordered by the Polish and Norwegian governments and authorization for their delivery to the new squadron has been obtained.

The Star said it learned that about 200 Norwegian Airmen are now en route to Canada and that the total Norse investment in Canada is expected to reach close to $2,000,000.

Following their training period, the Norwegian squadron will go to Britain.

Gov't is Doing Everything Possible To Prevent Export of Essential War Material to Japan—Mr. King

Prime Minister Replies to Comment of M. J. Coldwell That He Would Like to See Canada 'Stop Arming Japan Against Britain'—Coldwell Declares Government Recently Approved Output of Entire Mine Going to Japan—Hon. Grote Stirling Claims Government Supporters Are Outspoken in Protests That War Effort is Moving Too Slow

Ottawa, July 31—(CP)—A demand from M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F. Rosetown-Biggar) that Canada "stop arming Japan against Great Britain" featured a defence debate today in the House of Commons and brought a vigorous denial from Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The Prime Minister declared the government was doing all it could to prevent export of essential war material to Japan.

Hon. Grote Stirling (Con. Yale) and Mr. Coldwell replied for the opposition to the statements on the governments war efforts given by a number of Ministers yesterday and Monday night.

Both spokesmen for their parties criticized the government on the ground that indications had been given of a less than wholehearted war effort.

Stirling Reviews Regimes

Mr. Stirling's presentation reveiwed the record of this and the proceding government. He was Minister of Defence in 1935 in Bennett government.

It was regrettable he said, that both administrations had relied so completely on the League of Nations, and he blamed the government for not taking full advantage of industrial and manpower resources immediately the war started.

Mr. Coldwell urged repeatedly, as he has several times in recent weeks, that a secret session of parliament be held so that members might be made acquainted with what is being done to carry out Canada's war responsibilities.

Cannot Reveal Any Plans

He asked what the relations were with the United States Government and if any joint plan of American defence was being worked out.

"Is there any plan to provide the United States with a base in Canada for operations?" Mr. Coldwell also queried.

Mr. King told him such things could not be revealed even to a secret session. They would cause controversy within the United States.

When Mr. Coldwell mentioned Japanese concentration of important holdings on the Pacific coast, spoke of the "army in our midst that might destroy us," and of British citizens arrested "and one of them done to death," he was interrupted by Mr. King.

"Would my honorable friend like to see war between Japan and Great Britain?" the Prime Minister asked.

"No, but I would like to see the Dominion of Canada stop arming Japan against Great Britain," Mr. Coldwell retorted.

"Mr. King hotly replied that Canada was "doing nothing of the kind," but Mr. Coldwell said that essential war materials were going from Canada to Japan and as recently as a month ago the government approved the output from an entire mine going to Japan.

Mr. Stirling said supporters of the government throughout Canada are outspoken in their protests that the war effort is moving too slow.

Government supporters in the House had not criticised the war policy during Parliamentary debates, Mr. Stirling said, but they were outspoken in their criticism outside the chamber.

Gets into Difficulties

Mr. Stirling got into difficulties with Chairman Vien at the outset. He said that last fall there were three schools of thought in Canada, one ready to go all out in a concentrated war effort, another that believed Canada should remain aloof and another which advocated a "middle of the road" war policy.

Mr. Stirling said it had been reported this latter policy had been advocated by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of National War Services, in speeches made in western Canada.

Gardiner Again Denies Charge

Mr. Gardiner was on his feet at once declaring that this charge had been made twice previously and denied as many times. "And I deny it now," the Minister said. Chairman Vien called order and suggested the Minister's denial be accepted.

Mr. Stirling said it would be interesting to have a bound copy of all the sayings attributed to Mr. Gardiner and subsequently denied by him.

It could not be controverted that the government had followed a middle of the road policy which had been changed later with the invasion of The Lowlands. That invasion had come as a shock to "those not too well informed."

There had been a demand from the Canadian people for greater action. With changing events, policy had changed. No longer did people hear that it was impossible to build tanks and airplanes in Canada.

Of course Canadian industry could build tanks and planes but it did not appear any particular assistance had been given plane manufacturers in the early days of the war.

Referring to the statement by Air Minister Power on behalf of Navy Minister Macdonald, Mr. Stirling said the time had at last gone when "ignorant members of the public enjoyed themselves by sneering at Canada's navy."

Refers to Air Training Plan

Of the air training scheme, Mr. Stirling said it had replaced an original proposal by the British government which had been declined by the present government in 1937.

"The day may come and earlier than one thinks, when the facts will be at our disposal," he said, referring to alleged rejection by Canada of a request by Great Britain to set up air force training establishments in Canada.

"I wonder what answer this government would give to a similar proposal now," Mr. Stirling continued. "It will be extremely interesting to see if the co-operation within the bounds of this training scheme will continue."

Prime Minister Interrupted

Prime Minister Mackenzie King interrupted to declare that the government had been prepared to meet the original British proposal at the time it was made, in the fullest possible way.

There was "not much new" in the statement of Defence Minister Ralston, Mr. Stirling said. "It seemed to be a collection of a large amount of material, part of which has come to us from time to time from the director of public information."

He was glad to learn from Col. Ralston's speech that the non-permanent active militia was "at last coming into its own."

Mr. Stirling blamed the government for not having displayed more foresight in the early stages of the war by getting Canadian industry busy providing equipment for Canada's new army.

Recruiting

"I do not understand and it has never been explained what happened to recruiting when the war broke out," he added. Recruiting was started, then stopped. It had been said the money was not available for equipment but if the government had decided at once on a 100 per cent war effort the money have been immediately available.

That recruiting policy in the early months resulted in the weakening of many units not mobilized, when many of their officers and men dropped out to join active units. There was now as a result a "terrible task" in bringing infantry units up to proper standards. The non-permanent active militia had always been dependent on the permanent force for instruction in every walk of military life. Many of those instructors had been called away, many overseas.

Complaints About West

Mr. Stirling complained that western Canada industry was not being allowed to do its share in carrying out war orders. Officials in Ottawa were seemingly unable to realize the time element in communicating with the Pacific coast 3,000 miles away. Time allowed for many tenders, even for work in British Columbia, made it impossible for coast firms to participate.

The greatest criticism that would be made of this government was its lack of foresight regarding military equipment. Infantry units could not possibly get on with their training without proper equipment.

M. J. Coldwell (CCF Rosetown-Biggar) said the War Ministers' statements had been instructive and enabled the members to understand what had been done in the last two months.

The anxiety of the opposition had been not merely regarding the enlistment and equipment of men but also for some understanding of the government's policies in the international field.

In Canada the great defect in the war effort was the predominance of "private gain" as a basis of procedure. Eight plants were being built by the government at tremendous cost to manufacture munitions and supplies. Of these, five were to be operated by private interests.

"This, to my mind, is wrong and dangerous, and contrary to government policy as I understand it."

Mr. Coldwell said he was convinced the British cause would prevail ultimately but the time might come before victory was achieved, when defence of Canada and possibly the transfer of the Empire's capital to Ottawa would have to be considered.

"To what extent are we co-operating with our powerful neighbor to the south?" Mr. Coldwell asked. "Is the government taking steps to keep the Washington administration informed of what is taking place?

"Are we entering into negotiations for a joint plan of defence of the Americas? I know these are delicate questions for an open session of parliament and that is one reason we have advocated secret sessions where these things could be discussed."

CANADA TO BE DECIDING FACTOR IN WAR—LAFLECHE

Major - General Returning Home to Become Joint Deputy Minister of War Services Department

BRITAIN WILL HOLD

By JACK TRACY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An Eastern Canadian Port, July 31—(CP)— Major-General L. R. LaFleche, returning to Canada to take over his new position as joint Deputy Minister of the War Services Department, said today that Canada will be "the deciding factor in this war."

Coming back to the Dominion after serving as military attache to the Canadian Legation in Paris and as the Canadian Liaison Officer with the French General Staff, General LaFleche described Canada's importance in the conflict as "of the greatest magnitude."

"The British," he said, "will hold their island. We have to work and accumulate vast stores of armaments. That seems to be the general opinion in Great Britain—that we will be the last and deciding factor in this war."

General LaFleche, who was the last representative of an Allied nation to leave the French General Staff before the capitulation of that country to Germany, smiled a cheerful greeting to those who met him as he stepped down the gangplank of a liner that brought more than 1,000 persons from the United Kingdom to Canada.

Impressed With Spirit

"We will win this war," he said, "after a considerable time of careful preparation and the creation of a desire to win. Up to now, we have been hearing of the vast forces prepared against us. We have had the defensive spirit.

"I have just left England and I was impressed with the general spirit there of the necessity of defending the island and of creating a force with which Germany will be conquered."

"In France, up to now," the General continued, "There has been no inspiration—none of the spirit of the revolution or even of 1870. There was no life, no inspiration, no visible signs of the strength that must be in a man if he is going to do a thing like that."

The war, he said, is a struggle of evil versus good and necessary steps must be taken to build up the spirit for fighting it. "The only way I know how to do that is through religious inspiration," he added.

WELLES DEFINES AN EMERGENCY

American Nations Might Have to Administer French Possessions in Western World if France Should Become German Dependency

Washington, July 31 (AP)—The U.S. government took the position today that if France becomes a Fascist dependency of Germany, an emergency will be created which will require the American nations to take over administration of French possessions in the western hemisphere.

Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, outlined this position in response to press conference questions yesterday as to the effect of the newly signed Havana agreements upon the French Island of Martinique in the West Indies.

Welles said circumstances might arise where a free and independent government became no longer free and independent and might be operating under duress. That situation, he continued, would create one of the emergencies of the type foreseen in the Havana agreements.

U. S. AID ASKED BY MADRID PAPER

Editorial Probably Inspired by Spain's Gasoline Shortage

Madrid, July 31.—(AP)— Aid from the United States in returning Spain to normality after the Civil War was asked by the Falangist newspaper Arriba today as if in answer to rumors abroad that Spain is preparing to enter the war.

Observers said it was a fair guess that the newspaper editorial, coming as it did after a fortnight of sharp criticism of United States "dollar diplomacy" in Latin America, was inspired by Spain's gasoline shortage.

The newspaper said " we cannot understand how great peoples, rich and free of their own conflicts, can refuse to send, or can delay sending, to Spain the elements which naturally are necessary to rebuild completely and normally, after a long and wasting civil war".

Coincident with this turnabout in the attitude of the press toward the United States it was noted that the newspapers were not so outspoken against Great Britain

Yesterday's announcement by Hugh Dalton, British Minister of economic warfare, that Navicerts will be required to deliver gasoline, as well as other supplies, to Spain would normally have been the signal for an indignant outburst. But there was no comment.

Arriba's article declared Spain did not seek "to limit the area of her good relations to peoples with whom she is united in bonds of entire understanding and indelible memories"—phraseology usually used to describe Germany and Italy.

MOTORISTS WARNED

Toronto, July 31 (CP)—Hon. Gordon Conant, Attorney-General of Ontario, issued a warning to motorists today that motorists throughout Ontario will be checked by police during a four-day drive August 3-6, and those failing to produce driver's licences will be prosecuted.

He said information from highways department officials shows many persons are driving without licences.

HAMMILL—WOODCOCK

Picton, July 31.—(Special)—The marriage of Miss Elva Woodcock of Picton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Woodcock of Bancroft, to Sgt. Harry Hammill, Picton, was an interesting event of Saturday at Picton United church parsonage. The bride wore a blue sheer frock with large white hat and was attended by Mrs. E. Turner, who wore a white ensemble. Sgt. Major Turner was bestman. Rev. J. P. Reycraft officiated. Members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Depot formed a guard of honour, with swords making an arch way for the bridal couple. The soldiers were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hammill, parents of the groom, at a reception later in the evening. Sgt. and Mrs. Hammill will reside in Picton.

ROSE—COURTICE

The marriage was solemnized on Saturday, July 27th., of Mary Elizabeth Louise only daughter of Mr. Leopold J. Courtice and the late Mrs. Courtice of Darlington Township to Mr. Edward Freeman Rose of Iroquois Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rose of Woodrous, Ontario. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Clifford Smith of Courtice, in the living-room of the lovely farm home of the bride's father before a setting of delphiniums, roses and snapdragons. The wedding music was played by Miss Ada Annis of Courtice and immediately following the ceremony Miss Ruby Grainger of Oshawa, sang "Because" and during the signing of the register her lovely voice was heard again in the "Ave Maria' by Schubert. The groom was attended by Mr. Donald Courtice, brother of the bride.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in a becoming frock of white net over taffeta. A deep set in girdle of lace featured the bodice and matching lace bordered the square neckline, and completed the short puffed sleeves. The skirt was long and very full. Her shoulder length veil of white net was held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms and her shoes were white satin sandals. As her only jewellery and her "touch of blue" she wore a dainty necklace which had belonged to her mother. Her flowers were a shower of pale pink roses and cornflowers.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Miss Evelyn Gay of Oshawa, as bridesmaid. Her gown was a floor length model of psyche green chiffon over taffeta, the sweetheart neckline of the bodice was outlined with a ruffle of the chiffon and the skirt had tiny cascades of fullness, the bolero jacket was also of chiffon. She wore a broad brimmed hat of natural leghorn and gold shoes. The flowers which completed the costume were a colonial bouquet of Talisman roses.

Receiving with the bridal party following the ceremony were the bride's father, her aunt, Mrs. Blake Courtice, and the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rose. The delightful wedding supper was supervised by Mrs. Archie Long and served by Misses Margaret Pollock, Velma Pearce, Elsie Oke and Jessie Lamb.

Following a short wedding trip the bride and groom will reside in Iroquois Falls, Ontario. For travelling the bride wore a turquoise blue suit with wine accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Rose and Mrs. Sam Dodds of Picton, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rose and Miss Pat Rose of Brantford, Miss Jean Wight and Miss Margery Dodds of Toronto and Miss Jessie Lamb of Omemee.

Myers Pleads For Safer Family Driving

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

During the summer there is increased automobile travelling by a part or all the family. There have been instances of a whole family being destroyed in the twinkling of an eye or some members left crippled for the rest of their lives. When the child is crippled for a lifetime see how long he must suffer and be handicapped.

Sometimes the family will start out in a car that is not safe. The parents may know it is not safe or they may have failed to have the car properly tested or repaired. Sometimes, of course, the family in a wreck are the innocent victims of another car driven recklessly. But most accidents to a car and the people in it are caused by reckless driving of the car and, more often than not by driving too fast.

Bragging Speeders

Within a few months I have listened to several fathers in different parts of the country talking about trips they are about to take with their family or have taken, bragging about the speed they have made and the hair-breadth escapes they have had. I recall one instance in which the twelve-year-old boy stood with wide eyes, adding an excited word now and then about "how fast we went" — the young hero worshipper! If this boy lives to drive a car by and by, I wonder what.

Among these bragging fathers were two preachers, a school superintendent, a doctor, an automobile salesman, a day laborer. One of the preachers boasted of 65 and 70 miles with a trailer. He had a family of five along.

A good many of us have driven faster than the law allows. If and when we do I can't see that it is anything to brag about. It doesn't take brains to speed. A moron, even an idiot, can step on the gas.

Instead of bragging about fast driving we should be ashamed of it, ashamed that we have endangered other people's lives, precious lives. I wish preachers and their parishioners, all of us indeed, would include in our prayers a plea to be forgiven for threatening innocent people with death when we speed in a car.

Driver's Responsibility

When a father or mother drives alone, not only his or her own life may be at stake. Even then the life of some other person or persons on the highway or street is endangered. And then when this parent drives with the other parent and the children—older children, little children and babies—see the responsibility he or she assumes.

A few years ago Mrs. Myers and I and our children entered upon a solemn covenant whereby we agreed that none of us would exceed 50 miles an hour on the highway and not more than 35 miles on crooked country roads, reducing these speed limits as reason might dictate.

I can remember when I used to nag at my oldest children when they were driving "not to go so fast." Let me suggest to parents that, regardless of the speed limit, your family, or you alone adopt, you will be able to gain better co-operation of your child who is driving if, instead of saying, "Don't drive so fast," you will say, "Don't drive over —— miles."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Is it ever safe to laugh at a child when he had not meant to be funny?

A. It is not; to laugh or even smile at his innocent, serious utterances is about the most dangerous thing one can do; and if he tries to be funny just to show off, laughing at him also might be harmful. Nevertheless, when the child of any age attempts humor, express your appreciation, however crude. Encourage him at repartee and telling jokes.

COLORFUL COMFORT is found in a gown and negligee ensemble of white sheer splashed with a vivid rose and lily design. The gown is highwaisted with a tucked V front and surplice back.

RIDING HIGH on many a smart pompadour hair-do are those neat little skull caps. One new model is of felt turned up to form a basket in which are tiny ostrich plumes in pink, orchid, blue and white.

IT'S A BLACK OUTLOOK for autumn in the sartorical scheme of things and the city shops are already showing and selling late-summer black. A nice dress, in black crepe or satin, is column-slim with skirt drapery swept dramatically to one side. The bodice is laced down one side with velvet la-

HERE'S A BIT OF GLAMOUR FOR PLAIN FOODS

THOSE ordinary, everyday dishes, which you must, for economy's sake, serve several times a week—give them new flavour appeal by adding a little H. P. Sauce. Some items like stew, meat pie, slices of Sunday's roast warmed up in the frying pan, macaroni dishes, meat balls, etc., are flavoured best by adding H. P. while cooking. With other foods like cold meats, fish, leftovers of fowl, bacon and eggs, add the H. P. when serving.

This is the way to put a bit of glamour into everyday foods and have the family—including yourself—eat them up with relish. H. P. Sauce is such a success at flavouring foods because it is thick, rich, and has good flavouring power.

Quick-Change Personality

By HELEN FOLLETT

If you aren't seized now and then with a desire for a brand new hairdo you'd better watch your step because you are lagging behind the beauty parade. There are still women toddling around with washboard finger waves, don't seem to know that the tight crimp is as out of date as high buttoned shoes.

The shadow wave is the happy choice. Looks soft and natural, whereas the smaller undulation gives the face a hard, brittle appearance, especially if it has been touched by old Pop Time's meddlesome fingers.

The possibilities now for the personality coiffure are many. Ring in some cute little trick of your own, an orphan ringlet over one ear, a beau catcher on the forehead, a sassy arrangement at the back. See what you can do as a coiffure designer.

Just now it is the pompadour which gets style into step with coolness. The upswept movement which overtook the girls with pretty ears a season ago has settled down into a softer arrangement which takes curls away from face and neck. Few cling to the bared neck behind it; it's the front hair which gets brushed into one of many types of pompadour persuasion.

Your hairdresser will know all the tricks of this sort; if you are rusticating miles away from that worthy, you'll find that even fumbling amateur fingers—your own—can turn this pompadour trick.

The old-fashioned setting combs can wangle a swell wave across the brows and big soft curl wrappers will give the proper "body" to hair which you wish to turn under into a puffy roll.

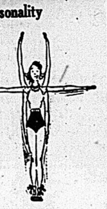
Good musculature is necessary for well rounded arms. Not that a lady should look acrobatic, you understand. One often sees fins that are flabby and soft and they have no beauty rating. One way to keep the arms in form is to stand tall, chest high, do the breast stroke in the air. Place the lower part of the hands on a line with the breasts, fingers close together, palms downward. Send the hands forward with a hard muscle pull, swing them out at either side on a line with the shoulders. Back to first position. Plumpies with heavy upper arms should put in ten minutes a day at this excellent exercise.



'Good musculature is necessary for well-rounded arms."

If you are bothered with a flock of freckles that have settled from wrists to shoulders, apply a lotion made by combining equal portions of peroxide and strained lemon juice. Put it on with cotton before you go to bed, let it dry. In the morning, after your bath, tap on borated talcum to keep the surface of the skin smooth.

After creaming your face at night, a custom followed by all devoted beauty seekers, friction some of the cream in your elbows. They need attention and never get it, poor things.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

'Give Us Decent Meeting Places', Pleads Younger Generation

This column has often mentioned the church in Baltimore which seems to demonstrate that its leaders know something about human nature, realizing, among other things, that love is the second strongest hunger in normal people.

This church has a community room, library, and kitchen where young people may meet, cook their suppers, have guests. They may dance in the community room, play the piano, see moving pictures hear excellent talks on timely and cultural subjects, all under capable adult supervision.

In spite of its millions of clubwomen churches and well-meaning organizations, it's a sad aspect of city life in these United States that we are apparently indifferent to youth and its problems. There are so few places where self-supporting boys and girls, and those who ask no greater favor than to be self-supporting, can meet in decent surroundings. They are obliged to go to dime-a-dance halls and similar hangouts where they are preyed upon by the undesirables of both sexes. I've had hundreds of letters about such places, but we club-conscious women seem to do nothing about it.

Minneapolis seems to be following Baltimore in having a place where respectable young men and women can meet and have a good time with no stigma attached. The City Youth Club, formally opened in the middle of July, was the inspiration of a young man, Cletus Montague, who knew what boys and girls of his own age wanted. No roadhouses or dime-a-dance joints was the verdict of these self-respecting young citizens.

Fortunately the, state president of the Federated Women's Club, Mrs. L. R. Upham, and her educational chairman, Mrs. Frank Warren, with real vision saw that getting this club on its feet was far more important than the things about which clubwomen usually busy themselves. These ladies put their shoulders to the wheel with the result that the City Youth Club is to be a major federation project this year.

They've renovated a nice old dwelling. It will be open every day and evening to young people from 18 to 26 for an annual fee of $1.50, and the young people are flockng there like bees to a peach orchard in blossom.

Apropos of the necessity of such clubs, a state Parent-Teacher Association, which recently met at College Park, Maryland, brought out the statement from Roy Breg, Executive Secretary of Allied Youth, that 49 per cent of our high school seniors have begun to drink. He said: "Alcohol is one of the major problems in America". Certain sessions were set aside for the consideration of the problem of alcohol in high schools.

If we are going to do anything about the alcohol problem of our public schools here's the chance for clubwomen to follow in the wake of Baltimore and Minneapolis in having some decent place for self-respecting youngsters to meet and enjoy—yes I'm going to use an habitually snooted line—"good clean fun". It's the lack of such places as these youth clubs which make so many of our young people fall victims to subversive influences.

"Why did you join the Communist Party?" I inquired of a girl here for the Youth Conference last spring. Her answer was: "They meet in a nice, warm place, gave us coffee and buns and I had no place else to go".

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Undivided Attention Should Mark Your Courtesy to National Anthem

From sea to shining sea the National Anthem is being played these days on more occasions than probably ever before. Everywhere we are hearing "the song that nerves a nation's heart". It's an inspiring, thrilling and persuasive sign of the times.

What we do when we are listening to the National Anthem is a sign of our manners.

What should we do?

1.—We should immediately rise when we hear the beloved first strains of the national anthem.

2.—We should stand as motionless as possible.

3.—We join in the singing of the anthem or if it is being played and not sung, we should be absolutely silent.

In other words, our reverence for the national hymn and our courtesy to it should be completely "at attention". Of course everyone rises when the national hymn is played but our courtesy to the anthem should not stop there. This, apparently and unfortunately, is what too many people do not realize.

Rising and standing are not enough. We must stop whatever we are doing and give our complete attention to showing our tribute of respect and honor.

We should stand motionless and silent (unless we are singing) from the opening note until after the last note of the anthem has been played. Nothing or nobody should distract our attention— no greeting of a friend no whispering no talking, no wandering of eyes over the audience. There should be no reaching for your wrap, fumbling with your purse lighting a cigarette, or any other movement.

"The song that we hear with our ears should be the song that is sung in our hearts". Especially in these troubled days, our hearts should sing and our reverent manner should show our thankfulness to be given the honored opportunity to pay tribute to "God Save the King".

Expecting Visitor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am expecting to have one of my dearest friends visit me next month. Since I live in a friendly, old-fashioned neighborhood, I thought it would be pleasant for her to meet my neighbours during her stay.

Do you think it would be a good idea to have a tea for her! What are the correct hours for a tea? When should the tea be served?

Marianne

To invite your neighbors in to have a "dish of tea" with your visitor is a good plan.

Tea hours are a bit flexible, depending somewhat on the customs of the community, but you may properly choose "four to six", or, if you prefer, "four-thirty to six-thirty".

Usually the hostess doesn't wait until all the guests have arrived before she serves tea but begins to serve it after several guests have arrived.

Courtesy Tip

When you talk, don't smother your words. It's hard on your listeners, makes them strain to try to understand what you are saying.

SHINING WINDOWS

by Kathleen Norris

INSTALMENT 21.

The afternoon was strangely hot and still. Joyce suddenly decided upon a late dip in the ocean. The beach was almost deserted now except for the elderly Englishman—at least he was probably forty—who wrote books about bugs and snakes and birds. Monty Lefanu.

Brown, short, square, with very black hair and skin the color of a bay pony, he was plunging riotously about in the chilly surf, shouting with the loud gasps that showed that he was just in. Joyce did her own wincing and gasping, reached for his hard brown hand. They agreed that they would swim together to the float.

Out on the float they fell into talk of wrecks and drowning. Joyce had found the subject fascinating during the long dark winter, and had managed to get into the old book stores of San Jose more than once to find old stories of sea disasters and escapes.

They swam back again and Joyce found her sun-warmed big robe delightfully comforting, and laughed a dripping good-bye to her companion as she ran up the long steps. Everything was right now, somehow, and to find Paul and some others idling on the terrace was only a part of the general satisfactoriness. She stayed to gossip for a minute.

"What'd you think of Elisa?"

"Helen of Troy," Joyce answered readily. She had never been in exactly this situation before, but mother wit inspired the answer, and she felt quite pleased with herself when one of the men said dryly, "But nobody knows it as well as Elisa." And Pidgie struck an entirely wrong note by saying in a bored voice: "She doesn't seem any such ball of fire to me; I mean, she's good-looking in that pale sort of way, and of course she has all that money behind her."

"Oh, I think she's simply irresistible!" Joyce protested.

And suddenly she felt comfortable and happy, at ease in her wicker chair, not obliged to talk if she did not want to talk. Oh, if this feeling would only last.

"Be a sport and get into something and come out to the Point. I've got to pick Claire up; she's playing bridg out there," Paul presently suggested, sending her spirits to fever pitch.

"Will it give us time to dress afterward?"

"Oh, all the time you want!"

And that was one of the good hours.

"That's the secret," Joyce thought. "When you can't do what you want to do, do something else, and do it hard!"

She came back from the most perfect hour she had had with Paul, an hour that was like old times, to find Pidgie rather disgruntled. Her afternoon had not been successful apparently. She presently spoke bitterly of Elisa.

"I hope you didn't miss the broad English a, for Sir George Hopetree's benefit!" Pidgie said scornfully. "She gives me a great big pain! She used to be Betty Moss when she and I went to Sastilleja School!"

"Oh, is she divorced?" Joyce asked.

"No-o-o; She's only twenty, she's a year older than I am. Her mother was divorced and married an Englishman named Blandwood, and she came home three years ago with 'Elisa Moss-Blandwood' on her cards—oh, yes, and she met the Prince of Wales at a garden party—maybe!" Pidgie grumbled. "I hope he knew it!"

Joyce felt quite light-hearted as she tubbed and brushed and powdered, felt that their common dislike of Elisa was a bond between her and Pidgie.

"This pace kills me!" she said frankly, dropping on her bed.

"I loathe the gait they go down here; I don't know how they do it: bridge and roulette and dog races every night, and cocktails before lunch, and golf and polo and tennis. Why they don't all drop dead!" Pidgie muttered. "We're all going over to Del Monte for dinner, then the dog races and then wind up at Canary Cottage for roulette!"

They lay on their beds and discussed not only their position as guests of Claire von Schwerin, but their hostess herself.

"She's having a terrible time holding Victor," Pidgie said.

"What makes you think so?"

"Oh, the way she acts; the way they rush around! He's only about fifty-one, you know; he's always on the lookout for something exciting."

"I think that's rather disgusting, don't you, Pidgie?" Joyce asked.

"Oh, I don't know. What did she expect?"

"Well, if I married I wouldn't expect—that," the other girl formulated it hesitatingly. "I mean, what are you sure of, if you're not sure of your husband—going on liking you?"

"Why should you want him to, if you get tired of him?"

"But I should think your husband would be sort of the—well, the base you built your life on."

"My mother's husbands aren't. My mother's been married three times—Obermann really didn't count," Pidgie amended it; "they were only married three months. Oh, well, she has a lot of fun!" she finished rather vaguely.

Joyce made no further comment. She lay thinking. Somehow the atmosphere of this place made her feel unnatural and uneasy; her face felt flushed and dry all the time, and her heart beat hard.

On Saturday Paul and Elisa were drawn to play in a golf foursome with the best of the man players, one Rudy Reiger, and a young woman named Ethel Le Count. Joyce had felt in her soul that the drawing would result this way.

Elisa was lovely in white and dark blue stripes, with a knotted cotton cord of French red on her linen hat. Her long supple body was beautiful in the sweep of her splendid drives. She was flushed, amused, superb in victory—Joyce had known that too—known that her team would win.

Paul and Elisa, having easily beaten their competitors on Saturday morning, fought a harder battle but won again in the afternoon. That meant that they would play in the finals on Sunday. There had been talk of a picnic on Sunday, but of course that was all ended now. Paul wanted to talk of each separate shot in the scene moments he and Joyce had together. Everybody made much of him, and his role was the delightful one of success.

A great weariness came over Joyce as the hours of the hot spring Saturday wore away. It couldn't be that she wasn't going to marry Paul, that what he had felt for her wasn't the real thing, or that it had changed and wasn't the real thing now, anyway! She wouldn't admit that, she wouldn't accept it—she couldn't.

The conviction, fight it as she would, strengthened and deepened. Paul liked her immensely, found her amusing and companionable, but he was no longer in love. Perhaps he never had been; once such a thing was changed it was hard to remember exactly what it had been. Since his arrival on Tuesday—and this was Saturday!—there had been no love-making between them; no, not even when he had taken her to dinner and to dance in the city. It had been all gay, eager, affectionate, appreciative—not passionate, not tender, not secret. Here at Pebble Beach he had seemed to want the crowd about them.

Would he take her home to Merriwell tomorrow to make everything right, there in that quiet atmosphere of home voices and evening lamps? Joyce's despairing heart could not say. Did he feel himself promised to her? She would not tell that either. His seeing her at all had been arranged by his stepmother; perhaps, had he had his own way, he would have forgotten Joyce entirely.

On the Saturday night after the golf they dined at Del Monte, and danced. Elisa could not join them; she was out on the Forces' yacht for dinner; Joyce could be glad of that much respite at least. Paul was sleepy and sunburned and good natured at dinner; men and women spoke to him of his golf record, and he laughed and said that of course he and Elisa would go down tomorrow like a ton of coal.

"But I was going to drive you home tomorrow, and now, darn it, I'll be playing all day!" he said to Joyce.

"I don't have to go home tomorrow; I can stay until Monday; ask me to stay until Monday!" her heart screamed. Aloud, "Well, being in the finals is something, anyway!"

"I can't get over it! Elisa and I were saying at Forces' this afternoon that if she hadn't intentionally hooked that shot on the eighth—"

They were all talking golf again.

"The telephone, Mr. von Schwerin," a waiter said. Paul jumped up. When he came back he was in a great hurry.

"It was Elisa," he explained. Joyce's heart sank like a leaden thing in her breast. "She's got a sun headache, poor kid; she's not so awfully strong," Paul added. "She wants me to run down and get her; she's going to turn right in. I'll be right back."

He was gone.

"Elisa could throw a couple of bulls single-handed," Pidgie then said. "But how that delicate pose gets 'em!"

Paul was gone for a long time When he came back he was slightly out of breath and excited.

"She's got a sun headache; nothing serious," he confided to Joyce "Poor little thing; she was all in; I had practically to carry her upstairs. I told her to get to bed but she said she might come down later and just look on; she won't dance."

"Oh, poor thing," the girls said dutifully. They exchanged cryptic glances. Everything was twisted and queer for Joyce; the sense of having to fight for her friendship with Paul, the deeper sense of not being able to fight, not knowing the rules. Paul's father came over to their table and asked her to dance. While they danced he told her about his tailor in New York, and that he had a better tailor in London. He said that sometimes he had to go for four or five fittings on one vest, but it was worth it. He asked Joyce if she was having a nice time, and said that she mustn't imagine that old fellows his age didn't know a lovely girl when they saw one.

Joyce laughed; was youthfully receptive to his remarks. He was Paul's father after all. But she did not like it. And when they finished their dance Paul had disappeared.

"I don't know where that son of mine's gone," Victor von Schwerin said."But I don't think it matters, does it? I think we're having an extremely pleasant time without him."

Joyce smiled. Her heart was sick within her, and she knew neither what she was doing nor saying. Everything was a sickening glare of light and noise, with sickening waves of music beating through it. Where had Paul gone?

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Happy Home Influence

I have a friend in a big city who is a child specialist, and when we get together, the conversation naturally turns to babies and children. He is tremendously interested in the progress of the Dionne Quintuplets. So, when we get together, I am put in the witness box and grilled about their daily training and behavior.

He has a favorite saying: "Show me a problem child and I'll show you a problem parent or a problem home". And while I don't think the statement should be so sweeping I can realize why perhaps he believes it to be true. His experience has been among people different from those I have served. He, as I say is a specialist, and probably most of his practise is among the wealthy younger set. A good many of these naturally leave their children largely in the hands of maids and nurses. They do a lot of entertaining, life is rather strenuous for them and it follows that a good many of those homes aren't any too peaceful and happy.

Whether the home be rich or poor, if it is unhappy then the forces that are making it so will be reflected in the child's character.

My friend told me not long ago of a young mother who comes to see him about her child frequently. She is always keeping up with the latest ideas about child care and rearing and endeavoring to apply them. Nevertheless, the child is a problem.

She and her husband get along so badly that they are periodically on the verge of a divorce. And in spite of the extra special care the child is getting physically his emotional balance is subjected to being upset constantly.

As you can see it isn't the child who needs a specialist most it's the parents.

If parents would only realise that there is more to raising children than seeing that they are well-fed and clothed. What is the use of giving a child a strong healthy body if his mind isn't free and happy if he is living in a home where quarrels and bitter words and fault findings upset his emotional equilibrium daily? As sensitive as a young child's body is, its mind is more sensitive still. And as vital as his physical development is, his mental development is even more important.

The specialist doesn't always see the effects of domestic discords upon children as plainly as the country practitioner, who has the advantage of serving families through several generations. I know a family in which the mother and father regularly quarrelled fought, threw things at each other. They were so violent-tempered they made no effort to conceal their domestic discords. I was an unwilling witness to more than one of their outbursts, as were other persons. Every one of their children grew up with the same temperaments, only worse—violent, ungovernable. Three of them married and all three are separated or divorced from their mates. I blame all that unhappiness and misery on one thing—the home in which they were brought up.

Heredity is, of course, a great factor, but I think environment a more important one.

THE PLAY'S THE THING on a vacation, and so the girl who is active will want to pack one of those swell blue jean overall outfits. Wear them with white cotton mesh skirts or with striped red and white.

KEEPING PARTIES COOL

Platters, Punches Win Friends, Influence Temperatures

IF YOU ARE serving a buffet type dinner or a cold meat platter on a hot day, try this pressed corned beef, making it the day before. You will find the meat will slice into even, attractive slices, very good to eat and very attractive to serve.

Perhaps some of the cooling drinks included in today's culinary treatise will appeal to you, too. They're relatively easy to mix up so you won't get overheated trying to lower the tonsil temperature. The fruit punch will serve any 25 persons you might be expecting to crash in for a party.

Today's Menu

Pressed Corned Beef
Potato Salad or Creamed Potatoes
String Beans Chocolate Pudding
Iced Tea or Coffee

Pressed Corned Beef

Wash a 4 pound solid piece of corned beef, cover with cold water and bring to boil. Remove scum and simmer 3 hours, or until tender. Cool in liquid, then drain and put on large plate, cover with another plate and weigh down with a heavy stone, a crock or something similar. Put in refrigerator and let stand for 24 hours.—Tested in Good Housekeeping Institute.

Potato Salad

6 medium-sized potatoes
2 small carrots
1 cucumber, diced
1-2 cup chopped celery
1 green pepper, shredded
3 or 4 green onions
1 small bunch radishes
Salt, paprika

Scrub potatoes and cook in boiling salted water until tender, but not too soft, peel, and slice when cold. Dice or shred the other vegetables, being sure the raw carrots are sliced very thinly or diced small. Combine all ingredients, sprinkle with salt and paprika, and moisten well with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing, unless you prefer French. This amount will amply serve from 4 to 6 persons.

Chocolate Custard

4 cups milk
5 eggs
1-2 teaspoon salt
3-4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 squares chocolate
1-2 cup water

Melt chocolate, add sugar and water and cook until syrup is formed. Pour into milk and add eggs and flavoring. Pour into buttered baning dish or individual custard cups and bake until firm in 350 degrees F. oven. You can stand the dish containing the pudding in another pan of hot water if you wish. Serve cold. Will serve 8 persons.

Hula Milk Shake is a refreshing new drink for the sultry days. Appetizing for entertaining or between meals:

Hula Milk Shake

2 cups pineapple juice
1-4 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons New Orleans molasses
1 quart milk

Combine pineapple juice, lemon juice, and molasses. Add slowly to milk and mix thoroughly. Chill. Serves six.

Fruit Punch

Juice 3 lemons
Juice 3 limes
Juice 3 oranges
1 cup coarsely chopped fresh pineapple
2 whole oranges
1-2 cup raspberry syrup
2 cups sugar
1-2 cup maraschino cherries
1 qt. cold water
3 qts. charged water

Boil the sugar and plain water to a syrup. Take off the fire and add fruit juices, pineapple, raspberry syrup, and slices of unpeeled oranges. Let stand 1 hour in a cold place. Add maraschino cherries and charged water and pour into a punch-bowl with a large piece of ice. Serve in small punch-glasses

Grape Punch

3 pts. grape juice
1 pt. plain water
2 qts. charged water
Juice 5 lemons
Sugar

Dissolve 1 cup of sugar in the plain water and grape juice; add strained lemon juice and then pour in the charged water adding extra sugar as desired. Serve from punch-bowl with a large piece of ice. This quantity also will serve 25 people.

There are many tasty dishes familiar to all home cooks which lend themselves to preparation in the cool of the day, and which can be refrigerated until it's time to serve.

Aspic salads are one group. Tomato aspic is good with celery, green pepper, bits of marinated lamb, chicken or veal—all three, in fact—set in the mold with the tomato gelatin. Sliced boiled capon, set in a stock and gelatin preparation, is a hearty main course with salad greens and mayonnaise. Did you ever try marinating egg noodles, and setting them in a ring mold? Serve with the centre hollow filled with shrimp or plain green salad, after the mold has been turned out on a platter.

Holiday Time Is Romance Time Says Erno Loszlo,

By PATRICIA MONTCLAIR

EVERY NOW and then someone comes along and says right out loud what a lot of the girls have been thinking in secret.

Here's Erno Laszlo, late of the Laszlo Institute of Budapest, and now with us over here, who says:

"A holiday without a romance is like a cake without icing." Lazy days are just a bore, in other words, unless there is someone handy to see and to admire. Sun, fun and relaxation, every woman knows, is just the right culture for her charms.

But, says our Hungarian visitor, the American woman, who has fewer complexes and inhibitions than any of her sisters from the rest of the world, goes positively Victorian when faced with the opportunity to cultivate herself along purely feminine lines. She strikes a self-conscious pose and gets stuck with it. She's ashamed to admit she's harboring a "get your man" ambition. Gets hearty and comradely....and lonely!

Time Is Short

Alackaday, dear sir......can this be truly so? And what would you advise?

Says the oracle: Put your trust in your mirror, and keep your powder dry. Map your tactics, using intelligence, good manners and the well-known feminine intuition as your allies. Remember that time is fleeting—is there a shorter fortnight on the calendar than the two weeks holiday?—and that like the tide, no good-looking man waits for any woman; she's got to catch up with him. Here's how, according to Mr. Laszlo who admires us every one:

(1) Remember that the features men notice first are: 1—eyes, 2—lips. Be sure that both these features are perfectly made up—lightly in daylight, dramatically at night.

(2) Flirt—discreetly, but flirt. Flirting is a marvelous beauty treatment for a woman. It stimulates the mysterious glands that make the essential harmony between her outlook on life and her appearance. Flirting makes her heart beat faster, stimulating her blood stream and thereby clearing her skin of blemishes, brightening her eyes and adding a gloss to her hair.

(3) This is an era of nudity in summer, but "no nudes is good nudes" if one does not measure up to magazine-cover specifications. Don't wear shorts, bra-top or one-piece bathing suits unless they become you. Men are just as attracted by frilly, feminine cover-up clothes as by the other kind.

(4) Set aside one hour a day—twenty minutes in the morning, ten minutes before lunch, twenty minutes before dinner and ten minutes before retiring for concentrated attention to beauty. This hour spent alone will ensure against loneliness the other twenty-three hours of the day.

(5) Know your locale before you arrive in it. If you vacation on a mountain lake, don't make up and dress the sophisticated siren. Wear ultra simple, ultra casual clothes, little or no makeup and low-heeled shoes. If you are going to a smart seashore resort, get the advice of an expert on a proper wardrobe, and if a budget is your guide, buy a few clothes of the best quality and simplest cut, rather than a lot of less distinctive duds. Have your hair and makeup styled by an expert in the latest, and include several sessions in the hotel beauty salon on your weekly budget.

(6) Don't sunbathe with complete makeup—powder, rouge, mascara and thick lipstick. Nudity goes for the face as well as the figure on the beach. An exotically made-up face in full sunlight is not attractive. Annoint yourself with oil. An oily skin shining in the sunlight is better.

(7) Don't expect compliments on your appearance if you wear a glamour-girl bob with a riding habit and derby, an elaborate curly coiffure on the tennis court, a shaggy-dog mop of hair with an evening gown. Suitability is the essence of charm.

(8) Don't try to be a sun-browned beauty in one session of baking. You will miss precious days by being an unattractive lobster red.

(9) When your male companion is conversing very wittily and interestingly—and where can you find a man who is not sure that he is witty and clever—don't take out your makeup kit and go to work on your face. No matter how hard you listen while you make up, you can never make him believe that you paid attention.

(10)—Never let down the bars as far as your appearance goes, for every minute counts—but never let a man think you care how you look when you're with him! This takes subtlety, but every woman can learn to do it.

Experience Teaches Some Things Don't Pay

Woman Who Would be Happy Should Take Stock—To Be Truly Feminine Is Right Course — Never Let Jealousy Creep In

Some things just don't pay—and a woman is smart who crosses them off her list once and for all, writes Ruth Millett. These things don't pay:

Letting jealousy dictate your actions.

Arguing with a man—about anything.

Trying to be friends with a catty woman.

Choosing your clothes for comfort alone.

Considering yourself above using feminine wiles.

Telling the man you are in love with about the man you dated before him.

Letting a man get by with breaking dates with you.

Making excuses to yourself for a man's waning interest.

Putting a career first in your life.

Kidding yourself that you can marry "any time" if you are nearing 30.

Dating married men.

Managing to get your own way by making scenes.

Giving up your old friends and your outside interests just because you are married.

Being so sceptical that you ask yourself "What is behind this?" every time some one is friendly or tries to be kind.

Taking a husband up on his plea "Just stay as you are."

Neglecting yourself or your interests in an effort to give your children everything they want.

Being rude—ever.

Letting a man know you can very well take care of yourself.

If you'll look around you at the women who haven't crossed these off the list, you'll see then why such things don't pay.

WASHING UPHOLSTERY

Before washing upholstery (and that is an easy way to clean it when slightly soiled) remove all dust with a stiff brush or vacuum cleaner. Take off any stains or spots with a commercial spot remover or gasoline. Then wash a small area at a time with warm water and mild soap suds. Rinse well with water and pat as dry as possible with a soft, dry cloth. Keep in a well aired room until perfectly dry.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

Merle Oberon, screen star, has a unique way of serving hot cakes with honey and butter. She heats the honey, adds butter to the sweet and pours over the cakes. The butter added to the sysup not only thins it to a better pouring consistency, but eliminates the bother of first spreading butter on the cakes.

Dude Ranches Start Roundup Of Tendetfeet

By ALICE DENHOFF

WHEN YOU take your dude ranch vacation this Summer, give a thought to Howard Willis and Alden Easton, for these two started the whole idea. It was way back in the Eighties that they got the notion to invite paying guests to their North Dakota ranch on Custer Valley, just a piece down the trail from Teddy Roosevelt's place. The effete Easterners were "dudes" to the virile Westerners, but they were dudes to be welcomed and given a good time. Gradually the idea spread and the thin trickle of visitors increased until it grew to the big business we know today.

Montana, Wyoming, California, New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona are dotted with ranches that sprawl for hundreds of miles over mountain and valley, over arid desert and over watered plains. Pitchfork A-Bar-A, Ox-Yoke, Phantom Ranch, Four M, Rancho de Dias Alceres, the B-Bar-H Ranch, the Vallejo Ranch are nationally famillar names. Some are almost primitive in their simplicity, others are of resort proportions and luxury. But all offer hearty Western hospitality.

Plenty to Do

Pack trips that may last for days; fishing; excursions around the nearby country are standard fun. In the more pretentious places swimming pools, tennis courts, golf, and ping-pong tables are added. There is also the important fun of improving one's riding. If you hesitate to join the Sunday riding brigade in the park at home you'll be surprised at your perfect seat after a few weeks of riding with the cowboys. You'll find yourself talking about English saddles versus the Western, and about gaits. What is more, you'll know what you are talking about.

Half the fun of a dude ranch vacation is in its simplicity. A sports wardrobe is the entire dress story.

Walking shoes, hiking, riding or 12-inch cowboy boots, waist-high blue jeans, shirts plain or gay, sweaters, a leather jacket, riding gloves are necessary equipment. Blue jeans, breeches, jodhpurs, short divided leather or gabardine skirts are riding togs. The wise dude rancher buys most of the accessories at the country stores near the ranches.

If Easterners don't want to go 'way West they will find dude ranches which have sprung up nearer home in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York State and even on Long Island. In some instances these Eastern establishments go the West one better and have installed what they consider authentic Western atmosphere, such as the dance hall, the saloon, trading post, hitching rails and board sidewalks. As with their Western counterparts, the rates are all inclusive, taking care of horses, guides, pack trips. But in the East there is easy accessibility to nearby places that offer chances to spend plenty of money, while the real places out West are usually pretty far from the big town.

Many a Wife Bawls Out a Bald-Headed Husband Who Makes a Dinner of Meat, Potatoes and Sweets, Never Touches Vegetables or Salads

It is not definitely known whether or not dandruff will cause loss of hair. Even if it doesn't, it is loathesome and untidy, and the perfect tenement for bacteria. Only recently was it discovered that it is a fungus growth, like yeast. Stubborn cases hang on for years, sometimes develop into seborrhic eczema.

It is vitally important that hair and scalp be kept scrupulously clean. The soap used for the shampoo must be bland. Men suffer from dandruff more than women; few of them wash their ambrosial locks properly. They rub the bar of soap over their noble heads, stand under the shower. Many times scalp and hair are smeared with soap scum that sticks like glue. Even the blandest soap should not remain upon the skin as it may set up an irritation.

Hair specialists claim that the reason women don't get bald or have dandruff is because they give their tresses better care than men do. Also, they eat more fruits and vegetables, supplying skin and silky shafts with the nutriment they need for well-being. Many a wife bawls out a bald-headed husband who makes a dinner of meat, potatoes and sweets, never touches vegetables or salads. The men pay and pay—for treatments and hair tonics

x x x

Olive or mineral oil applied hot to the scalp the night before the shampoo loosens the epidermal scales, which should never be disturbed with the fingernails or comb. To dislodge these flakes forcibly is to take a chance of causing an abrasion into which germs and germesses may creep and set up housekeeping. There is a disease known as "habit rash", an irritation caused by needless fussing with the scalp.

Sunlight has a favorable effect upon dandruff. If you are among the afflicted, sit in the sunshine, lift your locks so that the warm air will penetrate to the scalp. Brushing is recommended because it tugs at the hair roots, stimulates the tiny blood vessels that bring nourishment to the shafts.

x x x

Dandruff is contagious and for that reason one should be fastidious about combs and brushes which should be washed at least once a week. When visiting a beauty shop keep your eye peeled when the combs and brushes are brought out. If they don't look as they should, make a protest and thereafter seek beauty services elsewhere.

Don't wear tight-fitting hats. They excite the sweat and sebaceous glands, especially in the summer season, take the very life out of the hair, besides depositing horrid ill-smelling chemicals upon the scalp. Maybe some day our hats will be air-conditioned and the winds will whistle through them. Won't that be sumpin?

Friction the scalp lightly every night. That practice's good for the glorious halo no matter what its condition may be.

"I Spy"

By YANET GOFF

I'M BEGINNING to understand why so many girls have church weddings......A white satin bridal gown is so easy to find, whereas the right dress for a simple home or city hall ceremony is a problem nobody likes to tackle even once in a lifetime......unless, of course, the bride is saying "I do" this Fall. I can think of nothing lovelier than soft brown from head to toe.

The girl who goes hatless in town should make one compromise—ride in a taxi to her destination. ...The prettiest hair takes on a shaggy dog look after a half hour in the breeze....Speaking of hats, Arline Judge had on a honey at the Starlight Roof the other noon, a French blue ostrich and rose feather toque repeating the shades of her pastel printed shirtwaist frock. Joan Crawford, who's spending a Summer in New York, wore a black felt breton banded in Kelly green to match the jacket of her black crepe dress.

Park Avenue chic, more than any other, consists in the trick of ensembling. A petite, young-faced grey-haired woman who passed me yesterday had on a fitted red velvet coat, red suede skull cap and red wedgies.

Latest window manikins were recently shown under the title "Beautiful but dummy."

Stylish Frocks For Home Wear

By ELEANOR ROSS

THE OLD-TYPE wrapper is as dead as the dodo and as obsolete as the stage coach. It is probably on its way to the Smithsonian to keep company with other relics of the past. The modern housecoats and housefrocks, the slacks and shirts ensembles, the easy dirndl dresses, the pinafore and blue jeans that have been elected to do duty about the house make woman's lot an easier one. One thing is sure. There's no need now to hide when the doorbell rings and unexpected company arrives, for the new house togs are eminently wearable and smart despite their emphasis on comfort and efficiency.

Today's bride sits down to breakfast in a neat cotton housecoat and starts the day right. Psychologists insist that many a marriage began to founder when hubby was confronted by the little woman all bundled up in something vaguely reminiscent of a sack, an object known as a wrapper.

Tailored Features

Breakfast is better in one of the full-skirted, snug bodiced housecoats of striped or plain sharkskin, pique, chambray or seersucker. For working duty there are neat dirndl house dresses, as well as those cute pinafore frocks so crisp and brisk. When worn over a cotton shirt, these grown-up pinnies are plenty good enough for going to market and such. Girls who aren't addicted to slacks around the house dote on them.

Gals who prefer slacks will like the new ensembles in various fabrics in navy blue. Nicely tailored, these outfits are easy and comfortable and make working a pleasure. Some women like shorts so much that they wear them 'round the house.

Going on That Trip?

The Doctor Offers Health Pointers

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

MY CRANKY OLD friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs, has gone on his vacation. One of his patients asked him what would become of her while he was gone and he replied that she would probably get well.

He scorns the rugged individualist who boasts that he has had only two vacations in twenty years. He says he doesn't really have any vacation then because he never gets away from himself.

Vacations are entirely different from what they were when I was younger. Then the whole family packed up and left on a train. We went to a fishing lodge where the food was good and the water dependable. We got "acclimated" in a day or two—that meant really that elimination became normal.

Different New

Vacations with the advent of the automobile adventure are cheaper and easier, and more frequent, which is a good thing, but they are more individualistic than they used to be—much more responsibility is in the hands of the vacationist. The engineer and conductor of the train in the old days saw to it that we got there safely. Now the man at the wheel of the car has to assume that duty—so he should be carefully selected. And for himself he ought to learn to sit at the wheel properly so that he doesn't ruin his posture and spine in the effort. And take a little leisure to smoke a cigarette after breakfast: it doesn't make a great deal of difference if you don't get to the next town exactly by 12:20; suppose you don't get there till 12:40. The town will be there just the same.

Every vacationist should have a typhoid vaccination before starting out on the tourist vacation. At least within ten years before. Drinking water is picked up here and there and carries a typhoid hazard. Most of our cases of typhoid today are found in wanderers.

Loaded for Trouble

Dr. Gibbs believes in medicine and antiseptics and bandages, and his medical kit was carried in a separate grip when he left on his vacation. It looked a little as if he were going to join an army at the front. I don't think you need to take as much as he does. But iodine, and sterilized gauze and bandages and adhesive are fundamental. And some salve for sunburn: any kind of salve will do—special sun tan salve is not very different from the others.

A bottle of calamine lotion is a good thing for insect bites and dermatitis venenata. Dermatitis venenata is the eruption on the skin from plants. Ivy poisoning is the worst, but there are several other kinds. Plant dermatities always causes burning and itching. Simple remedies are the most effective. Clean the skin affected—with gasoline, and then soap and water, before putting on the calamine lotion.

But don't try to have a vacation without some misadventures. The reminiscences of "the time when" are half the fun. You're going away for "re-creation" you know.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD

says today—

Wife Should Keep Herself In Good Trading Position With Her Husband

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

My husband was born without ambition and though I have tried to make him see the importance of choosing work with a future, he has been content to hold a job. Now at forty his job pays no more than when he started but the family has grown and there are demands that can't be met. We own our home, though it is poorly furnished, and this has been a great comfort to me.

Now my husband thinks he sees a way out. His mother has been left with a farm but no income. She can't get on with her children who live nearby and she wants my husband to come, run the farm and let us live in her home. I know what this will mean. We will go to seed in the country and all but starve and I have put my foot down on the plan. He is furious with me, says I'm trying to separate him from his mother when she needs him. Am I not right in refusing to go?

MRS. B.

ANSWER:

A categorical "no" from his wife always infuriates a man, and since there are several subtle ways of saying "no", why invite his fury? Most husbands and wives must learn to compromise unless they are armed for a fray that is never finished. Most wives must master the gentle art of persuasion or be mastered by husbands who hold the purse (however flat) and therefore have the last word.

Any woman who has owned her home and run it to suit herself naturally recoils from the thought of moving in and doubling up with in-laws and there's generally a way around if she gumshoes and soft pedals and slips up on the blind side of her husband. But something comes before this. She's got to get right with him and this may take some time if she's been lambasting him because he lacks ambition and criticising him because he's not producing enough to support the family.

Now, my dear woman, couldn't you reason with your husband about the impossibility of his making a living on the farm when he has no farming experience back of him? Couldn't you show him the small likelihood that his mother who can't get on amicably with her own children could take you, an in-law to her heart? Can't you by gentle persuasion convince him that it would be better for his mother to rent her farm and visit around among her children than for you to abandon your home and take up residence in the country where the children won't have advantages and none of you will be independent?

As last resort you might offer to get a job, help your husband with the support of his mother, if this is necessary. In other words, put yourself in a good trading position and then trade, trade, trade.

Leaders in Tie for Fifth Time And Who Will Win American Loop Elag Clouded in Doubt

Detroit Tigers Beaten by Yankees and Cleveland Wins from Boston Red Sox

REDS INCREASE LEAD

Cincinnati Takes Giants While Brooklyn Lost to Pittsburgh Pirates

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

There is just no way to make sense out of the American League pennant scramble.

First Boston Red Sox looked as if they were going places. Then Cleveland Indians went on the war-path. Intermittently New York Yankees showed signs of awakening. More recently Detroit Tigers have been setting the pace.

But today for at least the fifth time this season the leaders are in a tie and there positively is no possibility of predicting how the race will wind up. Cleveland moved back into a deadlock for the lead last night.

Bob Feller kept eight hits scattered efficiently to beat Boston Red Sox 2-1. It was his 17th triumph of the year and came at exactly the proper time to capitalize on a three-game losing streak by the Tigers, who were dunked 8-6 by the Yankees.

Had to be Relieved

Red Ruffing had the Tigers eating out of the palm of his hand most of the game and by the time they got mad enough to bite him the cause was lost. Ruffing contributed a three-run homer to the eight-run total the world champions amassed before Detroit scored. Then when Rudy York hit two homers and Pete Fox one to get rough with Ruffing in the late innings, Johnny Murphy stepped in and tamed them.

The National League issue appeared more cut and dried after Cincinnati Red snatched a 6-3 decision over New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers lost an 8-2 nocturnal tussle to Pittsburgh Pirates. This set Brooklyn back to eight games behind the Reds.

Cincinnati's victory came through a four-run uprising in the eighth inning and was credited to Paul Derringer, his 15th. The tumultuous eighth saw Coach Jimmy Wilson of the Reds expelled for disputing a third strike and pitcher Walter Brown of the Giants chased for arguing a putout at first base.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodger debating society also was thumbed out of his game after arguing over a third strike called on Peewee Reese. The Pirates scored four times in the first inning and with Truett Sewell pitching six-hit ball, the Dodgers never had a chance.

Mize Leading Rabe

St. Louis Cardinals pounced on Boston Bees with a 19-hit attack that was good for a 13-5 victory Johnny Mize hit his 27th and 28th home runs of the year.

The Phillies managed to nose out Chicago Cubs 7-5 although outhit 16-11. The difference was chiefly a five-run second inning attack staged by the Phils.

Chicago White Sox extended their surge at the expense of Philadelphia Athletics with a 3-1 victory on the five-hit hurling of Jack Knott and Pete Appleton. Knott allowed only two hits and no runs for eight frames. Then he weakened in the ninth and Appleton stepped in to save the game, Chicago's 10th triumph in 12 starts.

Dutch Leonard shut out St. Louis Browns 4-0 for Washington in a night game, spacing seven hits and striking out seven.

Manager Believes Dean on Way Up

Dallas, July 31—(AP)— Dizzy Dean is again on the way up, says Roy Johnson, manager of Tulsa Oilers of the Texas League. The Chicago Cubs sent Dean to Tulsa in the hope of straightening out his ailing arm.

"Dizzy showed me more the other night (Monday night, when Dean beat Dallas 1-0 with a two-hit performance) than any time since he was bought by Chicago from St. Louis," declared Johnson.

Johnson, a coach with the Cubs when Dean went to Chicago, was there until this season and knows all about Dizzy's arm trouble.

"His arm doesn't hurt anymore. He can go nine innings and he wants to work," Johnson said.

POINTERS EASILY DEFEAT JUNIORS IN SECOND GAME

Three Home Runs by Winners in First Frame Secures Edge Never Relinquished

SCORE IS 10-2

Game Featured by Three Double Plays, Two of Which Were Pulled by Losers

Blasting out three home runs in the top half of the first inning, Point Anne softballers had no trouble in winning the second game of their three out of five series with the Juniors at Coleman Flats last evening and with "Ding" Luffman hurling four-hit ball, went on to take a two-game advantage in the series as they outscored the kids 10-2. The series will continue in Point Anne on Thursday evening and the Juniors must win to stay in the running for city softball honors.

Luffman was in trouble in only one inning, the fourth, as he kept opposing batters well under control to have them popping up or striking out seemingly at will. In the fourth the Juniors scored their only two runs of the game as Luffman's control lapsed long enough to walk two batters with both runs scampering across the plate as Cook lashed out a single to avert a shutout.

In limiting the kids to four safe bingles, including a double by Callaghan in the seventh, Luffman walked only two and struck out nine. Powers, who hurled for the Juniors was in trouble in almost every inning as he had trouble getting the ball over the plate and the Point Anne players waited for the cripple to come across and then pasted it out of the lot as they nicked the opposition hurling for seventeen safe clouts. Powers walked two and struck out three hitters as he went the route.

Three Double Plays

The game was featured by three fast double killings, two by the Juniors and one by the winners. Of the three, one pulled off by the kids in the seventh was the fastest with the other two being of the orthodox variety—short to second to first and short to first. Cook, in left for the losers, pulled off the feature catch of the night, when he raced far out of his territory to take a fly ball, which appeared labelled.

Loft, for the winners, was strongest offensively, cracking out two homers and a double in five trips to the plate. Green and Bennett also hit well, the former getting a homer and two singles while Bennett also hit well, the former getting a homer and two singles while Bennett got a four-base clout and a single, while Gaulin and Twining hit doubles. Callaghan was the only batter on the losing side to collect more than one safety getting a double and a single, while Goyer and Cook were the other two batters to connect safely.

Pickard Picks Self To Win Pro. Crown

Hershey, Pa., July 31—(AP) — Henry G. Picard, Professional Golfers Association champion, crawled out on a cool limb today and took a "100-to-one shot" at predicting who would win his crown here next month.

Picard picked himself.

"Why not?" the normally modest pro of the Hershey Country Club asked, and without waiting an answer, continued: "I'm playing well and I feel great."

Picard, considered the best long iron shot in the game since Tommy Armour's best days, knows every blade of grass on the 7,000-yard home course where the Professional Golfers' Association championship will be decided during the week of Aug. 26.

Picard won it last year, defeating Byron Nelson in the finals.

It has happened before that a P. G. A. champ repeated. Denny Shute did it in 1937 and 1938.

NEWARK BEARS HAND ROCHESTER DOUBLE DEFEAT

Cut Lead of Wings to Two Games and Have Real Chance to Head Club

LEAFS LOSE TWO

Eight and Ninth Straight Losses Suffered by the Toronto Club

(By the Associated Press)

Newark Bears may not have been able to complete Rochester's undoing this time but the signs are that the Red Wings are going to have lot tougher time the second half of the International League baseball race.

Bears were bent on wresting the league lead from the Red Wings during the current four game series.

It couldn't be done, but the Wings look as though they are only human after all, and can be beaten.

The last bit of proof was added last night when the Bears pounded out two victories before 13,000 fans, 6-3 and 11-9, the latter a 10-inning struggle. That cut Red Wings' lead two full games.

George Scharein blasted a triple over left fielder Bill Rabe's head in the 10th inning of the nightcap with two mates aboard to win. The first contest was loosely played. four errors creeping into the proceedings. Mike Ryba was charged with the loss.

Baltimore Orioles tightened their hold on third place with a double triumph over the Buffalo Bisons, 6-3 and 13-11.

Charged with Two Losses

The second game went 10 innings. Sam Maglie, knocked out of the box in the first game and finishing up the second, was charged with both losses as the Birds got 33 hits. Bill Nagel, the league's top home-run hitter, got two home runs to bring his total to 30.

Jersey City Giants and the Montreal Royals split their third doubleheader in three days, the Giants taking the first game 5-2 but losing the nightcap 5-4.

Frank Pearce handcuffed Royals with five hits in the curtain raiser for his 11th victory. In the afterpiece, Max Macon got credit for his second win although he had to be relieved in the eighth.

Syracuse Chiefs swept both ends of their double bill with Toronto, t. hand Maple Leafs their eighth and ninth straight losses. The scores were 4-2 and 1-0 in 10 innings.

A pair of six-hit mound efforts by Ted Kleinhans and Jack Tising earned the victories for the Chiefs. Gene Hasson's towering smash over the right field wall at the start of the 10th inning broke up a pitching duel between Tising and Pat McLaughlin in the second game.

ZELLERS ADVANCE TO FINAL ROUND BEATING CORBINS

Chuck Barnett's Crew Will Meet Winners of Vikings-Kresge Series for Championship

ALWAYS ON TOP

Sylvia Reddick Does Nice Chore of Relief Hurling but Effort Comes Too Late

Pounding two Corbin pitchers from the hilltop before they were halted by Sylvia Reddick, Chuck Barnett's Big-Z lassies downed the Corbin "lockmakers" 24 to 17 in an abbreviated seven inning Mercantile Girls' League semi-final softball game at the East Belleville playgrounds last evening. In victory the Zeller team made it two straight over the "lockmakers" and earned for themselves the right to advance into the league finals, having won two successive games in a best-in-three over Corbins.

Pushing nine runs across the plate in the third and adding ten more in the fourth, the Zeller crowd prolonged the game in their rallies to have darkness ultimately terminate the game in the seventh. Lusty hitting and errors on the part of the "lockmakers" paved the way to move the Big-Z squad into the finals. Helen Garrow, Betsy Adams and Glad Emerson led the winners on the attack, counting extra base blows in the clutches.

Never in Serious Trouble

Betsy Adams hurled for the winning Zeller nine and except for a fourth inning Corbin rally, when the losers scored six runs, she was never in serious trouble. Marg Reid started for Corbins, but was driven to cover in the third, Miss Anderson taking over until the fifth, when Sylvia Reddick ascended the hilltop for Corbins and abruptly stopped the onrush of the Zeller hitters as Miss Reddick set Chuck Barnett's gang down in order for the next three frames, not yielding the smallest resemblance of a hit. Chambers, Archer and Reddick carried the batting punch for the losers. The fielding features were provided by Colden and Anderson.

On Friday night the K-nines and Vikings meet in the second game of the league semi-finals, the ultimate winners of this series to then meet Zellers in the league final championships. The box score:

No matter how good or bad a golfer may be, they all can negotiate the 19th hole at about par. Of course the 19th hole to the golfing fraternity means much to all, because it is that well looked for spot where the losers wail their lot while the winners rave about their ability and good shots, all talking at once, well, between sips of nut-brown ale at least. Local golfers may not believe it, but it's a fact—there is actually a 19th playing hole at the Scarboro Golf and Country Club. It seems some years ago some bright member of the Scarboro Club figured it was too far to walk from the 18th hole, a distance of 150 yards, to the club house, so a 19th hole was sunk near the club house and this hole is generally played for a little side bet. Incidentally the Canadian Open will be played over the Scarboro Club on August 15-17th. and on these days each competitor will be allowed to play one shot from the 19th tee, the two players dropping their balls the closest to the 19th cup will receive prizes.

Chuck Barnett and his Zeller's girls can thank their lucky stars that Sylvia Reddick did not start on the mound for the Corbin "lockmakers" last night. The Big-Z nine proved apt opportunists and pounced on two of Barney Smith's hurlers for 22 hits and 24 runs to win 24 to 17, but when Miss Reddick took over the Corbin hurling chore the Zeller batters looked woefully weak and helpless, Sylvia abruptly halting the Zellers in their tracks and setting them back in order for the last three frames, when the Zellers were held hitless during her sojourn on the Corbin hilltop. Incidentally there were more errors committed afield by both nines last night than is generally seen, which may be attributed to the rough ground at the East Belleville playground. In winning last night the Zeller crowd eliminated the Corbins and now await the winner of the Viking-K-nine series, which continues at the old Ontario field on Friday night.

Do you remember when Babe Ruth clouted out his thirty-third home run for the New York Yankees and his 14th since July 1 to set a new world's record for home runs 16 years ago today.

Connie Mack of the Athletics, who made the pre-season prediction that the Yankees would fail to repeat for the American League pennant this year, still holds the opinion that the Bombers have only an outside chance, according to Dan Daniel of the New York World-Telegram.

"You see, in order to get going, the Yankees must have Dickey in his old form. And they must have pitching.

"No, you can't regard New York's chances as very strong. It's just as I told you back in April. I figured the Yanks might be driven to it, but now it seems not even hard driving can do it."

Buddy Gaulin's "Cementmen" made it two in a row over "Red" Townsend's Uptown Juniors in the City Softball loop playdowns for the Bank of Commerce trophy last night when the Ox Point nine downed the local kids 10-2 to take a strangle-hold on their series. The local junior squad should well remember that the experience they are gaining in their games versus Point Anne, and the other local intermediate softball teams, will be of value when they move out into the junior O.A.S.A. playdowns, where there is no quarter shown. At this point it would be safe to assume that it will take a really smart nine to push the "Cementmen" out of the O.A.S.A. picture in the intermediate "C" ranks, but the personnel of the Point Anne squad should appreciate the fact they are playing juniors in their half of the city championships, which brings around the point there was no reason for the flare-up last night. In this type of games why bother with rough play, that is unless the teams are equipped with football pads for personal contact.

In all probability professional hockey players in Canada will be permitted to get in their military training, under the new Defence Regulations in the (N.P.A.M.) either prior to or after next winter's hockey season, so as to not interfere with their hockey activities. Many N.H.L. players have already joined the Canadian army in many phases, three of the New York Rangers now being in the C.A.S.F.

Feuding in the National League rates amply high this season. Fines totalling $200. were tacked on Pittsburg and Brooklyn players by President Ford Frick following an outbreak of fisticuffs yesterday at Ebbets Field. Manager Frankie Frisch of the Pirates, suffered a century note penalty for his part in the battle. It was Frisch's sixth time to be "thumbed out" of a game this season. One can't say but Frankie is a battling manager.

SPORT SPICE — The Yankees are far ahead of their home-run effort in comparison with other years, league statisticians say, but their pitching is the cause of their lanquishing in fourth place. . . . For instance Red Ruffing tied the Tigers' tails in knots for six innings yesterday, but later had to be replaced by Murphy as he was shelled from the hilltop when the Yankees were lucky to beat the Tigers 8-6. . . Burleigh Grimes has been suspended as manager of the Grand Rapids club of the Michigan League. Jack Dempsey hung a hay-maker on another unknown push-over, a football player named Ellis Bashara. . . . Outfielder George Stainback, formerly of the Montreal Royals, was sold to Detroit yesterday for a price not revealed. . . . Seven. N.H.L. players. residing in Kitchener are getting in their military training this month, prior to joining their hockey teams, which would indicate the N.H.L. will function as usual next winter.

Police Blotter

While making nightly patrols last night, P. C. Evans discovered the rear doors leading into two local business houses insecure. The locks on doors leading into Geen's Drug Store and Kresge's Department Store were both found insecure. After reporting the incidents, Constable Evans secured the premises.

Mischievous persons broke a plate glass in the show window of G. K. Ashley's fur establishment some time last night. A small fur piece was inside of the show indow, but the fur was removed to a nearby bakery for safe keeping. The breakage was discovered by P. C. Wright, who later was informed of the securing of the fur piece.

City police recovered a bicycle, which had been reported stolen last week. The "bike" had been repainted by the lad in whose possession it was found. Charges may be preferred, Chief Kidd intimated today, but in the meantime the young man was permitted his liberty.

In the field now besides Mr. Hayes are Miss Agnes Macphail former U.F.O.-Labor member in the Commons for Grey-Bruce who is carrying the United Reform banner; Miss Wilna Moore, school teacher running as an Independent; and Eddie Williams, commercial traveller, Independent Liberal. The flowers I place upon your grave
May wither and decay,
But my love for you who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.

'GAS' SHORTAGE IN FRANCE, REPORT

Geneva Dispatch Says Vichy Government is Embarrassed by Situation

Geneva, July 31 —(AP) A gasoline shortage is putting a stranglehold on efforts of the Vichy government to reorganize the portion of France unoccupied by German forces, according to reports filtering into Switzerland today.

From a dozen regions of the unoccupied area came word of desperate shortages of certain foodstuffs and supplies which are plentiful elsewhere but cannot be transported because gasoline is lacking.

Rail transport is badly hindered by war damage to railroads and bridges and by inability even to get the needed produce to the rail lines from the interior.

French Supply Reported Low

Solution to the whole problem is gasoline but the French supply is almost exhausted, it is reported. The British blockade has halted Atlantic and Mediterranean shipments and the Axis powers are not offering any of their own.

French railroad yards are full of light, fast, streamline trains which peacetime France used extensively for both express passenger service and for combined freight and passenger service on branch lines. They are rusting on their tracks—powerless for lack of fuel.

Here are a few examples of what the gasoline shortage is reported doing to the national transportation system:—

On the outskirts of Lyon dozens of factories are making chocolate, jams and similar food products. They are working regularly and their warehouses are full to overflowing. Yet these very products cannot be bought in Lyons stores because gasoline is lacking for trucks.

A big factory in Grenoble is turning out huge quantities of cement but cannot send it to points where labor crews wait for materials and, with this factory out of sacks, a big jute bag factory is working in the Gironde Department, on the other side of France, but has no gasoline to truck the bags to the railroad.

Many match factories scattered over France are idle because they depend on motor transport. Their warehouses are full—and many parts of France are out of matches.

RUMANIA READY FOR NEGOTIATIONS

Kingdom, However, Warns She Will Resist Any Sweeping Territorial Demands

Bucharest, July 31 (AP)—Rumania, under strong pressure from Germany, indicated willingness today to adjust her differences with Hungary and Bulgaria but warned she would resist any sweeping territorial demands.

Readiness of the government to open negotiations with the two adjoining countries to which it hitherto has turned a deaf ear was intimated by Foreign Minister Mihail Manoilescu as he emerged from a cabinet meeting.

"Rumania recognizes," he said, "that she must achieve a lessening tension between herself and her Bulgarian and Hungarian neighbors."

No Consent to Repetition

He declared, however, Rumania would not consent to a repetition of the "unique circumstances" involving the recent cession of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina to Soviet Russia, and added:

"It is necessary to maintain peace, but if certain limits are exceeded the Russians must use other ways."

His statement was taken in diplomatic quarters as indicating the government was determined to drive a hard bargain with Hungary and Bulgaria, who have been pressing for return of the border provinces of Transylvania and southern Dobruja respectively, which they lost to Rumania after the last war.

PARTRIDGE QUITE PLENTIFUL IN NORTH

Lovers of partridge hunting will learn with pleasure that there will be no dearth of their favorite game in the northern woods this fall, if and when a hunting season is declared.

According to Mr. E. Martin, of Steenburgh, the birds wintered extremely well and there appears to be a plentitude of young. Dozens of coveys have been noticed in the vicinity of Mr. Martin's home, he said, whereas in other years only two or three could be seen.

PRICES TO ADVANCE

Toronto, July 31 (CP)—Prices of wines, champagnes, and brandies imported from non-British possessions advance in price tomorrow, Hon. St. Clair Gordon, Chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, said today. The increase varies, the highest being 6 to 7 per cent. The Liquor Board, it is said, is absorbing part of the 10 per cent surtax levied by the Federal government.

No advance is made on imported whiskies.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, July 31 (CP). — Base metals and western oils held to an upward trend in early trading but their gains were slightly over-balanced by losses in industrials and golds on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Trading was fairly active in the early stage and it slackened off later with the result that turnover of 101,000 shares in the first three hours was slightly smaller than in the corresponding hours of Tuesday.

Senior oils, steels and miscellaneous industrials were down slightly and in golds moderate declines were shown by Kerr-Addison, East Malartic, Preston, Aunor and San Antonio.

Steep Rock weakened to 1.60 and was selling around 1.65, off 8 cents at early afternoon. Nickel, Hudson Bay and Noranda were stronger. In western oils Anglo-Canadian and Home Oil were lower by 4 to 6 cents and Dalhousie was up 6 cents to 28.

Semi-Military Phalanx of Youth Of France Planned

Grenoble, France, July 31 —(AP) —A dispatch from Vichy to the newspaper Le Petit Dauphinois today reported creation of a semi-military 'phalanx' of French youths between 15 and 20 years of age who will be quartered in state-maintained camps.

The newspaper said the organization, sponsored by Jean Ybarnegeray, Minister of Youth and Family in the Petain government, apparently would be modelled along the lines of the youth movements in totalitarian countries.

The group, to be known as "The Phalanx of the Companions of France," will include students, workers and apprentices. A special effort will be made to enrol thousands of homeless youths separated from their families in the flight before the German invasion.

ESCAPES CHARGE ILLEGAL ENTRY

German War Prisoner, Said to Have Escaped by Leaping Into St. Lawrence, Held in Maine for Possible Deportation

Bangor, Me., July 31—(AP)—The dictates of international law left Kurt Reich, 25-year-old escaped German war prisoner, free of a charg of illegal entry into the United States today.

He was held, however, in the county jail pending completion of immigration service investigation into possible deportation.

Reich, captured by the British when the U-boat of which he was a crew member was sunk, leaped overboard as a transport carried him up the St. Lawrence River July 15. He crossed the Maine-Canada line and was arrested by a U.S. border patrol.

His attorney, Arthur Teele of Boston, cited an international law that a neutral power receiving escaped prisoners of war shall allow them liberty.

Butter and Egg Prices Advance Slightly

Toronto, July 31.—Light offerings in Toronto and the influence of a firm Montreal market caused butter prices to take a fractional upturn on the local produce market yesterday. Top-grade large eggs also firmed slightly with cheese remaining quietly steady.

Sales of first-grade Ontario creamery butter were made early in the day at 22 1-4c, but later the price advanced to 22 1-2c. Even at this price offerings were limited and moved fairly easily. Holders of western butter asked 23 1-4c to 23 1-2c during the morning and 23 1-2 to 23 3-4c in the afternoon, but no sales of this stock were reported.

Egg receipts were light. Demand improved slightly in the afternoon, giving the market a better tone. A-large eggs firmed to a range of 21 1-2c to 22c, with other grades staying unchanged. A premium of 1-2c was obtainable throughout the day on Government-inspected lots.

Exports of cheese from Canada during the week ended July 27 totalled 36,560 boxes, bringing total cheese exports from May 1 to July 27 to 364,473 boxes, as compared with 294,866 boxes during the same period last year. Butter exports for the week amounted to only 125 packages. Total butter exports since May 1 amount to 1,932 packages, as against 70,581 in the same period of 1939.

SHIP DELAYED BY HEAVY FOG

Hundreds of Refugee Children from England Arrive at Eastern Canada Seaport

An Eastern Canadian Port, July 31—(CP)—Hundreds of children, sent by their British parents to friends in Canada and the United States for the duration of the war, lined the rails of a passenger vessel which docked here today from the United Kingdom.

A lesser number of adults, many of them wearing the uniforms of the navy, army or air force, were also aboard the big ship which brought an estimated 1,000 passengers here. A few of the passengers will disembark at this port, but the majority will sail on to another point before entraining for their destinations.

One of the most prominent passengers on the ship was Major-General L. R. LaFleche, former Deputy Minister of National Defence who recently served as military attache to the Canadian Legation in Paris and as Canadian Liaison Officer with the French General Staff. He is returning to Ottawa to become joint Deputy Minister of the new War Services Department.

Only a few people were on the dock. These were limited mainly to dockworkers, police, red cross workers and officials.

The ship had been expected to dock earlier, but her arrival was delayed four hours by fog.

RESIDENTS

Herbert Morrison, the dynamic Minister of Supply, gave the country a three-word slogan, "go to it," and it really took the bit in its teeth.

Workers in the industries where a push was sorely needed, the munitions and aircraft works for example, responded by sacrificing something very dear to the Old Country heart—the weekend of leisure. They came forward in droves voluntarily to work seven days a week. Many are on a 12-hour day.

"Work like hell—and it's hell for Hitler," is the slogan in one shell factory.

Take the case of Irene Clark, 17-year-old Woolwich girl. Because of her age she had to get special permission to work a seven-day week in the plant where she helps fashion ammunition. "My boy friend is away in the army," she explained, "so I'm giving up Sundays as my bit to help him."

There are thousands of the same heart.

And while they work they whistle, for their confidence is high.

They know the narrow confines of the British Isles holds the greatest armed force in all history. They need no reassurance as to the navy. The youngest of the services, the air force, has shown again and again that it is master of Nazi fliers and Nazi airplanes, man for man and machine for machine.

They have confidence in the Churchill government. They know complacency does not slow the hand or the head of such Ministers as Bevin and Beaverbrook, Alexander, Sinclair and others.

No concert of grumbling followed the encroachments on personal liberty which grew from government steps to prepare the isles against invasion or siege. No cries of "dictatorship" or "fascism" followed parliament's surrender to the executive of the fullest powers of control over persons and property.

As great areas were cleared for defensive purposes business was dislocated in those sections and people had to vacate homes and establish their roots elsewhere. Child evacuation meant the breaking up of families.

None of this, plus the additional restrictions of rationing and black-out, a burdensome taxation that is to be increased, has been able to touch the morale of the men and women of Great Britain.

The people are aware now that it is their war and they are anxious to "go to it" and get it over with.

It was the fishermen who went to Whitehall and demanded arms for their little trawlers. They built a people's navy. It was unknown seamen, risking their lives that the vital sea-borne commerce and Britain might live, who defeated the Nazis' first menace of the magnetic mine. It was bank clerks of Edinburgh who gave German raiders the first taste of British skill in the sky. It was men in jerseys and rubber boots who snatched life for their comrades in the Dunkirk death trap.

It was the housewife, multiplied by thousands, who responded when Lord Beaverbrook, the Canadian-born publisher running the Ministry for aircraft production, appealed for aluminum to help the airplane industry.

The common danger has brought a new unity of the people. It has spurred them in vigorous action.

behind Gibraltar. Reports from France said Italy was concentrating bombing planes at her Sardinian bases for an air attack against "the rock."

Such an attack presumably would be coordinated with a big smash against the United Kingdom. Isolated attacks against the historic stronghold have been occurring regularly. Five persons yesterday were reported killed and 15 wounded in a raid on Gibraltar by enemy bombers—Presumably Italians.

Italy was reported to have completed the task of moving many of her "pocket" submarines by rail through the Brenner Pass into Germany. These 36-foot craft were shipped in sections on flat cars, and presumably might be important as a protecting arm in any German onslaught against Britain.

INTERNATIONAL AT A GLANCE

German-Born Farmhand Killed

Cornwall, Ont., July 31—(CP) — Struck by an automobile as he rode along No. 2 highway on his bicycle west of here today, August Krink, 46, German-born farmhand was killed. Driver of the automobile which struck Krink was Walter Moss, Moulinett, who told police he did not see Krink until his automobile struck the bicycle.

PORTUGAL DESPATCHES TROOPS

Lisbon, July 31 (AP)—Portugal sent an infantry battalion of about 1,000 men with up-to-date equipment to Laurenco Marques, Mozambique, aboard the steamship Laurenco Marques today to strengthen the garrison at that east African colony.

SHOWERS BRING WELCOME RESPITE FROM THE HEAT

Rain Scattered in U.S. and Provides Only Temporary Check

107 IN OKLAHOMA

Chicago, July 31—(AP)—Showers brought a welcome respite from intense heat in scattered sections of the United States today but apparently provided only a temporary check on torrid temperatures.

Forecasters said there was no sign of general relief but predicted more rain for the Plains States, Great Lakes region and Upper Mississippi Valley.

Temperatures remained far above normal for much of the continent east of the Rockies. Many States reported readings in the 90's yesterday and some sweltered in 100-plus temperatures.

The mercury touched 107 degrees at Waynoka, Okla. Indianapolis was blistered by 102.9 degree heat. It was the hottest July 30 there in 27 years. A heavy rain sent the temperature down to 75 late last night.

Temperatures of 100 or more were plentiful in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. Topeka, Kas., sizzled in 105 degree heat. Other Kansas hot spots were Pittsburg, Wichita, and Dodge City—all with 104 readings.

Deaths attributed directly or indirectly to the heat numbered 858.

Violent thunderstorms struck the New England coast last night, cutting 22 degrees off temperatures which had reached 94.8 earlier in the day at Boston. Winds up to 45 miles an hour uprooted hundreds of trees, unroofed houses and barns and levelled power and communication lines.

Lightning caused dozens of fires in New England. Wind and rain flattened a Goodyear blimp at Quincy, Mass., and $8,000 worth of helium escaped.

St. Louis residents, plagued by the prolonged heat wave, learned from the weather bureau that despite the torrid spell this July was the coolest there since 1929, with one exception.

Captain Learns In Restaurant He is Awarded V. C.

Gives All Credit to His Men Who Held Line for More Than 10 Hours

London, July 31.—(CP Cable)—Capt. H. M. Ervine-Andrews, a red-haired and quietly spoken soldier, was sitting in a restaurant when the radio announced that he had been awarded the Victoria Cross.

Reporters crowded around him. Pressing him to relate details of the heroic action that brought him the award, but he declined.

"Afraid I can't tell you anything about that", he said, "but come and have a drink".

Then he proceeded to give all credit to his men, whom he called magnificent and said: "They were the chaps who really did the job. I only told them what to do".

Capt. Ervine-Andrews and his men held in a line for more than 10 hours in face of superior enemy forces in the defence of Dunkerque. Although wounded, he personally shot 17 Germans with his rifle and many more with a machine gun. The award was announced last night.

Back from an inspection of his hot and clamoring domain comes the chief engineer of a Canadian destroyer, LEFT. So high is the temperature in a destroyer engine room that entry must be made through a special compartment to prevent a blast of air shooting upward and sucking flames from the fire doors into the faces of the stokers. The engineer has just closed an air-tight door under his feet before opening the hatch through which he is emerging. Entries and departures from the stokehold must be carried out in this way, one man at a time. "Grandpa Goes to Town"

A new Higgins Family picture, "Grandpa Goes to Town" opens next at the McCarthy theatre and advance reports give it the okay as the best in this popular comedy series, as it presents the entire group in a story which is packed with side-splitting laughs from beginning to end.

This time the Higgins are persuaded by a slick real estate agent into buying a ramshackle hotel in a ghost town in Nevada. Sid Higgins (Russell Gleason) inadvertently spreads a false rumor that gold has been found nearby and, as a result, a stream of would-be prospectors pour into the town. The truth is eventually learned and the prospectors prepare to lynch oe Higgins (James Gleason) in revenge, whereupon Grandpa goes to work to save his son-in-law. The manner in which he quips and manoeuvres his way to success provides a hilarious climax to a really entertaining film.

As always, the Higgins clan — James, Lucile, and Russell Gleason, Harry Davenport, Lois Ranson, and Tommy Ryan—comes through with sterling performances. Also prominent in the cast are "Slapsy" Maxie Rosenbloom, and Arturo Godoy and his wife, Ledda. Godoy is the capable young pugilist who won the acclaim of the world in his recent bout with Joe Louis, and this film is the first acting effort for both himself and his bride.

Gus Meins, who directed the previous Higgins Family pictures so successfully, acted as Associate Producer and Director of "Grandpa Goes To Town."

"Girls of the Road"

The picture which has been eagerly awaited for showing in Belleville, "Girls of the Road" a true-to-life story, featuring Ann Dvorak, Lola Lane and Helen Mack, will be presented in addition to the above comedy-feature "Grandpa Goes To Town."

With marvellous authenticity, "Girls of the Road" tells a powerful story, of girls who take to the "rols," who sleep in hobo "jungles," and who take life in a day-by-day stride, forgetting yesterdays and only gambling on their tomorrows. By all means "Girls of the Road" is a drama that must be seen. It's a picture which might have been a true story of any mother's daughter.

"Danger On Wheels"
"Wolf of New York"

Richard Arlen and Andy (Hi-Ya Buck) Devine in the auto-race track story "Danger On Wheels" with the companion feature Edmund Lowe and Rose Hobart in "Wolf of New York" are now showing at the McCarthy. Latest Fox News events is also presented and balances a program which is recommended.

AT THE BELLE

"My Love Came Back"

A running chain of comedy situations make up the fast-paced Warner musical, "My Love Came Back", starring Olivia DeHavilland and Jeffrey Lynn which is now playing at the Belle theatre.

As snappy as a next season's Hattie Carnegie number, "My Love Came Back" is cast with a list of dependable laugh-jerkers including Eddie Albert, Jane Wyman, Charles Winninger and Spring Byington. Continental flavor is added by the touch of Kurt Bernhardt, a recent import, and the Walter Reisch story was adapted for the screen by Ivan Goff, Robert Buckner and Earl Baldwin.

The wild chain of events starts with poor, pretty and provocative Amelia Cornell, played by Olivia DeHavilland, throwing a book at her violin teacher. It's all because she isn't allowed to teach students, and she needs the money to support her mother and continue her education. To the rescue comes millionaire Julius Malette, played by Charles Winninger, who arranges for her to have a scholarship, without knowing her sponsor. The two strike a warm friendship and Julius, to have more time to devote to Amelia, turns over his factory to Tony Baldwin, played by Jeffrey Lynn.

Two of Amelia's friends, Joy and Dusty, played by Jane Wyman and Eddie Albert, want to organize a band to swing classical music. They need money. Meanwhile, news of Julius' sponsorship leaks out and causes a scandal, Amelia thinks she returns the money, but Joy and Dusty forge her name, to use the funds for their band.

Tony helps Amelia clear herself when the band is a success and in the money. They fall very much in love and future prospects are cheerful for the two when the film comes to its delightful closing scenes.

"Gambling On High Seas"

"Gambling on High Seas" the Warner Bros. picture starring Wayne Morris and Jane Wyman, is announced as the co-feature attraction.

The film is an expose of the fraudulent practices of ruthless gambling ship operators who not satisfied with their usual criminal activity, dupe innocent thrill-seekers out of their earnings.

Reports from Hollywood indicate that "Gambling on High Seas" is one of the timeliest action dramas in many months. The cast of supporting players include such screen favorites as Roger Pryor, John Litel, George Meader and Frank Wilcox.

The Stars Say

PRIVATE affairs of a domestic, social or sentimental character are to the fore on this day, with business or other commonplace activities centered on such intimate functions or ambitions, Friendship, courtship, all forms of conviviality and celebration, may be stressed.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which their purely personal adjustments to life may bring happiness and gratification. While the attitude may be steady serious and worthy, pleasure, festivity and major activity may involve the domestic, social or emotional relations. Such business as delate to these or to artistic expression in any of its forms may contribute to make this a happy, joyous year.

A child born on this day should be studious, steadfast, and ambitious, although its aspirations may lie in the direction of art, social, or emotional expression. It should have a happy and successful life.

21 REPUBLICS SIGN AGREEMENT

'Act of Havana' Ratified by Delegates but Seven Wish Formal Acceptance of Their Governments

Havana, July 31.—(AP)— The 21 American Republics formally presented a united front today against political and economic dangers from other continents in a three-point program which State Secretary Cordell Hull of the United States regarded with deep satisfaction despite last-minute reservations by eight nations.

The Havana Conference after setting up new machinery to bolster the solidarity of the western hemisphere concluded last night with formal signature of documents.

All the delegates signed the "Act of Havana" and supplementary agreements although the Argentine delegation — which had argued against anticipating need of action concerning European colonies in the new world—led seven other nations in a succession of reservations.

The delegates of Argentina, Chile Colombia, Uruguay and Venezuela specified that the agreements be ratified by their governments before participation. Mexico. Bolivia and Peru made reservations as to minor points.

Program Outlined

The program consists of:—

1.—The Act of Havana declaring all the republics opposed to transfer to other non-American nations or attempt to transfer or acquire interest in European possessions in this hemisphere.

2.— Inter-American co-operation, through consultation and mutual exchange of information, to combat "Fifth Columnists" or other subversive elements.

3.—Mutual effort to settle American economic problems, including market dislocations resulting from the European war, and "economic defence" against encroachment of European barter systems.

The Act of Havana provides for joint administration of any foreign possession threatened by a non-American nation but also recognises the right of any American republic to act singly or jointly in emergency situations.

Hull issued a statement reviewing the conference as he embarked last night with other members of the United States delegation for Miami.

The American republics, he said, "have demonstrated to the world their unalterable determination to preserve and strengthen the spirit and the system of continental unity and solidarity. They thus have cleared the decks for effective action whenever such action may become necessary".

Just north of the highway's truck, three employees of the Department were repairing the pavement, Charles Miles, Elssworth Crawford and Leo Cavanaugh. They narrowly escaped being struck by the automobile.

Italians Warned Not to Expect Immediate Invasion Of Great Britain

Rome, July 31—(AP)—Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor who frequently expresses views of the Fascist government, warned Italians today not to expect an immediate attempt to invade Britain.

Gayda, writing in Il Giornale D'Italia, explained that, because of different conditions, "the spectacular lightning campaign" such as Germany waged against France was not feasible against Britain.

Instead, Gayda said, more gradual tactics, designed to wear Britain down, have been decided on. This preparatory stage now is in progress, the editor said.

He predicted an invasion of Britain would be attempted later.
